RECEIPT FOR COPY OF COURT-MARTIAL DOCUMENT

I hereby acknowledge receipt of a copy of the RECORD OF PROCEEDINGS

(title of document)

that was provided to me by _____ on _____ (full name of person providing document) (date received) in the case of United States v. E-4 JERMIAH T. COPELAND

(name of accused)

Use this Receipt for Copy of Court-Martial Document (Receipt) when giving a copy of a document directly to someone entitled to receive it. If the Receipt is used, the Certificate of Service should not be used.

"Title of document" is the name of the document or other record of a court-martial proceeding given to the person entitled to it (e.g., audio recording, certified record of trial, statement of trial results, entry of judgment, or other document).

Copies of certified records of trial will be redacted in accordance with the instructions in relevant service regulations, if applicable.

If copy of a document prepared for distribution contains matters requiring security protection, see RCM 1112(e)(3)(A), MCM 2019.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on this date a copy of the RECORD OF PROCEEDINGS in the case of United States v. E-4 JERMIAH T. COPELAND was transmitted to

(title of document)

(name of accused)

_____ at _____ (full name of person receiving document) (place of delivery or address sent to)

by _____ _____ (means of effecting delivery) (tracking number, if any)

_____ _____ _____

(date) (full name of person serving record) (signature of person serving record)

☐ This Certificate of Service was used to transmit a document to accused's trial defense counsel instead of the accused because it was [choose one]

(Impracticable to serve the record of trial on the accused because he/she was transferred to (place)) (the accused requested such at trial) (the accused so requested in writing, which is attached) (the accused is absent without leave) (the accused refused to sign acknowledging receipt of the document)

☐ (other reason). _____

Use this Certificate of Service to memorialize the transmission or other delivery of a court-martial document or other record of a court-martial proceeding to a person other than by in-person delivery.

This Certificate of Service can be used for any document, for service to any person (e.g., accused, counsel for accused, victim, counsel for victim).

"Title of document" is the name of the document or other record of a court-martial proceeding given to the person entitled to it (e.g., audio recording, certified record of trial, statement of trial results, entry of judgment, or other document).

"Place of delivery or address sent to" is the street address or email address where the document or other record was sent or hand delivered when no receipt is obtained.

"Means of effecting delivery" is mail, hand delivery, email, messenger service, or other means of transmitting a document or other record.

If a tracking service is used, indicate tracking number and service (e.g., USPS, FEDEX, UPS).

If the accused has not provided an address at which to be served with a document or other record that the accused is entitled to, and trial defense counsel is not available or accused has no defense counsel, serve a copy of the document or other record to the accused's last known address in accordance with service regulations, if applicable.

Copies of certified records of trial will be redacted in accordance with the instructions in relevant service regulations, if applicable.

Subject: [DOD SAFE] MIHILL.TODD.MICHAEL has picked up your drop-off!
Date: Wednesday, June 17, 2026 8:46:35 AM

This is an automated message sent to you by the DOD SAFE service.

The drop-off you made (claim ID: zSSC6JbOqorUOazz) has been picked-up.

The file, AUDIO [EXCLUDING SEALED].zip, was picked up using the recipient code, Xl9TT8, sent to MIHILL.TODD.MICHAEL at todd.m.mihill.mil@us.navy.mil.

You will not be notified about any further pick-ups of files in this drop-off by this recipient.

If this was a large drop-off (more than 200MB) and it has been picked up by all recipients, please consider deleting the drop-off early to free up disk space. Drop-offs are automatically deleted when they expire - currently 7 days. To delete a drop-off login to the SAFE site, click on the "Outbox" tab, click on the ClaimID of the desired drop-off, and click the Delete button.

CONVENING AUTHORITY'S ACTION CHECKLIST

ICO CS3 Jermiah Copeland

Procedures: If a case was referred to trial on or after 1 January 2019, the post-trial procedures contained in this checklist and Articles 60a and 60b, as well as R.C.M. 1109 and 1110 will be used. In a case that was referred to trial before 1 January 2019 or if there is a finding of guilt for an offense that occurred before 1 January 2019, this checklist is not applicable, and the post-trial procedures (to include the requirement for SJA recommendations (SJAR)) contained in R.C.M. 1107, MCM (2016 ed.) will be used.

Note: "Victim" includes a victim, crime victim representative, or designee as defined in R.C.M. 1106A.

Clemency Power: The convening authority's power to grant clemency is based on the date of the earliest offense of which the accused was convicted.

(1) If a case was referred to trial on or after 1 January 2019, the following convening authority (CA) action procedures apply:

(a) If all of the offenses of which the accused was convicted occurred after 1 January 2019, the post-trial procedures contained in this instruction, in Articles 60a and 60b, UCMJ, 10 U.S.C. §§ 860a, 860b (eff. Jan. 1, 2019), and in R.C.M. 1109 and 1110, of reference (b), and section 0153 of reference (c) shall apply.

(b) If the accused is convicted of any offense that occurred before 1 January 2019, but on or after 24 June 2014, the clemency authority described in Article 60, UCMJ (as amended by the FY14 and FY15 NDAAs) and R.C.M. 1107, MCM (2016 ed.), will apply, and the post-trial procedures contained in this instruction and all enclosures shall be utilized. An SJAR will be created in these cases.

(c) In a case in which the accused is convicted of any offense that occurred before 24 June 2014, the clemency authority described in Article 60, UCMJ (2012), will apply, and the post-trial procedures contained in this instruction and all enclosures shall be utilized. An SJAR will not be created in these cases.

(d) The CA's suspension authority outlined in Article 60a(c) applies regardless of the date of any conviction, even if the operative version of Article 60 does not permit such suspension.

(e) Regardless of which version of clemency authority applies (see above), and even if the CA decides to take no action, the SJA will ensure that the CA complies with the requirements of R.C.M. 1109(g) and the action is documented using enclosure (6).

(f) Prior to taking any action on a case, the SJA must complete the below checklist and ensure the CA reviews all matters submitted under R.C.M. 1106 and 1106A. When the checklist is complete, the SJA must provide it to the Post-Trial Processing Department or Review Shop for inclusion in the Record of Trial.

(2) In cases referred to trial before 1 January 2019, this instruction does not apply (use JAG/CNLSCINSTRUCTION 5814.1B). Also apply the Article 60 provisions in place at the time of the earliest offense resulting in a guilty finding (to include the requirement for SJA recommendations) and the post-trial procedures contained in R.C.M. 1107, MCM (2016 ed.). In a case in which the accused is convicted of an offense that occurred before 24 June 2014, the clemency authority described in R.C.M. 1107, MCM 2012 shall apply.

(3) The following procedures must be performed by the Staff Judge Advocate or Convening Authority prior to taking action in a case:

✓ Obtain any matters submitted by the accused and/or the victim.

✓ Accused and victim have 10 days from the date the sentence is adjudged to submit matters. However, the accused and/or victim may request an extension of up to 20 days to submit matters if good cause is shown. R.C.M. 1106 and R.C.M. 1106A.

✓ If a victim submits matters for the CA's consideration, provide a copy of those matters to the accused or detailed counsel. R.C.M. 1106A.

✓ If a victim submits matters for the CA's consideration, the accused has an additional 5 days to respond to those matters. R.C.M. 1106.

✓ Obtain a copy of the court-martial trial proceedings (either recording or transcript) and, unless sealed, copies of the evidence admitted at the court-martial and appellate exhibits.

If CA would like to review sealed or classified evidence in order to complete the post-trial process, a formal request to review such sealed/classified evidence must be submitted to the Military Judge presiding over the court-martial.

✓ Action shall not be taken earlier than 10 days after the announcement of the sentence adjudged, unless the accused and victim both waive their right to submit matters before 10 days.

✓ Action states:

✓ The action taken or if no action is taken, so state. If the CA believes action is appropriate, he or she must either: (1) adjust the findings if allowed by Article 60a, UCMJ, and/or the sentence pursuant to R.C.M. 1109, or (2) take no action, and state "no action taken."

✓ Written explanation for the action taken when there is a mandatory minimum punishment or offenses for which the maximum sentence to confinement that may be adjudged exceeds two years, or offenses where the adjudged sentence includes a punitive discharge (Dismissal, DD, BCD) or confinement for more than six months, or a violation of Art. 120(a) or 120(b) or 120b. See R.C.M. 1109.

N/A Address specific action with regard to findings, if applicable.

N/A Rehearing on findings ordered.

N/A If rehearing or new trial ordered, reasons for disapproval.

N/A If no rehearing ordered on disapproved charges and specifications, statement of dismissal included.

N/A If "other" trial ordered, basis for declaring the proceedings invalid stated.

N/A If a portion of the sentence is to be suspended, indicate the terms of the suspension in the CA's Action.

N/A Draft a letter of reprimand, if adjudged, and attach it to the CA's Action for service on the accused.

N/A Must be signed by the CA with authority to sign or the CA's delegate to sign with verbal approval of the CA, subsequently memorialized in writing, in accordance with JAGMAN 0153a.(6). No "by direction" authorized. If signed by an acting CA, ensure the signature block notes acting status and that the letter designating said individual as acting is attached to the record of trial.

N/A If signed by a substitute CA, acting pursuant to a specific request that is in compliance with R.C.M. 1109(d) and JAGMAN 0153c action notes as such. (Attach documentation of reasons for substitute CA to record of trial – U.S. v. Brown, 57 M.J. 623 N-M. Ct. Crim. App. (2002)).

N/A If action on rehearing or new trial, comply with limitations of R.C.M. 810.

Not Guilty by Lack of Mental Responsibility

N/A If accused is found not guilty by lack of mental responsibility, the Military Judge will conduct a hearing. Prior to that hearing, the military judge or CA must order a psychiatric or psychological examination of the accused and the report must be provided to the military judge.

N/A The CA may commit the accused pending an R.C.M. 1105 hearing.

N/A If the judge finds the accused has met the standards set forth in R.C.M. 1105(c)(3), the accused shall be released.

N/A If the judge finds the accused has not met the standards set forth in R.C.M. 1105(c)(3), the CA must turn the accused over to the Attorney General.

N/A If the judge finds the accused is not guilty by lack of mental responsibility ensure the RLSO or Law Center submitted the STR along with the accused's full name, including full middle name, and date of birth to NCIS via email at nicssubmission@ncis.navy.mil (for Navy cases) and usmccid@ncis.navy.mil (for Marine Corps cases).

Crime Reporting Requirements

✓ Review the Statement of Trial Results and determine whether any additional crime reporting requirements are triggered under references (d) through (g).

✓ Gun Control Act of 1968 Reporting Requirements. If applicable, ensure the RLSO or Law Center submitted the STR along with the accused's full name, including full middle name, and date of birth to NCIS via email at nicssubmission@ncis.navy.mil (for Navy cases) and usmccid@ncis.navy.mil (for Marine Corps cases).

✓ Sex Offender Notification Requirements. If applicable, ensure the RLSO or Law Center submitted DD Form 2791 to NCIS at cjidservices@ncis.navy.mil and the U.S. Marshals Service (USMS) National Sex Offender Targeting Center (NSOTC) at iod.nsotc@usdoj.gov. See enclosure (2) for detailed information regarding this requirement.

Service of CA's Action

✓ Upon completion, provide the CA's Action to the Post-Trial Processing Department or Review Shop for delivery to the military judge, the accused or defense counsel and the victim or victims' legal counsel.

SECTION B - CONVENING AUTHORITY ACTION

28. Having reviewed all matters submitted by the accused and the victim(s) pursuant to R.C.M. 1106/1106A, and after being advised by the staff judge advocate or legal officer, I take the following action in this case: [If deferring or waiving any punishment, indicate the date the deferment/waiver will end. Attach signed reprimand if applicable. Indicate what action, if any, taken on suspension recommendation(s) or clemency recommendations from the judge.]

1. Sentence Adjudged. On 9 June 2026, Culinary Specialist Third Class Jermiah T. Copeland, USN, was sentenced to 528 months confinement, reduction to E-1, total forfeitures of pay and allowances, and a Dishonorable Discharge.
2. Action. In the case of United States v. Culinary Specialist Petty Officer Third Class Jermiah T. Copeland, USN, the sentence is approved. In accordance with R.C.M. 1109(b) no action on findings.
3. Pretrial Confinement Credit. 365 Days
4. Initial Place of Confinement. Naval Consolidated Brig Chesapeake
5. Companion Cases. None.
6. Statutory Requirements. Sex offender registration is required in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 20901, appendix 4 to enclosure 2 of DoDI 1325.07, or DoDI 5525.20. DNA collection and submission is required in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 1565 and DoDI 5505.14. This case triggers a firearm possession prohibition in accordance with 18 U.S.C § 922.
7. Requests for Deferral and Waiver. Yes.
8. Matters Considered. In taking this action, I have considered Office of Special Trial Counsel's (OSTC) Agreement dtd 4 May 2026. I have also considered the Statement of Trial Results dtd 9 June 2026, and defense counsel's clemency request dtd 17 June 2026. After careful consideration, I deny the accused's request to defer imposition of automatic reduction to E-1, and automatic forfeiture until the entry of judgment. In making my decision, I have considered the factors outlined in R.C.M. 1103(d)(2), and I have determined that the sentence is appropriate based on the crime that was committed.

29. Convening authority's written explanation of the reasons for taking action on offenses with mandatory minimum punishments or offenses for which the maximum sentence to confinement that may be adjudged exceeds two years, or offenses where the adjudged sentence includes a punitive discharge (Dismissal, DD, BCD) or confinement for more than six months, or a violation of Art. 120(a) or 120(b) or 120b:

Convening Authority's Action and Entry of Judgment

APPELLATE AND POST-TRIAL RIGHTS AND POST-TRIAL ADMINISTRATIVE PROCESSING

Rule for Courts-Martial (R.C.M.) 1010 requires your defense counsel to advise you on your post-trial and appellate rights. You may also request that the military judge explain all or any portion of your appellate rights in open court prior to adjournment of your court-martial.

Access to the Court-Martial Record

Pursuant to R.C.M. 1106(c), upon adjournment of your court-martial, you have the right to request a copy of the recording of all open sessions of the court-martial and a copy of, or access to, the evidence admitted at the court-martial, and a copy of the appellate exhibits. You may request the recording, evidence, and exhibits be provided to you or your counsel. Neither you nor your counsel will be provided access to sealed or classified court-martial material or recordings unless authorized by R.C.M. 1106 or R.C.M. 1113. You may use the materials provided to prepare matters for consideration by the Convening Authority (CA) and in any appeal for which you may be eligible.

Submission of Matters to the Convening Authority

Pursuant to Article 38(c), Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ), and R.C.M. 1106, within 10 calendar days after the announcement of the sentence, you have the right to submit matters to the CA before that officer takes action on your case. If you elect to submit matters, you must do so within 10 calendar days after the announcement of the sentence. The CA may extend this for not more than an additional 20 calendar days for good cause shown. Your defense counsel will normally compile and submit the matters on your behalf in consultation with you. Failure to submit matters within the time prescribed waives the right to submit additional matters later. If a crime victim submits matters for the CA's consideration, you will be given 5 calendar days from receipt of those matters to submit a rebuttal to those matters. You may not seek an extension of time to submit a rebuttal to matters submitted by a crime victim. In either submission, you are prohibited from including matters that relate to the character of a crime victim unless such matters were admitted as evidence at trial.

Possible Action by the Convening Authority

a. The CA has authority to act only in certain cases. For cases involving convictions for offenses committed after 1 January 2019, under Article 60a, UCMJ, and R.C.M. 1109 the CA cannot act on the findings if any of the following applies:

- you have been convicted of a sexual offense listed in Articles 120(a), 120(b) or 120b, UCMJ;

- the authorized maximum confinement for any offense of which you have been convicted exceeds two years, regardless of the court's jurisdictional maximum;
- the adjudged sentence includes a punitive discharge (Dismissal, Bad Conduct Discharge, or Dishonorable Discharge); or
- the adjudged confinement is more than six months.

In those cases, the CA may take action on the sentence only as provided in R.C.M. 1109(c).

b. In all other cases involving convictions for offenses committed after 1 January 2019, the CA may, but is not required to, take action on the findings and sentence and grant clemency within the limits of Articles 60a or 60b, UCMJ, and R.C.M. 1109 or 1110. In those cases, the CA may take:

- no action;
- action on the findings, if allowed by law; or
- action on the sentence, if allowed by law.

c. In any case involving a conviction for an offense committed before 1 January 2019, the CA may take action on either the findings of guilty or sentence adjudged within the limits of Article 60, UCMJ, that was in effect at the time of the earliest offense for which you were convicted. The action to be taken on the findings and sentence may be limited by Article 60, UCMJ, depending on the date of the offense, the type of offense, the maximum punishment of the offense, the recommendation of the trial counsel, the existence of a pretrial agreement, and the punishment awarded. When authorized to act, the CA possesses the sole discretion to approve, disapprove, commute, or suspend the sentence in whole or in part; set aside a finding of guilty; order a rehearing on a finding of guilty; or approve a lesser included offense of a finding of guilty.

d. If the CA has the power to approve, disapprove, commute, or suspend the sentence in whole or in part, set aside a finding of guilty, order a rehearing on a finding of guilty, or approve a lesser included offense of a finding of guilty, that decision is within the sole discretion of the CA. The CA may suspend a sentence in certain cases when recommended by a military judge or by the trial counsel. The CA is not required to review the case for legal errors or factual sufficiency, but may order a rehearing only in the circumstances provided for in Article 60b, UCMJ.

In the post-trial process, the CA and the Military Judge may never increase the severity of the sentence and are not empowered to reverse a finding of not guilty.

APPELLATE AND POST-TRIAL RIGHTS AND POST-TRIAL ADMINISTRATIVE PROCESSING

Entry of Judgment

Pursuant to Article 60c, UCMJ, and R.C.M. 1111, the military judge will complete the Entry of Judgment (EOJ) and attach it to the record of trial. The EOJ reflects the result of your court-martial, including the UCMJ Article and subsection violated, nature and date of the offense, as well as the results of the CA's action. The EOJ will include the final sentence, which will account for any modifications made by the CA during the post-trial review process or any post-trial ruling, order, or other determination by the military judge. The EOJ will also include the total amount of sentence credit, if any, to be applied to a sentence as of the date of the EOJ. The EOJ terminates the court-martial at the trial level, ends any period of deferment, and initiates the post-trial review process. A copy of the EOJ will be provided to you or your defense counsel according to your election below.

Certified Record of Trial

Pursuant to Article 54, UCMJ, and R.C.M. 1112(b), the certified record of trial (ROT) is comprised of an audio recording of all open sessions, all evidence admitted, and all appellate exhibits. A copy of the certified ROT will be assembled and provided to either you or your defense counsel, according to your election below. Recordings and exhibits that are sealed or contain classified materials will not be provided to you. Should you need to review those materials, you or your defense counsel must submit a request pursuant to R.C.M. 1106 or R.C.M. 1113.

Appellate and Post-Trial Review

a. Automatic Review. Pursuant to Article 65(b)(1), UCMJ, if your sentence includes death, dismissal, a punitive discharge or confinement for two years or more, the ROT will be forwarded to the Navy-Marine Corps Court of Criminal Appeals (NMCCA) for review under Article 66(b)(3), UCMJ. The ROT will also be forwarded to an appellate defense counsel who shall be detailed to review your case and, upon your request, represent you before the NMCCA.

b. Direct Appeal Review. Pursuant to Article 65(b)(2), UCMJ, if your case is eligible for direct appeal review under Article 66(b)(1), UCMJ, you may request in writing the representation of appellate defense counsel who will review the ROT and be available to represent you before the NMCCA. Pursuant to Article 66(b)(1)(A), if your sentence is not subject to automatic review, you may file an appeal to have the NMCCA review your case. Under Article 66(b)(1), UCMJ, this appeal must be timely. Article 66(c), UCMJ, provides that an appeal is timely if filed before the later of: (1) the end of the 90-day period beginning on the date you are provided notice of your right to appeal in accordance with Article 65(c)(1), or (2) the date set by the NMCCA by rule or order. With respect to an appeal submitted to the NMCCA for review, the scope of review is limited to the findings and sentence as entered into the record. Upon a specific showing by you that there was a deficiency of proof, the NMCCA may also consider whether the findings are correct in fact. The NMCCA has the authority to set aside findings, set aside the sentence, modify the sentence to a lesser sentence, affirm a lesser-included offense, order or allow additional proceedings, and/or order that the charges be dismissed.

c. Review beyond NMCCA. Pursuant to Article 67(a), UCMJ, after completion of NMCCA review, upon your request or that of the Judge Advocate General (JAG), the Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces (CAAF) may review your case. You may petition the CAAF within 60 days from the earlier of (1) the date you are notified of the NMCCA's decision, or (2) the date on which a copy of the NMCCA decision is deposited in the mail for delivery to you. CAAF review of your petition is discretionary in non-death penalty cases and, if it grants your petition, CAAF may act only with respect to the findings and sentence as entered into judgment and as affirmed or set aside as incorrect in law by the NMCCA. Under Article 67a, UCMJ, you may petition the Supreme Court of the United States following a decision by CAAF.

d. Review by a Judge Advocate. If your case is not subject to automatic review by the NMCCA and you do not seek direct appeal review, a judge advocate will review your case in accordance with Article 65(d), UCMJ. The review is limited to whether the court had jurisdiction over you and the offense; whether the charge and specification stated an offense; and whether the sentence was within the limits prescribed by law. You may also submit written allegations of error for review. Relief recommended by this review is forwarded to the JAG for consideration, who may set aside the findings or sentence, in whole or in part.

e. Waiver of Appellate Review. You may waive your right to appellate review if your case qualifies for automatic review, or you may withdraw your case from appellate review at a later time. This is a significant decision and you should fully understand your appellate rights and the implications of a waiver before you forego appellate review. You have the right to the advice and assistance of counsel in exercising or deciding to waive your appellate rights. This may include the assistance of an appellate defense counsel in coordination with your trial defense counsel. If you submit a waiver or withdraw from the appellate review process or if you do not file an appeal in a direct-appeal case, your case will be reviewed under Article 65(d)(3), UCMJ. The review is limited to whether the court had jurisdiction over you and the offense; whether the charge and specification stated an offense; and whether the sentence was within the limits prescribed by law.

f. Review by the JAG. Under Article 69, UCMJ, within one year after the end of the 90-day period beginning on the date you are provided your appellate rights pursuant to Article 65(c), UCMJ, the JAG may review your application to send your case to the NMCCA. In the event that you submit a waiver or withdrawal of appellate review under Article 61, UCMJ, before being provided notice of these rights, your application must be submitted to the JAG no later than one year after the entry of judgment under Article 60c, UCMJ. The JAG may extend the period of submission, for good cause shown, but may not consider an application submitted more than three years after the end of the applicable submission period. The scope of review is limited to whether your withdrawal or waiver of appellate review was invalid under the law. If the JAG determines that it was invalid, he or she will send your case to the NMCCA for review under Article 66, UCMJ.

Right to Counsel

a. Post-trial Matters. It is your trial defense counsel's responsibility to represent you through the post-trial process. Your trial defense counsel is responsible for examining the Statement of Trial Results, the findings, the sentence, the CA's Action, and the EOJ for errors or legal insufficiency. It is your trial defense counsel's obligation to advise and assist you in preparing and submitting post-trial matters or motions, if applicable, to the military judge before the EOJ, or to correct the EOJ within five days after it is provided to you.

b. Article 65(d), UCMJ. If your case is not subject to automatic review and you do not seek direct appeal review of your case at the NMCCA, your trial defense counsel will continue to represent you through the Article 65(d), UCMJ, review process. Your trial defense counsel will also represent you through a subsequent Article 69, UCMJ, review, subject to such review's limitations discussed above if you elect this additional review.

c. Appellate Defense Counsel. If your case is subject to automatic review by the NMCCA or you seek direct appeal review, you have the right to a military appellate defense counsel to represent you at no cost. Detailed appellate defense counsel represent you on appeals before the NMCCA, the CAAF, and the Supreme Court of the United States.

- Special Power of Attorney. If you wish to be represented by a military appellate defense counsel before the NMCCA, the CAAF, or the Supreme Court you may sign a special power of attorney, which authorizes a detailed military appellate defense counsel to take actions on your behalf during the appellate review process. The original, signed special power of attorney must be notarized and attached to the original record of trial. If you do not sign the special power of attorney now, you do not waive the right to a military appellate defense counsel at a later date.

APPELLATE AND POST-TRIAL RIGHTS AND POST-TRIAL ADMINISTRATIVE PROCESSING

- How to Contact Appellate Defense Counsel. If you qualify for appellate representation and have not been contacted by your military appellate defense attorney 120 days after the conclusion of your trial, you may contact the Navy-Marine Corps Appellate Defense Division at 1-202-685-7290 or 1-800-688-4613. It is your responsibility to affirmatively provide updated contact information to your appellate defense counsel throughout the appellate process. This is critical to ensuring an appellate defense counsel can form the necessary attorney-client relationship and contact you regarding your case.

- Military Appellate Defense Counsel will Contact You. The Navy and Marine Appellate Review Activity (NAMARA) will make reasonable efforts to contact you when your case is ready for appellate review. Should NAMARA be unable to contact you and if you elected not to sign the special power of attorney, the NMCCA will conduct the automatic review of your case under Article 66(b)(3) without input from you. No appellate attorney at NAMARA will be able to appeal the NMCCA's decision to the CAAF unless you authorize an appellate attorney to represent you at that point. For more information on appellate defense counsel visit http://www.jag.navy.mil/organization/code_45.htm.

- Civilian Appellate Defense Counsel. If you wish, you may hire a civilian attorney at no expense to the government to represent you throughout the post-trial and appellate processes.

Petition for New Trial

a. At any time within three years after the date of the EOJ, you may petition for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence or fraud on the court-martial pursuant to Article 73, UCMJ, and R.C.M. 1210.

b. A petition for a new trial on the basis of fraud on the court-martial must demonstrate how the fraud had a substantial contributing effect on a finding of guilty or the sentence adjudged.

c. A petition for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence will only be granted if: (1) the evidence was discovered after the trial; (2) the evidence would not have been discovered by you or your defense counsel during your trial if you or your counsel exercised due diligence; and (3) the newly discovered evidence, if it had been considered by the trial court, in light of all other pertinent evidence, would probably produce a substantially more favorable result for you. You may not submit a petition for a new trial on the basis of newly discovered evidence if you pleaded guilty.

APPELLATE AND POST-TRIAL RIGHTS AND POST-TRIAL ADMINISTRATIVE PROCESSING

Post-Trial Processing and Notifications

a. Effective Date of Sentence. Pursuant to Article 57(a) and R.C.M. 1102(b), automatic and adjudged forfeitures and adjudged reduction in rank, take effect 14 days after the sentence is announced. Automatic reduction in rank takes effect upon EOJ. Pursuant to Article 57(b) and R.C.M. 1103, you may request that the CA defer service of a sentence to confinement, forfeitures, or reduction in rank until the EOJ.

b. Automatic Forfeitures. If the adjudged sentence includes either (1) confinement for more than six months or death, or (2) confinement for any period and a punitive discharge, Article 58b, UCMJ, requires the automatic imposition of forfeiture of all pay and allowances at a general court-martial or 2/3 pay at a special court-martial during the period of confinement. This applies regardless of whether the sentence is suspended. If you have dependents, pursuant to Article 58b(b), you may apply to the CA to waive automatic forfeitures, to be paid to your dependents for a period of up to six months. You must establish an allotment in order for your dependents to receive any waived pay and allowances. If you are held in confinement beyond your End of Active Obligated Service date, you or your dependents will not receive any pay or allowances by operation of law.

c. Automatic Reduction in Pay Grade. Automatic reduction to the lowest enlisted pay grade by operation of Article 58a, UCMJ, will be effected in the Naval service in the following manner:

- For any conviction for an offense committed before 1 January 2019, reduction to the lowest enlisted pay grade will be automatically effected only when the sentence as approved by the CA includes, whether or not suspended, either: (1) a dishonorable or bad-conduct discharge, or (2) confinement in excess of 90 days if the sentence is awarded in days, or in excess of 3 months if the sentence is awarded in months or years. This automatic reduction in rank goes into effect on the date of the convening authority's action.

- Automatic reduction in pay grade is not authorized in any conviction for an offense committed on or after 1 January 2019 and before 28 July 2023.

- For any conviction for an offense committed on or after 28 July 2023, reduction to the lowest enlisted pay grade will be automatically effected for any sentence that includes: (1) a dishonorable or bad-conduct discharge; or (2) confinement in excess of 90 days if the sentence is awarded in days, or in excess of 3 months if the sentence is awarded in months or years. This automatic reduction in rank goes into effect upon EOJ.

d. Vacation of Suspended Sentences. If you commit misconduct after the date of trial but before completing any period of suspension established by your plea agreement or the period of suspension recommended by the military judge or the trial counsel, or if you violate any of the conditions of suspension stated in your plea agreement during this time period, the CA may vacate any periods of suspension in accordance with R.C.M. 1108. If that occurs, any previously suspended portion of your sentence could be imposed upon you.

e. Appellate Leave. If your sentence includes an unsuspended punitive discharge, you may be placed on appellate leave in a no-pay status under the provisions of Article 76a, UCMJ, notwithstanding any provision regarding forfeitures or fines in any plea agreement. A service member placed in an appellate leave status will normally not receive any pay or allowances. Receipt of pay and/or allowances while in an appellate leave status will depend on the amount of accrued leave you have accumulated, request to use, and receive command approval to use, and on the sentence awarded by this court-martial. You will remain a member of the Armed Forces while in an appellate leave status and subject to military jurisdiction.

f. Administrative Separation. As a result of being found guilty, you may be processed for administrative discharge from the United States Navy or United States Marine Corps, as applicable. An administrative discharge could result in an Other-Than-Honorable characterization of service, unless otherwise limited in a plea agreement (as permitted by Service policy), even if part or all of the sentence, including a punitive discharge, is suspended for any reason.

Acknowledgment

By signing the document below, you acknowledge the following: (1) that prior to adjournment of your court-martial, you were provided with the above written advice; (2) that you have read and understand your post-trial and appellate rights; and (3) that you discussed your rights with your defense counsel prior to signing this form.

Ref: (a) Article 38(c), UCMJ
(b) Article 60, UCMJ
(c) R.C.M. 1106
(d) R.C.M. 1109

1. CS3 Copeland pled guilty at a general court-martial on 8 June 2026. On 9 June 2026, CS3 Copeland was sentenced to be discharged with a dishonorable discharge, reduction in paygrade to E-1, and to be confined for a total of 44 years.

2. CS3 Copeland respectfully requests that you suspend his reduction in rate. The federal conviction, 44 years confinement, dishonorable discharge, and subsequent effects of that federal conviction sends a message that the Navy can hold Sailors accountable for misconduct while doing so with empathy and compassion.

3. Pursuant to Article 58b(b), CS3 Copeland respectfully requests you defer and waive the automatic reduction to E-1 and automatic forfeitures to allow his pay and allowances, at his current paygrade of E-4, to be paid to his mother to support his four-year old child. CS3 Copeland requests the period of deferment run from the date automatic forfeitures would otherwise become effective under Article 57, UCMJ, until the date of the Entry of Judgment and waived for a period of six months after the date of the Entry of Judgment. As presented at trial, CS3 Copeland has a four-year old son to support. This period of deferment and waiver will allow CS3 Copeland to continue to support his child to the greatest extent possible.

4. Additionally, pursuant to references (a) through (d), CS3 Copeland, through counsel, respectfully submits the following matters to be included in the record of trial, noting errors that materially prejudiced his substantive rights:

The sole specification of Charge VII, a violation of Article 118, failed to state an offense.

The defense's motion can be found at Appellate Exhibits 38 and 39, the government's response at Appellate Exhibits 50 and 51, and the judge's ruling can be found at Appellate Exhibit 66. Here, Charge VII and the sole specification did not state an offense because it failed to allege "an act of the accused." CS3 Copeland had no way in which to defend against the offense because he was not on notice as to the act alleged. Further, the government's bill of particulars could not fix an inadequate specification. Therefore, CS3 Copeland's conviction for Charge VII and the sentence should be set aside.

The military judge abused his discretion when he denied the defense motion for pretrial confinement credit for illegal pretrial punishment in violation of Article 13, UCMJ.

The military judge abused his discretion by crediting the testimony of the brig OIC to the exclusion of the available and abundant evidence that the conditions of pre-trial restraint were unduly harsh to secure continue presence for trial proceedings. The military judge correctly found that nothing CS3 Copeland could do while at the brig would ever see him released from maximum custody (solitary confinement) while on pre-trial confinement. The brig OIC testified (remotely) to this fact. The brig OIC also testified he considered CS3 Copeland's safety when deciding to keep him maximum custody despite evidence that the extended periods of solitary confinement were having, in fact, a negative consequence on CS3 Copeland's mental health.

Further, the military judge found that the trial defense counsel conceded that there was no intent to punish. However, defense counsel simply stated that while there was no direct evidence of intent punish, it was clear that CS3 Copeland was in fact punished by the unduly harsh conditions of CS3 Copeland's confinement. Additionally, a review of the testimony of the brig OIC, his affidavit, email, communications with defense counsel, along with his other actions suggest that he was personally invested in CS3 Copeland's case and was not going to remove the harsh conditions no matter what, which equated to punishment.

The military judge failed to credit CS3 Copeland's own affidavit that he did not feel he could speak freely while at the brig or under the supervision of the brig staff. Importantly, the military judge did not credit either CS3 Copeland's affidavit or an unaffiliated paralegal's affidavit that brig staff had been instructed to "watch and to listen" to everything- something the brig OIC could not answer for. Instead, the military judge credits a Google search the accused made months ago, absent any context, to determine he is a flight risk.

Lastly, the military judge abused his discretion by ignoring the simple fact that other trial courts, one from the same circuit, have held that the arbitrary enforcement and application of this policy – the exact same policy currently in place - under a previous OIC, wherein the accused could never, under any circumstances, find themselves outside solitary confinement based solely on the OIC's perception of the charged offenses is illegal pretrial punishment.

The military judge ignored 365 days of CS3 Copeland's behavior that indicated he would comply with instructions and protocols the brig staff sought to enforce and apply. Instead choosing to find that the frustrated (though "Not Aggressive" as noted in brig records) actions of CS3 Copeland, after spending nearly a year in solitary confinement, somehow justify the brig OIC's "assessment" that maximum custody was necessary.

(f) CA Action of 10 Jul 26

Encls: (1) Email from LCDR Dempsey of 4 Aug 26
(2) Termination Report of Dr. Lameira

1. CS3 Copeland pled guilty at a general court-martial on 8 June 2026. On 9 June 2026, CS3 Copeland was sentenced to be discharged with a dishonorable discharge, reduction in paygrade to E-1, and to be confined for a total of 44 years.

2. On 17 June 2026, CS3 Copeland, through counsel, requested your consideration of clemency matters (R.C.M. 1106). Reference (e). Notably, he requested you suspend the reduction of his pay grade to E-1, and that you defer and waive automatic reduction and forfeitures of pay and allowances so that such funds could be received by his mother to support his four-year-old son. The requested clemency would allow CS3 Copeland to provide, to the maximum extent possible, for his family and son.

3. On 10 July 2026, pursuant to reference (f) you determined not to take the requested action on the sentence, as it is your prerogative to do.

4. After both the request and your action were completed, counsel for CS3 Copeland was made aware that the Government's anticipated forensic medical examiner in this case was terminated from her employment in February 2026, well before the scheduled trial dates and prior to the plea negotiations in this case. Reference (g).

5. While the counsel for CS3 Copeland appreciates the post-trial provision of this information by the special trial counsel- diligent pre-trial preparation by the Government would have revealed that this key witness for the Government had irreparably damaged credibility which would have been a factor at trial, as well as a factor in the calculous on how to, or even if, to plead guilty. Enclosures (1) and (2).

6. CS3 Copeland did not possess critical information that was available to the Government during the time of his plea negotiations process. Importantly, in its initial discovery requests in this case, the Defense requested any information related to the credibility of any witness the government intended to call at trial. Also notable, was that the Government did not represent that they were going to qualify Dr. Lameira as an expert in forensic pathology at trial, though relying almost entirely on her testimony to prove possible theories of death.

7. As a result of the disclosure of this information, which was not previously available to the Defense, counsel for CS3 Copeland respectfully requests that you reconsider the CA Action in this case and grant the previously requested clemency request of 17 June 2026. CS3 Copeland should have had this information before making the decision not to hold the Government to their burden of proof, and as a result of not having the information he experienced a real and actual prejudice.

8. I respectfully request these matters and any response be forwarded for inclusion in the record of trial in accordance with references (a) and (b). I am available to discuss this or any related matter. I can be reached via email at Amanda.m.serfess.mil@us.navy.mil.

Good Morning Defense,

Last Thursday, we received the attached notice from the Virginia Department of Health. We have issued a subpoena for the underlying records.

After reviewing our case files, we believe Dr. Lameira had a role in both the US v. Pate and US v. Copeland cases.

Once we obtain the underlying records, I will forward them. Thank you.

Very Respectfully,

Re: Former Employee of the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner

Dear Mr. Casey:

As of February 4, 2026, Dr. Fernanda Da Silva Lameira, an Assistant Chief Medical Examiner with the Tidewater Office of the Chief Medical Examiner (OCME), is no longer employed by our office. I understand that there are several subpoenas still pending for Dr. Lameira in cases in the Tidewater regions. The OCME anticipates that Dr. Lameira will be appearing to testify in several cases in the upcoming months.

In my role, it is my obligation to inform the Commonwealth's Attorneys that are is potential Giglio information in Dr. Lameira's personnel file. I am not at liberty to disclose that information under the Virginia Department of Human Resource Management Policy 6.05 – Personnel Records Disclosure without a subpoena duces tecum or court order. I would ask that you forward this letter to the Commonwealth's Attorneys so that they can have a subpoena duces tecum or court order issued for any case where Dr. Lameira's autopsy or external examination reports are germane so that they are able to make any disclosure that they deem appropriate.

The OCME is willing to work with any Commonwealth Attorney that desires to have another Assistant Chief Medical Examiner testify as a substitute for Dr. Lameira. If a Commonwealth Attorney would like a substitute, please have them contact the Tidewater OCME at (757) 683-8366 or OCME_Tide@vdh.virginia.gov.

Thank you for your assistance with this matter. To the extent that I am able, I would be happy to address any questions or concerns.

Sincerely,

Arkuie Williams

On December 9, 2024, you sent an email to Keshia Singleton with a letter attached from the American Board of Pathology dated December 5, 2024, stating you had successfully passed the 2024 Forensic Pathology Subspecialty Certification Examination. On January 23, 2026, as part of review of the Virginia Commonwealth University Health System Forensic Pathology Fellowship Program a report from the American Board of Pathology (ABP) indicated that you did not pass the 2024 Forensic Pathology Subspecialty Certification Examination. On January 28, 2026, to confirm the discrepancy identified during the program review, the ABP provided me with an official copy of your forensic board certification examination results letter which states that you were not successful. Therefore, based on the aforementioned information, the letter you submitted to me and to Ms. Singleton was not an official letter issued by American Board of Pathology. On January 30, 2026, ABP provided email correspondence to Arkuie Williams, Administrative Deputy, confirming that you had contacted the Coordinator of Subspecialty Certification on December 5, 2024, requesting a review of your examination results and a possible refund due to failing the examination. They replied that they do not accept requests for rescoring the examination. Falsification and/or misrepresentation of official documentation and failure to provide accurate information related to required professional credentials are violations of agency policy and standards of conduct. This conduct undermines the trust and integrity required of the position.

DUE PROCESS MEMORANDUM

TO: Fernanda da Silva Lameira, MD, Assistant Chief Medical Examiner

FROM: William T. Gormley, MD, PhD, Chief Medical Examiner

DATE: January 29, 2026

SUBJECT: Due Process- Opportunity to Provide Mitigating Circumstances

The Standards of Conduct are designed to protect the well-being of all employees by maintaining high standards of work performance and professional conduct. State employees are to fulfill certain duties and expectations that support the mission and values of their agencies and conduct themselves in a manner deserving of public trust and to in part:

- Perform assigned duties and responsibilities with the highest degree of public trust.
- Make work-related decisions that are in the best interest of the agency.
- Conduct themselves at all times in a manner that supports the mission of their agency and the performance of their duties.
- Report circumstances or concerns that may affect satisfactory work performance to management.

The purpose of this memorandum is to provide you with advance notice of potential corrective action and provide you with a reasonable opportunity to respond.

OFFENSE: FAILURE TO FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS OR POLICY; FALSIFYING RECORDS (2024 American Board of Pathology [ABPath] Forensic Pathology Certification)

On December 9, 2024, you sent an email to Keshia Singleton with a letter attached from the American Board of Pathology dated December 5, 2024, stating you had successfully passed the 2024 Forensic Pathology Subspecialty Certification Examination. Based on the information you provided in that correspondence, your annual salary was increased by $10,000, effective December 25, 2025, to reflect the reported new certification.

On January 23, 2026, as part of review of the Virginia Commonwealth University Health System Forensic Pathology Fellowship Program a report from the American Board of Pathology (ABP) indicated that you did not pass the 2024 Forensic Pathology Subspecialty Certification Examination. At that time, staff believed the report to be inaccurate and contacted the ABP to report a potential error. During that discussion, ABP staff requested a copy of the documentation indicating you had passed the examination. On January 23, 2026, I contacted you to request a copy of the forensic pathology examination results letter, and you provided the same letter that you previously submitted to Ms. Singleton in 2024.

Upon review of the documentation provided, the ABP confirmed that you are not board certified in forensic pathology, and they provided a copy of the letter previously issued to you stating that you were not successful on the 2024 Forensic Pathology Subspecialty Certification Examination.

On January 28, 2026, to confirm the discrepancy identified during the program review, the ABP provided me with an official copy of your forensic board certification examination results letter which states that you were not successful. The ABP also advised me that they are not aware of any issues that would have prevented you from retaking the examination. Additionally, the ABP stated that they are not aware of any circumstances under which they would have issued a letter indicating that you had passed the 2024 Forensic Pathology Subspecialty Certification Examination. Therefore, based on the aforementioned information, the letter you submitted to me and to Ms. Singleton was not an official letter issued by American Board of Pathology.

As an Assistant Chief Medical Examiner (ACME), your position requires a high level of trust, integrity, and professional responsibility. The certifications held by ACMEs are critical to the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner (OCME) for accreditation purposes and to ensure public confidence in the qualifications of staff performing medicolegal autopsies and death investigations to determine the cause and manner of death for their loved ones. Additionally, ACMEs, routinely provide testimony in criminal court cases, where the accuracy, credibility, and reliability of medical findings are essential. As such, a heightened standard of professionalism and trust is inherent in this role.

POLICY VIOLATIONS UNDER THE STANDARDS OF CONDUCT:
Failure to comply with written policy, state laws, rules and regulations; specifically:

- DHRM Policy 1.60 Standards of Conduct, which states:
    - Misconduct (willful): "misconduct results when the employee's actions are determined to be avoidable and the employee failed to exercise reasonable care or judgment resulting in a negative impact or the potential for negatively impacting the Agency's business operations and services, workplace or customer relations, or credibility…deliberate, or intentional actions that may be considered as willful misconduct such as falsifying information or dishonesty."
    - Fraud: is defined as "investigative findings of willful omissions, alterations or reporting of false information, destruction of evidence to impede an investigation; forgery of signatures; embezzlement and/or misuse of funds or state property to include the use of electronic data for personal gain; identity theft; intentional misuse of agency letterhead; etc."
    - Falsification: "Intentional or with willful disregard make false or misleading statements, orally or in writing, in connections with any matter of official interest. Matters of official interest to include, but are not limited to, the following: Official reports and any other official information upon which the Agency, the Commonwealth of Virginia or the public may act or rely; transactions with the public, government agencies or other government employees; applications forms and other forms that serve as a basis for any personnel action; vouchers; procurement activities; time and attendance records, including leave records; work reports of any nature or accounts of any kind; affidavits; record of or data concerning any matter relating to or connected with an employee' s duties; personnel records; and reports of any moneys or securities received, held or paid to, for or on behalf of the Commonwealth of Virginia."

- VDH Policy Number: 01.06.103, *Code of Ethics, which states that each worker demonstrates the agency's Code of Ethics' Core Values and Commitments with uncompromising integrity in all aspects of their work. The Code of Ethics is the foundation for accomplishing the VDH mission, delivering public health services, and inspiring the public's trust in VDH workers through agency values such as Accountability, Communication, Integrity, Objectivity, and Respect.

In accordance with DHRM Policy 1.60, Standards of Conduct, offenses that are considered at a Group III level include acts of misconduct of a severe nature that a first occurrence normally should warrant termination. I am considering issuing you a Group III Written Notice. Please be advised that violations of policy may result in formal disciplinary action up to and including termination.

Please provide your written response in this matter to me by close of business (5:00 PM), Friday, January 30, 2026. You may email your response to me at williamt.gormley@vdh.virginia.gov and Keshia Singleton at keshia.singleton@vdh.virginia.gov. Your response should address the allegations and any mitigating circumstances you would like me to consider. If you do not provide a written response by that time, I will make a decision based on the information currently available to me.

4. The following information is provided in accordance with R.C.M. 405(m):

a. PHO Qualification. The Preliminary Hearing Officer (PHO) is CDR John F. Butler, JAGC, USN. I am a designated judge advocate who is certified under Article 26 and 27(b). I am senior in rank to the accused and senior in rank to counsel for the government and defense counsel.

I am not aware of any grounds for bias, prejudice, or impropriety that would disqualify me from serving as a PHO in the present case. No party objected to me serving as the PHO.

b. Government Counsel. The government was represented by CDR Lauren A. Mayo, JAGC, USN and LT Christopher B. Dempsey, JAGC, USN, who are assigned to the Office of Special Trial Counsel.

c. Defense Counsel. The accused was represented by LCDR Amanda M. Serfess, JAGC, USN and LCDR Clifton E. Morgan, III, JAGC, USN, who are assigned to Defense Service Office Southeast.

d. Victim's Legal Counsel. LCDR Jason Kim (CSSN S.S.); Marshall Griffin for (CS3 A.R.'s mother, Ms. C.)

e. Delays. None.

f. Recording. Government Counsel is in possession of the recording of the hearing.

g. Format and Personal Data on the Charge Sheet. The charge sheet was reviewed by the PHO, government counsel, and defense counsel. No errors were noted.

h. Issues related to production of evidence. In a letter dated 8 Sep 2025, Defense counsel requested the production of evidence. See PHO Exhibit 1. R.C.M. 405(a) provides that the issues for determination at a preliminary hearing are limited to: 1) whether each specification alleges an offense; 2) whether there is probable cause to believe that the accused committed the offense or offense charged; 3) whether the convening authority has court-martial jurisdiction over the accused and over the offense; and 4) to recommend the disposition that should be made of the case. The government provided a paragraph-by-paragraph response agreeing to produce some of what was requested and denying others. See PHO Exhibit 2. To the extent the government denied the defense evidence requests, I find those requests to be general in nature, and they are either cumulative to the 55 exhibits offered by the government or not relevant and not necessary to my determination under R.C.M. 405.

i. Military Witnesses. No military witnesses were requested.

j. Civilian Witnesses. No civilian witnesses were requested.

k. Issues related to victims of alleged offenses. None.

l. Case Executive Summary:

Synopsis:

This case involves twenty-year old Culinary Specialist Seaman (CSSN) Jermiah Copeland of Durham, North Carolina, who faces eight charges involving five female victims. From July 2024 through May 2025, the Accused is alleged to have sexually assaulted three women, strangled a fourth woman and murdered a fifth woman.

Victim #1 ABHAN C.R. – 23 July 2024

In the early morning hours of 23 July 2024 onboard the USS TRUMAN, the Accused grabbed the vulva, breasts, and buttocks (over the clothing) of ABHAN C.R. The victim reported that he grabbed her neck with one hand and applied enough pressure that it was difficult for her to breathe. She fought to get his hand off her, then the Accused forcibly kissed her. The victim immediately reported the incident to her Chief and to her boyfriend, who observed bruising on the victim's neck.

Victim #2 CSSN S.S. – 4 Nov 2024

Three months later, on 4 Nov 2024, while the ship was making a port call in Oslo, Norway, the Accused was at a bar with fellow shipmate and victim CSSN S.S. The victim consumed multiple shots of tequila, and several witnesses described her being heavily intoxicated (e.g., slurred speech, difficulty walking, and vomiting). The Accused accompanied the victim to a bar bathroom and proceeded to have sexual intercourse with her while recording it on his cell phone. When he returned to the bar, he told two shipmates that he had just had sex with the victim and showed them the video he had recorded. Those who saw the video recognized the victim and the Accused in the video. Later, the Accused showed the videos to at least two others. He was interviewed by law enforcement on 18 November 2024 and admitted to having sex with CSSN S.S., recording it, and showing the video of it to others. When law enforcement asked for his phone, he claimed he had given it to a shipmate and later said it got lost after it fell out of his pocket.

Victim #3 CSSN S.R. – 11 April 2025

On 11 April 2025, the Accused was with CSSN S.R. in his barracks room onboard Naval Station Norfolk. While there, the victim, who had been dating the Accused since the previous month, took a phone call from another woman while the Accused was asleep. The woman who called told CSSN S.R. that she was in a relationship with him. This prompted the victim to go through the Accused's phone and when he discovered this, there was a confrontation. When she attempted to leave, he pushed her and began strangling her. He laughed after he strangled her.

Victim #4 Civilian Y.J. – 25 May 2025

A month later, on 25 May 2025, civilian female, Y.J., was driven by two males (including CSSN John Bradford) to the Accused's apartment on base. She engaged in consensual sexual activity with the two men. She was familiar with the Accused because earlier that summer she had engaged in consensual sex with him. Some time between 0500 and 0600 the Accused returned to the barracks, took her by the arm, and pulled her into his room. He requested oral sex, and she told him "no" and said that she was tired. Nonetheless, he penetrated her vagina without her consent, and she reported that it was painful. She remembered one of the males intervened and was able to get her out of the room. CSSN Bradford recalled hearing Y.J. tell the Accused "no" multiple times and that she was tired. He helped intervene and took her home.

Victim #5 CS3 A.R. – 29 May 2025

Several days later, on the evening of 28 May 2025, CS3 A.R. went to the Accused's barracks room to make tacos. At 0214, CS3 A.R.'s former boyfriend ET3 Daniel Rich received a frantic call from her requesting that she be picked up immediately. During this call, ET3 Rich spoke to another male, who asked him how long it would take for him to pick her up. He said it would take him about ten minutes. CS3 A.R. was put back on the phone, repeated her frantic request to be picked up, and told ET3 Rich she loved him. CS3 A.R.'s last cell tower connection occurred at 0455. Between approximately 0530 and 0645 several of the Accused's roommates reported seeing the Accused and a woman unclothed on the living room floor near the couch.

Based on the distress call that had been made at 0214 to ET3 Rich, multiple efforts were underway to locate CS3 A.R., including by another former boyfriend, HT3 Michael Gillespie. Those efforts were unsuccessful.

Between 0530 and 0645, one roommate and two suite mates getting ready for work walked through the living room space and observed an unclothed female and the Accused. They believed them to be sleeping. Two hours later, FCC Brad Parker, who had become aware of the efforts to locate CS3 A.R., went to the Accused's barracks room at approximately 0855. He reported having a conversation with the Accused and interacting briefly with CS3 A.R., who he observed wrapped in a blanket on a bed. He believed she had made a gesture with her arm indicating she was okay. At 1241 Chief Parker got a call from the Accused, who claimed he had returned CS3 A.R. to her barracks. The Accused was told to come to work and because he did not, he was put in an unauthorized status.

Three days later, HT3 Gillespie confronted the Accused about his night with CS3 A.R. The Accused told him that he had dropped A.R. off outside her building. Also, on 1 June 2025, the Accused was interviewed by NCIS, and he told law enforcement he drove A.R. back to her barracks around 1000. His story changed when he was interviewed two days later, on 3 June by NCIS. He told NCIS that she had taken a Z-trip ride service home. In the course of the interview he gave NCIS permission to search his phone. A search of that phone yielded two important discoveries: first and foremost, the location of CS3 A.R.'s body and second, the movements and actions of his phone from 29 May to 2 June.

According to a forensic analysis of the Accused's phone, he searched for "Parks" and "Trails" in Norfolk at 0432 on 2 June 2025. The Accused had borrowed his suitemate's 2014 white Jeep Compass, which was spotted departing and returning to the base consistent with the geolocation of the phone. Additionally, the vehicle and its license plate was captured at 0440 on its way to a Norfolk neighborhood called Broad Creek. The phone's geolocation data reflected the Accused's presence in Broad Creek from 0456 until 0515 – specifically near woods behind a residence on Cary Avenue. An analysis of the Accused's iWatch also reflected steps consistent with increased activity at the time his phone was located in Broad Creek. Critically, the phone contained a screen shot taken at 0515 (while in Airplane mode) of the area where CS3 A.R.'s body was subsequently found. The "My location" GPS feature of the phone appeared on a driveway behind 2852 Cary Avenue and a "Marked Location" was made consistent with where CS3 A.R.'s body was found a week later by NCIS on 9 June 2025.

The victim's body was found in a large black duffel bag consistent with a black bag possessed by the Accused as seen in multiple photographs on his phone. Because of the advanced decomposition of her body, a medical examiner could not establish a cause or manner of death. She did, however, rule out stabbing, shooting and drug overdose. The medical examiner could not rule out asphyxia and opined that her death was unlikely to be the cause of a natural death. She also opined that the body was likely placed in the bag within 12 hours of her death.

A search of the Accused's barracks yielded several important discoveries: 1) a trained canine alerted to the presence of human remains in the Accused's closet; 2) positive results for blood in the Accused's closet and a trail of blood from the closet into the Accused's room; 3) the blood found in the Accused's closet matched the victim's DNA; 4) blood stains in the stairwell near the Accused's room also matched the victim's DNA; and 5) an Apple iWatch that the Accused confirmed was his provided health data including his heartrate as well as steps and stairs travelled.

Combining information analyzed from the Accused iPhone and that of his iWatch, investigators discovered the following information germane to the government's theory of premediated murder for the early morning hours of 29 May. At 0146 the Accused created a note on his iPhone and listed ingredients consistent with having prepared beef tacos, which was the activity CS3 A.R. told her friend she was going to do when she went to the Accused's room. Two minutes after creating the list, his heart rate was 61 beats per minute (bpm). Ten minutes later at 0158 his heart rate more than doubled to 128 bmp. It stayed elevated above 120 bpm through the time of the phone call to ET3 Rich at 0214 until 0230. It declined to a normal level for the next 30 minutes with 67 bmp recorded at 0302. Five minutes later the heart rate spiked at 130 bmp. Government Exhibit ("GE") 39a at 7.

Five hours later, from 0755 to 1131, the Accused watched 35 pornographic videos. GE 39b at 15 and 27.

On 3 June he was interviewed by NCIS and asked about CS3 A.R.'s whereabouts. He told the agents that he had nothing to do with her disappearance.

Timeline:

- 23 July 2024: Sexual assault and strangulation of ABHAN C.R. on board USS TRUMAN.
- 4 Nov 2024: Oslo, Norway bar bathroom sexual assault of CSSN S.S. Accused videoed it and showed the video to multiple sailors.
- 18 Nov 2024: Accused interviewed by NCIS and claimed he had consensual sexual intercourse with CSSN S.S. He admitted to recording the incident and showing it to others. When agents asked for his phone, he claimed he gave it to another Sailor and later claimed he lost it.
- 11 April 2025 CSSN S.R. was pushed by the Accused in his barrack's room and strangled with both hands after confronting him about dating another woman.

- 25 May 2025 Sexual Assault of civilian Y.J. Others had to intervene to stop it.
- 28 May 2025 CS3 A.R. and CSSN Garcia-Barrera shop at Target after work. A.R. goes to Accused's barracks room to make tacos.
- 29 May 2025
  - 0214 Distress call from CS3 A.R. to ET3 Rich.
  - 0307 Accused's heart rate is 130 beats per minute.
  - 0530-0645 Roommate travelled through the common area to go to work and see the Accused asleep on the living room floor in his underwear with a female. Two other suitemates travel through common area on their way to work and see a female and the Accused sleeping on the living room floor. They report seeing the Accused and the female undressed (with variations of undress).
  - 0855 CS3 A.R. and Accused seen by FCC Brad Parker in Accused's room.
  - 1241 FCC Parker received a call from the Accused claiming he had returned A.R. to her barracks room.
- 1 June 2025. HT3 Gillespie confronted the Accused, who admitted he was the one to speak with ET3 Rich in the early morning hours of 29 May and that he dropped A.R. off outside her building. Accused interviewed by NCIS and told them he drove A.R. back to her barracks at 1000.
- 2 June 2025. The Accused dumped A.R.'s body in the woods in Norfolk's Broad Creek neighborhood.
- 3 June 2025. The Accused was interviewed by NCIS and told them CS3 A.R. left his room on her own and likely took a Z-Trip car service home. NCIS conducts a search of the Accused's barracks, phone, and iWatch.
- 6 June 2025: The Accused was placed on restriction and ordered to report to the ship.
- 9 June 2025: NCIS found CS3 A.R.'s body. The Accused was placed in Pretrial Confinement.

m. Analysis of offenses.

Standard for Probable Cause:

Meeting the legal standard of probable cause requires the Government to present evidence which supports a reasonable belief that a crime has been committed. United States v. Leedy, 65 M.J. 213 (C.A.A.F. 2007). The belief must be more than a bare suspicion but does not need to rise to the level of a certain probability. Id.

Jurisdiction:

While the Accused's Basic Individual Record was not submitted, no parties raised an objection about jurisdiction. With the evidence before me, I find that the Accused was on active duty at the time of the charged offenses and remained on active duty at the time of the Preliminary Hearing. Therefore, there is jurisdiction over him and the offenses.

Witness Availability for the Offenses: No issues noted.

Form of the charges:

All charges and each specification properly allege an offense under the U.C.M.J.

(1) Charge 1, Specification 1: Article 120—Aggravated Sexual Contact

Elements:

(1) That the accused committed sexual contact upon ABHAN C.R., by touching through the clothing, her vulva, breast, and buttocks; and
(2) That the accused did so by using unlawful force against ABHAN C.R.

Definitions:

"Sexual contact" means touching, or causing another person to touch, either directly or through the clothing, the vulva, breast, or buttocks of any person, with an intent to abuse, humiliate, harass, or degrade any person or to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of any person. Touching may be accomplished by any part of the body or an object.
The "vulva" is the external genital organs of the female, including the entrance of the vagina and the labia majora and labia minora. "Labia" is the Latin and medically correct term for "lips."

"Unlawful force" means an act of force done without legal justification or excuse. "Force" means the use of such physical strength or violence as is sufficient to overcome, restrain, or injure a person; or inflicting physical harm sufficient to coerce or compel submission by the victim.

Summary of Evidence:

At approximately 0200 on 23 July 2024 near the fantail of the USS TRUMAN, the Accused was alone with ABHAN C.R. when he sexually assaulted her. Through the mobile messaging platform Snapchat, the Accused previously reached out to ABHAN C.R. requesting to speak to her about her boyfriend, CSSN Fernando Cuestabravo. She agreed to meet and when he arrived, the Accused requested that they go somewhere private to talk.

Once they arrived in the area of the fantail, the Accused told ABHAN C.R. that her boyfriend was talking to other women and suggested that he was cheating on her. He further suggested that she should "get back at" him by getting romantically involved with the Accused. She declined, and then the Accused pretended to arrest C.R. As he did so, he forced her hands behind her back and grabbed her vulva over the clothing. She turned around and punched him in the stomach. He responded by telling her that he heard she liked to be choked, and he grabbed her neck with one hand with sufficient force that it was difficult for her to breathe. She fought to get his hand off her neck and as she did, he replaced it and continued to apply pressure. While doing so, he forcibly kissed her on the lips and grabbed her breasts, buttocks, and vulva over the clothing. He did this for approximately one minute before he let her go. ABHAN C.R. left the fantail and texted her boyfriend about what happened. She then attempted to make a report by contacting the Sexual Assault Prevention Response (SAPR) phone number. Her boyfriend, CSSN Cuestabravo, reported it to security and both he and C.R. observed bruising on her neck from where the Accused had strangled her.

Determination as to Whether this Specification Alleges an Offense: This specification alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J.

Recommendations for Changes to the Form of the Charge: None.

Determination as to Probable Cause:

The government has established probable cause for this Specification. The government has also elected to charge this same conduct "as a contingency of proof" in Specification 2 as Abusive Sexual Contact, but the government has not articulated why it has two theories of criminal liability. Specification 2 (Abusive Sexual Contact) is a lesser included offense of Specification (Aggravated Sexual Contact), so it appears that the government has charged it both ways in the event the jury does not find that the Accused used "force" as Specification 2 only requires that it was without the victim's consent. While it is permissible to proceed this way, the facts convincingly show "force" was used, and as such, I recommend that the government proceed only with Specification 1. If "force" became an issue at trial, the government could ask the Court to include the lesser included offense instruction for Abusive Sexual Contact. Simplifying the charging scheme for the jury in a case as complex as this is recommended.

Alternatively, the government could proceed with both Specifications and dismiss Specification 2 at sentencing should there be convictions on both. While that would be the most conservative approach, it is not necessary given the facts. Aggravated sexual contact is appropriate when there is clear force, which is present here: the Accused restrained the victim by physically pretending to arrest her, then choked her, then she attempted to fight him off, and he continued to strangle her and touched her vulva, breasts, and buttocks. She resisted, fled, and immediately reported it. Abusive Sexual Contact would be appropriate had there been sexual contact without force—e.g., touching without consent but not involving physical violence. Here, there is clear force (restraining, choking, and grabbing). The facts strongly support proceeding on Specification 1 alone. The facts strongly support the elements of this Specification and the government should proceed confidently on this Specification alone. Doing so will simplify the case for the jury.

(2) Charge I, Specification 2: Article 120—Abusive Sexual Contact

Elements:
(1) That the accused committed sexual contact upon ABHAN C.R. by touching through the clothing, the vulva, breast, and buttocks of ABHAN C.R.; and
(2) That the accused did so without the consent of ABHAN C.R.

Definitions:

"Sexual contact" means touching, or causing another person to touch, either directly or through the clothing, the vulva, penis, scrotum, anus, groin, breast, inner thigh, or buttocks of any person, with an intent to abuse, humiliate, harass, or degrade any person or to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of any person. Touching may be accomplished by any part of the body or an object.

"Consent" means a freely given agreement to the conduct at issue. An expression of lack of consent through words or conduct means there is no consent. Lack of verbal or physical resistance does not constitute consent. Submission resulting from the use of force, threat of force, or placing another person in fear also does not constitute consent. A current or previous dating or social or sexual relationship by itself or the manner of dress of the person involved with the accused in the conduct at issue does not constitute consent. All the surrounding circumstances are to be considered in determining whether a person gave consent.

Summary of Evidence: See Summary of Evidence section above for Specification 1 of Charge I.

Determination as to Whether this Specification Alleges an Offense: This specification alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J.

Recommendations for Changes to the Form of the Charge: I recommend dismissing this Specification in favor of pursuing Specification 1 above.

Determination as to Probable Cause: I find Probable Cause for Specification 2 of Charge I. See Probable Cause section above for Specification 1, Charge I for additional details and recommendations.

(3) Charge I, Specification 3: Article 120—Sexual Assault – Incapable of Consenting

Elements:
(1) That the accused committed a sexual act upon CSSN S.S. by penetrating her vulva with his penis;
(2) That the accused did so when CSSN S.S. was incapable of consenting to the sexual act due to impairment by a drug, intoxicant, or other similar substance; and
(3) That the accused knew or reasonably should have known CSSN S.S. was incapable of consenting to the sexual act due to impairment by drug, intoxicant, or other similar substance.

Definitions & Instructions:
"Incapable of consenting" means the person is incapable of appraising the nature of the conduct at issue or physically incapable of declining participation in, or communicating unwillingness to engage in, the sexual act at issue.

"Consent" means a freely given agreement to the conduct at issue by a competent person. An expression of lack of consent through words or conduct means there is no consent. Lack of verbal or physical resistance does not constitute consent. Submission resulting from the use of force, threat of force, or placing another person in fear also does not constitute consent. A current or previous dating or social or sexual relationship by itself or the manner of dress of the person involved with the accused in the conduct at issue does not constitute consent.

A sleeping, unconscious, or incompetent person cannot consent.

A "competent person" is a person who possesses the physical and mental ability to consent. An "incompetent person" is a person who is incapable of appraising the nature of the conduct at issue, or physically incapable of declining participation in or communicating unwillingness to engage in the sexual act at issue.

"Mistake of fact" means the accused held, as a result of ignorance or mistake, an incorrect belief that the other person consented to the sexual conduct. The ignorance or mistake must have existed in the mind of the accused and must have been reasonable under all the circumstances. To be reasonable, the ignorance or mistake must have been based on information, or lack of it, that would indicate to a reasonable person that the other person consented to the sexual conduct. Additionally, the ignorance or mistake cannot be based on the negligent failure to discover the true facts. "Negligence" is the absence of due care. "Due care" is what a reasonably careful person would do under the same or similar circumstances. You should consider the inherent probability or improbability of the evidence presented on this matter. You should consider the accused's (age) (education) (experience), along with the other evidence in this case. The prosecution has the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defense of mistake of fact did not exist. Furthermore, even if you conclude the accused was under a mistaken belief that the alleged victim consented to the sexual conduct, if you are convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that at the time of the charged offense, the accused's mistake was unreasonable, the defense does not exist.

Summary of Evidence:

On the evening of 4 November 2024, a group of sailors, including the Accused and CSSN S.S. were drinking at Heidi's Bier Bar in Oslo, Norway. According to the victim, she had four shots of tequila and did not recall periods of time at the bar. She remembered dancing with the Accused and throwing up at some point but does not remember how she got back to the ship. She also reported feeling vaginal pain, swelling, and cramping the next day. She confronted the Accused about what happened, and he denied having sex with her or recording it. He threatened to kill himself in a text message to the victim.

Multiple witnesses described CSSN S.S. as very intoxicated. They observed her throwing up, having trouble keeping balance, unable to walk, dragging her feet, slurring her speech, not appearing to recall where she was, and being carried back to the Fleet Landing space where she required medical clearance before being transported back to the ship.

One witness who was at the bar, CSSN Kaylee Parks, described how the Accused and CSSN S.S. were "all over each other", holding hands, and kissing each other on the neck and lips. About 30 to 40 minutes later, Parks observed the Accused trying to keep the victim's head upright.

Parks described the victim as very intoxicated with slurred speech and having trouble keeping her balance. She later heard the victim ask the Accused if he would help her to the bathroom. She saw the Accused hold her hand leading her to the bathroom.

The Accused told at least four Sailors that he had sex with CSSN S.S. (CSSA Jackobie Gant, CSSN Kaulise Cousins, CSSA Jacqueline Bita, and CSSN Jada Knight). After returning from the bathroom, the Accused approached Bita and Knight and said, "you'll never believe what happened, if I show you, you can't tell anyone." GE 13. He proceeded to show them a video of him having sexual intercourse with CSSN S.S. in the bar bathroom. Both Sailors recognized the Accused in the video and CSSN S.S. based on her hair and clothing. The gray sweatshirt she was wearing belonged to Bita. Knight specifically recalled seeing the Accused's penis penetrating the victim's vagina. Knight also provided a video to NCIS showing the victim taking a shot that night. A third sailor, CSSA Gant, also recalled being shown the video by the Accused. Gant told NCIS that CSSN S.S. did not appear conscious as her face was down against a toilet.

Once CSSN S.S. became aware of what the Accused had done to her, she contacted him by text message and by phone. He denied having had sex with her or videotaping it. He wanted to know why she was trying to get him in trouble and then said he was going to kill himself.

The Accused was first contacted by NCIS on 6 November 2024. At that time, he was asked for his phone. He told the reporting agent that he did not have it and had given it to his friend, CSSN Cousins. The Agent then contacted Cousins, who said the Accused had never given him his phone. Cousins relayed that the Accused told him about having sex with CSSN S.S. and that he felt bad about it because he knew she had a boyfriend. He also told Cousins that he would kill himself. Cousins described how the Accused refused to come back to the ship, and it appeared he was attempting to kill himself by stepping in front of several trains.

The Accused was contacted by NCIS again on 18 November 2024. He admitted to having intercourse with CSSN S.S. and recording it. He believed the victim had consented to intercourse but was not aware of whether she knew he was recording it. He also admitted to showing the video to Cousins, Knight, and others. When confronted with his claim that he had given his phone to Cousins, he said the phone was lost as it had fallen out of his pocket and shattered. He also admitted to intentionally walking in front of vehicles after being confronted with the allegation.

Determination as to Whether this Specification Alleges an Offense: This specification alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J.

Recommendations for Changes to the Form of the Charge: I have no recommended changes to the form of this Specification.

Determination as to Probable Cause: I find probable cause for this Specification. While the video no longer exists, four Sailors recall seeing it, identifying both the victim and the Accused in the video, and hearing the Accused tell them that he had sexual intercourse with CSSN S.S. The Accused also admitted this to NCIS as well as making a video of the incident. The Accused is likely to make a mistake of fact defense, but this will be challenging given the extensive evidence of the victim's heightened level of intoxication – and his knowledge of it (e.g., propping up her head in the bar (GE 19)). The fact that the Accused was stepping in front of vehicles in the wake of this incident, telling people he would kill himself, lying to CSSN S.S. by denying they had sex, and lying to NCIS about the whereabouts of his phone will go to his consciousness of guilt. That together with evidence of the victim's state of intoxication—including four eyewitnesses who saw the video, who will describe how she did not appear to apprise the nature of what was happening—will likely overcome any mistake of fact defense. Based on the evidence presented, I find that CSSN S.S. was not a "competent person" capable of consenting as those terms are defined above.

(4) Charge I, Specification 4: Article 120—Sexual Assault – Without Consent

Elements:
(1) That the accused committed a sexual act upon Y.J. by penetrating Y.J.'s vulva with his penis; and
(2) That the accused did so without the consent of Y.J.

Definitions:

"Sexual act" means: the penetration, however slight, of the penis into the vulva or anus or mouth; or the penetration, however slight, of the vulva or penis or anus of another by any part of the body or any object, with an intent to abuse, humiliate, harass, or degrade any person or to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of any person.

The "vulva" is the external genital organs of the female, including the entrance of the vagina and the labia majora and labia minora. "Labia" is the Latin and medically correct term for "lips."

Summary of Evidence:

On 25 May 2025, civilian female, Y.J., was driven by CSSN John Bradford and another male to the Accused's barracks apartment on base. She engaged in consensual sexual activity with the two men who had driven her to base. Y.J. was familiar with the Accused because earlier that summer she had engaged in consensual sex with him. Between approximately 0500 and 0600 the Accused returned to the barracks, took her by the arm, and pulled her into his room. He requested oral sex, and she told him "no" and told him she was tired. Nonetheless, he penetrated her vagina, and she described it as painful (The NCIS report documenting its interview with her does not specify how the Accused penetrated Y.J.). She reported that one of the males intervened and was able to get her out of the room. CSSN Bradford recalled hearing Y.J. tell the Accused multiple times "no" and that she was tired. He helped intervene and took her home.

Determination as to Whether this Specification Alleges an Offense: This specification of the charge alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J.

Recommendations for Changes to the Form of the Charge: I have no recommended changes to this specification.

Determination as to Probable Cause: I find probable cause that Y.J.'s vulva was penetrated without her consent, but I will note that Y.J. was not asked directly how the penetration occurred. Circumstantial evidence suggests that it was with his penis since just prior to the penetration, the Accused requested oral sex from Y.J. The evidence for this Specification is strong. It is not typically the case to have multiple witnesses overhear a victim repeatedly tell an Accused "no" and to have a bystander stop a sexual assault.

(5) Charge II and its sole Specification: Article 128—Aggravated Assault (Strangulation)

Elements:
(1) That the accused assaulted ABHAN C.R.;
(2) That the accused did so by strangulation; and
(3) That the strangulation was done with unlawful force or violence.

Definitions:

An assault by strangulation is an assault committed intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly, regardless of whether that conduct results in any visible injury or whether there is any intent to kill or protractedly injure the victim.

"Strangulation" means intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly impeding the normal breathing or circulation of the blood of a person by applying pressure to the throat or neck, regardless of whether that conduct results in any visible injury or whether there is any intent to kill or protractedly injure the alleged victim.

Summary of Evidence: See summary of evidence section for Charge I, Specification 1 above.

Determination as to Whether this Specification Alleges an Offense: This charge alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J.

Recommendations for Changes to the Form of the Charge: I have no recommended changes to the form of the charge.

Determination as to Probable Cause: I find probable cause for this charge. See the Determination as to Probable Cause above for Charge I, Specification 1 above. Additionally, the PHO notes that this charge should not be considered a "contingency of proof for Charge I, Specification 1" as asserted by the government in its post-hearing comments. See PHO Exhibit 3 at 5. Article 128 could be a lesser included offense of Article 120, but as charged in this case, it is not necessary. Charge I, Specification 1 makes no mention of strangulation. Charge II is supported by strong evidence, contains different elements, and is not an unreasonable multiplication of charges for the conduct captured in Charge I, Specifications 1 and 2.

(6) Charge III and its sole Specification: Article 117(a)—Wrongful Broadcast

Elements:

i. That the accused knowingly and wrongfully broadcasted an intimate visual image of CSSN S.S.;
ii. That CSSN S.S. was at least 18 years of age when the visual images was created;
iii. That CSSN S.S. is identifiable from the visual image or from information displayed in connection with the visual images;
iv. That CSSN S.S. did not explicitly consent to the broadcast of the visual image;
v. That the accused knew or reasonably should have known that the visual images was made under circumstances in which CSSN S.S. retained a reasonable expectation of privacy regarding any broadcast of the visual image;
vi. That the accused knew or reasonably should have known that the broadcast of the visual image was likely to cause harm, harassment, intimidation, emotional distress, or financial loss for CSSN S.S., or to harm substantially CSSN S.S. with respect to her health, safety, business, calling, career, financial condition, reputation, or personal relationships; and
vii. That the accused's conduct, under the circumstances, had a reasonably direct and palpable connection to a military mission or military environment.

Definitions:

An act is done "knowingly" when it is done intentionally and on purpose. An act done as the result of a mistake or accident is not done "knowingly."

The term "broadcast" means to electronically transmit a visual image with the intent that it be viewed by a person or persons.

The term "intimate visual image" means a visual image that depicts a private area of a person. The term "private area" means the naked or underwear-clad genitalia, anus, buttocks, or female areola or nipple.

The term "reasonable expectation of privacy" means circumstances in which a reasonable person would believe that a private area of the person, or sexually explicit conduct involving the person, would not be visible to the public.

A "reasonably direct and palpable connection to a military mission or military environment" means conduct that has a measurably divisive effect on unit or organization discipline, morale, or cohesion, or must be clearly detrimental to the authority or stature of or respect toward a Servicemember. The connection between the conduct and a military mission or military environment is contextually oriented and cannot be evidenced by conduct that is connected only in a remote or indirect sense.

Summary of Evidence and Finding of Probable Cause:

I find probable cause for Charge III. Incorporating the Summary of Evidence for Charge I, Specification 3 (pages 12-13 of this report), and emphasizing for purposes of this charge that (1) the Accused admitted to having recorded his sexual intercourse with CSSN S.S. and that he did not ask her consent in recording it; (2) showed or broadcast the video to at least four people (Bita, Knight, Gant, and Cousins), who reported seeing intercourse, the victim's buttocks, and identifying the Accused and CSSN S.S. in the video; (3) that CSSN S.S. did not consent to the making of the video as she was incapable of giving consent due to the heightened level of her intoxication; (4) the Accused knew CSSN S.S. was in a relationship with someone else and reasonably should have known broadcasting the video of her face down in a toilet stall to others, especially shipmates who knew and worked with CSSN S.S., would cause her emotional distress; and (5) by asking Bita and Knight not to tell anyone, the Accused knew his conduct would adversely impact CSSN S.S. and the military environment with which all of the witnesses involved operated.

Determination as to Whether this Specification Alleges an Offense: This specification alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J.

Recommendations for Changes to the Form of the Charge: I recommend dismissing this Charge and pursuing Charge IV, Specification 2 only. The Government contends that Charge III and its sole specification is charged as a "contingency of proof" for Charge IV, Specification 2, but it does not articulate why. The "intimate visual area" definition under Article 117(a) is the same as the "private area" definition under Article 120(c). Even if witnesses testified at trial that they only saw the victim's buttocks and not her vulva in the video, the elements for both have been met. So, if that is not the factual contingency the government is concerned with, then what is? Based on what has been presented to me, including this charge is unnecessary and invites unnecessary litigation on an unreasonable multiplication of charges. Judicial economy is better achieved by simplifying the charging scheme.

(7) Charge IV, Specifications 1 & 2: Article 120c—Indecent Recording

Specification 1 (Indecent Recording)

Elements:

(1) That the accused, without legal justification or lawful authorization, knowingly made a recording of the private area of CSSN S.S.;
(2) That the accused did so without the consent of CSSN S.S.; and
(3) That said recording was made under circumstances in which CSSN S.S. had a reasonable expectation of privacy.

Definitions:

An act is done "knowingly" when it is done intentionally and on purpose. An act done as the result of a mistake or accident is not done "knowingly."

"Private area" means the naked or underwear-clad genitalia, anus, buttocks, or female areola or nipple.

"Under circumstances in which that other person has a reasonable expectation of privacy" or "reasonable expectation of privacy" means: (A) circumstances in which a reasonable person would believe that he or she could disrobe in privacy, without being concerned that an image of a private area of the person was being captured; or (B) circumstances in which a reasonable person would believe that a private area of the person would not be visible to the public.

A "recording" is a still or moving visual image captured or recorded by any means.

Specification 2 (Indecent Broadcasting)

Elements:

(1) That the accused, without legal justification or lawful authorization, knowingly broadcast a recording of the private area of CSSN S.S.;
(2) That the recording was made without the consent of CSSN S.S.;
(3) That the accused knew or reasonably should have known that the recording was made without the consent of CSSN S.S.;
(4) That the recording was made under circumstances in which CSSN S.S. had a reasonable expectation of privacy; and
(5) That the accused knew or reasonably should have known that the recording was made under circumstances in which CSSN S.S. had a reasonable expectation of privacy.

"Broadcast" means to electronically transmit a visual image with the intent that it be viewed by a person or persons.

Summary of Evidence: See Charge III above.

Determination as to Whether these Specifications Allege an Offense: The two specifications of this charge allege offenses under the U.C.M.J.

Recommendations for Changes to the Form of the Charge: For the conduct involving the Accused recording CSSN S.S., I recommend dismissing Charge III and only pursuing Charge IV, Specifications 1 and 2. See the Recommendation for Charge III above for more details.

Determination as to Probable Cause: Probable Cause has been established for both Specifications of Charge IV.

(8) Charge V, Specifications 1-3: Article 131b—Obstruction of Justice

Elements:

(1) That the accused wrongfully did a certain act, that is, hide his cellular phone;

(2) That the accused did so in the case of himself against whom the accused had reason to believe there were or would be criminal or disciplinary proceedings pending;
(3) That the acts was done with the intent to influence, impede or otherwise obstruct the due administration of justice.

Definitions:
"Criminal proceedings" includes lawful searches, criminal investigations conducted by police or command authorities, Article 32 preliminary hearings, courts-martial, and state and federal criminal trials.

"Disciplinary proceedings" includes summary courts-martial and Article 15 non-judicial punishment proceedings.

"Wrongfully" means without legal justification or excuse.

While the prosecution is required to prove beyond a reasonable doubt the accused had the specific intent to influence or impede the due administration of justice, there need not be an actual obstruction of justice. It is not necessary that charges be pending or even that an investigation be underway. The accused also does not have to know that charges have been brought or proceedings begun. The government must, however, prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the accused had reason to believe there were or would be criminal proceedings against himself or that some law enforcement official of the military would be investigating the accused's actions.

Summary of Evidence and Probable Cause:

Specification 1 (Oslo Investigation)

The Accused knew he was under investigation because he told his friend, CSSN Cousins that the victim "put a charge on him" and that his life was ruined. GE 14. He also told CSSA Gant, that CSSN S.S. had "put a case on" him. GE 17. Further, as evidenced by the Accused's text exchange with CSSN S.S., he knew an allegation of sexual assault had been made against him. See GE 8 ("why y tryna get me introuble over a lie" "ima just kill myself"). His phone, which contained the video he made of that sexual assault, would contain key evidence in an investigation into the matter. When NCIS asked for the phone, he lied and told them he gave it to CSSN Cousins. Cousins was contacted by NCIS and denied ever having received the Accused's phone. And, not surprisingly, the Accused provided no reasonable explanation as to why he would give his phone to someone else. The obvious explanation is that he knew it contained key evidence, and he did not want law enforcement to have it since he knew he was under investigation. He later told NCIS that he lost his phone further undercutting his credibility and adding more weight to his intent to obstruct justice. The fact that he attempted to kill himself by walking in front of three trains after becoming aware that the victim had "put a charge on him" and had to be escorted back to the ship by Shore Patrol is strong consciousness of guilt evidence for both this Specification and Charge I, Specification 3 (Sexual Assault Incapable of Consenting), Charge III (Wrongful Broadcast), and both Specifications of Charge IV (Indecent Recording and Indecent Broadcasting).

Specification 1 of Charge V alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J., and I have no recommended changes to the form of the Specification and Charge.

Specification 2 (Murder Investigation – Concealed Body)

There is Probable Cause for Specification 2. On 1 June 2025, the Accused was interviewed by NCIS in the barracks lounge and was asked about CS3 A.R.'s whereabouts. He lied to agents and told them he drove CS3 A.R. back to her barracks at 1000 on 29 May 2025. He said that was the last time he saw her. On 3 June 2025, the Accused was interviewed again and gave NCIS permission to search his iPhone 15. In connection with NCIS's interview, his barracks room was also searched. He confirmed that the iWatch they found was his. As a result of obtaining his iPhone, NCIS found CS3 A.R.'s body in the Broad Creek area of Norfolk consistent with a screen shot that was on his phone, which contained a GPS pin of the vicinity where CS3 A.R.'s body was found in a black duffel bag. A forensic examination of his phone also showed that he searched for "Parks" and "Trails" in Norfolk just before dumping her body. See GE 44a at 2. Pictures of the black duffel bag were found on the Accused's phone (e.g., at the top of a set of stairs holding the black duffle bag and in an elevator with the black duffle bag) and in a social media post. See GE 47g.

A canine alerted for human remains in the Accused's closet. See GE 48a at 10. Blood matching the victim's DNA was also found in the Accused's closet and in the adjoining stairwell to the Accused's barracks room. See GE 48b. Law enforcement also used Bluestar, a chemiluminescent reagent, to detect the presence of blood in the Accused's bedroom in the area between his bathroom and the common living space. See GE 48a at 13 (Figure 20). The highlighted marks could be consistent with the path tracks of a large, wheeled duffle bag.

YN3 Monaghan, the roommate of the Accused, told investigators that the Accused kept a black rolling suitcase locked in his closet. GE 35. He participated in a deep clean of their room on 2 June and noticed a stain on the bathmat in front of the toilet; a stain he believed to be blood. PS1 Impelidodayoan and NCC Carter accompanied YN3 Monaghan at 0900 on 2 June for the HM-12 room inspection and the body had already been moved by the Accused and dumped in the Broad Creek neighborhood.

Specification 2 of Charge V alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J., and I have no recommended changes to the form of the Specification.

Specification 3 (Murder Investigation – Hidden Cellular Phone)

There is probable cause for Specification 3. On 3 June 2025, the Accused was interviewed by NCIS and asked about an iPhone (GE 55) and an iWatch that were located during a search of his barracks room. He confirmed that the items were his but told NCIS that the phone did not work. NCIS did not seize the phone at that time. When he was placed on restriction, he was told to bring his belongings from his barracks room to the barge associated with his ship. On 10 June 2025, NCIS executed a search of his berthing onboard the barge and seized the iWatch. The iPhone, that was seen in his barracks room on 3 June was not found and remains missing.

Nonetheless, the government obtained a search warrant for the Accused's iCloud account and found a selfie photo taken by the Accused on 8 June, just one day before he was placed in pretrial confinement. The photo depicts the Accused in his uniform holding a white iPhone (similar to the one investigators saw on 3 June) in a space that appears consistent with the barge.

At the Article 32 hearing, I asked the government about what evidence they believed was contained on the iPhone that is the subject of this Specification. The government is right that they are not required to describe the evidence they believe they would find; in fact, how could they possibly know without examining the phone? The fact that the iCloud return showed the Accused taking a selfie five days after he told NCIS that the phone did not work is relevant evidence. It shows he lied to them about its operability. Also, the relevance is compounded when considering the context of the Oslo investigation, which involved the Accused lying to investigators about giving his phone to a shipmate and later losing it. Objectively, people understand that iPhones contain so much information about our day to day lives (e.g., what we search, where we go, what we read, what we see), so it is reasonable that the Accused would want to get rid of the very thing he knew law enforcement wanted to find especially considering he had been in this situation before (Oslo)—now however, the stakes were even higher given he was under investigation and on restriction for a case involving a missing CS3 A.R.

Specification 3 of Charge V alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J., and I have no recommended changes to the form of the Specification.

(9) Charge VI, Specification 1: Article 128b—Domestic Violence – Strangulation

Elements:
(1) That (state the time and place alleged), the accused assaulted CSSN S.R. the intimate partner of the accused;
(2) That the accused did so by strangling CSSN S.R.; and
(3) That the strangulation was done with unlawful force or violence.

Definitions:
The term "intimate partner" means either (a) one's former spouse, a person with whom one shares a child in common, or a person with whom one cohabits or with whom one has cohabited as a spouse; or (b) a person with whom one has been in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature, as determined by the length of the relationship, the type of relationship, and the frequency of interaction between the persons involved in the relationship.

The term "dating partner," in the case of a specific person, means a person who is or has been in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature with such specific person based on a consideration of- (A) the length of the relationship; (B) the type of the relationship; (C) the frequency of interaction between the persons involved in the relationship; and (D) the extent of physical intimacy or sexual contact between the persons involved in the relationship.") The relative weight given to each of the named criteria in making the "dating partner" determination may vary depending on the facts and circumstances presented.

The term "strangulation" means intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly impeding the normal breathing or circulation of the blood of a person by applying pressure to the throat or neck, regardless of whether that conduct results in any visible injury or whether there is any intent to kill or protractedly injure the victim.

Recommendations for Changes to the Form of both Specifications of the Charge:

The government asked the PHO to comment on the use of "intimate partner" or "dating partner" in this case. The definition of "intimate partner" in the statute appears to be a broader term than "dating partner". All "dating partners" could qualify as "intimate partners" but not all "intimate partners" are necessarily "dating partners" (e.g., cohabitant or ex-spouse could qualify as "intimate" but not "dating").

Given the brevity of the relationship (less than 2 months), the safer classification is "dating partner." The shorter the relationship, and the less frequent interaction or intimacy, the more likely a factfinder would treat it as a "dating partner" rather than elevate her to the "intimate partner" category (unless there is other evidence of closeness, exclusivity, shared finances, joint plans, etc.). If the relationship had frequent contact, emotional dependence, planning for future, exclusivity even in two months, "intimate partner" would be appropriate via the residual social relationship clause. Using the term "dating partner" is a better and more defensible position having only reviewed the description of the relationship in Government Exhibits 21 and 22 (Statement of CSSN S.R.). I recommend amending the Specifications and using the term "dating partner".

Summary of Evidence and Determination of Probable Cause:

On 11 April 2025, the Accused was with CSSN S.R. in his barracks room onboard Naval Station Norfolk. While there, the victim, who had been dating the Accused since the previous month, took a phone call from another woman while the Accused was asleep. The woman who called told CSSN S.R. that she was in a relationship with him. This was upsetting to CSSN S.R. because she believed she was in an exclusive relationship with the Accused. As a result, the victim began to go through the Accused's phone and when he discovered this, there was a confrontation. When the victim attempted to leave, he pushed her and began strangling her. He laughed after he strangled her.

In her interview with NCIS, she described how the Accused pushed her down and then he used both hands to strangle her for ten seconds. She said she could not breathe and was visibly upset in the video of the interview when asked to recall the incident. See GE 22a at 12:20.

I find probable cause for this specification, and it properly alleges an offense.

(10) Charge VI, Specification 2: Article 128b—Domestic Violence – Violent Offense

Elements:

(1) That the accused committed a violent offense, to wit: unlawfully pushing her with his hands; and
(2) That the violent offense was committed against CSSN S.R., who was an intimate partner of the accused.

Summary of Evidence: See description above for Specification 1 of Charge VI.

This specification alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J. and I find probable cause to support it. I recommend amending the Specification to reflect "dating partner" instead of "intimate partner. See discussion above for more details.

(11) Charge VII, Specifications 1 & 2: Article 107—False Official Statement

Elements:

(1) That the accused made to Special Agent Jessica Gokey, that is: (Specification 1: he returned CS3 A.R. to her barracks room; and Specification 2: he did not know where CS3 A.R. went after she left his barracks);
(2) That such statement was totally false;
(3) That the accused knew it to be false at the time he made it; and
(4) That the false statement was made with the intent to deceive.

Definitions:

"Intent to deceive" means to purposely mislead, to cheat, to trick another, or to cause another to believe as true that which is false.

A statement is official when the maker is either acting in the line of duty or the statement bears a clear and direct relationship to the maker's official military duties, or where the receiver is either a military member carrying out a military duty when the statement is made or a civilian necessarily performing a military function when the statement is made. The rank or status of the person intended to be deceived is immaterial if that person was authorized in the execution of a particular duty to require or receive the statement from the accused.

Summary of Evidence & Determination of Probable Cause:

Specification #1 (Returned CS3 A.R. to her barracks)

On 1 June 2025, NCIS Special Agent Jessica Gokey interviewed the Accused in the lounge area of his barracks to inquire into the whereabouts of CS3 A.R. The accused told her that he borrowed his roommate's vehicle and drove CS3 A.R. back to her barracks at approximately 1000. He said that this was the last time he saw her. See GE 38 at 2.

Geolocation data for the Accused's cell phone indicated that he never left his barracks during the period of 29 to 31 May. See GE 41 at 1. Additional geolocation and cell phone data detailed above show that he dumped the victim's body in a wooded area in the Broad Creek section of Norfolk on 2 June.

The Accused was interviewed again on 3 June 2025, at which time he told Special Agent Gokey that CS3 A.R. left in a Z-Trip (transportation service). See GE 51 at 2 and GE 52.b at 2:21.

> 02:21:04: Special Agent: Okay. So, what – so, she got in an Uber then, now?
> 02:21:10: CSSN Copeland: Yes.
> 02:21:11: Special Agent: Okay, do you know if it was an Uber or Z-Trip?
> 02:21:15: CSSN Copeland: Probably a Z-Trip. I mean obviously most Ubers you have to be like on base or base access.

I find probable cause for Specification 1 of Charge VII and have no recommendation for changing the form of the Specification.

Specification #2 (Didn't know the whereabouts of CS3 A.R. after she left his barracks)

Incorporating the facts above and adding that during the Accused's interview with NCIS Special Agent Gokey on 3 June, he told her that he didn't know where she was and had nothing to do with her disappearance. See GE 52b at 2:25:55 – 2:26:02.

> 02:25:55: Special Agent 2: You know that we're just trying to find [CS3 A.R.], right. So, do you know where she is?
> 02:25:59 CSSN Copeland: No, ma'am.
> 02:26:00 Special Agent 2: Did you have anything to do with her disappearance?
> 02:26:02 CSSN Copeland: No, ma'am

I find probable cause for Specification 2 of Charge VII.

Determination as to Whether this Specification Alleges an Offense: The two specifications of Charge VII allege offenses under the U.C.M.J.

Recommendations for Changes to the Form of Specification 2: While it was a false official statement to tell the Special Agent he did not know where CS3 A.R. went after she left his barracks, the government could capture the more aggravating and direct false official statement that he had nothing to do with her disappearance. By doing this, it would track the transcript more precisely. For example:

Specification 2 (False Official Statement): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did at or near Norfolk, Virginia, on or about 3 June 2025, with intent to deceive, make to Special Agent Jessica Gokey, Naval Criminal Investigative Service, an official statement, to wit: that he had nothing to do with the disappearance of CS3 A.R., U.S. Navy, ~~went after she left his barracks room on the morning of 29 May 2025 or words to that effect,~~ which statement was totally false, and was then known by the said CSSN Copeland to be so false.

(12) Charge VIII and its sole Specification: Article 118(1)—Premeditated Murder

Elements:

(1) That A.R. is dead;
(2) That her death resulted from the act of the accused;
(3) That the killing of A.R. by the accused was unlawful; and
(4) That, at the time of the killing, the accused had a premeditated design to kill.

Definition and Explanation:
A murder is not "premeditated" unless the thought of taking life was consciously conceived and the act or omission by which it was taken was intended. Premeditated murder is murder committed after the formation of a specific intent to kill someone and consideration of the act intended. It is not necessary that the intention to kill have been entertained for any particular or considerable length of time. When a fixed purpose to kill has been deliberately formed, it is immaterial how soon afterwards it is put into execution. The existence of premeditation may be inferred from the circumstances.

Lesser Included Offense:
Depending on the evidence presented at trial (e.g., the Accused testifies and introduces new evidence), the government and defense counsel could request that the military judge provide an instruction on the lesser included offense of premeditated murder—unpremeditated murder: Article 118(2) Intent to Kill or Inflict Great Bodily Harm. The first three elements remain the same and the fourth element reads: That, at the time of the killing, the accused had the intent to kill or inflict great bodily harm upon a person.

When the evidence indicates that the passion of the accused may have affected his capacity to premeditate, as in the case where there was a lapse of time between adequate provocation and the act, but the passion of the accused persists, the court may be instructed substantially as follows:

An issue has been raised by the evidence as to whether the accused acted in the heat of sudden "passion." "Passion" means a degree of rage, pain, or fear which prevents cool reflection. If sufficient cooling off time passes between the provocation and the time of the killing which would allow a reasonable person to regain self-control and refrain from killing, the provocation will not reduce murder to the lesser offense of voluntary manslaughter. However, you may consider evidence of the accused's passion in determining whether he possessed sufficient mental capacity to have "the premeditated design to kill." An accused cannot be found guilty of premeditated murder if, at the time of the killing, his mind was so confused by (anger) (rage) (pain) (sudden resentment) (fear) (or) (__) that he could not or did not premeditate. On the other hand, the fact that the accused's passion may have continued at the time of the killing does not necessarily demonstrate that he was deprived of the ability to premeditate or that he did not premeditate. Thus, if you are convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that sufficient cooling off time had passed between the provocation and the time of the killing which would allow a reasonable person to regain his/her self-control and refrain from killing, you must decide whether the accused in fact had the premeditated design to kill. If you are not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the accused killed with premeditation, you may still find him guilty of unpremeditated murder, if you are convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the death of CS3 A.R. was caused, without justification or excuse, by an (act) (failure to act) of the accused and (the accused intended to kill or inflict great bodily harm on the victim) (the act of the accused was inherently dangerous to others and showed a wanton disregard for human life).

Determination as to Whether this Specification Alleges an Offense: The sole specification of the charge alleges an offense under the U.C.M.J.

Recommendations for Changes to the Form of the Charge: I have no recommended changes to the form of the charge.

Summary of Evidence: The facts outlined in pages 6 and 7 of this report are incorporated herein as are the following additional facts.

AR John Calisse, a suitemate of the Accused reported hearing the Accused and an unknown female singing karaoke in the Accused's room around 0200 on the morning of 29 May. GE 36. He estimated that he left for work around 0530 on 29 May and at that time saw an unknown female laying naked in the middle of the common room floor with the Accused laying on her thigh. He said he believed the female to be breathing at the time he left. When he returned at 1700 they were not in the barracks room. At approximately 0630 on 2 June, he observed the Accused driving his jeep back into the barracks parking lot.

PSSN Gordillocruz is AR Calisse's roommate and the suitemate of the Accused. GE 34. He reported that he awoke on 29 May around 0620 and exited his room at 0645 with his roommate AR Calisse. He observed the Accused, who was naked, and a female laying on her back with her breasts exposed. He believed her chest was rising and falling. He had to maneuver around them to get to the front door. Around 1900 on 1 June he, Calisse, and the Accused went to get food at Chipotle and returned to the barracks. GE 36 at 2. The Accused asked Calisse if he could borrow his Jeep to get food, which Gordillocruz thought was strange since they had just eaten. GE 34.

YN3 Sean Monaghan was the Accused's roommate. He reported waking up on 29 May at around 0500 to get ready for work and noticed no one was in his room. GE 35. Around 0640 he walked into the common room and saw the Accused asleep on the floor of the living room in his underwear next to a female he did not recognize. When he returned at 1300 no one was in the room. He spoke to the Accused about the female and asked if they had been naked. The Accused responded and said they had been in their underwear.

FCC Parker went to the Accused's room on the morning of 29 May after receiving GroupMe messages that people were looking for CS3 A.R. The Accused answered the door as if he had just woken up and informed the Chief he was not alone by confirming that CS3 A.R. was also there. Chief Parker, who had been CS3 A.R.'s Chief for the last two months and interacted with her approximately four times a week, recognized her in bed. GE 37. He believed that she looked up, dismissively waved, rolled over and went back to sleep. He remembered seeing her wrapped in a blanket with only her feet exposed. At 0855 he sent a text message to LSC Janson to confirm that the Accused and CS3 A.R. were in the Accused's room. He asked the Accused if CS3 A.R. was in any imminent danger, and the Accused said, "I don't think so" and explained how she was having problems with her boyfriend in Texas and that they had been watching movies. FCC Parker told the Accused to return her to her barracks and get to work. At 1148 FCC Parker texted LSC Janson, "[CS3 A.R.] was awake long enough to tell me she was "okay" and went back to bed." At 1251 he sent another message, "I just talked to Copeland. He just dropped [CS3 A.R.] back at her place."

Despite Chief Parker's insistence that the Accused report to work, the Accused did not go to work on 29 May. Geolocation data from the Accused's phone reflects that he did not leave the barracks for four days from the period of 31 May through 1 June. On 1 June the Accused was interviewed by NCIS about the disappearance of CS3 A.R. Later that evening, the Accused sent a text message to CS3 A.R.'s phone asking her if she was okay and indicated that they had both been marked in an unauthorized status. GE 25d at 6.

The Accused's roommate's command scheduled a room inspection for the morning of 2 June, and at 0345 that morning, the Accused's iWatch detected him moving 330 steps across two floors. GE 44b.

Discussion and Determination as to Probable Cause:

There are some complicated facts for the government to navigate, but they have a strong case, and I find probable cause for this charge. There are several witnesses (Monaghan, Calisse, and Gordillocruz), who saw CS3 A.R. at approximately 0645 lying on the living room floor with the Accused lying on her thigh. Two of them believe they saw her breathing. Chief Parker arrived at the room two hours later although at this time, CS3 A.R. was now located in the Accused's bed. He believed he saw her wave at him dismissively and texted another Chief that she had said she was "okay". The panicked phone call to ET3 Rich combined with the iWatch data and the multitude of steps the Accused took to cover up his crime should be enough to overcome the complicated facts referenced here.

The government's theory of the case for premeditated murder—which is supported by the evidence—is that the Accused attempted to engage in sexual activity with CS3 A.R. He told CS2 Taylor that they had been drinking and began making out and that CS3 A.R. wanted to take it further, but that he stopped it. GE 53. CS3 A.R.'s ex-boyfriend ET3 Rich described how attempts at sexual activity could cause a severe reaction by CS3 A.R. It seems plausible this happened when considering the Accused's claim he had been making out with and the panicked call she made at 0214 to ET3 Rich repeatedly asking him to pick her up. Defense counsel argued that there was nothing to suggest that she was under duress, scared for her life, or that she had been threatened by the Accused because she said nothing to ET3 Rich about a sexual assault or about being frightened or threatened by the Accused. See PHE 4. That argument is not convincing for two reasons. First, the Accused was with her when she made the call, so if she was terrified of him, it is unlikely she would have articulated that in front of him to ET3 Rich. Second, the tone of her voice was alarming enough to ET3 Rich that he immediately went looking for her in the middle of the night, coordinating his effort with another one of her ex-boyfriends, and multiple Master-at-Arms. Clearly, the panic and tone of her call without the substance of what had caused her to make it was sufficient to initiate a concerted effort to find her in the middle of the night.

The government cites a couple of cases that outline a variety of factors that can be considered when determining premeditation, including precautions made to avoid detection. The government cites the following evidence to support consciousness of guilt and the kind of precautions and actions taken by the Accused to avoid detection: (1) the number of lies the Accused told (e.g., to Chief Parker that A.R. did not have her phone[1] and that he walked her home; to NCIS that he had taken her home; a subsequent version to NCIS that she took a Z-Trip ride service home; and that he had nothing to do with her disappearance); (2) his efforts to conceal her body (that he kept her body in a duffle bag for four days and that he searched for a "Parks" and "Trails" in Norfolk where he could dispose of her body); (3) his decision to avoid work and stay in his barracks for four days (arguably to work out how he would dispose of her body and to keep guard to ensure people would not find her); and (4) sending CS3 A.R.'s phone a text message at 7:01 p.m. on 1 June asking her if she was okay (assuming the NCIS interview on 1 June was prior to 7:01 p.m., he did this to throw law enforcement off from suspecting him). Additionally, the PHO would note that (5) his use of "Airplane" mode on his iPhone on 2 June, while unsuccessful, is yet another example of his attempt to avoid detection. See GE 44d and 44f. Finally, while it does not go to concealment, it is relevant that friends of the Accused noticed behavioral changes in him. Following the murder of CS3 A.R., ABHAA Deondre Williams noted the Accused's increased interest to hang out together. See GE 45. The Accused's roommate, YN3 Monaghan remembered the Accused looked skittish on the morning of 2 June and was startled when YN3 Monaghan opened the door to their room. GE 35.

The health data of the Accused's iWatch supports the government's theory of premeditated murder. Two minutes after creating a note on his iPhone with ingredients for preparing beef tacos his heart rate was 61 beats per minute (bpm). Ten minutes later at 0158 his heart rate more than doubled to 128 bmp. It stayed elevated above 120 bpm for the next thirty minutes (including during the call to ET3 Rich at 0214 and for 16 minutes thereafter). It declined to a normal level for the next 30 minutes with 67 bmp recorded at 0302, but five minutes later his heart rate spiked at 130 bmp. Thirty minutes is a considerable time to have such an elevated heart rate. It suggests that the murder was not a sudden impulsive act or an accidental moment, but something that been deliberately executed. While what happened during this hour will be debated at trial, the instruction for premeditated murder is important to remember: "When a fixed purpose to kill has been deliberately formed, it is immaterial how soon afterwards it is put into execution. The existence of premeditation may be inferred from the circumstances." Emphasis added. The government pointed out that the Accused had a significant reaction to the second sexual assault allegation—that he considered killing himself. They argue that a third sexual assault allegation put him over the top and that he made the decision to eliminate the possibility of that threat by killing CS3 A.R. The fact that he could have made that decision in the minutes or seconds it took him to kill CS3 A.R. is "immaterial" to negate premeditated murder.

[1] The Government convincingly argues that because CS3 A.R.'s phone's last cell tower contact was made at 0456, she was already dead at the time Chief Parker came to check on the Accused and saw her. If she was alive in the morning when Chief Parker arrived and waved at him as he thought he may have seen, it is reasonable that she would have checked her phone. If it was not operating, she would have plugged it back in. It would have been unusual for her to recognize a Chief from her command, blow him off when he told them they needed to go to work, and simply rolled over and gone back to sleep.

The evidence for premeditated murder is made even stronger if the government is successful in admitting intrinsic evidence or evidence permitted under Military Rule of Evidence (M.R.E.) 404(b)(2) (motive, opportunity, intent, preparation, plan, knowledge, absence of mistake, or lack of accident) and M.R.E. 413 (Similar Crimes in Sexual Offense Cases)–namely his history of strangling women and history of sexual assault.

405(l) Matters

Trial and Defense Counsel submitted 405(l) matters in a timely manner. See PHE 4 and 5. Defense Counsel requested that I provide comments on the reasonable likelihood of success at trial if the offenses related to CS3 A.R.'s death were severed from the charges involving the other four victims. The Defense has good reason to raise this issue before the Court: Does severing the murder-related counts (Chage VI, Specifications 2 and 3, Charge VII, and Charge VIII) become necessary to avoid unfair prejudice that cannot be effectively handled by instructions or other safeguards?

The R.C.M. explicitly contemplates severance of capital versus non-capital counts: "In a capital case (i.e., death-eligible), if the joinder of unrelated non-capital offenses appears to prejudice the accused, the military judge may sever the non-capital offenses from the capital." R.C.M. 906(b)(10)(B)). Here, however, the government explicitly stated its desire to pursue a sentence of life in prison without the possibility of parole. Further, as required by R.C.M. 601(e)(2), if the government intended to pursue this as a Capital case, they would need to indicate such on the charge sheet.[2]

The military justice system explicitly favors joinder of all known offenses[3] in a single trial. R.C.M. 601(e)(2). The factors considered by appellate courts in reviewing denials of severance motions include: (1) whether evidence of one offense would be admissible in the trial of the other offense, (2) whether the military judge gave a limiting instruction to keep the evidence of the offenses separate from impermissible "spillover"; and (3) whether the findings reflect an impermissible cross-over (i.e., the verdicts on one offense improperly rely on evidence that should have been limited to another). United States v. Southworth, 50 M.J. 74 (C.A.A.F. 1999). There is a "general policy in the military favoring trial of all known charges at a single court-martial." Southworth, at 76. Courts recognize that properly tailored members' instructions will considerably reduce the danger of prejudice. United States v. Duncan, 53 M.J. 494, 498 (C.A.A.F. 2000); United States v. Haye, 29 M.J. 213, 215 (C.M.A. 1989); United States v. Hogan, 20 M.J. 71, 73 (C.M.A. 1985).

[2] But note in the Discussion section of the Rule: "The failure to include a special instruction that a case is to be tried as a capital case at the time of the referral does not bar the referral authority from later adding the required special instruction provided that the referral authority has otherwise complied with the applicable notice requirements."

[3] "In the discretion of the referral authority, two or more offenses charged against an accused may be referred to the same court-martial for trial, whether serious or minor offenses or both, regardless of whether the offenses are connected."

The trial court has wide discretion in determining whether to sever offenses. An abuse of discretion will be found only "where the defendant is able to show that the denial of a severance caused him actual prejudice in that it prevented him from receiving a fair trial; it is not enough that separate trials may have provided him with a better opportunity for an acquittal." Duncan at 497-8 (citations omitted). Additionally, "unified sentencing by a court-martial favors joining all known offenses into a single trial, thus exposing the accused to only one sentence for his criminal misconduct, rather than a series of separate sentences." United States v. Giles, 59 M.J. 374, 379, citing Haye at 215.

The Government will argue that in a complex, multi-victim sexual assault or violent misconduct case such as this, there is overlapping evidence, like the behavioral patterns and modus operandi of the Accused (strangling and sexual assault combined with violent acts). The government would argue that some of the evidence in the non-murder charges are cross-admissible under a "common scheme, plan, or pattern" theory, or that the evidence is intrinsic to proving the charges. However, the Defense will argue that the murder evidence would "taint" the non-murder charges, especially by introducing gruesome photos to prove death that would not normally be admissible in a sexual assault trial. The defense could argue that the emotional weight of the murder case will sway the members unfairly on the others, even subconsciously. But, the Defense must show actual prejudice for severance, not just that separate trials might increase the chance of acquittal.

Even if some spillover risk exists, the military judge will be able to mitigate it by voir dire (e.g., probing whether members can compartmentalize and resist emotional influence from murder evidence to other non-murder charges) and through instructions (that could be given before openings, during the trial, and after closings) that members consider each specification separately and not to use evidence from one to infer guilt on another. Courts often assume members follow instructions, unless the record shows otherwise. The military judge could also segment the trial – that is ordering that the government present evidence by victim or grouping so that the jury is not inundated with overlap.

Given the facts of this case, it is my opinion that it will be highly unlikely for a military judge to sever the charges related to the murder from the others as there is a strong institutional and doctrinal preference for joinder. The Defense could however request that there be a partial severance—that is severing the murder counts into a separate phase of the trial.

1. Pursuant to references (a) and (b), you are hereby appointed as the Preliminary Hearing Officer (PHO) to conduct a preliminary hearing into all matters set forth in the charges and specifications preferred against CSSN Jermiah Copeland, U.S. Navy, on 22 August 2025, as set forth in enclosure (1). Your investigation shall be conducted in accordance with the relevant provisions of the 2024 Manual for Courts-Martial, references (a) through (c), and current case law relating to preliminary hearings.

2. The following additional personnel are detailed to the preliminary hearing for the purpose indicated:

Counsel for the Government

CDR Lauren Mayo, JAGC, USN, and LT Christopher Dempsey, JAGC, USN, are certified under Article 27(b), UCMJ and previously sworn under Article 42(a), UCMJ.

Defense Counsel

LCDR Amanda Serfess, JAGC, USN and LCDR Clifton Morgan, JAGC, USN, are certified under Article 27(b), UCMJ and previously sworn under Article 42(a), UCMJ.

3. The preliminary hearing shall be held on 18 September 2025. Authority to grant no more than two (2) continuances for a total of 30 days is delegated to the PHO pursuant to reference (c). Any additional delay must be approved by the convening authority. Requests for delay shall be submitted to you in writing, via the counsel for the government, for approval or disapproval. Pursuant to reference (c), you are also authorized to make a finding of excludable delay for any requests for delay; this finding must be in writing and included in your report. All requests for delay, regardless of decision, shall be included in your final report.

4. All requests by defense counsel for production of witnesses or evidence shall be submitted to you, via the counsel for the government, at least seven calendar days prior to the start of the hearing. The counsel for the government shall provide you a response to the defense's request at least three calendar days prior to the start of the hearing. All witness and evidence production requests shall contain sufficient information to meet the production of witness requirements contained in reference (b).

5. As provided in references (a) and (b), the purpose and scope of the preliminary hearing is limited to the following:

a. Determination as to whether there is probable cause, an offense has been committed, and the accused committed the offense;

b. Determination as to whether the convening authority has jurisdiction over the offense and the accused;

c. Consideration of the form of the charges; and,

d. Recommendation as to the disposition of the case.

The preliminary hearing is not meant as a means of discovery for any party, and all evidence presented must be relevant to the purpose of the hearing.

6. As provided in references (a) and (d), the victim has a right to be informed of the date, time, and location of the hearing, to refuse to testify, and to confer with the counsel for the government. The victim also has a right not to be excluded from the hearing unless you receive clear and convincing evidence that the victim's testimony would be materially altered if the victim heard other testimony at the hearing. Pursuant to references (a) and (e) through (g), any party intending to introduce evidence in accordance with references (e) through (g) must provide notice at least five days prior to the preliminary hearing. This notice and any relevant filings must be provided to the victim's legal counsel, if represented, and the victim has a right to be heard on these matters. You must close the courtroom for any hearings upon reference (e) and you may close the courtroom for any hearings pursuant to references (f) and (g) upon motion of any party and good cause shown. You are specifically directed to seal any exhibits or testimony received pursuant to references (e) through (g).

7. I authorize the use of audio-visual technology between you and the parties, in accordance with R.C.M. 405(k)(4) and section 0132 of JAGINST 5800.7G, CH-2. The prescribed uniform is Service Uniform.

8. You are directed to provide a report of the preliminary hearing to the detailed special trial counsel as soon as possible after the conclusion of the investigation, but no later than 10 calendar days after the conclusion of the investigation. Any request for delay in submitting the report shall be submitted to the convening authority in writing.

(2) Email from Brig OIC of 28 Aug 25

1. Pursuant to references (a) through (c), defense counsel seeks a two-hour delay of the Article 32 hearing in the case of United States v. CSSN Jeremiah Copeland so that defense counsel can confer with CSSN Copeland privately in person.

2. On 22 August 2025, charges were preferred against CSSN Copeland. As of this filing, the government has not provided the defense any discovery.

3. On 26 August 2025, after many attempts to resolve the issue outside of the court room, the defense filed the motion and enclosures in enclosure (1). The military judge scheduled a hearing for 15 September 2025.

4. To properly prepare for an Article 32 hearing, the defense requires discovery and the ability to consult with CSSN Copeland.

5. The defense requests a two-hour delay in the start time of the Article 32 proceeding in order to allow the government time to get CSSN Copeland to building A-50 to consult with his attorneys prior to the hearing.

6. For the reasons stated above, the defense requests a two-hour delay of the Article 32 preliminary hearing.

7. The defense reserves the right to ask for further continuances depending on when/if the defense receives discovery.

8. The defense reserves the right to waive the Article 32 hearing.

MOTION

Pursuant to Article 30a and Rule for Courts-Martial (R.C.M.) 309(b)(6), the defense moves this Court to order the government to permit the defense to meet with CSSN Copeland, in private, in order to prepare for trial – including the Article 32 preliminary hearing – or order the release of CSSN Jermiah Copeland from pretrial confinement.

SUMMARY

On 9 June 2025, CSSN Copeland was ordered into pretrial confinement. On 16 June 2025, a 7-day reviewing officer held a hearing and approved continued confinement. That same day, the defense began requesting to confer privately with CSSN Copeland. The trial counsel, the brig, and CSSN Copeland's commanding officer denied those requests. Pursuant to Article 30a and R.C.M. 309, this Court can review the pretrial confinement of an accused prior to referral. The defense requests that this Court review CSSN Copeland's confinement and find that it interferes with his right to counsel – namely his right to confer privately with his attorneys – and order that the defense be permitted to meet with CSSN Copeland privately in the same room to have confidential meetings in preparation for trial at least once every two weeks. These meetings can be at the brig, in building A-50, or at another location in Hampton Roads, Virginia. Alternatively, this Court should order the release of CSSN Copeland from pretrial confinement.

BURDEN

As the moving party, the defense bears the burden to prove facts necessary to resolve the motion by a preponderance of evidence. R.C.M. 905(c).

Enclosure (1)

FACTS

1. On 9 June 2025, CSSN Copeland was ordered into confinement. (Enclosure (1): Confinement Order of 9 Jun 25).

2. CSSN Copeland is confined at the Naval Consolidated Brig Charleston (NCBC) Detachment Chesapeake. He is classified as a maximum status prisoner. This means, he is in his cell alone for at least 22 hours per day. At least one military judge has ruled that this type of confinement is illegal pretrial punishment. (Enclosure (2): Ruling from U.S. v. DC3 Reimonenq of 14 Mar 25).

3. On 16 June 2025, an Initial Review Officer (IRO) hearing was held at the NCBC, where the defense team met with CSSN Copeland for the first time. That same day, a 7-day reviewing officer approved continued confinement. (Enclosure (3): IRO Memo of 17 Jun 25).

4. Based on CSSN Copeland's status, his defense team cannot have a contact visit with him at the brig. The brig will only allow the defense team to meet with him behind glass. This room makes it difficult, if not impossible, for the attorneys to hear our client and makes it difficult for CSSN Copeland to hear his attorneys. Additionally, communications from outside this room can be heard while inside, which means communications within the room can also be heard. Further, there is no means to review discovery with CSSN Copeland in this room as there are only tiny slots to pass a few sheets of folder paper and no way for CSSN Copeland to review a video or electronic evidence. (Enclosure (4): Complaint Pursuant to Article 138 of 13 Aug 25 w/encls at 16; Enclosure (5): Mrs. Hoffmeister Affidavit).

5. On 16 June 2025, the defense demanded a speedy trial and requested that CSSN Copeland be brought to building A-50 to meet with his defense counsel. (Enclosure (4): Complaint Pursuant to Article 138 of 13 Aug 25 w/encls at 10; Enclosure (6): Demand for Speedy Trial of 16 Jun 25).

6. On 24 June 2025, after the defense followed up on our initial request, the trial counsel responded to inquire as to why the defense wanted to meet with our client in-person. The defense responded and explained. The same day, the Staff Judge Advocate for the USS JAMES E. WILLIAM's ISIC stated that the command was standing by to assist. However, on 30 June 2025, the trial counsel stated that "the government would not be able to support…." The defense asked the trial counsel for justification as to why the government would not support our request. However, the trial counsel never responded. (Enclosure (4): Complaint Pursuant to Article 138 of 13 Aug 25 w/encls at 4-6).

7. Despite the trial counsel not responding to the defense's request for justification, on 1 July 2025, the trial counsel submitted a request for excludable delay from 10 June 2025 to 25 July 2025. (Enclosure (7): Excludable Delay Request of 1 Jul 25). That same day, the defense objected to that request. (Enclosure (8): Defense Objection to Excludable Delay of 1 Jul 25).

8. On 9 July 2025, the convening authority granted the government request for excludable delay until 25 July 2025. (Enclosure (9): Grant of Excludable Delay ltr of 9 Jul 25).

9. On 25 July 2025, CSSN Copeland again demanded a speedy trial. (Enclosure (10): Second Demand for Speedy Trial of 25 Jul 25). The Office of Special Trial Counsel neither acknowledged nor responded to this request.

10. On 30 July 2025, the defense requested discovery citing Rules 3.4 and 3.8 of the JAG Corps Rules for Professional Responsibility because the defense requires and is entitled to fairness and equal access to discovery. Further, the defense explained that discovery would reduce the risk of prejudicial speedy trial issues if charges were ever preferred in this case. The trial counsel neither acknowledged nor responded to this request. (Enclosure (11): Defense's Initial Discovery Request of 30 Jul 25).

11. Instead, on 8 August 2025, the trial counsel once again requested excludable delay. (Enclosure (12): Second Excludable Delay Request of 8 Aug 25).

12. On 29 July 2025, CSSN Copeland through counsel submitted a formal request for redress to the Commanding Officer, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS to meet with his attorneys in a private, confidential in-person setting. (Enclosure (4): Complaint Pursuant to Article 138 of 13 Aug 25 w/encls at 13).

13. On 7 August 2025, the USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS denied CSSN Copeland's request and later refused to provide any reasoning. (Id. at 21).

14. On 11 August 2025, the defense objected to the second request for excludable delay. (Enclosure (13): Defense Objection to Second Excludable Delay of 11 Aug 25). As of this filing, the convening authority has not responded to the trial counsel's request.

15. On 13 August 2025, CSSN Copeland filed a complaint pursuant to Article 138, UCMJ. (Enclosure (4): Complaint Pursuant to Article 138 of 13 Aug 25).

16. As of this filing, no response has been issued to CSSN Copeland.

17. On 21 August 2025, NCIS was permitted to meet with CSSN Copeland at the brig and have a contact visit. The special agents were allowed to be in a room with CSSN Copeland. Touch him and take a buccal swap, get his fingerprints, and take his photograph. (Proffered testimony from SA Fritzer Philemon).

18. On 22 August 2025, the government preferred charges in this case. On that same day, the defense reached out about scheduling the Article 32 hearing and meeting with our client in preparation for the hearing. (Enclosure (14): Emails with the trial counsel of 22 Aug 25).

19. As of this filing, the defense has not been able to coordinate a means to have a private in-person meeting with CSSN Copeland.

LAW

20. "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right . . . to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defense."[1] Necessarily included in the Sixth Amendment right to counsel is the right of an accused to confer privately with his attorney.[2]

21. The accused has the right to be represented by counsel during an investigation under Article 32, UCMJ, and before a general or special court-martial.[3] In the military justice system, the right to counsel includes the right to counsel detailed under Article 27, UCMJ. The right to the services of detailed counsel "is substantial, and extends to both the pretrial and the trial proceedings."[4]

22. "The right to be heard would be, in many cases, of little avail if it did not comprehend the right to be heard by counsel…. [A defendant] is unfamiliar with the rules of evidence…. He lacks both the skill and knowledge adequately to prepare his defense, even though he [may] have a perfect one. He requires the guiding hand of counsel at every step in the proceedings against him."[5] Courts have concluded that an order preventing a defendant from consulting his attorney even during an overnight recess infringes upon this substantial right.[6]

23. "A concomitant right is the right to confidential communications between the attorney and client."[7] M.R.E. 502(a) requires confidential communications "for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of professional legal services to the client."

24. Article 30a of the UCMJ states that "the President shall prescribe regulations for matters relating to proceedings conducted before referral of charges and specifications to court-martial for trial, including the following: … Pre-trial confinement of an accused…."

25. Article 30a was revised to include review of the pretrial confinement of the accused under a provision called "Expansion of pre-referral matters reviewable by military judges and military magistrates in the interest of efficiency in military justice."[8]

26. "A military judge detailed under regulations of the Secretary concerned may conduct proceedings under Article 30a, before referral of charges and specifications to court-martial for trial, and may issue such rulings and orders as necessary to further the purpose of the proceedings. A military judge may issue such orders and rulings only when the matters would be subject to consideration by a military judge in a general or special court-martial."[9]

27. After action by the 7-day reviewing officer under R.C.M. 305(j)(2)(C), a military judge may, upon application of an accused for appropriate relief, review the propriety of pretrial confinement.[10]

28. "Pretrial confinement is physical restraint, imposed by order of competent authority, depriving a person of freedom pending disposition of offenses."[11] It is "not punishment and shall not be used as such."[12] Moreover, "[a] person should not be confined as a mere matter of convenience or expedience."[13] In fact, "[p]retrial confinement inevitably makes defense of a case more difficult," so "unless there is a need for it, pretrial confinement should be avoided."[14]

29. An accused is presumed innocent until proved guilty, and, therefore, punishment for an alleged offense is prohibited before trial.[15]

30. The Department of the Navy Corrections Manual (SECNAV M-1640.1 of May 2019) permits military judges to make exceptions to brig policies. This includes allowing a confinee in any status (including "MAX" and "MDI") to meet without escorts or restraints.[16]

ARGUMENT

31. This Court has the authority to detail a military judge to this proceeding to review the pretrial confinement of the accused. R.C.M. 309 states that a military judge may conduct proceedings pursuant to Article 30a, before referral of charges. R.C.M. 309(a)(6) states that after action by a 7-day reviewing officer, a military judge may review the propriety of pretrial confinement. Propriety means "the quality or state of being proper or suitable."[17] Here, there was action by the 7-day reviewing officer. Therefore, this court may review the quality of CSSN Copeland's confinement and issue remedies "as necessary to further the purpose of the proceedings."[18]

[18] R.C.M. 309(a)(1).

32. Further, it is clear that the expansion of Article 30(a) to ruling on matters relating to the pretrial confinement of the accused was intended to increase "efficiency in military justice." That is evident from the title of the section of the NDAA that included the expansion. Ordering the government to stop interfering with CSSN Copeland's rights to counsel at the prereferral stage will increase efficiency and prevent speedy trial issues and other litigation in the future. This Court should hear this application pursuant to Article 30a, as it is a proper review of the propriety of CSSN Copeland's pretrial confinement.

33. A review of CSSN Copeland's pretrial confinement demonstrates that his pretrial status is interfering with his rights to counsel. CSSN Copeland has the right to counsel, included in that right is the right to meet and confer privately with counsel. CSSN Copeland has been unable to confer privately with his attorneys despite numerous requests.

34. The defense and CSSN Copeland have repeatedly requested to be able to meet in-person privately and have a confidential meeting. The brig will only permit the defense a "no-contact" visit. This occurs in a room where defense counsel would have to shout and CSSN Copeland would have to shout back through a Plexiglass window. This is unacceptable considering conversations from outside the door can be heard within the room. That is neither private nor in-person. Even according to the Navy's correctional manual "MAX" and "MDI" prisoners must be escorted at all times; however, a military judge may order exceptions.[19] Additionally, CSSN Copeland's command could escort him to another secure location outside of the brig to allow him to meet with counsel. However, the government continues to deny the defense's reasonable requests to facilitate a private, confidential meeting with our client. Further, despite these restrictions put in place to keep CSSN Copeland from meeting with his counsel, NCIS has been permitted to be in the same room with him and have contact visits. Finally, no brig policy or instruction can interfere with CSSN Copeland's rights to counsel – or his right to confer privately with his attorneys.

35. While the phone does allow communication with the client that the defense presumes are confidential, it is not sufficient to prepare for trial or pretrial hearings, now or on a consistent basis. For instance, the defense cannot review discovery with the client over the phone. Further, if CSSN Copeland desires to testify in his own defense, whether at the preliminary hearing, an Article 39(a), or at trial, his defense counsel could not properly prepare him for that decision or the hearing over the phone.

36. This Court must review CSSN Copeland's confinement and find that it interferes with his right to counsel – namely his right to confer privately with his attorneys – and order that the defense be permitted to meet with CSSN Copeland privately in the same room for a confidential meeting in preparation for trial at least once every two weeks. These meetings can be at the brig, in building A-50, or another location in Hampton Roads, Virginia.

RELIEF REQUESTED

Pursuant to Article 30a and R.C.M. 309(b)(6), the defense moves this Court to order the government to permit the defense to privately meet with CSSN Copeland in-person in order to prepare for trial, including the Article 32 preliminary hearing, or order the release of CSSN Jermiah Copeland from pretrial confinement. If the government cannot facilitate CSSN Copeland's right to confer with counsel while he is in pretrial confinement, this Court should order CSSN Copeland's release.

EVIDENCE & HEARING

| UNITED STATESv.DC3 RUDOLPH P. REIMONENQ IV,U.S. Coast Guard | RULING on Defense Motion for Appropriate Relief (Confinement Credit)14 March 2025 |

1. Relief Sought

The Defense filed a motion for administrative credit for various alleged violations of Article 13, UCMJ. AE 46. The Government filed a response opposing the Defense motion. AE 48. An Article 39(a) session was held to hear arguments on this motion on 28 January 2025.

2. Issues Presented

a. Did the Government violate Article 13, UCMJ, when it placed and kept the accused as a maximum-security prisoner, and, if so, what administrative credit is the accused entitled to, if any?

b. Did the Government violate Article 13, UCMJ, when it kept the accused shackled during his Article 32, UCMJ, preliminary hearing, and, if so, what administrative credit is the accused entitled to, if any?

c. Did the Government violate Article 13, UCMJ, when it failed to provide the accused a Coast Guard uniform for his Article 32, UCMJ, preliminary hearing, and, if so, what administrative credit is the accused entitled to, if any?

3. Findings of Fact

In reaching its findings of fact and conclusions of law, the Court considered all legal and competent evidence presented and the reasonable inferences drawn therefrom and resolved all issues of credibility. The Court finds the following facts by a preponderance of the evidence.

a. Procedural History

(1) DC3 Rudolph Reimonenq, USCG, is accused of attempted premeditated murder, two specifications of carrying a concealed weapon, and one specification of dereliction of duty. The charges and specifications arise from an incident when the Accused brought a rifle, revolver and ammunition with him when he reported to duty aboard the United States Coast Guard Cutter (USCGC) LEGARE in the early morning hours of 26 March 2024. The accused later admitted to CGIS that he intended to kill the Commanding Officer of the Legare.

(2) The accused was ordered into Pre-Trial Confinement (PTC) at NCBC DET Chesapeake on 28 March 2024. He has remained in PTC since that time.

b. NCBC DET Chesapeake

(1) The Naval Consolidated brig in Chesapeake, Virginia, is a brig detachment under the supervision of NCBC (NCBC), South Carolina. NCBC DET Chesapeake does not have an independent Commanding Officer (CO). Instead, it has an Officer-in-Charge (OIC) that is subordinate to the Commanding Officer of NCBC.

(2) CDR IM is the OIC for NCBC DET Chesapeake. He reports to CDR JB as the CO for NCBC.

(3) CDR IM testified that on 28 January 2025 there were 14 prisoners housed at NCBC DET Chesapeake, which is a typical number for that facility.

(4) CDR IM's career has been as a Navy helicopter pilot. His current assignment is the first in the Military corrections field. In addition to a generic leadership course offered to all entering a command position, CDR IM also attended a Brig Officer Management course, which was either 4 or 5 days.

(5) Similarly, CDR JB's background has not been in military corrections, instead he entered his current position after a career as a Surface Warfare Officer.

(6) Both NCBC and NCBC DET Chesapeake have civilian corrections professionals to advise the command on corrections matters and corrections policy. Ms. RR is the Technical Director for NCBC, and Mr. PM is the Program and Service Department Head at NCBC DET Chesapeake. He also serves as the Facilities Manager and the Safety Manager.

c. Prisoner custody classification

(1) Medium-In (MDI)

(a) MDI is the lowest level of classification for a pre-trial confinee.

(b) Generally, an MDI prisoner is in their cell overnight from 2130 until 0530. Once they wake up, an MDI prisoner exits their cell and remains outside of it until they go back in at 2130.

(c) An MDI prisoner is not required to wear restraints while moving within the brig, and there are generally no restrictions on their interactions with other prisoners.

(d) An MDI prisoner will work in assigned work details from after breakfast until approximately 1530.

(e) After 1530, MDI prisoners get to participate in rec call, where they can work out or play sports with other prisoners.

(f) After dinner (generally around 1700), prisoners can enjoy personal time until they must return to their cells at 2130. During personal time MDI prisoners can be outside of their cells in their housing unit, watch TV, make phone calls, or talk with other prisoners.

(g) MDI prisoners are permitted to have contact visits with family and counsel.

(2) Maximum (MAX)

(a) MAX prisoners are confined to their cells for up to 22 hours a day. They are permitted one hour of recreation, and one hour of personal time. Both recreation time and personal time are performed alone without any other interaction with other prisoners.[1]

(b) MAX prisoners are not permitted to make contact with anyone other than the brig staff. Brig staff must physically observe a MAX prisoner every 15 minutes and record their observations on a DD 509 form.

(c) MAX prisoners eat all of their meals in their cell.

(d) MAX prisoners are fully restrained (hand irons, leg irons, and transport belt) and escorted by two brig staff members when outside of their housing unit – even within the brig's fenceline. They are not required to wear restraints during their recreational or personal time; however, they must be restrained and escorted to the recreation yard.

(e) Only a military judge or the brig OIC can order a MAX prisoner's restraints removed.[2]

(f) MAX prisoners may not have any contact visits with either family or counsel, which means a MAX prisoner must be separated from their

[1] CDR IM testified that MAX prisoners were permitted additional personal time if there were sufficient staff resources to support it.
[2] MAX prisoners may move unrestrained in emergency situations.

visitor by some form of partition.

(3) Classification & Adjustment (C&A) Board

(a) Each brig is required to have a C&A Board which must meet daily (excluding weekends and holidays). The board evaluates the classification status for each prisoner, generally once every 30 days or at the prisoner's request, using objective criteria:

| 5. CLASSIFICATION CRITERIA (Enter point values) |

(b) After adding up the points assigned to the objective criteria, the C&A board can recommend reduction in classification (for 0-6 points), remain the same (7-10 points), or increase the classification (11 or more points).

(c) There are also subjective criteria which the board can use to override the recommendation generated by the objective criteria. To override a reduction in classification, the board may consider the following:

i. Assaultive behavior;

ii. Disruptive behavior;

iii. Serious drug abuse;

iv. Serious civil or military criminal record (convicted or alleged);

v. Low tolerance of frustration;

vi. Intensive acting out or dislike of the military;

vii. History of previous escape(s);

viii. Pending civil charges or detainers filed;

ix. Serving a sentence that the individual considers unjust or severe;

x. Poor home conditions or family relationships;

xi. Emotional or mental instability;

xii. Indication of unwillingness to accept responsibility for personal actions, past and present;

xiii. Demonstrated pattern of poor judgment;

xiv. Length, or potential length, of sentence;

xv. Gang affiliation or ties with disruptive organizations;

xvi. Awaiting transfer;

xvii. A sentence length exceeding the designated length of confinement authorized at the MCF; and xviii. Refusal to accept or participate in recommended treatment or education programs.[3]

(d) To override an increase in classification, the board may consider the following:

i. Clear military record, aside from present offense;

ii. Close family ties - good home conditions;

iii. The offense(s) charged is not serious;

iv. Emotional and mental stability;

v. Comparatively short sentence to confinement; however, length of sentence will not be a sole overriding factor;

vi. Behavior during confinement, and

vii. Successful completion of, or active participation in, offense-related treatment programs or groups.

(e) Finally, the facility commander may override the C&A board's recommendation using the same criteria.

d. Navy & NCBC policies

(1) Navy Corrections policy

(a) Section 4202 of SECNAVINST M1640.1 addresses classification criteria. It notes that "Ultra-conservative custody classification results in a waste of prisoner and staff manpower. … Classification systems must follow established, but flexible, procedures." It also states that "Prisoners will be placed in a lower custody classification as soon as practical and as warranted."

[3] Pre-Trial Confinees are generally ineligible to participate in treatment programs.

(2) NCBC policy

(a) NCBC has a policy that any pre-trial confinee who is charged with a "serious crime" will be classified as a MAX prisoner.

(b) This policy is not written. CDR IM testified that CDR JB relayed to them that "most people who are accused of murder, they're normal, they have a bad day and then something bad happens," and that they were going to keep those accused of murder classified as MAX prisoners to keep everybody safe, both staff and prisoners.

(c) There was no evidence of data supporting CDR JB's assertion that, as a general matter, prisoners accused of murder were more likely to do "something bad" and that they posed a safety risk for brig staff and inmates.[4]

(d) Further, as the policy was not written, there was not a definition of "serious crime," however, CDR IM understood that murder and attempted murder qualified as "serious."

(e) At the time the accused was ordered into PTC, CDR IM was not aware of this policy. In June 2024 there was a use-of-force incident with a different pre-trial confinee accused of a serious crime that brought to light NCBC DET Chesapeake's non-compliance with NCBC's policy.

e. The accused's confinement at NCBC DET Chesapeake

(1) When the accused was ordered into PTC, the confinement order specified he was suspected of violating Articles 80 (attempted murder), 92 (failing to obey an order or regulation), 114 (endangerment offenses) and 115 (communicating a threat), UCMJ.

(2) Because NCBC DET Chesapeake was not classifying pre-trial confinees accused of serious crimes as MAX prisoners, the accused was initially classified as an MDI inmate.

(3) From 28 Mar 2024 until 19 July 2024 the accused performed as an MDI prisoner without any disciplinary incidents.

(4) On 19 July 2024 the accused was served with the preferred charge sheet. At that point, the NCBC DET Chesapeake staff and OIC realized he had been

[4] The only evidence in the record of a pre-trial confinee acting in a manner that threatened other staff or prisoners occurred in June, 2024, when HM3 Pate (another pre-trial confinee accused of a serious offense) had an adverse interaction with a staff member. However, the evidence is not clear about whether the staff member bore some responsibility for instigating the incident, and, in any event, the staff member involved did not regard the prisoner as a physical threat.

misclassified and reclassified the accused to a MAX prisoner.[5]

(5) At the following C&A board on 20 Aug 2024, the board recommended again reclassifying the accused to an MDI prisoner. The OIC overrode the board's recommendation and ordered the accused remain as a MAX prisoner.

(6) At every subsequent C&A board (occurring approximately every 30 days), the board recommended downgrading the accused's classification to MDI. Every time the OIC overrode the board's recommendation and ordered the accused remain a MAX prisoner.[6] At times, the OIC noted the seriousness of the crime as the justification, others he merely noted that the accused should "remain MAX." The OIC was unaware of the specifics of the accused's offense, only that he was accused of attempted pre-meditated murder.

(7) In November 2024, the licensed clinical social worker assigned to NCBC DET Chesapeake informed the OIC of the following concern:

> Based on a brief assessment that was conducted recently with SNP Reimonenq, SNP is demonstrating/expressing an increased level of emotional [decompensation] due to being isolated and confined in a cell for an [extended] period of time. In my clinical judgement, SNP Reimonenq would benefit from increased interaction with others to reduce [further] decompensation.

(8) In each of the DD Form 2711-1 documenting the accused's C&A board results, the board noted the accused was dealing with mental health challenges.

(9) Mr. PM disagrees with the NCBC's policy about keeping prisoners accused of serious crimes as MAX prisoners. He termed the policy "cookie cutter" and expressed concerns about being unable to justify the decisions based upon the prisoner's observed behavior.

f. The Article 32 hearing

(1) On 9 October 2024, CDR KW presided over an Article 32, UCMJ, hearing into the charges against the accused.

[5] At the C&A board that led to the accused's reclassification to a MAX prisoner, the board had to recommend overriding the objective criteria because, based upon his lack of disciplinary issues since being confined, the objective criteria directed that his classification remain the same (i.e. MDI). The OIC concurred with the board's recommendation.

[6] Prior to the Article 39(a) session where this motion was litigated, the OIC again overrode the C&A board's recommendation on 13 Jan 2025. The C&A board's evaluation on 13 January 2025 noted the objective criteria—for the first time—should require the accused to remain in his current classification. However, the board overrode the objective criteria to recommend reclassification to MDI due to "period of observation and evaluation." The OIC overrode the board's recommendation.

(2) The hearing was conducted in the Coast Guard courtroom in Main Street Tower in Norfolk, VA. The hearing was open to the public and members of the public attended the hearing, including members of the accused's family.

(3) By agreement of the parties, CDR KW participated remotely, as did civilian defense counsel. Detailed defense counsel was present with the accused.

(4) The accused was attired in a brown prisoner's uniform and remained shackled throughout the proceeding.

(5) Defense counsel requested that the shackles be removed. Government counsel joined in this request. However, the brig personnel refused to do so because it was not a "court proceeding" and the Preliminary Hearing Officer was not a judge.

(6) At the outset of the hearing, CDR KW noted that the accused was not attired in the proper uniform but noted that he would take into consideration the fact that the accused was a third-class petty officer in the Coast Guard and also took note of his awards.

(7) Shortly before he was ordered into PTC, the accused was re-assigned to LANTAREA. In July 2024, the LANT staff received notice that the Legare command had sent the accused's personal effects to his mother in Louisiana, however, they were unaware that his personal effects included his uniforms.

(8) The accused did not ask the LANT staff about his uniforms for upcoming proceedings during their weekly brig visits. Neither the LANT legal staff nor Government counsel asked the accused new command (i.e. LANT-1) about his uniforms.[7]

(9) The accused was in the proper uniform for all subsequent court-martial proceedings.

Further facts necessary for an appropriate ruling are contained within the Analysis section.

4. Principles of Law

a. Burden

As the moving party, the Defense bears the burden of persuasion by a preponderance of the evidence. R.C.M. 905(c).

[7] While there isn't direct evidence that the LANT legal staff or government counsel engaged with LANT-1 about the accused's uniforms, given the commendable efforts expended by the LANT-1 staff to ensure the accused was properly attired for his court-martial, the Court infers that no such inquiries were made prior to the Article 32 hearing.

b. Article 13

Article 13, UCMJ provides that:

> No person, while being held for trial, may be subjected to punishment or penalty other than arrest or confinement upon the charges pending against him, nor shall the arrest or confinement imposed upon him be any more rigorous than the circumstances required to insure his presence, but he may be subjected to minor punishment during that period for infractions of discipline.

"Article 13, UCMJ prohibits two things: (1) the imposition of punishment prior to trial, and (2) conditions of arrest or pretrial confinement that are more rigorous than necessary to ensure the accused's presence for trial." United States v. King, 61 M.J. 225, 227 (C.A.A.F. 2005).

A service member may not be detained under conditions that amount to punishment prior to trial. United States v. James, 28 M.J. 214, 215 (C.M.A. 1989). One significant factor in determining whether the conditions or terms of confinement violate Article 13 is the intent of the detention officials. Id. at 216. Thus, "[a] court must decide whether the disability is imposed for...punishment or whether it is but an incident of some other legitimate governmental purpose." Id. (quoting Bell v. Wolfish, 441 U.S. 520, 538 (1979). In United States v. Howell, 75 M.J. 386 (C.A.A.F. 2016), the court held that for an Article 13 violation to occur the record "must disclose an intent to punish on the part of the Government."

If there was not an intent to punish, the court must then decide whether the government action furthered a legitimate, non-punitive government interest. Id. at 393. Irrespective of the intent to punish, Article 13 may still be violated if the activity serves no legitimate, non-punitive purpose. Id. This analysis is exclusive to the intent of the government's action and is not informed by the impact of the action, even if punitive in nature. Id. at 393-94.

Confinement in violation of service regulations does not create a per se entitlement to relief but can shed light on whether impermissible intent to punish should be attributed to confinement officials. A command's disregard for service regulations may lead a military court to infer an improper purpose, such as to punish, even where an accused's status as a flight risk or a threat of continuing misconduct justifies the decision to confine him. United States v. West, No. 201200189, 2013 WL 1209934, at *4 (N-M. Ct. Crim. App. Mar. 21, 2013).

5. Analysis

a. The accused's continued classification as a MAX prisoner did not further a legitimate government interest

As an initial matter, there was no evidence presented that the NCBC classification policy was intended to punish the accused, and the Defense disclaimed any such claim. Therefore, the Court may only find a violation of Article 13 if the continued classification of the accused as a MAX prisoner did not serve a legitimate government interest.

The Court finds that the initial classification of a prisoner accused of a serious crime to a MAX prisoner to serve a legitimate government interest. The concerns articulated by the NCBC DET Chesapeake OIC (albeit vaguely) could be present when a member is placed in pre-trial confinement for serious crimes, and those factors are also captured in the SECNAVINST (seriousness of the alleged crimes and potential sentence). This interest is heightened at the imposition of confinement because the brig staff lack information about how the confinee will react to being incarcerated.

In this case, though, prior to reclassifying the accused as a MAX prisoner, they had nearly four months of data on how the accused responded to incarceration, during which the accused had no disciplinary infractions. Nonetheless, the Court is loath to second-guess brig staff in ensuring they were following their parent command's policies for classifying prisoners, especially where the initial classification furthers a legitimate government interest.

However, the Court finds the continued classification of the accused in face of repeated recommendations from corrections professionals to downgrade his status to MDI does not serve a legitimate governmental interest. The C&A board's repeated recommendations to return the accused to MDI status undercuts the government's theory that prisoners accused of serious crimes "might" pose to staff and other prisoners. It does so because the objective criteria not only consider the seriousness of the crime (the only source for the government's concern)[8] as well as the observations of this particular accused.

The legitimate government concern is further undercut by the informality and lack of support of the NCBC policy. While a formally issued (and presumably legally reviewed) policy may not overcome the persistent recommendations of the C&A board (based upon repeated interactions with the accused), the fact that the policy was communicated to the NCBC DET Chesapeake OIC orally with scanty support weakens the government's purported interest.

Finally, while the SECNAVINST does permit overriding of the objective classification recommendation based upon the seriousness of the crime and the potential length of the sentence, the SECNAVINST also directs that classification should follow "established, but flexible, procedures." Further, the SECNAVINST commands that "Prisoners will be placed in a lower custody classification as soon as practical and as warranted." (emphasis added). NCBC's policy is anything but flexible, as the OIC testified that there was no circumstance where the accused would be eligible for a lower classification.

[8] The Court does not minimize the seriousness of the crimes with which the accused has been charged. However, the charge of attempted premeditated murder can encompass a wide range of conduct, from arriving at a location with the means and motive to kill an individual to grievously injuring the victim (while not causing the victim's death). The fact the OIC was unaware of the facts of the accused's alleged conduct and thus could not take that into account in his classification decision, further detracts from the government's asserted interest.

Having found a violation of Article 13, the Court must determine the appropriate credit to be awarded. As an initial matter, the accused was confined for 22 hours each day, as compared with 8 for a typical MDI prisoner, resulting in the accused spending 175% more time locked in his cell (22 hours is 175% of 8 hours). However, a credit of only 1.75 days for each day in MAX after 20 August 2024 doesn't adequately encompass the additional hardships imposed upon the accused, because the accused was also denied the opportunity to interact with other prisoners in social settings. This restriction has caused psychological harm. Further, it is harm that was made known to the brig command. Additionally, his status has prevented him from contact visitation with his family and his attorneys. Thus, the Court finds that an appropriate amount of credit is 3 days for each day after 20 August 2024, resulting in 438 days of confinement credit.[9]

b. Shackling of the accused during the Article 32 hearing furthered a legitimate government objective

The SECNAVINST restricts who may order restraints removed from a MAX prisoner, limiting it to Brig command staff and a military judge. In doing so, it furthers a legitimate government objective to maintain security over a prisoner who, by some criteria, is deemed to be a danger to himself or others. Additionally, it avoids having the brig chasers make case-by-case determinations and prevents any arguments from strong willed advocates from swaying either junior personnel or the brig staff.

The defense arguments to the contrary are unpersuasive. First, even though an Article 32 hearing is a legal proceeding, the PHO is not a military judge and thus does not meet the objective criteria outline in the SECNAVINST. Second, the rules cited in the defense motion apply before courts-martial, and not any legal proceeding. The accused is not entitled to credit for being shackled during the Article 32 hearing.

c. Forcing the accused to appear in a prisoner's uniform at his Article 32 hearing did not further a legitimate government objective

As an initial matter, the Court does not find an intent to punish the accused by forcing him to wear a prisoner's uniform to his Article 32 hearing. As is clear from the affidavit submitted by Mr. TL of LANT-1, once alerted to the accused's lack of uniforms took appropriate measures to ensure the accused was appropriately attired, evincing a lack of intent to punish.

Even assuming, as the Court does, that the government's inability to ensure the accused had access to his uniforms was an oversight, it nonetheless decided to proceed with the Article 32 hearing with the accused in a prisoner's uniform. While it is true that the accused (and Defense counsel) agreed to go forward with the accused attired in a prisoner's uniform, the accused should not have been put into that position. When it imposes pre-trial confinement, the government has a responsibility to ensure the accused is attired in the proper uniform.[10] Further, they had 195 days from when they imposed pre-trial confinement and 83 days from when they preferred charges to ensure the accused had a proper Coast Guard uniform.

The government's decision to proceed is mitigated somewhat by the accused not inquiring about his uniforms during the weekly command brig visits because a military member bears responsibility to appear in the prescribed uniform of the day.

Nonetheless, the lion's share of the responsibility falls upon the government, a responsibility they failed to uphold (albeit without any malice towards the accused). In so doing, they did not further any legitimate government objective and thus violated Article 13. The accused shall be awarded an additional 4 days of confinement credit.

6. Conclusions of Law

a. The Government violated Article 13 by continuing to classify the accused as a MAX prisoner after 20 August 2024 and until and including 13 January 2025. The accused shall be awarded 438 days of confinement credit.

b. The Government did not violate Article 13 when the accused remained shackled for his Article 32 hearing.

c. The Government violated Article 13 when it failed to provide the accused with a proper Coast Guard uniform. The accused shall be awarded 4 days of confinement credit.

[10] The Court takes judicial notice of Article 1.F.5.e of the Coast Guard Discipline and Conduct Manual, COMDTINST M1600.2(series), which states that "Prisoners shall be delivered in the appropriate Service Dress uniform," and "Accordingly, it is important that the prisoner be delivered with a sufficiently full seabag to sustain his/her needs during the anticipated period of confinement."

7. Ruling and Order

The Defense motion is GRANTED IN PART and DENIED IN PART, consistent with the above conclusions of law.

So ordered this 14th day of March, 2025.

| JEREMIAH T. COPELANDCSSN / E-3 USN | ) | Date: 17 June 2025 |

1. Background. I, CDR Jason A. Pfeil, JAGC, USN was detailed as the Initial Review Officer (IRO) for the review of pretrial confinement in the case of CSSN Jeremiah T. Copeland, USN (Confinee). The 7-day review hearing was at Naval Consolidated Brig Chesapeake, Virginia (NCBC) on 16 June 2025. This memorandum is prepared pursuant to Rule for Courts-Martial (R.C.M.) 305(j)(2)(D), Manual for Courts-Martial.

2. Findings of Fact. After considering the evidence and statements provided at the 7-day review hearing, the preponderance of the evidence supports the following factual findings:

A. The Confinee is from Durham, North Carolina.
B. The Confinee is 20 years of age.
C. The IRO received no evidence of substantial ties to the Hampton Roads area of Virginia other than that his command is based out of Naval Station Norfolk, Virginia.
D. Facts Pertinent to Alleged Violation of Article 118 (murder)
    a. 28 May 2025
        i. CSSN A.R. was with the Confinee in his barracks room, building X-2, room 335B and she spent the night.
        ii. CSSN A.R. last used her bank accounts.
        iii. CSSN A.R. was in authorized liberty status 28-29 May 2025.
    b. 29 May 2025
        i. At 0645, PSSN Irbin Gordillocruz, one of the Confinee's roommates, saw CSSN A.R. in the Confinee's barracks room, naked and laying on the floor with the Confinee, also naked, was laying on the floor with his head resting on CSSN A.R.'s stomach area.
        ii. PSSN Gordillocruz observed CSSN A.R. breathing.
        iii. At 0645, CSSN A.R. was alive.
        iv. Some time afterward, FCC Brad Parker from USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) went to the Confinee's barracks room to make contact with him because he did not report for work.
        v. When FCC Parker knocked on the Confinee's door, the Confinee opened the door wearing shorts and no shirt. FCC Parker recognized CSSN A.R. in the Confinee's barracks room.

vi. CSSN A.R. waved at FCC Parker and then rolled over into a blanket.
vii. FCC Parker ordered CSSN Copeland to report to work and then left the Confinee's barracks room.
viii. CSSN A.R. was alive when FCC Parker left the Confinee's barracks room on 29 May 2025.
ix. No JAMES E. WILLIAMS personnel, other than the Confinee, had further positive contact with CSSN A.R. after FCC Parker saw her.
x. The Confinee did not report to work as ordered and was placed in an unauthorized absence (UA) status.
xi. CSSN A.R.'s cell phone was last used in the evening.
xii. CSSN A.R. was still in an authorized liberty status.

c. 30 May 2025
   i. CSSN A.R. did not report for duty and was placed in a UA status.
   ii. The Confinee remained in a UA status.

d. 31 May 2025
   i. Both the Confinee and CSSN A.R. remained in a UA status.

e. 1 June 2025
   i. The Confinee and CSSN A.R. remained in a UA status.
   ii. At approximately 1900, the Confinee and his roommates PSSN Gordillacruz and AR John Calisse went to dinner at Chipotle.
   iii. At approximately 2000, after eating dinner, the Confinee asked AR Calisse if he could use his vehicle to "go get something to eat" and AR Calisse agreed.
   iv. The Confinee mustered on board the ship to terminate his UA status.
   v. The Confinee's whereabouts after mustering are unknown.

f. The Confinee was in a UA status for approximately four days: from 29 May until the evening of 1 June 2025.

g. FCC Parker is the last known person, other than the Confinee to see CSSN A.R. alive.

h. As part of its investigation, NCIS interviewed the Confinee who told NCIS the following:
   i. CSSN A.R. came to his room on 28 May 2025 for dinner and drinks.
   ii. His relationship with CSSN A.R. was platonic friendship.
   iii. No sexual acts ever happened between them.
   iv. She spent the night in his barracks room the night of 28 May but she had her clothes on the entire time she was in his barracks room.
   v. He was late for work on the morning of 29 May 2025 and FCC Parker knocked on the door to tell him he was going to be marked UA.
   vi. At approximately 1000 on 29 May 2025, he and CSSN A.R. got dressed and one of his roommates took them to her residence at Miller Hall on board Naval Station Norfolk.

i. NCIS investigation revealed the following:
   i. CSSN A.R. never checked into Miller Hall on 29 May 2025 or thereafter.

ii. All of the Confinee's roommates told NCIS they did not give a ride to the Confinee or CSSN A.R. on the morning of 29 May 2025.
iii. CSSN A.R.'s cell phone last pinged on 29 May 2025 at the Confinee's barracks building.

j. NCIS searched the Confinee's barracks room and found the following:
i. There was a potential blood trail leading from inside his closet onto the carpet of the room; and a stain was found inside his bathroom.
ii. A swab taken from inside the Confinee' barracks room closet and his bathroom both tested positive for human blood.

k. NCIS searched the Confinee's cell phone and found the following:
i. At approximately 0514 on 2 June 2025, the Confinee was in the vicinity of 2842 Cary Ave., Norfolk, VA 23504, as determined by GPS analysis of a cached location on his phone.
ii. The Confinee was actively moving around the vicinity of 2842 Cary Ave., Norfolk, VA at the time he was in that area, as determined by analysis of his phone's recording of health and activity data.
iii. The Confinee saved a screenshot of a map application depicting a wooded area near a reservoir or pond in the vicinity of 2842 Cary Ave., Norfolk, VA on 2 June 2025 at 0515 as reflected in the screenshot and digital forensic analysis.
iv. The Confinee saved a location in the wooded area in the vicinity of 2842 Cary Ave., Norfolk, VA as shown by a dropped pin on the screenshot saved on 2 June 2025 at 0515.

l. Between when the Confinee terminated his UA status and approximately 0514 on 2 June 2025, his whereabouts are unknown.

m. On 9 June 2025, NCIS searched the area reflected in the screenshot obtained from the Confinee's cell phone.

n. A black duffel bag was located beneath a tree within the perimeter captured by the Confinee's screenshot.[1]

o. After partially opening the black duffel bag, NCIS observed a pair of human legs inside.

p. NCIS found a photo from 23 September 2024 depicting the Confinee in service dress blues next to a black duffel bag that is visually similar to the one located in the wooded area in the vicinity of 2842 Cary Ave., Norfolk, VA.

q. On 10 June 2025, an autopsy was performed on the body found in the black duffel bag with the following initial results:
i. The body was determined to be a female.
ii. Her body was in an extreme state of decomposition.
iii. An E-3 uniform patch was located in her hair.
iv. She was identified as CSSN A.R. by the distinctive tattoo on her back.

[1] The IRO notes that the NCIS affidavit refers to this duffel bag both as a suitcase and a duffel bag. However, based on the evidence the IRO concluded that both terms refer to the same object that the IRO refers to as a duffel bag in this memorandum.

E. Facts Pertinent to Alleged Violation of Article 120(d) (abusive sexual contact)

a. In the early morning hours of 23 July 2024 ABHAN C.R. was on the mess decks of USS HARRY S. TRUMAN (CVN 75) with her boyfriend CSSN Fernando Cuestabravo. CSSN Cuestabravo left to go to sleep.
b. Shortly after CSSN Cuestabravo left, ABHAN C.R. began receiving SnapChat snaps from the Confinee; he wanted to talk to her about CSSN Cuestabravo.
c. ABHAN C.R. agreed and the Confinee requested they go somewhere private to talk. They went to the fantail of the ship.
d. The Confinee told ABHAN C.R. that CSSN Cuestabravo was talking to other women and not treating her the way she should be treated; the Confinee suggested they should be in a relationship to get back at CSSN Cuestabravo.
e. After talking with the Confinee about her relationship with CSSN Cuestabravo, the Confinee began to play a "game" where he pretended to arrest her.
f. The Confinee forced ABHAN C.R.'s hands behind her back and grabbed her vulva over the clothing.
g. ABHAN C.R. turned around and punched the Confinee in the stomach.
h. The Confinee said he heard she liked to be choked and he grabbed her neck with one hand, applying pressure. ABHAN C.R. had difficulty breathing. ABHAN C.R. tried to push the Confinee's hand away but he kept putting it back.
i. While the Confinee was applying pressure to ABHAN C.R.'s neck, he kissed her on the lips and grabbed her breasts, buttocks, and vulva over the clothing.
j. The Confinee then stopped and left.
k. ABHAN C.R. texted CSSN Cuestabravo afterward.
l. The next day they discussed what happened and ABHAN C.R. made a report of sexual assault.
m. On 16 August 2024, NCIS interviewed the Confinee and he said the following:
    i. He and ABHAN C.R. saw each other on the mess decks and went to the fantail to talk.
    ii. The Confinee was sitting in a chair and ABHAN C.R. on the deck.
    iii. ABHAN C.R. told him CSSN Cuestabravo does not treat her well and was cheating on her; she asked the Confinee for advice.
    iv. They flirted but he denied being romantically or sexually interested in ABHAN C.R.
    v. The two hugged and he got close to her face but denied trying to kiss her.
    vi. He denied touching ABHAN C.R. anywhere else.
    vii. NCIS asked if he had strangled ABHAN C.R. He responded, "oh okay yeah I have but it wasn't in like a weird way." He said he put one hand around her neck without applying any pressure.
    viii. He also denied touching any of ABHAN C.R.'s intimate areas and denied telling her she should have sex with him to get back at CSSN Cuestabravo.
n. Additional NCIS investigation revealed:
    i. The Confinee told CSSN Jaelen Owens that ABHAN C.R. was "feeling on" and "leading on" the Confinee.

ii. CSSN Cuestabravo observed bruises on the sides of ABHAN C.R.'s neck but neither of them took photos of the bruises.

F. Facts Pertinent to Alleged Violation of Article 120(b) (sexual assault)

a. On 4 November 2024, during a port call in Oslo, Norway, CSSN S.S. reported the Confinee sexually assaulted her in the head of a bar at approximately 2200 hours.
b. CSSN S.S. was intoxicated and did not remember having sexual intercourse with the Confinee, however other Sailors told her on 5 November that the Confinee showed them a video on his phone of the two of them having sexual intercourse.
c. CSSN S.S. confronted the Confinee about him making a video of sexual intercourse with her and he denied it.
d. Two Sailors interviewed by NCIS stated the Confinee had shown them a video of him and CSSN S.S. having sexual intercourse.
e. Another Sailor interviewed by NCIS reported the Confinee told him he had sex with CSSN S.S. and seemed excited about it.
f. NCIS searched the Confinee' person, his berthing, rack, and personal spaces to find his phone but his phone was never found.
g. On 18 November 2024, NCIS interviewed the Confinee:
    i. He confirmed that he and CSSN S.S. had sexual intercourse in the bathroom in a bar in Oslo, Norway and that he had video recorded it.
    ii. He stated the sexual intercourse was consensual.
    iii. He said he lost his phone before returning to the ship on 5 November.

G. Facts Pertinent to Alleged Violation of Article 128 (assault consummated by a battery / aggravated assault) or Article 128b (domestic violence)[2]

a. In April 2025, the Confinee was in his barracks room with his then-girlfriend, CS2 S.R.
b. While in the Confinee's barracks room, CS2 S.R.[3] received a phone call from another woman claiming to be his girlfriend. She confronted the Confinee.
c. The Confinee denied the relationship with the other woman and they argued.
d. The Confinee then strangled CS2 S.R.
e. Afterward, he laughed and said he was just playing with CS2 S.R.
f. CS2 S.R. left the Confinee's barracks room and went home. She continued to communicate with the other woman.
g. CS2 S.R. returned to the Confinee's barracks room and confronted him again.
h. They argued and the Confinee grabbed CS2 S.R.'s phone from her hand.
i. CS2 S.R. punched the Confinee in the chest, slammed his PlayStation 5 to the ground, and left.

[2] These offenses were not included in the command's 72-hour review letter as offenses; however, the facts support that they were committed and helped inform the IRO's analysis.
[3] The IRO notes that there are what appear to be significant typographical errors in the email that documents the alleged assault. Specifically, after initially identifying the Confinee's then-girlfriend as CS2 S.R., the narrative refers to a CS2 Williams multiple times. Additionally, the narrative refers to the Confinee alternatively as CSSN Copeland and CSSN Williams. The IRO used context to relate the facts found from the narrative supplied in the 72-hour letter's enclosures.

j. One of the Confinee's roommates told law enforcement CS2 S.R. waved a knife around while arguing with the Confinee but no knife was found.

H. On 6 June 2025, the Confinee received nonjudicial punishment for his period of UA from 29 May to 1 June.

3. Applicable Law

Per R.C.M. 305(j)(2)(A)(iii), the Government must prove by a preponderance of the evidence the requirements for continued confinement under R.C.M. 305(i)(2)(B).

4. Victim Information

Ms. Esmerelda Castle, CIV, ABHAN C.R., USN, CSSN S.S., USN, and CS2 S.R., USN were identified as victims in this matter.

The victims were not represented by counsel. The victims were given the opportunity to confer with the representative of the command. The victims were given a reasonable opportunity to be heard; only Ms. Castle exercised her right to be heard.

The IRO will also note that CSSN A.R., USN is considered a victim for the purposes of the Article 118 allegation, however she is deceased.

5. Conclusions. Based on the evidence presented at the IRO hearing, the IRO finds the Government has proven the following by a preponderance of the evidence:

A. The following offenses triable by court-martial were committed:[4]
   a. Article 118 (murder) on or about 29 May 2025; and
   b. Article 120(d) (abusive sexual contact) on or about 26 July 2024.

B. The Confinee committed the following offenses triable by court-martial:
   a. Article 118 (murder) on or about 29 May 2025; and
   b. Article 120(d) (abusive sexual contact) on or about 26 July 2024.

C. Continued pretrial confinement is necessary because it is foreseeable that:
   a. the Confinee will not appear at trial, pretrial hearing, or preliminary hearing due to:
      i. the seriousness of the charge of murder and its punishments, specifically a maximum punishment of death or confinement for life without the possibility of parole;
      ii. the fact that the Confinee was in a UA status for four days during and after the murder of CSSN A.R.;
      iii. though the Confinee voluntarily terminated his UA status, after doing so he hid CSSN A.R.'s body in a duffel bag that he dumped in a wooded area, indicating that his decision to terminate his UA status was part of a plan to avoid accountability for his actions leading to CSSN A.R.'s death and would likely impel him to leave the area if he were not confined;

[4] The IRO notes that the Government did not prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the Confinee committed the offense of sexual assault in violation of Article 120(b).

iv. that the Confinee attempted to cover up his involvement in the death of CSSN A.R. by both lying to NCIS investigators and hiding her body in a duffel bag in a wooded area; and

v. the Confinee lacks substantial ties to the Hampton Roads area of Virginia beyond the presence of his command in Norfolk indicating the Confinee has no incentive to remain in the Hampton Roads area were he to be free.

b. the Confinee will engage in serious criminal misconduct due to:

i. the nature and circumstances of the offenses suspected, specifically:

1. that the Confinee committed at least two violent offenses[5] while under investigation by NCIS for two other violent offenses;
2. the Confinee sought to obstruct the investigation into CSSN A.R.'s disappearance by hiding her body in a duffel bag and dumping it in a wooded area, all while keeping his phone in airplane mode to prevent it from confirming his presence where he had dumped CSSN A.R.'s body;

ii. the weight of the evidence against the Confinee, specifically:

1. evidence of his consciousness of guilt from his attempt to mislead NCIS in both the investigation of the abusive sexual contact allegation against him and the disappearance of CSSN A.R.;
2. the strong evidence provided by his phone's GPS, health data, and the screenshot he took that he dumped CSSN A.R.'s body;
3. the presence of human blood in his barracks room; and
4. that he was the last person known to have seen CSSN A.R. alive;

iii. the pattern of escalating violent conduct of the Confinee;[6] and

iv. the fact that the Confinee committed multiple violent offenses against different women all while under investigation for other violent offenses.

D. Less severe forms of restraint are inadequate given:

a. the severity of the allegations against the Confinee as outlined above;

b. the weight of the evidence against him as outlined above;

c. the pattern of escalating violent conduct despite being under multiple criminal investigations from NCIS shows that the moral threat of being held accountable for misconduct is insufficient to deter him from engaging in criminal acts;

d. that the Confinee was willing to be UA before he knew he was suspected of murder of CSSN A.R., despite receiving a direct order to report to the ship shortly

[5] Article 118 (murder) and Article 128 (assault consummated by a battery) or 128b (domestic violence). The IRO recognizes that the Article 128 or 128b offense was not specifically stated in the 72-hour memorandum as the offenses for which CO, JAMES E. WILLIAMS found continued confinement appropriate; however, it is a significant fact that he committed this violent offense while under investigation for two other violent sexual offenses and shortly before the Article 118 (murder) offense.

[6] From abusive sexual contact to assault consummated by a battery / aggravated assault / domestic violence to murder after his UA period began and he continued being UA for another three days; this shows the IRO that he is willing to disobey orders and that moral restraint is insufficient to ensure the Confinee will be present; and

e. the IRO is not persuaded that less severe forms of restraint are adequate by his presence at NJP on 6 June 2025 because of the substantial difference in the severity of the offenses for which he was placed into pretrial confinement and the significant difference between the punishment available for these offenses at court-martial compared to the maximum punishments available at NJP.

The IRO considered the evidence presented by the Confinee via his counsel but notes that it deals only with the conditions of confinement at NCBC and does not address whether confinement itself is appropriate. While there may be avenues for redress of unduly severe conditions of confinement under other R.C.M.s,[7] they do not provide a basis for finding that continued pretrial confinement is not necessary.[8]

6. Action of 7-Day Reviewing Officer

Continued pretrial confinement for the Confinee is APPROVED. The Confinee will remain in pretrial confinement.

The Government shall provide a copy of this memorandum to the Confinee, the Defense Counsel, and the confinement facility.

(b) JAGINST 5800.7G, Chapter III.

Encl: (1) Emails with trial counsel and defense counsel
(2) Emails with defense counsel and the staff judge advocate advising the USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS
(3) CSSN Copeland's Request for Redress of 29 Jul 25
(4) Email from staff judge advocate advising the USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS notifying the defense that the request for redress was denied of 7 Aug 25
(5) Email with Brig Staff
(6) Email from staff judge advocate advising the USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS stating that formal response was not required of 11 Aug 25

1. This complaint of wrong under reference (a) is submitted on behalf of CSSN Jermiah Copeland by his defense counsel, LCDR Amanda Serfess, JAGC, USN and LCDR Clifton Morgan, JAGC, USN. It is submitted in compliance with reference (b).

2. Complainant information:

a. Current command: USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95), Norfolk, Virginia

b. Command at time of alleged wrong: USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95), Norfolk, Virginia

c. EAOS: 12 July 2027

d. Current mailing and email address: CSSN Copeland is being held in pretrial confinement in Naval Consolidated Brig Chesapeake. He can be reached through his defense counsel.

3. Respondent information: Commanding Officer, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95), Norfolk, Virginia

4. Complaint:

a. Alleged wrong: CSSN Copeland has been held in pretrial confinement for 63 days without preferred charges. CSSN Copeland has been in a "maximum status" while at the brig. He remains in his cell 22 hours per day. He is not permitted to have "contact" visits with his defense counsel. CSSN Copeland has requested to have a private, in-person, meeting with his defense counsel. However, this request was denied.

b. Details:

(1) For 63 days, CSSN Copeland has been held in confinement without preferral of charges.

(2) Per enclosure (1), on 16 June, CSSN Copeland requested through counsel to meet with his attorney's in-person in a private setting. The trial counsel stated that the government could not support this request. The trial counsel ignored the defense's request for more information.

(3) On 3 July 2025, the staff judge advocate advising the USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS reached out to defense counsel. In response, the defense counsel provided her additional information. Namely, that at least one trial court has found that the current policies and procedures in place at Naval Consolidated Brig Chesapeake for pretrial confinees in a "maximum" confinement status is illegal pretrial punishment.

(4) On 23 July 2025, the defense followed up with our original request. This follow up was ignored.

(5) On 29 July 2025, CSSN Copeland through counsel submitted a formal request for redress to the Commanding Officer, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS to meet with his attorneys in a private, confidential in-person setting.

(6) On 7 August 2025, CSSN Copeland's request was denied. USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS provided no reasoning for the denial.[1]

c. Relief requested: CSSN Copeland respectfully requests to be able to meet with his attorneys in a private room to have a private conversation without the risk of being heard by people who are not members of his defense team. CSSN Copeland has been in pretrial confinement since 9 June 2025. Based solely on the fact that CSSN Copeland has "Article 118" on his confinement order, he has been placed in a "maximum status." Because CSSN Copeland is in that status, he cannot have a "contact" visit with his attorneys at the brig.[2] This means that his attorneys can only meet with him separated by a plexiglass wall. This room is not soundproof – the brig staff or anyone else can hear from outside the room. Further, because of the plexiglass, it is difficult for CSSN Copeland to hear his attorneys and even more difficult for his attorneys to [1] Per enclosure (6), the staff judge advocate reads Section 0305.a of the JAGMAN to state that a response to a request for redress is not required. Section 0305.a of the JAGMAN states that

> The commanding officer must act upon a request for redress within 30 calendar days of receipt, and notify the complainant in writing of the action taken, if applicable. If the commanding officer does not respond to the request within 30 calendar days or denies the requested redress, then the complainant may submit an Article 138 complaint to the GCMCA via the commanding officer, as the respondent.

[2] See enclosure (5).

hear him. This is inadequate to properly represent CSSN Copeland and does not meet the requirements of the Sixth Amendment.

Understanding that you cannot order the brig to have a different policy, you do have the authority to transport CSSN Copeland to a different location so that he can meet with his attorneys. Defense counsel regularly meet with clients who are in pretrial confinement at building A-50 on Naval Station Norfolk. Commands transport pre-trial confinees, including other pretrial confinees who are accused of murder and attempted murder, to consult with their attorneys. A-50 is a secure building, it is the same building where CSSN Copeland will meet with his attorneys should charges in this case ever be pursued. CSSN Copeland simply requests to exercise his constitutional right to counsel, which must include the right to meet and openly discuss his case. The right to counsel includes the right to effective counsel. CSSN Copeland's attorneys cannot be effective if they cannot meet and openly discuss the case. Please allow CSSN Copeland to have a privileged, in-person meeting with his attorneys.

5. I certify the above information is true and correct to the best of my knowledge, and this complaint is submitted per the guidelines and procedural requirements in Chapter III, Manual of the Judge Advocate General.

CDR Mayo,

Who has decided that CSSN Copeland cannot come to A-50? OSTC? The RLSO? Why can't the government support CSSN Copeland coming to A-50? We have confined clients from other command come to A-50.

Can you please provide me with the name and contact information of the lead agent in this case?

LCDR Serfess,

You are more than welcome to address your concerns with the brig or NCIS.

The government cannot support a 2 July meeting in A-50. I've asked the brig if you can use the IRO room - but the brig is unable to accommodate. I suggest you liaise directly with the brig regarding any future visits.

CDR Mayo,

Please find LCDR Morgan and I's notice or representation attached.

Our understanding is the CSSN Copeland's cell was searched and his IRO package was taken from him because according to NCIS he cannot have that documentation. Is there a sealing or protection order in this case? Please let us know why CSSN Copeland cannot review and keep the documents associated with his case. Please let us know what the Government believes CSSN Copeland can have and review in his case. If NCIS has questions about how CSSN Copeland received documents, please have them reach out me and LCDR Morgan.

Please let me know if you need anything from me. Are we good for Wednesday? We have a couple of A/C spaces in the defense that we can use to meet with CSSN Copeland – the same spaces being used today with a client from the brig.

I just wanted to circle back to our request to meet with our client in the same room privately. I emailed the brig today and it will not allow us to visit our client in a contact room – we would only be able to meet with him through glass in non-private area. Is it possible for the command to bring him to A-50 or another location to allow us to meet with him? (Similar to how we will meet with him when he come to the court room for hearings).

Please see attached. We presented these to the IRO at Copeland's hearing.

There are plenty of spaces at the brig where we could meet with the client and the staff could still see us. CDR Mayo asked them if we could use the IRO room (no windows, but a place we meet with other clients) but the brig said no. We would also agree to have more than one of the defense team in the room during any meeting if it is our safety they are concerned about. We are not concerned about our safety and haven't seen any indication that CSSN Copeland would do anything to harm his defense team.

Let me know if you have questions or need anything else from me.

Have a Happy Independence Day!!!

Subj: REQUEST FOR REDRESS ICO CSSN JERMIAH COPELAND, USN

Ref: (a) U.S. CONST. amend. VI
(b) R.C.M. 502
(c) Article 138, UCMJ

1. On behalf of CSSN Copeland, the defense respectfully requests to be able to meet with CSSN Copeland in a private room to have a private conversation where he can consult with his attorneys without the risk of being heard by people who are not members of his defense. CSSN Copeland has been in pretrial confinement since 9 June 2025. Based solely on the fact that CSSN Copeland has "Article 118" on his confinement order, he has been placed in a "maximum status." Because CSSN Copeland is in that status, he cannot have a "contact" visit with his attorneys at the brig. This means that his attorneys can only meet with him separated by a plexiglass wall. This room is not soundproof – the brig staff or anyone else can hear from outside the room. Further, because of the plexiglass, it is difficult for CSSN Copeland to hear his attorneys and even more difficult for his attorneys to hear him. This is inadequate to properly represent CSSN Copeland and does not meet the requirements of reference (a).

2. Understanding that you cannot order the brig to have a different policy, you do have the authority to transport CSSN Copeland to a different location so that he can meet with his attorneys. Defense counsel regularly meet with clients who are in pretrial confinement at building A-50 on Naval Station Norfolk. Commands transport pre-trial confinees, including other pretrial confinees who are accused of murder and attempted murder, to consult with their attorneys. A-50 is a secure building, it is the same building where CSSN Copeland will meet with his attorneys should charges in this case ever be pursued. CSSN Copeland simply requests to exercise his constitutional right to counsel, which must include the right to meet and openly discuss his case. The right to counsel includes the right to effective counsel. CSSN Copeland's attorneys cannot be effective if we cannot meet and openly discuss the case with our client. Despite twice demanding a speedy trial, CSSN Copeland has been in pretrial confinement for 50 days without being brought to trial or being able to meet with his attorneys in a private setting. Please allow CSSN Copeland to have a privileged, in-person meeting with his attorneys.

3. If you have any questions, need amplifying information, or need assistance in coordinating the release of CSSN Copeland's personal property, LCDR Amanda Serfess, detailed defense counsel, can be reached at 850-452-5572 or via email at amanda.m.serfess.mil@us.navy.mil.

CO,

Good afternoon. I, along LCDR Morgan (copied) represent CSSN Copeland. CSSN Copeland has the right to be represented by counsel. To effectuate that right, he needs to able to have a private conversation with his attorneys. We have made the request, but have not received a clear answer on why he cannot meet with his attorneys in-person in a private room. Please find a request for redress ICO CSSN Copeland attached.

I am available to answer any questions.

CO,

Good afternoon. I, along LCDR Morgan (copied) represent CSSN Copeland. CSSN Copeland has the right to be represented by counsel. To effectuate that right, he needs to able to have a private conversation with his attorneys. We have made the request, but have not received a clear answer on why he cannot meet with his attorneys in-person in a private room. Please find a request for redress ICO CSSN Copeland attached.

I am available to answer any questions.

1. I, Mrs. Cindy Hoffmeister, serve as a Defense Paralegal for Defense Service Office Southeast and have been assigned to this case since June 2025. I have been a defense paralegal since 26 February 2023. I have accompanied defense attorneys during visits to clients located at Naval Consolidated Brig Charleston (NCBC) Detachment Chesapeake on many occasions. This includes contact and no-contact visits. There is a room at the Chesapeake Brig that is used to facilitate no-contact visits with clients. The client is placed in the room on the other side of a plexiglass wall. The defense team enters the room on the other side of the Plexiglass. The defense can see the client. However, it is difficult for the client to hear his defense attorneys. The attorney will have to talk very loud limiting privacy as there are brig employees outside of the room. Further, it is very hard for the defense team to hear the client. There are small slots next to the plexiglass. However, in order to pass a document to the client, you have to fold it in half for it to fit through the slot. There are no outlets in this room. There is no way to have the client view a video on a computer. There is no way to have the client use a computer. There is no phone in the room to have the client contact other members of the defense, experts, or anyone else.

2. On 16 June 2025, I was present during the no-contact visit at the NCBC Detachment Chesapeake, along with LCDR Amanda Serfess, LCDR Clifton Morgan and CSSN Copeland. The following is a summary of the issues regarding communication that I observed during the meeting:

a. CSSN Copeland and his defense team can only visit through a no-contact room which is a small room that can barely hold four chairs, with Plexiglass between the attorneys and the client. While speaking with the client in this room, me and the other paralegal could not hear what the client was saying. The attorneys had to put their ears to the plexiglass and/or try to read his lips. The attorneys had to repeat themselves a few times as the client could not hear them. You have to speak in a slightly louder voice to be heard on the other side of that plexiglass, risking brig employees and any others not apart of the defense team to hear the conversation.

b. This room makes it nearly impossible for the attorneys to hear the client, and in turn, hard for the client to hear his attorneys.

c. Communications from inside the no-contact room can be heard from outside the room, in the main contact visit sitting area.

Signed today, 26 August 2025.

Ref: (a) U.S. CONST., Amend. VI
(b) Barker v. Wingo, 407 U.S. 514 (1972)
(c) Article 10, U.C.M.J.
(d) R.C.M. 707

1. Per references (a) through (d), CSSN Copeland, USN, through counsel, demands a speedy trial or immediate release from pre-trial confinement. On 9 June 2025, CSSN Copeland was placed in pre-trial confinement. As of today, no charges have been preferred. Based solely on the fact that the offense of violating Article 118 appears on the confinement order, CSSN Copeland has been placed in "Maximum" status in the Naval Consolidated Brig Charleston, Detachment Chesapeake. CSSN Copeland spends 22 hours per day in his cell with no other human contact. He is not permitted to have contact visits with his attorneys. As such, CSSN Copeland demands a speedy trial and requests to be brought to trial immediately.

2. Please contact me with any questions or concerns you may have at 757-341-4559 or via email at amanda.m.serfess.mil@us.navy.mil.

Subj: GOVERNMENT REQUEST FOR EXCLUDABLE DELAY ICO UNITED STATES V. CSSN JERMIAH COPELAND, USN

Ref: (a) R.C.M. 707 (2024 ed.)

1. Pursuant to reference (a), the Government respectfully requests excludable delay for the period beginning on 10 June 2025 through 25 July 2025.

2. On 10 June 2025, CSSN Copeland was placed in pre-trial confinement. Per reference (a), this event requires CSSN Copeland be brought to trial within 120 days of the imposition of restraint. CSSN Copeland is under investigation for violating Uniform Code of Military Justice Article 107 (False official statement), Article 117a (Wrongful broadcast or distribution of intimate visual images), Article 118 (Murder), Article 120 (Rape and sexual assault), Article 128 (Assault), and Article 128b (Domestic Violence). These alleged violations primarily span four separate, complex alleged incidents and investigation remains ongoing into each.

3. Taken alone, any of one of these offenses is extremely complex and several lengthy investigative steps remain. Specific to the allegation of murder, these steps include receipt and analysis of digital evidence, forensic analysis of multiple pieces of physical evidence, a report of the autopsy of the victim's body, and interviews of several witnesses. NCIS and counsel for the Government are working on this case daily to further the investigation and move with reasonable diligence toward trial. Pursuant to reference (a), the Government may receive excludable delay to thoroughly investigate a case and prepare for trial. Therefore, the Government respectfully requests the time beginning on 10 June 2025 through 25 July 2025 be excluded.

4. Thank you for your time and consideration in this matter. If you have any questions about this request, please contact me via e-mail at lauren.a.mayo2.mil@us.navy.mil or via phone at (757) 341-4598.

Subj: OBJECTION TO EXCLUDABLE DELAY REQUEST ICO UNITED STATES V. CSSN JERMIAH COPELAND, USN

Ref: (a) U.S. CONST. Amend. VI
(b) Barker v. Wingo, 407 U.S. 514 (1972)
(c) Article 10, U.C.M.J.
(d) R.C.M. 707
(e) Request for excludable delay of 1 Jul 25

Encl: (1) Emails with the special trial counsel
(2) Additional emails with the special trial counsel

1. Per references (a) through (d), CSSN Copeland, through counsel, once again demands a speedy trial or immediate release from pre-trial confinement. Further, CSSN Copeland objects to any excludable delay.

2. CSSN Copeland has been held in pre-trial confinement for 23 days without being charged with a crime. Further, CSSN Copeland has not been provided any discovery, therefore, he is being denied the ability to defend against whatever charges the government might prefer. CSSN Copeland is in a maximum status at the brig and remains in his cell for at least 22 hours per day.[1] His defense is not permitted to have in-person private conversations with him, and the trial counsel has expressed a lack of willingness to assist in solving this issue, as seen in enclosure (1).

3. On 1 July 2024, the trial counsel submitted a letter to you requesting excludable delay from 10 June 2025 to 25 July 2025, as set forth in reference (e).

4. The defense objects to this lengthy excludable delay request. The trial counsel must act with the diligence required when someone is incarcerated – they must take the "immediate steps" required by reference (c). There must be a required higher degree of specificity before granting a request for what amounts to continued pre-trial confinement, and you should request that higher specificity from the trial counsel. Especially in this case where the confinement is so severe and the defense's access to our client has been restricted.[2]

[1] A status that at least one military judge has held is illegal pretrial punishment.

5. Per reference (d), prior to referral, all requests for pre-trial delay, together with supporting reasons, will be submitted to the convening authority for resolution. The discussion section provides further instructions.

> The decision to grant or deny a reasonable delay is a matter within the sole discretion of the convening authority or a military judge. This decision should be based on the facts and circumstances then and there existing. Reasons to grant a delay might include, for example, the need for: time to enable counsel to prepare for trial in complex cases; time to allow examination into the mental capacity of the accused; time to process a member of the reserve component to active duty for disciplinary action; time to complete other proceedings related to the case; time requested by the defense; time to secure the availability of the accused, substantial witnesses, or other evidence; time to obtain appropriate security clearances for access to classified information or time to declassify evidence; or additional time for other good cause….

Here, the trial counsel provided no evidence or documents supporting the reason for the delay. The generalized notion of the need to conduct further investigation does not amount to the specificity required under the Rules. Why does the government need until 25 July 2025? What do they expect will be completed by that date? Based on the enclosures to Commanding Officer's 48/72 hour letter for CSSN Copeland's initial review officer hearing, the Art. 120 investigation started in July 2024 – a year ago. However, according to the trial counsel's request for excludable delay there "several lengthy investigative steps" remaining. You should demand more specificity. Additionally, R.C.M. 707 does not address excludable delay when the accused is in pre-trial confinement.

6. Per reference (c), when accused is ordered into arrest or confinement before trial, immediate steps shall be taken to inform the person of the specific offense of which the person is accused and to try the person or to dismiss the charges and release the person. Immediate steps require more than diligence, it requires immediacy. CSSN Copeland has been in confinement for the last 23 days.

7. CSSN Copeland requests that the government take immediate steps to take him to trial or release him from pre-trial confinement.

8. The defense requests the government to provide the defense with any documents, or communications with NCIS, the name and contact information of all investigators, and a written response to the government's excludable delay request.

LCDR Serfess,

You are more than welcome to address your concerns with the brig or NCIS.

The government cannot support a 2 July meeting in A-50. I've asked the brig if you can use the IRO room - but the brig is unable to accommodate. I suggest you liaise directly with the brig regarding any future visits.

CDR Mayo,

Please find LCDR Morgan and I's notice or representation attached.

Our understanding is the CSSN Copeland's cell was searched and his IRO package was taken from him because according to NCIS he cannot have that documentation. Is there a sealing or protection order in this case? Please let us know why CSSN Copeland cannot review and keep the documents associated with his case. Please let us know what the Government believes CSSN Copeland can have and review in his case. If NCIS has questions about how CSSN Copeland received documents, please have them reach out me and LCDR Morgan.

Please let me know if you need anything from me. Are we good for Wednesday? We have a couple of A/C spaces in the defense that we can use to meet with CSSN Copeland – the same spaces being used today with a client from the brig.

I'll also call the brig tomorrow and see if I can help with a contact visit. The room LCDR Serfess is referring to with the glass does require folks to get closer to the glass to talk. I've dealt with it, too. It's doable, but I understand the preference to meet in a different room. I don't have any SA on what RLSO Security will require here though. So - I'll get more information on that as well. MTF.

CDR Mayo,

We need to have a confidential meeting. The brig will not allow us to have a "contact" visit. We can only meet with him in the room with the glass – where we have to yell for him to hear us (not confidential) and frankly we cannot hear him and do want him to have to yell. Building A-50 is where the rest of the defense team is so that seems like the best place. Further, it seems like the least risk of a potential member seeing him in shackles.

Please let me know if you need anything else.

1. Pursuant to Rules of Courts-Martial 707, the Government's request for excludable delay, reference (a), from 10 June 2025 to 25 July 2025 is hereby approved. In response to that request, I received reference (b), Defense Counsel's objection to the Government's request.

2. In weighing the Government's request against Defense's objection, I have determined that the Government's request is reasonable in both length and rational based on the Government's stated basis.

3. My point of contact for this matter is Staff Judge Advocate, CDR Beasley-Ledet, JAGC, USN (757) 322-2936, or via email at ronisha.t.beasleyledet.mil@us.navy.mil.

1. Per references (a) through (d), CSSN Copeland, USN, through counsel, demands a speedy trial or immediate release from pre-trial confinement. On 9 June 2025, CSSN Copeland was placed in pre-trial confinement. On 1 July 2025, the detailed special trial counsel requested excludable delay until 25 July 2025 and Commander, Navy Region Mid-Atlantic approved the request. As of today, 25 July 2025, no charges have been preferred. Based solely on the fact that the offense of violating Article 118 appears on the confinement order, CSSN Copeland has been placed in "Maximum" status in the Naval Consolidated Brig Charleston, Detachment Chesapeake. CSSN Copeland spends 22 hours per day in his cell with no other human contact. He is not permitted to have contact visits with his attorneys. As such, CSSN Copeland demands a speedy trial and requests to be brought to trial immediately. Additionally, CSSN Copeland requests to have a private meeting with his attorneys.

2. Please contact me with any questions or concerns you may have at 850-452-5572 or via email at amanda.m.serfess.mil@us.navy.mil.

1. The Defense has already submitted two speedy trial requests in relation to the Government's investigation and case into CSSN Jermiah Copeland, USN. CSSN Copeland has been in confinement for over 50 days without charges. First, CSSN Copeland has the right to dispute his pretrial confinement, to do so requires discovery. Second, the professional rules of responsibility require fairness. If the trial counsel has access to discovery, out of fairness, it should be shared with the defense. Finally, providing discovery to the defense will assist in avoiding speedy trial prejudice and permit the defense to be prepared if the government pursues charges in this case. In accordance with references (a) and (b), which govern fairness to opposing parties and Government counsel responsibilities, and references (c) and (d), which govern pretrial confinement and pre-preferral sessions of court, the Defense requests the Government produce for use, inspection, and/or copying the following in the subject case:

a. Evidence

(1) Any evidence that is material to either the issue of guilt or the sentence, regardless of admissibility, that is known to the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, witnesses, or consultants.

(2) Any sworn or signed statements relating to the charged offenses, and any notes derived from those oral statements relating to the charged offenses.

(3) Any books, papers, documents, photographs, tangible objects, media, electronic records, or copies or portions thereof, which are within the possession, custody, or control of the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, and which are relevant to defense preparation or are intended for use by the trial counsel as evidence in the prosecution case-in-chief at trial.

(4) Any results or reports of physical or mental examinations, and of scientific tests or experiments, or copies thereof, which are within the possession, custody, or control of the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, and which are relevant to defense preparation or are intended for use by trial counsel as evidence in the prosecution case-in-chief at trial.

(5) Evidence known to the government that reasonably tends to negate the guilt or reduce the degree of guilt of the Accused on a charged offense, or is otherwise favorable to the Accused under reference (e).

(6) Evidence that adversely affects the credibility of any prosecution witness or evidence.

(7) All evidence or information of any identification of the Accused.

(8) A written list of, and access to, all evidence seized from the person or property of the Accused, or believed to be owned by the Accused, as well as any search warrant, consent form, command authorization or other basis upon which any search was conducted or any evidence was seized.

(9) Notice of the government's intent to offer any out-of-court statement under the residual hearsay exception.

(10) Copies of any diagrams that any witness has used for identification purposes and any notes or writing that any witness has reviewed and indicated was correct or adopted as an accurate statement.

(11) Copies of any subpoena or subpoena duces tecum issued in this case.

b. Investigative Documents, Records, and Procedures.

(1) A complete, legible, color copy, including all attachments, of any investigative report created by any investigative agency or command related to this case, specifically including but not limited to:

(a) All Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) Interim Reports of Investigation;

(b) All memoranda or reports drafted by personnel assigned to USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) relating to this case; and

(c) All local law enforcement reports addressing the allegations, interactions, complaints, and arrests.

(d) All reports and notifications drafted by the Navy Absentee Collection and Information Center (NACIC) regarding CSSN Copeland and CSSN A.R.

(2) Any agency or law enforcement documents and data, made in connection with this case, including all attachments. This request includes all forms and documents, including witness reliability forms, data sheets, and other relevant documents. This request includes, but is not limited to, the following relevant documentation:

(a) Interview logs;

(b) Interview records;

(c) Source dossier and forms related to any Confidential Informants;

(d) Informants' notes;

(e) Any document detailing the disbursement of any funds in support of the investigation in this case;

(f) Investigative records checks, including NCIC checks, run on any person during the investigation of this case;

(g) Any documents related to searches and seizures;

(h) Internal communications, emails, or other documents used to brief, respond to, and/or request investigative activities related to this case. This request specifically includes any communication between law enforcement and a member of the Accused's command, the convening authority, the staff judge advocate, or any officer directing the investigation;

(i) All records reflecting the chain of custody of any evidence seized and/or tested; and

(j) All personal or business notes, memoranda, and other writings prepared by investigators in the case that are not furnished pursuant to any other provisions of this request.

(3) The names of all government investigators who have participated, or are presently participating, in the investigation of this case, as well as their accreditation, any previous law-enforcement or investigative jobs held, and a statement as to their length of service in such jobs.

(4) Any evidence of the revocation or suspension of the credentials of any investigators involved in this case, or evidence that any investigator was a subject or suspect in an internal affairs investigation.

(5) Notice of any expected forensic or scientific testing that may destroy evidence.

(6) All laboratory reports, expert conclusions or statements, chain of custody documents, forensic notes, and other evidence or documents relied on by government experts in the performance of their services. This includes any laboratory tests, field tests, and reports thereof, including but not limited to DNA, fingerprints, blood samples, handwriting exemplars, and chemical analyses of substances seized, regardless of the results of the tests.

(7) Copies of any inspections by accrediting bodies of any laboratory conducting forensic or scientific testing of evidence in this case.

c. Witnesses.

(1) The full names, locations, and telephone numbers of all individuals interviewed in this case or otherwise used in developing the case against the Accused.

(2) Any evidence from unit personnel files demonstrating any disciplinary actions against a potential government witness.

(3) Any evidence or information of any promises of immunity or leniency made to any potential government witness by trial counsel or military authorities or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities. This includes the contents of any formal or informal pretrial agreement reached with any co-conspirator or potential witness.

(4) The contents of any prior inconsistent statement or any statement that tends to show bias or motive to fabricate made by any potential witness in this case known by the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities.

(5) Any evidence that a potential witness consumed alcohol or drugs prior to witnessing the events that give rise to his or her testimony.

(6) Any evidence tending to show that any potential witness's ability to perceive, remember, communicate, or tell the truth is impaired.

(7) Any evidence that any potential witness has been diagnosed as an alcoholic, alcohol abuser, or controlled substance abuser.

(8) Any evidence that any potential witness sought or received mental health treatment, including specifically the mental health treatment records of the complaining witness.

(9) Notice of the government's intention to employ an expert witness or consultant and the name, contact information, and resume for the intended expert witness or consultant. This request includes the government's written request to the Convening Authority as well as the Convening Authority's written response.

(10) All personnel records for law enforcement and potential military witnesses for evidence of adverse performance, bias, or any evidence that would constitute grounds for impeachment.

d. Information and records regarding the Accused.

(1) The contents of all statements, oral or written, made by the Accused that are relevant to the case. This includes statements that are within the control of the government and military law enforcement agents, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, witnesses, or consultants.

(2) Any records of the Accused's prior civilian or court-martial convictions which the government may offer on the merits for any purpose, including impeachment.

(3) Copies of all documents, including emails, pertaining to any pretrial confinement or restrictions on the liberty of the Accused, including any change in the liberty status of the Accused since the alleged misconduct that forms the basis for the charges in this case.

(4) The Blue Ribbon copy of the Accused's service record book.

(5) Pursuant to Mil. R. Evid. 404, 413, or 414, all evidence or information pertaining to any other crimes, wrongs, or acts committed by the Accused that the government may seek to introduce at trial for any purpose, and notice of the government's intent to introduce such evidence.

e. Sentencing.

(1) Evidence known to the government which reasonably tends to mitigate the Accused's responsibility or might lead a fact-finder to adjudge a less severe sentence.

(2) Written material that will be presented by the government at presentencing proceedings, if any.

(3) The names, addresses, and a synopsis of expected testimony for the witnesses the government intends to call at presentencing proceedings, if any.

f. Unlawful Command Influence

(1) In light of reference (i), evidence of any direct communication, whether written or oral, by any senior military leaders—including civilians—which may have influenced the disposition decisions or actions of:

(a) Any officers acting under R.C.M. 305 in this case.

(2) In light of reference (j), evidence of any direct communication, whether written or oral, by any senior military leaders—including civilians—which might influence the post-trial disposition decisions or actions of:

(a) The Staff Judge Advocate under R.C.M. 1106; or

(b) The Convening Authority under Article 60, UCMJ, and R.C.M. 1107.

2. Specific Items Requested. In addition to the above items, these specific items are promptly requested.

a. The defense requests discovery of the following items that are relevant to defense preparation:

(1) Physical access for Defense to visit CSSN Copeland's barracks room in an unaltered state, which is located at X-2 barracks, room 335B.

(2) Any and all surveillance camera footage from X-2 barracks and Miller Hall from 28 May 2025 to 10 June 2025. If there is no surveillance camera footage at either of those two barracks, defense requests surveillance camera footage during the requested timeframe from surrounding buildings that are angled toward those barracks.

(3) The full autopsy report from the autopsy performed on CSSN A.R. on or about 11 June 2025.

(4) The names, contact information, and current commands of CSSN Copeland's and CSSN A.R.'s roommates from their barracks.

(5) All muster reports and liberty logs for the CS Department onboard USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) from 26 May 2025 to 10 June 2025.

(6) All records of leave chits for CSSN Copeland and CSSN A.R. while stationed onboard USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95).

(7) Phone records and call logs for CSSN A.R. from 25 May 2025 to 10 June 2025.

(8) Bank records for CSSN A.R. from 25 May 2025 to 10 June 2025.

(9) Full phone extraction from CSSN A.R. and CSSN Copeland's cellular phones.

(10) Copy of the following documents listed in LT Maddrell's email to CAPT Santicola of 3 June 2025:

a. Initial CMEO report of 17 September 2024;

b. CDRE's disposition and LOI issued of 31 January 2025;

c. "CSSN Appeal" of 12 March 2025;

d. CNSL CMEO Denial letter of 30 May 2025; and

e. UA SITREP for CSSN Copeland and CSSN A.R. of 1 June 2025.

(11) Any and all enclosures, to include media, missing from the investigations previously provided to defense relating to the accused. This request includes enclosures and media from prior charges, acts or wrongs the government anticipates providing notice as M.R.E. 404(b) evidence.

3. The Defense expects that the government will make a diligent effort to comply with this discovery request. As to any particular requested information, the Defense will regard any nonresponse or response without comment as an affirmative assertion by the government that the requested information does not exist. This is a continuing request, and as such, this request includes a request for any information that the government later discovers before, during, or after trial of this case, if any.

4. The Defense requests a response in writing within seven (7) days of service of this request. Please contact us with any questions or concerns you may have. You may reach me at (757) 341-4486 or via email at clifton.e.morgan4.mil@us.navy.mil.

Subj: GOVERNMENT REQUEST FOR EXCLUDABLE DELAY ICO UNITED STATES V. CSSN JERMIAH COPELAND, USN

Ref: (a) R.C.M. 707 (2024 ed.)

1. Pursuant to reference (a), the Government respectfully requests excludable delay for the period beginning on 25 July 2025 through 15 August 2025.

2. On 10 June 2025, CSSN Copeland was placed in pre-trial confinement. Per reference (a), this event requires CSSN Copeland be brought to trial within 120 days of the imposition of restraint. On 1 July 2025, the Government requested excludable delay from 10 June 2025 through 25 July 2025. This request was granted 9 July 2025.

3. CSSN Copeland is under investigation for violating Uniform Code of Military Justice Article 107 (False official statement), Article 117a (Wrongful broadcast or distribution of intimate visual images), Article 118 (Murder), Article 120 (Rape and sexual assault), Article 128 (Assault), and Article 128b (Domestic Violence). These alleged violations primarily span four separate, complex alleged incidents and investigation remains ongoing into each.

4. Although NCIS and the Government have exercised all expedience in this case, several lengthy investigative steps remain. First, as to the allegation of murder, outstanding steps include receipt of the final reports of investigation, forensic analysis of multiple pieces of physical evidence, a report of the autopsy of the victim's body, a finalized toxicology report, and interviews of several witnesses. The Government is also waiting on returns from various providers relating to UCMJ Article 30a matters, and it is unclear when those results will be in the Government's possession. Second, regarding the sexual assault allegations, NCIS recently acquired information concerning pre-service incidents and a fifth post-service allegation, which may provide evidence regarding the current charges, or could constitute further charges. NCIS requires time to pursue these leads by interviewing witnesses, gathering court documents, and reviewing digital evidence.

5. Pursuant to reference (a), the Government may receive excludable delay to thoroughly investigate a case and prepare for trial. Accordingly, the Government respectfully requests the time beginning on 25 July 2025 through 15 August 2025 be excluded.

6. Thank you for your time and consideration in this matter. If you have any questions about this request, please contact me via e-mail at patricia.t.cannaday.mil@us.navy.mil or via phone at (757) 341-4509.

(3) Demand for speedy trial of 16 Jun 25
(4) Demand for speedy trial of 25 Jul 25
(5) Request for Discovery of 30 Jul 25

1. Per references (a) through (d), CSSN Copeland, through counsel, objects to any excludable delay and demands a speedy trial or immediate release from pre-trial confinement.

2. CSSN Copeland has been held in pre-trial confinement for 62 days – over two months – without being charged with a crime. Further, CSSN Copeland has not been provided any discovery, despite the defense submitting a formal request to the trial counsel for discovery. Therefore, he is being denied the ability to defend against whatever charges the government might prefer. CSSN Copeland is in a maximum status at the brig and remains in his cell for at least 22 hours per day.[1] His defense is not permitted to have in-person private conversations with him, and the trial counsel has expressed a lack of willingness to assist in solving this issue, as seen in enclosure (1) of reference (f).

3. On 1 July 2024, the trial counsel submitted a letter to you requesting excludable delay from 10 June 2025 to 25 July 2025, as set forth in reference (e). That same day, the defense objected to that request as many of the alleged offenses occurred over year ago and the government failed to state with any specificity why excludable delay was necessary in a case where the accused remains in the most restrictive confinement without proper access to counsel. On 9 July 2025, you granted the government request for excludable delay until 25 July 2025. On 25 July 2025, CSSN Copeland again demanded a speedy trial. The Office of Special Trial Counsel neither acknowledged or responded to this request. On 30 July 2025, the defense requested discovery citing Rules 3.4 and 3.8 of the JAG Corps Rules for professional responsibility because the defense requires and is entitled to fairness and equal access to discovery. Further, discovery would reduce the risk of prejudicial speedy trial issues if charges are ever preferred in this case. The trial counsel neither acknowledged or responded to this request. Instead, on 8 August 2025, the trial counsel once again requested excludable delay.

4. On 29 July 2025, the defense once again requested to meet with CSSN Copeland for an in-person private meeting. On 7 August 2025, the USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS denied CSSN Copeland's request providing no reasoning.

5. The defense again objects to this lengthy excludable delay request. The trial counsel must act with the diligence required when someone is incarcerated – they must take the "immediate steps" required by reference (c). A higher degree of specificity is required before granting a request for what amounts to continued pre-trial confinement, and you should request that higher specificity from the trial counsel. Especially in this case where the confinement is so severe and CSSN Copeland's access to defense counsel has been restricted.

6. Per reference (d), prior to referral, all requests for pre-trial delay, together with supporting reasons, will be submitted to the convening authority for resolution. The discussion section provides further instructions.

> The decision to grant or deny a reasonable delay is a matter within the sole discretion of the convening authority or a military judge. This decision should be based on the facts and circumstances then and there existing. Reasons to grant a delay might include, for example, the need for: time to enable counsel to prepare for trial in complex cases; time to allow examination into the mental capacity of the accused; time to process a member of the reserve component to active duty for disciplinary action; time to complete other proceedings related to the case; time requested by the defense; time to secure the availability of the accused, substantial witnesses, or other evidence; time to obtain appropriate security clearances for access to classified information or time to declassify evidence; or additional time for other good cause….

Here, the trial counsel once again provided no evidence or documents supporting the vague reason for the delay. The generalized notion of the need to "conduct further investigation" does not amount to the specificity required under the Rules. Why does the government require excludable delay until 15 August 2025? What specific actions do they expect to be completed by that date? What has trial counsel and NCIS done between 25 July 2025 and 8 August 2025 to take immediate steps to bring this case to trial? Why are there witnesses who have not been interviewed? The military has no jurisdiction over pre-service misconduct. CSSN Copeland should not linger in maximum confinement while law enforcement investigates civilian charges. You must demand more specificity; you must demand charges. Additionally, R.C.M. 707 does not address excludable delay when the accused is in pre-trial confinement.

6. Per reference (c), when accused is ordered into arrest or confinement before trial, immediate steps shall be taken to inform the person of the specific offense of which the person is accused and to try the person or to dismiss the charges and release the person. Immediate steps require more than diligence, it requires immediacy. CSSN Copeland has been in confinement for the last 62 days.

7. CSSN Copeland requests that the government take immediate steps to take him to trial or release him from pre-trial confinement.

8. The defense requests the government to provide the defense with the requested discovery and a written response to the government's excludable delay request.

9. Please contact me with any questions or concerns you may have at 850-452-5572 or via email at amanda.m.serfess.mil@us.navy.mil

Subj: REQUEST FOR REDRESS ICO CSSN JERMIAH COPELAND, USN

Ref: (a) U.S. CONST. amend. VI
(b) R.C.M. 502
(c) Article 138, UCMJ

1. On behalf of CSSN Copeland, the defense respectfully requests to be able to meet with CSSN Copeland in a private room to have a private conversation where he can consult with his attorneys without the risk of being heard by people who are not members of his defense. CSSN Copeland has been in pretrial confinement since 9 June 2025. Based solely on the fact that CSSN Copeland has "Article 118" on his confinement order, he has been placed in a "maximum status." Because CSSN Copeland is in that status, he cannot have a "contact" visit with his attorneys at the brig. This means that his attorneys can only meet with him separated by a plexiglass wall. This room is not soundproof – the brig staff or anyone else can hear from outside the room. Further, because of the plexiglass, it is difficult for CSSN Copeland to hear his attorneys and even more difficult for his attorneys to hear him. This is inadequate to properly represent CSSN Copeland and does not meet the requirements of reference (a).

2. Understanding that you cannot order the brig to have a different policy, you do have the authority to transport CSSN Copeland to a different location so that he can meet with his attorneys. Defense counsel regularly meet with clients who are in pretrial confinement at building A-50 on Naval Station Norfolk. Commands transport pre-trial confinees, including other pretrial confinees who are accused of murder and attempted murder, to consult with their attorneys. A-50 is a secure building, it is the same building where CSSN Copeland will meet with his attorneys should charges in this case ever be pursued. CSSN Copeland simply requests to exercise his constitutional right to counsel, which must include the right to meet and openly discuss his case. The right to counsel includes the right to effective counsel. CSSN Copeland's attorneys cannot be effective if we cannot meet and openly discuss the case with our client. Despite twice demanding a speedy trial, CSSN Copeland has been in pretrial confinement for 50 days without being brought to trial or being able to meet with his attorneys in a private setting. Please allow CSSN Copeland to have a privileged, in-person meeting with his attorneys.

3. If you have any questions, need amplifying information, or need assistance in coordinating the release of CSSN Copeland's personal property, LCDR Amanda Serfess, detailed defense counsel, can be reached at 850-452-5572 or via email at amanda.m.serfess.mil@us.navy.mil.

Subject: Request for Redress CSSN Copeland

CO,

Good afternoon. I, along LCDR Morgan (copied) represent CSSN Copeland. CSSN Copeland has the right to be represented by counsel. To effectuate that right, he needs to able to have a private conversation with his attorneys. We have made the request, but have not received a clear answer on why he cannot meet with his attorneys in-person in a private room. Please find a request for redress ICO CSSN Copeland attached.

I am available to answer any questions.

(b) Barker v. Wingo, 407 U.S. 514 (1972)
(c) Article 10, U.C.M.J.
(d) R.C.M. 707

1. Per references (a) through (d), CSSN Copeland, USN, through counsel, demands a speedy trial or immediate release from pre-trial confinement. On 9 June 2025, CSSN Copeland was placed in pre-trial confinement. As of today, no charges have been preferred. Based solely on the fact that the offense of violating Article 118 appears on the confinement order, CSSN Copeland has been placed in "Maximum" status in the Naval Consolidated Brig Charleston, Detachment Chesapeake. CSSN Copeland spends 22 hours per day in his cell with no other human contact. He is not permitted to have contact visits with his attorneys. As such, CSSN Copeland demands a speedy trial and requests to be brought to trial immediately.

2. Please contact me with any questions or concerns you may have at 757-341-4559 or via email at amanda.m.serfess.mil@us.navy.mil.

1. The Defense has already submitted two speedy trial requests in relation to the Government's investigation and case into CSSN Jermiah Copeland, USN. CSSN Copeland has been in confinement for over 50 days without charges. First, CSSN Copeland has the right to dispute his pretrial confinement, to do so requires discovery. Second, the professional rules of responsibility require fairness. If the trial counsel has access to discovery, out of fairness, it should be shared with the defense. Finally, providing discovery to the defense will assist in avoiding speedy trial prejudice and permit the defense to be prepared if the government pursues charges in this case. In accordance with references (a) and (b), which govern fairness to opposing parties and Government counsel responsibilities, and references (c) and (d), which govern pretrial confinement and pre-preferral sessions of court, the Defense requests the Government produce for use, inspection, and/or copying the following in the subject case:

a. Evidence

(1) Any evidence that is material to either the issue of guilt or the sentence, regardless of admissibility, that is known to the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, witnesses, or consultants.

(2) Any sworn or signed statements relating to the charged offenses, and any notes derived from those oral statements relating to the charged offenses.

(3) Any books, papers, documents, photographs, tangible objects, media, electronic records, or copies or portions thereof, which are within the possession, custody, or control of the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, and which are relevant to defense preparation or are intended for use by the trial counsel as evidence in the prosecution case-in-chief at trial.

(4) Any results or reports of physical or mental examinations, and of scientific tests or experiments, or copies thereof, which are within the possession, custody, or control of the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, and which are relevant to defense preparation or are intended for use by trial counsel as evidence in the prosecution case-in-chief at trial.

(5) Evidence known to the government that reasonably tends to negate the guilt or reduce the degree of guilt of the Accused on a charged offense, or is otherwise favorable to the Accused under reference (e).

(6) Evidence that adversely affects the credibility of any prosecution witness or evidence.

(7) All evidence or information of any identification of the Accused.

(8) A written list of, and access to, all evidence seized from the person or property of the Accused, or believed to be owned by the Accused, as well as any search warrant, consent form, command authorization or other basis upon which any search was conducted or any evidence was seized.

(9) Notice of the government's intent to offer any out-of-court statement under the residual hearsay exception.

(10) Copies of any diagrams that any witness has used for identification purposes and any notes or writing that any witness has reviewed and indicated was correct or adopted as an accurate statement.

(11) Copies of any subpoena or subpoena duces tecum issued in this case.

b. Investigative Documents, Records, and Procedures.

(1) A complete, legible, color copy, including all attachments, of any investigative report created by any investigative agency or command related to this case, specifically including but not limited to:

(a) All Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) Interim Reports of Investigation;

(b) All memoranda or reports drafted by personnel assigned to USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) relating to this case; and

(c) All local law enforcement reports addressing the allegations, interactions, complaints, and arrests.

(d) All reports and notifications drafted by the Navy Absentee Collection and Information Center (NACIC) regarding CSSN Copeland and CSSN A.R.

(2) Any agency or law enforcement documents and data, made in connection with this case, including all attachments. This request includes all forms and documents, including witness reliability forms, data sheets, and other relevant documents. This request includes, but is not limited to, the following relevant documentation:

(a) Interview logs;

(b) Interview records;

(c) Source dossier and forms related to any Confidential Informants;

(d) Informants' notes;

(e) Any document detailing the disbursement of any funds in support of the investigation in this case;

(f) Investigative records checks, including NCIC checks, run on any person during the investigation of this case;

(g) Any documents related to searches and seizures;

(h) Internal communications, emails, or other documents used to brief, respond to, and/or request investigative activities related to this case. This request specifically includes any communication between law enforcement and a member of the Accused's command, the convening authority, the staff judge advocate, or any officer directing the investigation;

(i) All records reflecting the chain of custody of any evidence seized and/or tested; and

(j) All personal or business notes, memoranda, and other writings prepared by investigators in the case that are not furnished pursuant to any other provisions of this request.

(3) The names of all government investigators who have participated, or are presently participating, in the investigation of this case, as well as their accreditation, any previous law-enforcement or investigative jobs held, and a statement as to their length of service in such jobs.

(4) Any evidence of the revocation or suspension of the credentials of any investigators involved in this case, or evidence that any investigator was a subject or suspect in an internal affairs investigation.

(5) Notice of any expected forensic or scientific testing that may destroy evidence.

(6) All laboratory reports, expert conclusions or statements, chain of custody documents, forensic notes, and other evidence or documents relied on by government experts in the performance of their services. This includes any laboratory tests, field tests, and reports thereof, including but not limited to DNA, fingerprints, blood samples, handwriting exemplars, and chemical analyses of substances seized, regardless of the results of the tests.

(7) Copies of any inspections by accrediting bodies of any laboratory conducting forensic or scientific testing of evidence in this case.

c. Witnesses.

(1) The full names, locations, and telephone numbers of all individuals interviewed in this case or otherwise used in developing the case against the Accused.

(2) Any evidence from unit personnel files demonstrating any disciplinary actions against a potential government witness.

(3) Any evidence or information of any promises of immunity or leniency made to any potential government witness by trial counsel or military authorities or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities. This includes the contents of any formal or informal pretrial agreement reached with any co-conspirator or potential witness.

(4) The contents of any prior inconsistent statement or any statement that tends to show bias or motive to fabricate made by any potential witness in this case known by the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities.

(5) Any evidence that a potential witness consumed alcohol or drugs prior to witnessing the events that give rise to his or her testimony.

(6) Any evidence tending to show that any potential witness's ability to perceive, remember, communicate, or tell the truth is impaired.

(7) Any evidence that any potential witness has been diagnosed as an alcoholic, alcohol abuser, or controlled substance abuser.

(8) Any evidence that any potential witness sought or received mental health treatment, including specifically the mental health treatment records of the complaining witness.

(9) Notice of the government's intention to employ an expert witness or consultant and the name, contact information, and resume for the intended expert witness or consultant. This request includes the government's written request to the Convening Authority as well as the Convening Authority's written response.

(10) All personnel records for law enforcement and potential military witnesses for evidence of adverse performance, bias, or any evidence that would constitute grounds for impeachment.

d. Information and records regarding the Accused.

(1) The contents of all statements, oral or written, made by the Accused that are relevant to the case. This includes statements that are within the control of the government and military law enforcement agents, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, witnesses, or consultants.

(2) Any records of the Accused's prior civilian or court-martial convictions which the government may offer on the merits for any purpose, including impeachment.

(3) Copies of all documents, including emails, pertaining to any pretrial confinement or restrictions on the liberty of the Accused, including any change in the liberty status of the Accused since the alleged misconduct that forms the basis for the charges in this case.

(4) The Blue Ribbon copy of the Accused's service record book.

(5) Pursuant to Mil. R. Evid. 404, 413, or 414, all evidence or information pertaining to any other crimes, wrongs, or acts committed by the Accused that the government may seek to introduce at trial for any purpose, and notice of the government's intent to introduce such evidence.

e. Sentencing.

(1) Evidence known to the government which reasonably tends to mitigate the Accused's responsibility or might lead a fact-finder to adjudge a less severe sentence.

(2) Written material that will be presented by the government at presentencing proceedings, if any.

(3) The names, addresses, and a synopsis of expected testimony for the witnesses the government intends to call at presentencing proceedings, if any.

f. Unlawful Command Influence

(1) In light of reference (i), evidence of any direct communication, whether written or oral, by any senior military leaders—including civilians—which may have influenced the disposition decisions or actions of:

(a) Any officers acting under R.C.M. 305 in this case.

(2) In light of reference (j), evidence of any direct communication, whether written or oral, by any senior military leaders—including civilians—which might influence the post-trial disposition decisions or actions of:

(a) The Staff Judge Advocate under R.C.M. 1106; or

(b) The Convening Authority under Article 60, UCMJ, and R.C.M. 1107.

2. Specific Items Requested. In addition to the above items, these specific items are promptly requested.

a. The defense requests discovery of the following items that are relevant to defense preparation:

(1) Physical access for Defense to visit CSSN Copeland's barracks room in an unaltered state, which is located at X-2 barracks, room 335B.

(2) Any and all surveillance camera footage from X-2 barracks and Miller Hall from 28 May 2025 to 10 June 2025. If there is no surveillance camera footage at either of those two barracks, defense requests surveillance camera footage during the requested timeframe from surrounding buildings that are angled toward those barracks.

(3) The full autopsy report from the autopsy performed on CSSN A.R. on or about 11 June 2025.

(4) The names, contact information, and current commands of CSSN Copeland's and CSSN A.R.'s roommates from their barracks.

(5) All muster reports and liberty logs for the CS Department onboard USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) from 26 May 2025 to 10 June 2025.

(6) All records of leave chits for CSSN Copeland and CSSN A.R. while stationed onboard USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95).

(7) Phone records and call logs for CSSN A.R. from 25 May 2025 to 10 June 2025.

(8) Bank records for CSSN A.R. from 25 May 2025 to 10 June 2025.

(9) Full phone extraction from CSSN A.R. and CSSN Copeland's cellular phones.

(10) Copy of the following documents listed in LT Maddrell's email to CAPT Santicola of 3 June 2025:

a. Initial CMEO report of 17 September 2024;

b. CDRE's disposition and LOI issued of 31 January 2025;

c. "CSSN Appeal" of 12 March 2025;

d. CNSL CMEO Denial letter of 30 May 2025; and

e. UA SITREP for CSSN Copeland and CSSN A.R. of 1 June 2025.

(11) Any and all enclosures, to include media, missing from the investigations previously provided to defense relating to the accused. This request includes enclosures and media from prior charges, acts or wrongs the government anticipates providing notice as M.R.E. 404(b) evidence.

3. The Defense expects that the government will make a diligent effort to comply with this discovery request. As to any particular requested information, the Defense will regard any nonresponse or response without comment as an affirmative assertion by the government that the requested information does not exist. This is a continuing request, and as such, this request includes a request for any information that the government later discovers before, during, or after trial of this case, if any.

4. The Defense requests a response in writing within seven (7) days of service of this request. Please contact us with any questions or concerns you may have. You may reach me at (757) 341-4486 or via email at clifton.e.morgan4.mil@us.navy.mil.

CDR Mayo,

We have our Art. 6 inspection from 8-19 – but no one is coming to Pensacola so I could really be anywhere for that. Right now, I will be in Jacksonville from 24 Sept – 3 October. So really I could make anything before that work. The week of the 15th being my preference. (But, let me talk to Clifton).

We would like to meet with our client before the Art. 32. We'd request to schedule the hearing in the afternoon so that we can meet with him in the morning. (NCIS can meet with him in person, but we cannot….).

Please let us know what you need from us.

LCDR Serfess,

Please see the attached SOP regarding privileged correspondence. For safety and security, we may inspect incoming and outgoing privileged correspondence solely to ensure there is no contraband. We do not read the documents, and this inspection is done in the presence of the prisoner. He has been briefed on these procedures and understands his responsibilities WRT privileged correspondence.

Due to his custody classification, meeting in this facility would be conducted in the no contact booth. You can pass documents through the slots on either side of the plexiglass window. Video can be displayed through the same window. There would be nobody else in the room and we have sound machines that can be placed outside the room to create a layer of sound to mask conversations from the guards outside the room. Alternatively, his command could send escorts to take him to a legal office to meet which would allow for you to speak with him privately in the same room.

Please see below email. I'm trying to get some answers about bringing privileged documents to one of my clients confined at the Chesapeake Brig. Do you have an SOP for the prisoner management division. Will they review privileged documents?

Further, is it possible for CSSN Copeland's defense team to have an in-person, confidential, meeting with him at the brig, one where we can show our client evidence, including video evidence and speak with him privately in the same room.

I copied my XO for his SA.

MA1,

If I want to deliver documents to CSSN Copeland, those documents will go to the Prisoner Management Department? What will the Prisoner Management Department do with those documents? Is there an instruction or a point of contact in that department who I can speak with? How can I deliver privileged documents to a client at the brig and be assured that no one will look at those document?

Please and thank you in advance.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

Arrange and bind the record of trial with allied papers in the sequence indicated below. The court reporter is responsible for certifying the record of trial prior to transmittal for appellate review, in accordance with R.C.M. 1112 and JAG/CNLSCINST 5813.1G.

1. Pages 1 (Cover page) and 2 (Chronology Sheet) of DD Form 490 (enclosure 7).

2. Court reporter certification of Record of Trial (enclosure 8).

3. Military Judge verification of Record of Trial (enclosure 8).

4. DD Form 490 (pages 3-6 and any continuation pages if needed) (enclosure 7).

5. Completed Post-Trial Checklist from JAG/CNLSCINST 5814.1G (enclosure 2).

6. Completed Convening Authority's Action Checklist (enclosure 4).

7. Post-Trial Documents.

a. Certificates/Proof of Service of the Certified Record of Trial to the accused and victim, if applicable (enclosure 7).

b. Convening Authority's Action and Entry of Judgment (enclosure 6).

c. Any requests for copies of the court-martial record pursuant to R.C.M. 1106 or 1106A (attach written requests, and any certificates/proof of service, but do not attach the victim's post-trial rights advisement or DD Form 2704).

d. Matters submitted by the accused and/or victim under R.C.M. 1106 or 1106A, or any written waiver of the right to submit such matters. Include all responses to requests here as well.

e. Any deferment request and the action on it (including any request to waive automatic forfeitures under Article 58b).

f. Conditions of suspension and proof of service on probationer under R.C.M. 1107, if any.

g. All clemency recommendations by members or military judge, if any.

h. Statement of Trial Results (enclosure 1).

i. Crime Reporting Information.

j. Accused's request for appellate defense counsel, or waiver/withdrawal of appellate review under R.C.M. 1115, if applicable.

k. All transfer orders, confinement orders, and excess leave orders.

l. Briefs of counsel submitted after trial, if any.

8. Preliminary Hearing.

a. DD Form 457, Preliminary Hearing Officer's Report, pursuant to Article 32, if such hearing was conducted, followed by any other allied papers that accompanied the charges when referred for trial (including any matters submitted under R.C.M. 405(l), unless included elsewhere in the record of trial).*

b. Waiver of Article 32 Hearing (if applicable).

9. Pre-Trial Allied Papers.

a. Convening Order and all amending convening orders.

b. DD Form 458, Charge Sheet (unless included at the point of arraignment in the transcript).

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

c. Congressional inquiries and replies, if any.

d. Advice of staff judge advocate, when prepared pursuant to Article 34 or otherwise.

10. Record of Proceedings.

a. Substantially verbatim recording of court-martial proceedings. Segregate open and closed sessions of the court-martial in accordance with R.C.M. 1113 and the following guidance:*

b. Ensure that each closed session of the court-martial is recorded on a separate DVD marked CLOSED SESSION, placed in its own envelope marked CLOSED SESSION, and sealed.

c. Label all DVD(s) and envelopes with the information on page 1 of this template.

d. Mark all DVDs and envelopes with "1 of X," as necessary (for example, the second DVD of six DVDs and its envelope should be marked, 2 of 6). All DVDs of open sessions may be in one envelope.

e. Mark all DVDs with their beginning and ending timestamps. The timestamps for closed sessions should match those shown on the Index.

f. Verbatim transcript or summarized report prepared in accordance with JAGINST 5814.1G. Include the following:

I. A certificate of correction, if any (including any supplemental certification for additional proceedings).

II. Court reporter and transcriptionist certification of verbatim transcript.

g. Records of former proceedings (Article 30a) and/or trials, (e.g., electronic/digital record of former proceeding, including audio recording and any scanned documentation/transcripts, CD/DVD format).*

11. Prosecution exhibits admitted in evidence.

12. Defense Exhibits admitted in evidence.

14. Redaction. The following information shall be redacted in accordance with JAGMAN 1059 from the record of trial prior to releasing it to any accused or victim (including any transcript made pursuant to R.C.M. 1114 and attached to the record of trial) unless the information establishes an element of an offense, or is otherwise required:

a. Any recordings of closed sessions, any transcripts of closed sessions, and any sealed exhibits.

b. Names of minor victims, and names of minor witnesses. If an identifier is used, use only the initials.

c. Social Security Numbers.

d. Financial account information.

e. Home addresses.

f. Telephone numbers.

g. Personal e-mail addresses.

h. Dates of birth.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

i. Any other information that could be used to identify a specific person other than the accused.

*If the report of preliminary hearing or record of trial contains exhibits, proceedings, or other materials ordered sealed by the preliminary hearing officer or military judge, counsel for the Government, the court reporter, or trial counsel shall cause such materials to be sealed to prevent unauthorized examination or disclosure, pursuant to R.C.M. 1113. Sealed material shall be properly marked, individually placed in separate envelopes with a copy of the preliminary hearing officer or military judge sealing order affixed to it, and inserted at the appropriate place in the record of trial. Do not duplicate sealed material to include it in any copy of the record of trial. Instead, insert a copy of the sealing order in lieu of any sealed material, in any copies of the record of trial.

DIVIDERS ARE NOT NECESSARY TO SEPARATE EACH SECTION. IF USED, THEY CAN BE PAPER RATHER THAN CARD STOCK. IF A PARTICULAR COMPONENT IS NOT APPLICABLE IN THE RECORD OF TRIAL, SUCH AS AN ARTICLE 32 HEARING, EXHIBITS NOT ADMITTED, POST-TRIAL PROCEEDINGS AND VACATION HEARINGS, DO NOT INSERT A DIVIDER OR PLACEHOLDER.

FRONT AND BACK COVER MUST BE ON BLUE CARDS STOCK AND LABELED WITH GUM LABELS.

Binding. Each volume of a record of trial should be no more than 1.5 inches thick and bound at the top with metal or plastic fasteners. DO NOT interlace or "piggy-back" prong fasteners to create an oversized volume. DO NOT place hole punches where it covers up the evidence or language in the transcript. When it becomes necessary to assemble the record of trial in more than one volume, the volumes will be numbered consecutively, on the front cover, as illustrated below:

Volume 1 of 4 (Pages 1-250)
Volume 2 of 4 (Pages 251-400)
Volume 3 of 4 (Pages 401-652)
Volume 4 of 4 (Pages 653-901 and Exhibits)

Make the first volume of a multi-volume record an inch thick or smaller to allow for inclusion of post-trial documents. Limit subsequent volumes to 1.5 inches, unless dividing them requires assembling an additional volume smaller than a half inch.

Label the upper right-hand corner or the Preparation and Certification of Record of Trial Form (enclosure (8)) to reflect which copy it is, i.e., "ORIGINAL," "ACCUSED," "REVIEW" etc.

INVESTIGATIVE ACTION 06AUG24

CONTROL: 26JUL24-NFXQ-00015-8CNA

S/COPELAND, JERMIAH TAYLOR/SN USN
[redacted]

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF [redacted]

1. As background, on 26Jul24 NCISRU USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75) was notified by MA1 Ronald CORTESELLI, USN, CVN 75, of an unrestricted reported of sexual assault aboard the ship that occurred on 23Jul24 at approximately 0200 hours. MA1 CORTESELLI reported ABHAN [redacted] ([redacted] USN, CVN 75, reported CSSN Jermiah Taylor COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, CVN 75, grabbed her vulva, breasts, and buttocks over the clothing while applying pressure to her neck so that it was difficult for her to breathe.

2. On 06Aug24 at approximately 2030 hours, [redacted] was interviewed by Reporting Agent (RA) aboard CVN 75, while at sea in compartment 02-88-4-Q. IT2 Morgan RODRIGUEZ, USN, Uniform Victim Advocate (UVA), CVN 75, was present for the entirety of the interview.

3. The interview was audio and video recorded in its entirety utilizing the CaseCracker system. This report serves as a synopsis of the interview and does not necessarily describe the information in the order in which it was discussed. For a verbatim account, please refer to the digital recording; Enclosure (A) pertains.

4. [redacted] related she is in a relationship with CSSN Fernando CUESTABRAVO, USN, CVN 75, and was in the mess decks with him in the early morning hours of 23Jul24 when he stated he was going to sleep. [redacted] stated after CSSN CUESTABRAVO left, she began receiving SnapChat snaps from S/COPELAND, who stated he was headed to the ship and expressed he wanted to talk to her about CSSN CUESTABRAVO. [redacted] agreed, and stated S/COPELAND arrived and requested the pair go somewhere private to talk.

5. After arriving to the area of the fantail, S/COPELAND told [redacted] that CSSN CUESTABRAVO was talking to other women and asserted CSSN CUESTABRAVO was not treating [redacted] the way she should be treated. [redacted] related S/COPELAND suggested SHE engage in a relationship with him (S/COPELAND) to "get back at" CSSN CUESTABRAVO. [redacted] stated she told S/COPELAND she did not "do those types of things." [redacted] recalled discussing her relationship with S/COPELAND for a short period of time before S/COPELAND began to play a "game" with her wherein he pretended to arrest her. [redacted] stated S/COPELAND forced her hands behind her back and grabbed her vulva over the clothing.

6. [redacted] related she turned around and punched S/COPELAND in the stomach.

U.S. NAVAL CRIMINAL INVESTIGATIVE SERVICE

CONTROL:26JUL24-NFXQ-00015-8CNA 06AUG24

V/C.R. related S/COPLEAND told her he heard she liked to be choked, at which time S/COPELAND applied pressure to her neck with one hand so that it was difficult for V/C.R. to breathe. V/C.R. recalled pushing S/COPELAND's hand away from her throat but that he would immediately replace it and keep applying pressure. While applying pressure to her neck, V/C.R. recalled S/COPELAND kissed her on the lips and grabbed her breasts, buttocks, and vulva over the clothing. V/C.R. related the physical contact lasted approximately a minute before S/COPELAND stopped of his own accord. V/C.R. stated she told S/COPELAND she was going to bed and left the fantail.

7. V/C.R. recalled being unsure if she should tell CSSN CUESTABRAVO because she was worried about his reaction, but texted him about what happened. V/C.R. stated CSSN CUESTABRAVO encouraged her to report the incident. V/C.R. stated she called the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) phone number she found on a poster aboard the ship, and was informed to get in touch with shipboard SAPR personnel. V/C.R. stated she did not know how, so CSSN CUESTABRAVO reported the incident to Security. V/C.R. stated she had bruising on her neck that CSSN CUESTABRAVO observed, but that it was now gone.

8. V/C.R. stated she told her Chief, CSC Gregory SIMMONS, USN, CVN 75, about the incident. V/C.R. related CSSN Jalen OWENS, USN, CVN 75, told CSSN CUESTABRAVO that S/COPELAND told her (CSSN OWENS) that V/C.R. had reported him.

9. V/C.R. provided RA screen shots of the texts she sent to CSSN CUESTABRAVA via Air Drop, and signed a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure (PASS) denoting her consent; Enclosure (B) pertains. The screen shots were subsequently placed on an NCIS Photographic Template for inclusion into the case file; Enclosure (C) pertains.

11. At the conclusion of the interview, V/C.R. was provided a DD Form 2701 Victim Witness Assistance Pamphlet (VWAP).

Interview of C.R.
6Aug'25

UNOFFICIAL TRANSCRIPT EXCERPT
ABHAN [redacted] V/C.R. USN INTERVIEW DATED 6 AUGUST 2024

00:09:21: V/C.R. And then so after that, he was like, oh, yeah, you know, you should like, get back at him. And I was like, oh, I don't do this. I don't do stuff like that. And he's like, well, you should. And he's like, well, I'm the first person you should get back at him with and he's like me [sic]. And I was like, like for what? And I was like, I don't do stuff like that. And then after that then like a little later, like after he was talking, he started like, he got in my face, he got close to me, whatever. And then like I pushed him because I don't like people in my face, like close up to me. So I like pushed him away and he was like "push me again and push me again." And he kept coming in my face. And then like after that he grabbed me or whatever. And then like he put his hand like he asked me, he's like, "Do you like being choked?" I was like, "Who told you something like that?" And he said "Nobody." And then like after that, like he put his hand around my neck and then like I tried to get his hand off my neck and he like kept going. And like I go to the push him and he was like "keep pushing me. and I'm going to keep going harder." So then I kept squeezing it and he started like touching my areas, too.

00:10:37: Special Agent: So we don't have to use any which your comfortable with, but I'm just trying to establish...So when you say areas, you're showing me your breasts?

00:10:42: V/C.R. (Indicates yes).

00:10:43: Special Agent: OK, over the clothes, under the clothes, something else?

00:10:46: V/C.R. Over the clothes.

00:10:47: Special Agent: Anywhere besides your breasts?

00:10:48: V/C.R. (Indicates yes)

00:10:48: Special Agent: Where?

00:10:49 V/C.R. Like my front and back.

00:10:51: Special Agent: Oh, OK. So was he like touching your vulva like over the clothes and then also your buttocks as well?

00:10:56: V/C.R. (Indicates yes)

00:10:58: Special Agent: OK, like running his hands over? Is he grabbing? Can you like describe that?

00:11:02 V/C.R. Like, just like grabbing.

**********

00:12:31: Special Agent: So you said that he had his hands around on your neck and it really hurt. Ok it sounds like he was applying a lot of pressure. Was it just one hand, Two hands?

00:12:40: V/C.R. One.

00:12:41: Special Agent: One hand. OK. And were you able to breathe during that period of time?

00:12:47: V/C.R. Not like a lot, like just a little.

00:12:50: Special Agent: OK, this is going to sound like a strange question, but what did your body feel like at that time?

00:12:55: V/C.R. I feel like I couldn't like - my nose hurt - like it felt like i had something in it.

I, CUESTABRAVO, FERNANDO / CSSN / E-3 / SUP / S-2 / J:7772 make the following free and voluntary statement to MA1 CORTESELLI whom I know to be a Security Patrolman. I make this statement of my own free will and without any threats or promises extended to me. I fully understand that this statement is given concerning my knowledge of SEXUAL ASSAULT.

My girlfriend texted me around 0200 that something had happened to her, she didn't want to tell me over text because she said it was something important. I met up with her that same morning around 0700, told me what happened to her, how they was having a normal conversation and he just started saying weird stuff to her, then she said he proceeded to grab her neck, then he went for a kiss, she said she kept pushing him back then she started punching him, then she said he touched her breast, then her intimate parts. Then she said she punched him and then left. After everything had happened, she texted me.

The following Questions (Q) were asked by MA1 CORTESELLI and the following Answered (A) by CSSN CUESTABRAVO:

Q: How do you know this occurred?
A: My girlfriend texted me then I saw the marks on her neck later on.
Q: What is your girlfriends name?
A: ABHAN V/C.R.
Q: Is she currently safe?
A: Yes, she is cranking right now.
Q: Who did she say did that to her?
A: CSSN Copeland
Q: What day did she text you?
A: Wednesday the 24th in the morning.
Q: Have you witnessed anything like this from CSSN Copeland prior to that day?
A: No.
Q: Do you know if she went to medical for injuries?
A: No, I don't.
Q: Do you know if she contacted the SARC?
A: She said she was going to today.
Q: Why did you come to security to report it?
A: The guy who did it works in our department and I told my Chief that I don't feel comfortable working there and if I kept seeing him I might do something so they sent me to security.
Q: Who is your Chief?
A: CSC Simmons.
Q: Is there anything else you would like to add, change, or delete from your statement?
A: No that's it.

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF CSSN FERNANDO CUESTABRAVO, USN

1. As background, on 26Jul24 NCISRU USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75) was notified by MA1 Ronald CORTESELLI, USN, CVN 75, of an unrestricted reported of sexual assault aboard the ship that occurred on 23Jul24 at approximately 0200 hours. MA1 CORTESELLI reported [redacted] ([redacted]), USN, CVN 75, reported CSSN Jermiah Taylor COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, CVN 75, grabbed her vulva, breasts, and buttocks over the clothing while applying pressure to her neck so that it was difficult for her to breathe. During the course of the investigation, CSSN Fernando CUESTABRAVO, USN, USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), was identified as having information in reference to the investigation.

2. On 16Aug24 at approximately 2000 hours, CSSN CUESTABRAVO was interviewed by Reporting Agent (RA) and MAC Adam NORMAN, USN, CVN 75 aboard CVN 75, while at sea in compartment 02-88-4-Q.

3. CSSN CUESTABRAVO stated he and V/ROGERS have been dating and the two consider themselves to be boyfriend and girlfriend. CSSN CUESTABRAVO recalled at approximately 0200 hours on 24Jul24, he received text messages from [redacted] indicating something bad had happened. Later that morning, CSSN CUESTABRAVO stated [redacted] disclosed S/COPELAND had strangled her, grabbed her, and "touched her everywhere." CSSN CUESTABRAVO related [redacted] never mentioned S/COPELAND being creepy or weird prior to the incident. CSSN CUESTABRAVO recalled observing bruises on one side of [redacted]'s neck related to the strangulation. CSSN CUESTABRAVO stated neither he nor [redacted] took pictures of the bruises.

4. CSSN CUESTABRAVO stated he encouraged [redacted] to report the incident. When [redacted] was unable to contact Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR), CSSN CUESTABRAVO stated he went to the Security Department on 26Jul24 to report the offense.

5. CSSN CUESTABRAVO related he tries to avoid S/COPELAND, but S/COPELAND has made several attempts to talk to CSSN CUESTABRAVO about the incident. CSSN CUESTABRAVO recalled telling S/COPELAND he would not speak about it.

6. CSSN CUESTABRAVO stated CSSA Deontae WILLIAMS, USN, USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75) approached him after the incident and asked him if it was true S/COPELAND "fucked his girl." CSSN CUESTABRAVO opined S/COPELAND told CSSA WILLIAMS what had happened.

RESULTS OF PRELIMINARY INTERVIEW OF V/S.S.

1. As background, on 06Nov24, NCISRU USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), was notified by ET2 Courtney EFF, USN, Uniformed Victim Advocate (UVA), CVN 75, of a sexual assault wherein CSSN V/S.S. (V/S.S.), USN, CVN 75, reported she was sexually assaulted by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, CVN 75, in a bathroom at a bar in Oslo, Norway, during a port call on 04Nov24 at approximately 2200 hours.

2. On 06Nov24, Reporting Agent (RA) met with V/S.S. in Medical spaces aboard the ship prior to her Sexual Assault Forensic Examination (SAFE) in order to glean preliminary information in reference to the assault.

3. V/S.S. recalled she went to Heidi's Bier Bar Oslo located at Fridtjof Nansens plass 8, 0160 in Oslo, Norway, on 04Nov24 in the evening hours with a group of sailors. V/S.S. stated she became extremely intoxicated and could not recall the events of the evening. The following day, V/S.S. stated multiple individuals approached her and stated S/COPELAND was showing others a video of him having sex with her. V/S.S. stated she did not recall having any sexual contact with S/COP D. V/S.S. stated she called S/COPELAND later that day and he denied having sex with her or recording the sexual encounter. V/S.S. stated S/COPELAND threatened to kill himself via text following the phone call.

4. V/S.S. requested a full interview in reference to the offense take place the following day.

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF [redacted]

1. As background, on 06Nov24, NCISRU USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), was notified by ET2 Courtney EFF, USN, Uniformed Victim Advocate (UVA), CVN 75, of a sexual assault wherein [redacted] ([redacted], USN, CVN 75, reported she was sexually assaulted by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, CVN 75, in a bathroom at a bar in Oslo, Norway, during a port call on 04Nov24 at approximately 2200 hours.

2. On 07Nov24 at approximately 1115 hours, [redacted] was interviewed by Reporting Agent (RA) in the NCIS Office aboard the ship located at 02-88-4-Q. ET2 Courtney EFF, USN, Uniformed Victim Advocate (UVA), USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), was present for the entirety of the interview.

3. The interview was audio and video recorded in its entirety utilizing the CaseCracker system. This report serves as a synopsis of the interview and does not necessarily describe the information in the order in which it was discussed. For a verbatim account, please refer to the digital recording; Enclosure (A) pertains.

4. [redacted] stated she knew S/COPELAND well prior to the assault and stated they became "really good friends" after he got to the ship. [redacted] stated he never expressed a romantic or sexual interest in her prior. [redacted] explained she and S/COPELAND work different shifts and stated she is on day shift in the galley and he is on night shift.

5. [redacted] stated she left the ship on 04Nov24 with a group of other Culinary Specialists and her liberty buddy was CSSN Alexis RODGERS, USN, CVN 75. [redacted] recalled they left the ship at approximately 1900 hours and walked to a mall, which was closed. At that time [redacted] stated the group moved to another bar but the group felt there were too many drunk sailors there so they eventually walked to Heidi's Bier Bar in Oslo, Norway. [redacted] stated the group began to drink alcohol and she estimated she had three (3) shots of tequila before "blacking out."

6. [redacted] stated others speculated she had been drugged, but [redacted] did not think that was likely. [redacted] stated she ate a normal dinner before leaving the ship at approximately 1900 hours. V/SIMPSON stated she took the shots with a period of time between them and could not explain why she blacked out.

7. [redacted] stated she has some memories of the evening to include

S/COPELAND dancing with her and her friends. V/S.S. recalled after the evening, CSSN McKenzie SAUNDERS, USN, CVN 75, told CSSN Shamel EADDY, USN, CVN 75, she found V/S.S. in the bathroom following the assault. V/S.S. stated she did not remember how she got back to the ship but recalled throwing up upon her return.

8. The following morning, V/S.S. stated she woke up for work and did not feel well. When she used the bathroom, V/S.S. recalled she had vaginal pain and swelling and addition to cramps that felt similar to menstrual cramps. V/S.S. recalled at the time, she was not concerned because she was unaware of the incident with S/COPELAND. Later, V/S.S. stated she began to hear rumors that S/COPELAND was claiming he had sex with her in a bathroom at the bar and recorded the intercourse and was showing other people.

9. V/S.S. stated she and her boyfriend, CSSN EADDY, were discussing the rumors in the evening hours with CSSA Nicholas SPIVEY, USN, CVN 75. V/S.S. related she decided to call S/COPELAND and confront him about the rumors and CSSA SPIVEY provided her S/COPELAND's phone number. V/S.S. stated CSSA SPIVEY left before she called S/COPELAND but CSSN EADDY remained with her while she called S/COPELAND from the first class mess. V/S.S. stated CSSN EADDY attempted to record the entirety of the conversation but his phone died approximately one (1) minute in.

10. V/S.S. related she called S/COPELAND and confronted him about the rumors, which he emphatically denied. V/S.S. recalled after the phone call, he continued to text her and threatened to kill himself. V/S.S. agreed to provide RA with screen shots of the text messages via Air Drop, and signed a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure (PASS) denoting her intentions; Enclosure (B) pertains. Six (6) screen shots of the text messages were subsequently placed on an NCIS Photograph Template for their inclusion into the case file; Enclosure (C) pertains.

11. At the conclusion of the interview, V/S.S. was provided a DD Form 2701 Initial Information for Victims and Witnesses of Crime.

"So I was with my first and second classes. I was hanging out with them. Then I had four shots of tequila. And then after that I was just chilling, but I was drunk. That's all I remember from that night."

Clarifying questions:
You don't remember anything about the event?
"No. The next day when I came to work, my friend's was telling me that he was going around telling people that he had sex with me in the bathroom and recorded it."

Do you remember how you got there and how you left?
" Yes. I went there with my first and second classes and a couple of my friends. And me and my friends took an Uber back to the ferry."

Do you know about what time you left?
"Yes. When we got back to the ship it was about 11:50, so about 11:00."

Where were you?
"At the bar."

What time did you start drinking?
"The time I started drinking was 2122."

At what time would you say you were done drinking?
"I would say around 2130. Around that time."

Page 10 SUGGESTED TEMPLATE (VICTIM – UNRESTRICTED REPORTING)

1. (Option 1) Patient presented to USS HARRY S. TRUMAN MEDICAL DEPARTMENT with victim advocate requesting SAFE exam. Options discussed with patient. Patient chose unrestricted reporting. Medically cleared by staff Physician Assistant. Patient reports she had already spoken with NCIS.

2. CLOTHING: Patient reported with clothing she wore during the event in a paper bag. A grey sweatsuit - pants and top were collected. Grey sweatshirt has vomit on it, per patient. Visibly there are dried brown secretions on the sweatshirt.

Underwear and Bra were not collected. Patient reported she has changed clothes since the event and does not know which set of underwear she had on the night of the event.

3. FINDINGS: See pages 6, 7, and 8 for full description of findings.

4. Lubricated speculum placed without difficulty. Patient tolerated the procedure well.
- Brand of lubricant used: surgilube

5. Pregnancy and STI treatment options discussed and offered. Advised follow-up with Primary Care Provider for additional concerns. Additional resources discussed. Safety assessed. Patient discharged with VA.

DoD SEXUAL ASSAULT FORENSIC EXAMINATION REPORT

PART II - DoD TOXICOLOGY KIT - FOR UNRESTRICTED REPORTS ONLY

BLOOD AND URINE SPECIMEN COLLECTION INSTRUCTIONS

Notes:
(A) This kit is to be used in conjunction with a DoD Medical Forensic Examination Kit when the patient indicates that there was memory loss, lapse of consciousness, involuntary or voluntary ingestion of drugs or alcohol, or if toxicology testing is otherwise indicated.
(B) Collect both blood and urine specimens in all cases.
(C) Urine samples should be collected from the victim as soon as possible due to the short window of detection for many of the drugs (including alcohol) involved in sexual assault.
(D) Based on timing of evidence pick up, refrigerate the sealed kit. However, if you are in a deployed or natural disaster environment that does not have refrigeration, it will be unlikely to preserve specimen.

STEP 1: Fill out the information requested on the Victim Information Form (next page).

BLOOD SPECIMEN COLLECTION

Note: Blood specimen collection must be performed only by a physician, registered nurse or trained phlebotomist.

STEP 2: Cleanse the blood collection site with the alcohol-free prep pad provided. Following normal hospital/clinic procedure, collect blood using two 10 ml blood collection tubes with 100 mg of sodium fluoride and 20 mg of potassium oxalate. Allow blood tubes to fill to maximum volume.

Notes:
(A) Immediately after blood collection, assure proper mixing of anticoagulant powder by slowly and completely inverting the blood tube at least five times. Do NOT shake!
(B) Discard venipuncture needle(s) and prep pads as recommended by OSHA guidelines. Do NOT place the venipuncture needle(s) or prep pads in the specimen collection box.

STEP 3: Fill out all information requested on two of the three Specimen Security Seals provided. Then remove backing from the two Specimen Seals. Affix center of seals to the blood tube rubber stoppers, and press ends of seals down sides of the blood tubes, then place both filled and sealed blood tubes in specimen holder.

URINE SPECIMEN COLLECTION

STEP 4: Have subject void directly into the urine specimen bottle provided. A minimum of 60 ml is required.

STEP 5: After specimen is collected, replace cap and tighten down to prevent leakage.

STEP 6: Fill out the information requested on the remaining Specimen Security Seal. Affix center of seal to the bottle cap and press ends of seal down sides of bottle, then place urine bottle in specimen holder.

STEP 7: Place specimen holder inside the zip lock bag, then squeeze out excess air and close the bag. Place specimen holder in kit box.

Note: Do not remove liquid absorbing sheet from specimen bag.

STEP 8: Place DoD Toxicology Kit Victim Information form in Toxicology Kit. Retain a copy of the form with the SAFE Report.

STEP 9: Close kit box and affix kit box shipping seal where indicated.

STEP 10: Fill out all information requested on kit box top under "For Hospital Personnel".

STEP 11: MCIO agent should mail kit with Form 1323, "Toxicology Request Form" (found at: www.afip.org) to:

Armed Forces Medical Examiner
Division of Forensic Toxicology
Bldg 115
Purple Heart Drive

RESULTS OF ATTEMPTS TO LOCATE CELLULAR TELEPHONE

1. As background, on 06Nov24, NCISRU USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), was notified by ET2 Courtney EFF, USN, Uniformed Victim Advocate (UVA), CVN 75, of a sexual assault wherein CSSN [redacted] ([redacted]), USN, CVN 75, reported she was sexually assaulted by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, CVN 75, in a bathroom at a bar in Oslo, Norway, during a port call on 04Nov24 at approximately 2200 hours. During the course of this investigation is was reported the alleged nonconsensual encounter was recorded and broadcast by S/COPELAND via his cellular telephone.

2. On 06Nov24 at approximately 0930 hours, Reporting Agent (RA) made contact with S/COPELAND in Security Spaces aboard the ship. S/COPELAND was escorted to Security by CSCM Aneuris ROBLES, USN, USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75). RA introduced herself as a Special Agent and requested to search the person of S/COPELAND for his cellular telephone. S/COPELAND stated he did not have his cellular telephone and had given it to his friend, CSSN Kaulise COUSINS, USN, USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), but consented to a search of his person. Due to the exigent nature of the search, a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure was not presented to S/COPELAND. The search yielded negative results.

3. RA made contact with CSSN COUSINS in Supply Spaces aboard the ship at approximately 1000 hours. RA identified herself as a Special Agent and requested to search the person of CSSN COUSINS for the cellular telephone belonging to S/COPELAND. CSSN COUSINS consented to the search and stated he never possessed the cellular telephone. Due to the exigent nature of the search, a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure was not presented to CSSN COUSINS. The search yielded negative results.

4. Both CSSN COUSINS and S/COPELAND were retained in Security and Supply spaces.

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF CSSA JACQUELINE BITA, USN

1. As background, on 06Nov24, NCISRU USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), was notified by ET2 Courtney EFF, USN, Uniformed Victim Advocate (UVA), CVN 75, of a sexual assault wherein [redacted] ([redacted]), USN, CVN 75, reported she was sexually assaulted by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, CVN 75, in a bathroom at a bar in Oslo, Norway, during a port call on 04Nov24 at approximately 2200 hours. During the course of the investigation, CSSA Jacqueline BITA, USN, CVN 75, was indicated as having information in reference to the offense.

2. On 06Nov24 at approximately 1030 hours, CSSA BITA was interviewed by Reporting Agent (RA) in the NCIS Office aboard the ship located at 02-88-4-Q. The interview was not recorded.

3. CSSA BITA recalled leaving the ship with a group of sailors including [redacted] for liberty in the evening hours of 04Nov24. CSSA BITA stated she did not plan to drink alcohol that evening and was more focused on finding a place to eat. CSSA BITA recalled arriving at an unknown club and stated [redacted] began to drink alcohol with other sailors. Later in the evening, CSSA BITA recalled S/COPELAND arrived to the bar though he was not part of the original group. CSSA BITA stated [redacted] was intoxicated and CSSA BITA observed S/COPELAND assisting V/SIMPSON to the bathroom. CSSA BITA stated she did not observe [redacted] acting flirtatious with S/COPELAND at that time or any point in the evening.

4. Later, CSSA BITA stated she was talking to SR Jada KNIGHT, USN, VAW 126, in the bar and S/COPELAND approached them and said something to the effect of "you'll never believe what happened, if I show you you can't tell anyone." CSSA BITA recalled S/COPELAND then showed the two women a video on his cellular telephone of S/COPELAND having sexual intercourse with [redacted] CSSA BITA described the video as showing S/COPELAND's face before capturing [redacted] bent over. CSSA BITA stated [redacted]'s face was not in the video, but she was easily identified by her hair and the gray sweatshirt she was wearing that actually belonged to CSSA BITA. CSSA BITA related [redacted] had borrowed her sweatshirt before leaving the ship. CSSA BITA stated she observed [redacted]'s bare buttocks in the video and though she could not see S/COPELAND's penis it was clear by the motion of S/COPELAND he was having sexual intercourse with [redacted]. CSSA BITA opined she could not tell if [redacted] was conscious in the video and stated she did not look very closely because she did not want to see a video of someone else engaging in sexual intercourse.

5. CSSA BITA stated she and SR KNIGHT were "shocked" by the video and stated S/COPELAND seemed happy and was laughing. At the time, CSSA BITA assumed the sexual encounter was consensual and had no information to the contrary.

6. CSSA BITA stated V/S.S. had to be carried back to Fleet Landing due to intoxication. CSSA BITA stated V/S.S. was speaking very slowly and had trouble walking. CSSA BITA opined it was clear V/S.S. was intoxicated and theorized V/S.S. did not remember any events from the evening. CSSA BITA stated she was on a different liberty boat back to the ship than V/S.S. but stated she knew V/S.S. threw up when she returned back to the ship.

7. CSSA BITA stated the following day, V/S.S. approached her and stated she did not remember any events from the evening prior due to intoxication and also told CSSA BITA that V/S.S. had confronted S/COPELAND about the sexual intercourse and video via telephone. CSSA BITA related V/S.S. stated S/COPELAND denied the accusations. CSSA BITA opined S/COPELAND "knew he messed up and was trying to save himself." CSSA BITA further opined it was clear from interacting with both parties S/COPELAND was "in his right mind" that evening and V/S.S. was not.

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF CSSN KAULISE COUSINS, USN

1. As background, on 06Nov24, NCISRU USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), was notified by ET2 Courtney EFF, USN, Uniformed Victim Advocate (UVA), CVN 75, of a sexual assault wherein CSSN [redacted] ([redacted]), USN, CVN 75, reported she was sexually assaulted by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, CVN 75, in a bathroom at a bar in Oslo, Norway, during a port call on 04Nov24 at approximately 2200 hours. During the course of the investigation, CSSN KAULISE COUSINS, USN, CVN 75, was indicated as having information in reference to the offense.

2. On 06Nov24 at approximately 1400 hours, CSSN COUSINS was interviewed by Reporting Agent (RA) in the NCIS Office aboard the ship located at 02-88-4-Q. The interview was not recorded.

3. CSSN COUSINS stated he and S/COPELAND are friends, and met in approximately September 2024 when CSSN COUSINS arrived to the ship. CSSN COUSINS stated he was liberty buddies with S/COPELAND on 05Sep24 but not on 04Sep24. CSSN COUSINS recalled he and S/COPELAND were at a bar in Oslo, Norway in the evening hours and recalled S/COPELAND was in a good mood. CSSN COUSINS stated S/COPELAND stated he had sexual intercourse with [redacted] the night prior and seemed happy about the interaction. CSSN COUSINS recalled S/COPELAND stated [redacted] had been "kissing on him" and stated he had sex with her in a bathroom at a bar. CSSN COUSINS recalled being happy for his friend, but stated he personally felt badly about it because he knew [redacted] had a boyfriend on the ship.

4. CSSN COUSINS recalled S/COPELAND left the bar to take a phone call, and when he returned he was very upset saying [redacted] "put a charge on" him and that his life was ruined. CSSN COUSINS related S/COPELAND felt that because he is black, the Command would "fuck him over" and it was going to "fuck up his whole career." CSSN COUSINS stated S/COPELAND stated he was going to kill himself in Oslo because there was no point in living. CSSN COUSINS stated S/COPELAND refused to come back to the ship and left the bar.

5. CSSN COUSINS stated CSC Jonathan GEORGE saw CSSN COUSINS attempting to have S/COPELAND come back to the ship and attempted to help. CSSN COUSINS stated S/COPELAND walked in front of approximately three (3) trains and opined S/COPELAND was attempting to kill himself. CSSN COUSINS recalled Shore Patrol and Security arrived and escorted S/COPELAND back to the ship.

6. When asked directly, CSSN COUSINS stated he never had S/COPELAND's cellular telephone and could not speculate as to why S/COPELAND indicated he did. CSSN COUSINS emphatically denied ever taking S/COPELAND's cellular telephone. CSSN COUSINS stated he last saw S/COPELAND on his phone at approximately 2200 hours speaking to his parents. CSSN COUSINS recalled on the liberty boat, S/COPELAND attempted to go outside and CSSN COUSINS refused to let him. CSSN COUSINS stated S/COPELAND went to the bathroom aboard the ferry and was there the entire ride back to the ship. CSSN COUSINS speculated S/COPELAND got rid of the phone in the bathroom on the liberty boat.

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF CSSN SHAMEL EADDY, USN

1. As background, on 06Nov24, NCISRU USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), was notified by ET2 Courtney EFF, USN, Uniformed Victim Advocate (UVA), CVN 75, of a sexual assault wherein [redacted] ([redacted], USN, CVN 75, reported she was sexually assaulted by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, CVN 75, in a bathroom at a bar in Oslo, Norway, during a port call on 04Nov24 at approximately 2200 hours. During the course of the investigation, CSSN Shamel EADDY, USN, USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75) was indicated as having information in reference to the offense.

2. On 08Nov24 at approximately 1400 hours, CSSN EADDY was interviewed by Reporting Agent (RA) in the NCIS Office aboard the ship located at 02-88-4-Q. The interview was not recorded.

3. CSSN EADDY stated he and [redacted] are currently dating. CSSN EADDY recalled he did not go out with [redacted] or anyone else on 04Nov24, as he had duty in the area of Fleet Landing. CSSN EADDY stated CSSN Alexis RODGERS, USN, Helecopter Sea Combat Squadron 11 (HSC 11), called him in the evening hours of 04Nov24 and stated [redacted] was extremely intoxicated and requested his help. CSSN EADDY stated he walked over to the Entry Control Point (ECP) and observed [redacted] being carried because she could not walk due to her level of intoxication. CSSN EADDY recalled [redacted] was cleared at the Medical Tent before being transported back to the ship. CSSN EADDY explained he had to remain at the ECP and did not accompany [redacted] back to the ship.

4. CSSN EADDY stated when he arrived back to the ship at approximately 0600 hours, [redacted] was in her rack and had to wake up for work at approximately 0700 hours and did not feel well. CSSN EADDY stated at approximately 1430 hours he was approached by S/COPELAND, who requested to speak with him. CSSN EADDY recalled S/COPELAND stated [redacted] was "kissing on" him the evening prior and was trying to "come on to" S/COPELAND all night. CSSN EADDY stated during the conversation, S/COPELAND avoided eye contact with him and seemed to be choosing his words carefully.

5. Later CSSN EADDY stated he asked [redacted] about V/COPELAND, and she stated she did not remember. CSSN EADDY related CSSA Jakobie GANT, USN, CVN 75, had seen a video of S/COPELAND engaged in sexual contact with [redacted] CSSN EADDY explained the rumor of the video had started being spread around their workplace. CSSN EADDY recalled later in the evening, he was sitting with [redacted] and CSSA Nicholas SPIVEY, USN, CVN 75, and CSSA SPIVEY

3. CSSN RODGERS stated she was liberty buddies with V/SIMPSON on 04Nov24. CSSN RODGERS explained she and [redacted] were coworkers but not particularly close. CSSN RODGERS recalled she and a group of other sailors including V/SIMPSON left the ship at approximately 2000 hours and went to a bar called Heidi's. CSSN RODGERS recalled [redacted] began drinking alcohol; CSSN RODGERS recalled she had approximately three (3) shots of liquor and stated [redacted] had more than that. CSSN RODGERS related she did not know exactly how much [redacted] drank but recalled she was drunk.

4. CSSN RODGERS recalled seeing S/COPELAND arrive with another group of sailors but could not recall what time. CSSN RODGERS stated she did not see any interaction between S/COPELAND and [redacted]. CSSN RODGERS recalled when it was time to leave the bar before liberty expiration, she and SR Jada KNIGHT, USN, CVN 75, and CSSA Jacqueline BITA, USN, CVN 75, had to assist [redacted] back to the ship due to her level of intoxication. CSSN RODGERS stated [redacted] did not seem to recall where she was.

5. CSSN RODGERS stated she did not hear about a video concerning [redacted] and S/COPELAND, but [redacted] told CSSN RODGERS the next day she did not have sex with S/COPELAND. CSSN RODGERS stated the group took an Uber to Fleet Landing, but could not recall who had paid for it.

3. CSSA GANT recalled he was not out with the group of sailors including S/COPELAND and [redacted] on 04Nov24. CSSA GANT stated the next day on 05Nov24, he was approached by S/COPELAND, who stated he had sexual intercourse with [redacted] and seemed excited about it. CSSA GANT related S/COPELAND stated [redacted] kissed S/COPELAND's neck and had sexual intercourse. CSSA GANT stated he was happy because S/COPELAND seemed happy, but conflicted because he knew [redacted] was dating their mutual friend CSSN Shamel EADDY, USN, CVN 75.

4. CSSA GANT recalled S/COPELAND showed him a video depicting S/COPELAND having sexual intercourse with [redacted]. CSSA GANT described the video as from S/COPELAND's point of view, initially pointing the camera at himself before panning over [redacted]. CSSA GANT related [redacted] s face was not visible but her buttocks and back were. CSSA GANT recalled feeling very uncomfortable after watching the video because [redacted] did not appear conscious or in a comfortable position. CSSA GANT stated in the video [redacted] was face down against a toilet.

5. CSSA GANT stated after [redacted] reported the offense, S/COPELAND came to him and told him [redacted] had "put a case on" S/COPELAND and asked CSSA GANT for advice. CSSA GANT related he told S/COPELAND to tell the truth. CSSA GANT had not seen S/COPELAND with his cellular telephone since S/COPELAND first showed CSSA GANT the video on 05Nov24.

2. On 18Nov24 at approximately 2100 hours, CSSN KNIGHT was interviewed by Reporting Agent (RA) in the NCIS Office aboard the ship located at 02-88-4-Q. The interview was not recorded.

3. CSSN KNIGHT stated on the evening of 04Nov24, her liberty buddy was CSSA Jacqueline BITA, USN, CVN 75. CSSN KNIGHT stated she and CSSA BITA went to a different bar before eventually ending up at Heidi's. CSSN KNIGHT related [redacted] was already present at the bar and observed her dancing. CSSN KNIGHT observed [redacted] did not appear to be "that drunk."

4. Approximately thirty (30) minutes after arriving at the bar, CSSN KNIGHT recalled she was approached by S/COPELAND who told her not to tell anyone about what he was going to show her. CSSN KNIGHT recalled S/COPELAND showed her a video of him having sexual intercourse with [redacted] in a bathroom stall. CSSN KNIGHT stated [redacted]'s face was not present in the video but S/COPELAND indicated she was depicted. CSSN KNIGHT opined she would have been able to identify [redacted] regardless due to [redacted]'s "big butt." CSSN KNIGHT recalled the video depicted S/COPELAND's smiling face in the camera before panning to [redacted]'s buttocks and back while his penis thrusted in and out of her vagina. CSSN KNIGHT also recognized the gray sweatpants and sweatshirt [redacted] was wearing.

5. The next day, CSSN KNIGHT stated [redacted] brought the video up to CSSN KNIGHT and she stated she had seen it. CSSN KNIGHT stated she did not tell [redacted] about the video earlier because she assumed [redacted] remembered having sexual intercourse with S/COPELAND. CSSN KNIGHT stated [redacted] did not appear to be drunk enough to have not remembered the incident, and CSSN KNIGHT related she would have said something earlier if she had known [redacted] did not remember.

6. CSSN KNIGHT related she had photographs and videos from the night of the

During the course of the investigation, CSSN Kaylee PARKS, USN, CVN 75 was identified as having information in reference to the offense.

2. On 18MAR25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Agent (PA) Bernadette DUFFY interviewed CSSN PARKS aboard the CVN 75 while at sea in compartment 02-88-4-Q. The interview was not recorded.

3. CSSN PARKS reported she worked with V/S.S. and S/COPELAND at the mess deck aboard USS HARRY S. TRUMAN (CVN 75); however, she is not close friends with either of them. CSSN PARKS recalled during CVN 75's port call in Oslo, Norway on 04NOV24, she went to Heidi's Bier Bar with CS2 Kirsten CLICK, USN, Strike Fighter Squadron 11 (VFA-11). CSSN PARKS recalled when she entered the bar, she saw many Sailors of the CVN 75 crew as well as V/S.S. and S/COPELAND sitting next to each other at a table. CSSN PARKS advised V/S.S. and S/COPELAND were "all over each other," and they were touching each other, holding each other's hands, and kissing each other on the neck and lips. CSSN PARKS opined V/S.S. appeared very intoxicated and recalled she had slurred speech and trouble keeping her balance at the bar. CSSN PARKS relayed about 30-40 minutes later she saw V/S.S. leaning her head on S/COPELAND, who was trying to keep her head up. CSSN PARKS reported about 15 minutes later she heard V/S.S. ask S/COPELAND if he could help her use the bathroom. Subsequently, she saw V/S.S. and S/COPELAND walk down the stairs of the bar together towards the bathroom. CSSN PARKS advised they were holding hands and S/COPELAND seemed to be leading V/S.S. down the stairs. CSSN PARKS estimated that S/COPELAND and V/S.S. were in the bathroom together for around 20 minutes before they came back into the bar. Shortly afterwards they all decided to head back to the ship. CSSN PARKS advised due to V/S.S. 's drunkenness, CSSN Alexis RODGERS, USN, CVN 75, and another unknown female Sailor had to help carry her back to the ship. CSSN PARKS added V/S.S. was dragging her feet for a majority of the walk back.

4. CSSN PARKS reported when they got back to the entry control point (ECP) they stood in line for their turn to enter the ship. CSSN PARKS related once in line V/S.S. suddenly sobered up and she was no longer slurring her words or dragging her feet. Moreover, V/S.S. was having full and coherent conversations with her boyfriend, CSSN Shamel EADDY, USN, CVN 75; who was working as duty at the ECP. CSSN PARKS explained it is common for drunken Sailors to act sober in the ECP line so they do not get in trouble while embarking onto the ship; however, V/S.S. seemed like she was overexaggerating how drunk she was at the bar due to how well she presented herself at the ECP. CSSN PARKS added the following day she heard V/S.S. and CSSN EADDY were arguing and they subsequently broke up due to scuttlebutt surrounding V/S.S. and S/COPELAND during the port call. CSSN PARKS remarked V/S.S. and CSSN EADDY frequently get in arguments due to V/S.S. s interactions with other males. CSSN PARKS submitted V/S.S. tends to flirt with other Sailors on the ship and she opines this may have put strain on their relationship.

INVESTIGATIVE ACTION 18NOV24

CONTROL: 06NOV24-NFXQ-00029-8SNA

S/COPELAND, JERMIAH TAYLOR/SN USN
[redacted]

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF S/COPELAND

1. As background, on 06Nov24, NCISRU USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), was notified by ET2 Courtney EFF, USN, Uniformed Victim Advocate (UVA), CVN 75, of a sexual assault wherein [redacted], USN, CVN 75, reported she was sexually assaulted by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, CVN 75, in a bathroom at a bar in Oslo, Norway, during a port call on 04Nov24 at approximately 2200 hours.

2. On 18Nov24 at approximately 2230 hours, S/COPELAND was interviewed by Reporting Agent (RA) aboard the USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), while at sea in compartment 02-88-4-Q.

3. The interview was audio and video recorded in its entirety utilizing the CaseCracker system. This report serves as a synopsis of the interview and does not necessarily describe the information in the order in which it was discussed. For a verbatim account, please refer to the digital recording; Enclosure (A) pertains.

4. Prior to being interviewed, S/COPELAND was advised of, and waived, his Article 31b Rights utilizing a Military Rights Waiver form; Enclosure (B) pertains.

5. S/COPELAND related on 04Nov24 while in port in Oslo, Norway, he went to an unknown bar with other Culinary Specialists in the evening hours before liberty expiration. S/COPELAND stated approximately an hour in to the evening, he had approximately two (2) drinks and would not consider himself intoxicated when [redacted] came up to him at a table he was sitting at and kissed his ear and his neck. S/COPELAND opined [redacted] was acting completely normal though he could not estimate how drunk she was. S/COPELAND recalled he was sitting at the table with CSSR Deontae WILLIAMS, USN, CVN 75, and CSSN Kaulise COUSINS, USN, CVN 75. S/COPELAND recalled [redacted] took S/COPELAND by the hand and requested he accompany her to the bathroom. S/COPELAND stated he walked to the bathroom with her and attempted to wait outside, but [redacted] took him by the hand and pulled him into a bathroom stall in the women's restroom.

6. S/COPELAND stated [redacted] faced away from him in the stall and pulled her pants down before bending over. S/COPELAND stated he pushed his penis into her vagina and opined [redacted] was consenting to the contact. S/COPELAND stated he took his phone out and began to record a video of the sexual interaction. S/COPELAND stated he did not know if [redacted] was aware of him recording as she was facing away from him. S/COPELAND stated the intercourse lasted approximately twenty (20) minutes and that he did not ejaculate because the interaction seemed to be "too good to be true." When asked to explain, S/COPELAND stated he viewed V/S.S. as a sister and that she had never shown any interest in him sexually. S/COPELAND stated he did not use a condom. Following the interaction, S/COPELAND stated he and V/S.S. exited the bathroom and everything was "normal" between the two.

7. S/COPELAND recalled showing the video to CSSN COUSINS and CSSN Jada KNIGHT, USN, USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75), without V/S.S.'s knowledge. S/COPELAND stated he showed the video to others because he was excited. After the group left the bar, S/COPELAND recalled V/S.S. threw up on the liberty boat on the way back to the ship.

8. The day following the sexual intercourse, S/COPELAND stated he was out in Oslo, Norway, with CSSN COUSINS when he received a phone call and text messages from V/S.S. S/COPELAND related V/S.S. told him "if you want to run your mouth I'm going to put you on report." S/COPELAND opined CSSN Shamel EADDY, USN, CVN 75, found out about the sexual encounter and became upset which spurred V/S.S. to report the sexual encounter as a sexual assault. S/COPELAND recalled this made him very upset and he told CSSN COUSINS he would not return to the ship. S/COPELAND initially denied efforts to harm himself, but then admitted to walking in front of motor vehicles intentionally.

9. S/COPELAND stated he gave his cellular telephone to CSSN COUSINS and did not know what CSSN COUSINS did with it. S/COPELAND denied throwing it away on purpose and stated it was lost after his phone fell out of his pocket and the screen shattered. S/COPELAND stated he lost his Air Pod during the same incident and showed RA his Air Pod case with one Air Pod to verify the story.

10. S/COPELAND agreed to provide a sample of his DNA via a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure (PASS); Enclosure (C) pertains. RA swabbed the inside of S/COPELAND's mouth and placed the swabs into the NCISRU USS HARRY S TRUMAN (CVN 75) evidence locker under log number 0012-24.

11. At the conclusion of the interview, S/COPELAND was turned over to command representative CSC Shayquan JONES, USN, CVN 75, at approximately 2342 hours.

UNOFFICIAL TRANSCRIPT EXERPT
CSSN [V/S.R.], USN INTERVIEW DATED 7 JULY 2025

00:05:37: Special Agent: All right, so like I said, whenever you walked in, you are not in trouble. I'm conducting an investigation into Jermiah Copeland. You know who that is? OK, um I don't know. If you you've heard. I know there's a lot of there's a lot of news coverage of it, but it's involving the death around [V/A.R.]. As such, I went into his background and I noticed that there was a police report involving you two. Now, I don't care what you did. I'm going to flat out say it right now. I don't care what you did. I don't care after effect what happened to you. I want to know what led up to that, if there's anything to tell, involving Jermiah and, like, his background and what you know of him, if that's OK? OK.

00:06:27: CSSN [V/S.R.] I didn't really, like, know too much of him. Like, it basically started after I went to his phone and found out he had my girlfriend and a son.

00:06:34: Special Agent: you said then a son?

00:06:37 [V/S.R.] Yeah

00:06:38: Special Agent: Ok

00:06:39: [V/S.R.]: He didn't like that I went to his phone. So he was like, oh, you invading my privacy, this that and the third. I tried to leave him. He literally like pushed me on the couch and put his hands around my neck and started choking me and he started laughing afterwards at me. I like out of anger, I picked up his Xbox and I broke it and it went from there. He also got his roommate to try and lie on me and was like oh she tried to stab me this that and the third. Basically the MAs searched me and searched my room and they didn't find anything. They didn't find me guilty about the night. But yeah I did break his Xbox. Only thing he did was put his hands around my neck and choke me.

00:07:14: Special Agent: OK, do you remember when this was?

00:07:17: [V/S.R.] April 11th?

00:07:18: Special Agent: April 11th of this year,

00:07:19 [V/S.R.] Yes.

00:07:21: Special Agent: OK. How long had y'all been dating?

00:07:25: [V/S.R.] Since March.

00:07:27: Special Agent: OK, so not too long.

00:07:28: [V/S.R.] (shakes head no)

00:07:34: Special Agent: OK.

00:07:38: Special Agent: When you went through his phone and saw that he had another girlfriend, do you recall her name?

00:07:43: [V/S.R.] No, he just called her Dess.

00:07:45: Special Agent: Des?

00:07:45: [V/S.R.] Des DESS.

00:07:47: Special Agent: OK.

00:07:48: Special Agent: Des.

00.07:50: Special Agent: OK.

00:07:50: Special Agent: Do you know anything about her? Where she went from?

00:07:52: V/S.R. Yeah, they had a couple conversations. We have each other up right now.

00:07:55: Special Agent: OK.

00:07:58: V/S.R. She just one of those. She's going to stay regardless, so

00:08:02: Special Agent: I got you. OK. Is she from around here? You know where she's from?

00:08:07: V/S.R. His hometown, where he lives.

00:08:09: Special Agent: OK. Is the son with Dess?

00:08:15: V/S.R. No.

00:08:15: Special Agent: OK.

00:08:15: V/S.R. That's just his girlfriend.

00:08:17: Special Agent: I've got it. My man's got a lot of girlfriends. Got it.

00:08:20: V/S.R. I know.

00:08:22: Special Agent: OK.

00:08:24: Special Agent: Do you know the mother of his son. by chance?

00:08:27: V/S.R. No.

00:08:28: Special Agent: OK. Do you know how old he is?

00:08:29: V/S.R. I think he's 2 or 4. I forgot. It's one of those.

00:08:32: Special Agent: All right. OK. Do you know his name?

00:08:37: V/S.R. No.

00:08:38: Special Agent: OK. No worries. OK. So, you and Copeland started dating in March. How did you guys meet?

00:08:46: V/S.R. The ship.

00:08:47: Special Agent: The ship? OK. Which ship?

00:08:48: V/S.R. JAMES E. WILLIAMS.

00:08:49: Special Agent: The WILLIAMS. OK. All right. Can you tell me - And so you're CS and so is he. You guys, were you guys on the same shift or separate?

00:09:03: V/S.R. I was daily duty. So I was working Monday through Friday, from 7 to 12. We just got close because he was the only person I was like, really comfortable with in the galley at the time.

00:09:17: Special Agent: OK, so how did this, how did your dating relationship start? Did you guys like go out or just came over or whatever?

00:09:28: V/S.R. He texted me. No, he didn't text me, actually. He asked me if I went to hang out after work. And I was like, sure. We went to his place. Um, we ended up getting drunk and it went from there.

00:09:42: Special Agent: OK, OK, all right, so you - March you guys started dating then April 11th was whenever you went through his phone and what did he - what all did he say to you? And like, how did he say it after he found you going through his phone?

00:09:59: V/S.R. Like before I went through his phone, I was like asking him, do you still talk to her? Do you still talk to her? He's telling me no, you don't talk to her. So he's basically like going back and forth between both of us, telling each other he don't talk to us. So she's constantly texting me like, hey, are you with Jermiah? Hey, Jermiah been texting me. So I'm like, why she's still worried about you? I was just curious. That's what made me go through his phone. And after that he's like, OK, so why are you touching my phone? It's not your phone. It's not your business dot dot dot [sic] of he's basically avoiding why he was with her and me at the same time. So.

00:10:29: Special Agent: So I gotcha. OK, When he was saying this, was he yelling at you? Or is it like how we're talking right now?

00:10:36: V/S.R. : He was talking in a calm voice.

00:10:37: Special Agent: OK.

00:10:40: Special Agent: What transpired right before he pushed you?

00:10:43: V/S.R. Me trying to get up and we...

00:10:45: Special Agent: OK, so you're trying to get up off the couch and just leave?

00:10:50: V/S.R. Mmhmm..

00:10:52: Special Agent: How did he push you?

00:10:56: V/S.R. Both hands?

00:10:57: Special Agent: OK, like on your chest?

00:10:58: V/S.R. It wasn't a hard push.

00:11:00: Special Agent: It was enough to knock you off your feet.

00:11:03: V/S.R. Yeah.

00:11:03: Special Agent: OK. Did you have any bruises from that?

00:11:07: V/S.R. : (Shakes head no). I just had a hickey on my neck.

00: 11:09: Special Agent: OK.

00:11:10: Special Agent: Was the Hickey from an actual Hickey or was it from the strangulation?

00:11:14: V/S.R. (Shakes head yes,) It was a hickey.

00:11:16: Special Agent: OK, cool. Just checking. Um, so when he strangled you, did he use both hands?

00:11:23: V/S.R. (Shakes head yes) Yeah, It was both hands.

00:11:25: Special Agent: OK. Can you kind of explain to me what, like what you were thinking at that moment?

00:11:31: V/S.R. I don't know. It wasn't him. Like I I never seen this side of him.

00:11:34: Special Agent: OK.

00:11:36: V/S.R. He was always there for me when I had seizures or whenever after the hospital. So for him to do that, it didn't seem right to me.

00:11:43: V/S.R. OK, OK.

00:11:46: Special Agent: OK, OK. At any point did you lose consciousness?

00:11:51: V/S.R. (Indicates no)

00:11:52: Special Agent: Can you describe to me what, like, you were seeing him?

00:11:56: V/S.R. Him. He was smiling.

00:11:59: Special Agent: OK. Did your vision start to like, come in? Like, were you losing peripheral vision at all?

00:12:05: V/S.R. (Shakes head no)

00:12:05: Special Agent: OK, good. I'm glad to hear that at least. About how long do you think he did that?

00:12:12: V/S.R. Probably like 10 seconds, it wasn't that long.

00:12:17: Special Agent: Could you still breathe a little bit or were you completely - could not breathe at all?

00:12:20: V/S.R. (Indicates No, Shakes head no).

00:12:29: Special Agent: Are you OK?

00:12:29: V/S.R. I just don't want to be talking about him.

00:12:33: Special Agent: Is it because of this situation or just everything that's happened since?

00:12:36: V/S.R. Because of this situation.

00:12:41: Special Agent: OK. Do you need a minute? You good? OK.

00:12:53: Special Agent: Did you feel at any point that your life was in danger?

00:12:56: V/S.R. I don't know. It just wasn't him.

00:13:00: Special Agent: Ok, just like a different like a different personality, or?

00:13:10: V/S.R. I don't want to like be one of those girls that's like, oh, that's not him, but it didn't seem like him, I feel like it was just anger. I'm not sure. I don't know what it was.

00:13:26: Special Agent: And you've never seen him that angry before?

00:13:27: V/S.R. (Shakes head no).

00:13:30 V/S.R. OK. When he was strangling you, you said that he was smiling? Was he saying anything to you?

00:13:37: V/S.R. He was smiling.

INVESTIGATIVE ACTION 24JUN25

CONTROL: 01JUN25-NFNF-00237-7HNA

S/COPELAND, JERMIAH TAYLOR/SN USN
M/B/NEE3/ PII

INTERVIEW OF V/Y.J. , CIV

1. On 24JUN25, Reporting Agent (RA) conducted a cold call in an attempt to identify the owner of the phone number "PII -7057", who was thought to be a minor child engaged in sexual activity with CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95).

2. V/Y.J. , CIV, was identified as being a 19-year-old who was sexually assaulted by S/COPELAND. This interview was not recorded due to the circumstances surrounding the cold call. RA did ask if she would come in for a formal interview however, she declined but proceeded to explain the sexual assault over the phone.

3. During the phone call, V/Y.J. stated she knew S/COPELAND and had a one-night stand with him sometime in the beginning of the summer in 2025. JIMENEZ described S/COPELAND as giving off "weird vibes" and he would constantly ask her to come over.

4. explained on the night of the sexual assault, she had been picked up by two other males, Omar (NFI) and Jaden (NFI). After being picked up by them, said they drove her back to S/COPELAND's barracks room located on Naval Station Norfolk and they engaged in a consensual 3-way. explained S/COPELAND was not present however, he did return to his barracks room sometime between 0500-0600. stated the 3-way was over and she was very tired. However, when S/COPELAND arrived at his barracks room, V/Y.J. said he grabbed her by the arm and pulled her into his room. V/Y.J. stated S/COPELAND wanted her to give him "head" or oral sex, and said she told S/COPELAND "no" and that she was "tired." explained S/COPELAND then attempted to penetrate her vagina and she stated it was painful and hurt when S/COPELAND penetrated her. said she told S/COPELAND to "stop." explained Omar was at the door and could hear her telling S/COPELAND to stop. further explained Omar entered the room and was able to get out of the situation. said she told Omar "Thankyou" and left the barracks room.

5. V/Y.J. stated she had not spoken to S/COPELAND since the sexual assault occurred but when the "sailor girl" further clarified as CSSN V/A.R. V/A.R. ( V/A.R. ), USN, DDG-95, went missing she spoke to Omar and Jaden in person, and they had discussed the circumstances around her disappearance. V/Y.J. could not give details as to what they exactly talked about, however, V/Y.J. explained both Omar and Jaden stopped being friends with S/COPELAND due to V/A.R. missing.

6. At the conclusion of the interview, RA asked V/Y.J. if she would be willing to participate in the investigation. V/Y.J. stated she was not sure if she wanted to participate.
RA did open a separate investigation into S/COPELAND, which is documented under CCN: 24JUL25-NFNF-00344-8SNA.

00:13:27: Special Agent: So first things first, I want to talk about-- kind of what I talked a little more about, and then we can get into the other stuff involving V/A.R. and things like that, OK?

00:13:37: J.B.: OK.

00:13:37: Special Agent: All right, so do you know a girl named V/Y J

00:13:43: J.B.: Yes.

00:13:43: Special Agent: All right, what can you tell not her?

00:13:48: J.B.: Um, V/Y.J. I believe she's the same age as me, 18. And I met her after I met the group, because at first it was just me and my friend Andre. Then we went out and I met the rest of the group, Omar, Copeland and a couple other guys. And then later down, we hang on again and then she came over to Copeland's spot. So that's the first time I met her. It was pretty cool, nothing much. Like about her personally though, she like a short, big curvier. Her dad, I think her dad was a Senior Chief in the Navy and she has a vehicle and stuff. Okay, okay. She's a normal person I guess. .

00:14:36: Special Agent: Alright, Who was she like friends with first in the group?

00:14:39: J.B.: I'm not sure, I think I'm gonna assume she was friends with Copeland first.' Cause he was like, I don't know, they just seemed like the closest, like honestly, he knew the most about her. Based off of what I saw in her, it seemed like they probably knew her the longest. –

00:15:00: Special Agent: Okay, okay. Do you know much about like the relationship? Was it just friendly or did they have sex or like did they date?

00:15:07: J.B.: Oh, they I don't know about dating, but they definitely did have sex.

00:15:11: Special Agent: Okay, do you know how many times?

00:15:13: J.B.: Not sure.

00:15:15: Special Agent: We're both taking notes, so I'm not ignoring you. Just trying to jot down some things quickly. Okay So, can you tell me about the night, like I know we're all adults, I've heard some crazy stuff in my time, so this is very vanilla, okay? But can you tell me about what happened after you and Omar and V/Y.J. had engaged in your sexual encounter?

00:15:43: J.B.: So, the next morning, I was planning - on the night before I borrowed my friend Malik's car, Blade, he let us borrow it because they had something going on. So we took his car and me and Omar ended up going out. And then we came back to Copeland's like house. And we invited her over, you know, we did what we did. And then the day after in the morning, Copeland, Copeland I came because we went to his room. So Copeland came to the room and

You know, he was like, I mean, I'm trying to Get her home and everything like because she didn't come I don't think she came in her car so I'm trying to try to get the like Malik's car and get her home and It was so much going on but soon as Copeland came in he went straight like he went straight to V/Y.J. and you know they hugged and everything you know and um before I knew it they were in the room and then all I heard was like "I'm tired" and I'm on the phone trying to like um get the car and take her back, but Malik he's like he's on there being he's he's being really difficult because I first I'm like you know I was like what's the problem? He said no I need my car right now and he's like insulting her like bad like He was like get that bitch Uber and everything and I was like, I was like, yo, why you gotta be so rude?

00:17:11: J.B.: So I'm talking and then I hear her say "I'm tired. No." So that's like, you know… I tell him to hang on like…and I look at the door expecting him to open it and like let her out and then nah he doesn't do that. And then I hear "Yo, like I'm tired" again. "I'm tired" again. Like "no, no, no." And then me and Omar go to the door. Omar, like, knocked, you know, he's sees Copeland. And Omar told me that Copeland was like, "No, watch out." And then me and Omar in the door, "She tired, like, chill." And then I looked in there and her shirt was off, she was on the ground and her shirt was off. –

00:17:53: Special Agent: Her shirt was off, I'm sorry?–

00:17:54: J.B.: Yeah, I think her shirt was off. And um, I don't know if she had like a bra on or whatever, but she definitely didn't have her shirt on so. Yeah, she told me that they went to the room and He was like, "Oh just like for a few seconds and she was like "No, I'm tired and he was like okay, then he was trying to get oral and then you know she was just like, "No." She wasn't wanting to do anything.

00:18:19: J.B.: So then at that point I get back on the phone and I'm like, all right, so I actually have to like take her back now 'cause I can't leave her here with him. And then Malik was being like difficult. So then ultimately I ended up taking her anyway. So I took her home and then I sent Omar back with his car to go return it. And I called later and I was like, y 'all I'm sorry, but you know, do what you will. You can cut me off if you want to, but this is the right thing to do. I'm not going to leave her with somebody that just sexually assaulted her probably would have like raped if not like if not me taking her home if we just like left to give you back your car. Like I don't…I'd have to be crazy to leave her alone. So I took the car and then I stayed at her house because I didn't want anything… I didn't want any confrontation with um [unclear] so I stayed with her at her house And then she dropped me off later that day

**********

00:20:13: Special Agent: Do you remember like a time frame or the date month that this happened with V/Y.J.

00:20:24: J.B.: It was a long time ago of course but like it was it long enough to go for me not to remember specifically then.

00:20:30: Special Agent: Ok. All right. Not quite sure. Do you remember so was it cold outside or was it warm or was it hot or do you remember?

00:20:38: J.B.: Uh what like whenever she came over when I dropped her off?

00:20:43: Special Agent: We'll just do that time frame like the day that all happened.

00:20:48: J.B.: It's pretty pretty hot. It's pretty it's pretty hot.

00:20:50: Special Agent: Okay. So maybe during like the earlier summer late spring

00:20:55: J.B.: Earlier in the summer definitely

**********

00:55:13: J.B.: So May 24th at, this is when I'm first, 'cause the first time I texted her was the first time that they gave me her number and everything. So yeah.

May 24th at 1141 is when we started texting and going to pick her up and everything.

00:55:33: Special Agent 2: Okay, 11 41 at night?

00:55:35: J.B.: Uh, yes. So...

00:55:44: Special Agent: So the incident, we can assume that the incidents of the assault itself then occur on the 25th in the early morning hours?

00:55:51: J.B.: Yes, the 25th was the day of the assault.

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA, USN

1. On 02JUN25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Agent (PA) Carrie JOHNSON interviewed CSSN Gladis GARCIA-BARRERA, USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95) regarding the whereabouts of CCSN V/A.R. V/A.R., USN, DDG-95. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA was identified as a friend of V/A.R..

2. The interview was conducted inside a government vehicle outside of CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA's barracks building, SP-29, onboard Naval Station Norfolk (NAVSTA Norfolk). RA and PA JOHNSON identified themselves via credentials.

3. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA advised that she only became close with V/A.R. over the last month or so, and that they hung out together for the first time outside of work on 24MAY25. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA stated that she mostly communicates with V/A.R. on text message or Instagram. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA said the last time she received any communication from V/A.R. was via Instagram at 2244 hours on Wednesday night, 28MAY25.

4. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA recalled that on 28MAY25, she and V/A.R. ended their shift at 0815 and upon being released from the ship, took an Uber to Target together. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA advised that V/A.R. ordered the Uber on her phone. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA could not recall which Target they went to, but remembered there was a Food Lion next to it. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA stated that she and V/A.R. both purchased yoga mats and weights because they both wanted to exercise more. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA advised they purchased other things, such as grocery items, etc. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA stated that V/A.R. purchased her Target items with a tap-to-pay feature on her phone, which CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA believed to be linked to V/A.R.'s "Navy cash card."

5. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA stated that when she and V/A.R. left target, CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA ordered a Z-Trip ride which was supposed to arrive at 1141; however, the vehicle was late, so they took another Z-Trip ride at 1202 hours. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA advised the Z-Trip took them through Gate 22 of Naval Station Norfolk, dropped off CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA, then dropped V/A.R. off. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA stated she requested that V/A.R. let her know when she was back safely, which V/A.R. did. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA advised that later in the afternoon, V/A.R. mentioned going to the barracks room of Jermiah Taylor COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG-95 to cook tacos and sent her a couple of pictures of food. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA was unsure of the relationship between S/COPELAND and V/A.R. and did not know S/COPELAND very well. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA advised that she heard S/COPELAND "had a case" from the USS HARRY S. TRUMAN (CVN-75) involving "Richerton" (NFI) and heard that S/COPELAND was supposed to go to jail for speeding and evading. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA did not know any other details regarding S/COPELAND's previous case.

6. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA advised that on the morning of Thursday, 29MAY25, HT3 Michael Davontae GILLESPIE, USN, DDG-95 messaged her around 0454 am requesting her to call him. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA stated that she did call HT3 GILLESPIE, who was V/A.R. s ex-boyfriend, and HT3 GILLEPSIE expressed his concerns for V/A.R. because the previous evening V/A.R. sporadically texted him "fuck you."

7. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA was asked about V/A.R. 's mental health. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA advised she had heard V/A.R. had mental health issues and had been admitted to the "5th floor" before (the "5th floor" is a term referring to the psychiatric unit at Naval Medical Center Portsmouth (NMCP)). CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA did not know of any suicide attempts by V/A.R. and denied that V/A.R. communicated any suicidal ideations. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA stated that there were times when V/A.R. would stop talking to people, but only in person and not for this long. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA advised that V/A.R. had recently suggested the two of them take a trip to New York to go shopping. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA stated that V/A.R. had a friend in New York referred to as "Flacko" (NFI) which CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA advised was the term for "skinny" in the Spanish language. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA did not know anything more about "Flacko." CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA stated that she did hear that V/A.R. made comments to HT3 GILLESPIE regarding going AWOL and mentioned New York.

8. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA also advised that V/A.R. was closest to CSSN Junrojel MIGUEL, USN, DDG-95. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA stated that V/A.R. texted CSSN MIGUEL a concerning text message. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA had a screenshot of part of the text message and showed RA. RA observed the partial text message (from V/A.R. to CSSN MIGUEL) which stated that V/A.R. was scared of men and indicated that she felt uncomfortable around several people on the ship who V/A.R. referred to as "CS1" who V/A.R. alleged would grab her phone out of her hands and look through her gallery; "RS2" who told V/A.R. he loved her and wanted a hug; and "BM1" who wanted a secret relationship with V/RESENDIZ after finding out she and HT3 GILLESPIE broke up. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA identified CS1 as CS1 Darrell HOWELLEL (NFI) and RS2 HART (NFI). CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA did not recall BM1's name but knew he was on DDG-95 along with CS1 and RS2.

9. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA listed other relevant individuals: ET3 RICH (NFI) is an ex-boyfriend of V/A.R. . CSSN Jean JAQUAEZ ("JJ") (NFI) was identified

RESULTS OF SURVEILLANCE VIDEO REVIEW FROM TARGET

1. 03Jun25, Reporting Investigator (RI) went to Target, 1245 N. Military Hwy, Norfolk VA, 23502, to request surveillance video. As background, CSSN Gladis GARCIA-BARRERA, USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) reported she and CSSN [redacted] ([redacted], USN, DDG 95 went shopping at Target on 28May25 between 0900 and 1200, the day before [redacted] went missing.

2. RI arrived at Target at 1200 and made contact with Theresa WHITNEY, CIV, Target Asset Protection. WHITNEY was able to locate surveillance video showing [redacted] wearing a blue Navy sweatshirt, black Adidas running pants, and a black and purple backpack with purple straps. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA was seen getting out of a black SUV in front of the Target store by either an Uber or Lyft driver at 1009. CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA was wearing a blue Navy working uniform and carrying a black and white Adidas duffle bag. Video shows CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA and [redacted] entering the store and shopping for an hour and a half. At 1138 hours, [redacted] and CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA were seen checking out multiple items and each paid separately for their transactions. [redacted] and CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA proceeded out the front of the store and waited in front of the store. At 1205, a Coastal Taxi pulled up front, they got into the taxi, and it drove away to an unknown destination; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. WHITNEY was able to provide copies of the transactions from [redacted] and CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA. The target receipt for CSSN GARCIA-BARRERA showed she purchased $383.24 worth of multiple items; Enclosure (B) pertains. [redacted] purchased $289.46 worth of items; Enclosure (C) pertains.

4. RI departed the Target at 1302 with a copy of three surveillance video clips, three still photos, and two receipts from the purchases made.

INVESTIGATIVE ACTION 07JUN25

CONTROL: 01JUN25-NFNF-00237-7HNA

S/COPELAND, JERMIAH TAYLOR/SN USN
M/B/NEE3/S/ PII

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF ET3 DANIEL RICH, USN

1. On 07JUN25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Agent (PA) Devin RUIC conducted an interview of ET3 Daniel RICH, USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95), regarding the captioned investigation involving CSSN V/A.R. V/A.R. USN, DDG-95, and CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG-95.

2. RA recorded the interview of ET3 RICH using an audio/visual recording system, and RA downloaded a digital copy onto a Digital Video Disc-Recordable (DVD-R). This document is a summary of the interview and not a verbatim transcription. For full details of the interview, refer to the working copy of the original DVD-R; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. ET3 RICH stated he first met V/A.R. circa SEP24 when he went "cranking" to assist the Culinary Specialists aboard DDG-95. The term "cranking" was used to describe a temporary duty unrelated to ET3 RICH's traditionally rated duties.

4. ET3 RICH stated V/A.R. would have days where she had "little panic attacks" and would want to go for a drive to Virginia Beach or to the Norfolk Botanical Gardens. ET3 RICH recalled V/A.R. would sometimes start having "panic attacks" when they would consume alcohol. V/A.R. would talk about her father, who was in prison, and would become concerned for her own safety when discussing his future release from prison. ET3 RICH believed V/A.R. father was in prison because V/A.R. "reported him," and believed her father had forced her to take drugs and "forced himself" on her. ET3 RICH indicated V/A.R. claimed her father intended to "find her" upon his release from prison.

5. ET3 RICH stated there are certain "cues" with V/A.R. that resulted with "panic attacks" in the past. ET3 RICH clarified V/A.R. often displayed these cues during the "build-up to sex." ET3 RICH stated if V/A.R. was not "feeling it" and sexual contact continued, V/A.R. would have a "meltdown." ET3 RICH stated he had an experience with V/A.R. where she "pushed away" and locked herself in the bathroom. ET3 RICH explained that during this incident, both he and V/A.R. had still been clothed, but had begun to engage in an intimate act. ET3 RICH recalled having to "talk her down" through a bathroom door in hopes of calming her down. ET3 RICH relayed another incident when they were talking about V/A.R. father, wherein she ran out of his room, and he looked for her for 30 minutes until she came back.

6. ET3 RICH relayed V/A.R. was in a relationship with HT3 Michael GILLESPIE, USN, DDG-95, until DEC24. ET3 RICH stated a lot of V/A.R. belongings were in HT3 GILLESPIE's room while they were dating. After V/A.R. and HT3 GILLESPIE broke up, ET3 RICH helped V/A.R. move her stuff out of HT3 GILLESPIE's room. ET3 RICH relayed he started dating V/A.R. circa DEC24 and believed they broke up circa MAY25. ET3 RICH stated while he was in a relationship with V/A.R. they would primarily sleep in his room. ET3 RICH stated he and V/A.R. broke up because she was "going through some stuff" and wanted to "work on herself."

7. ET3 RICH relayed on 29MAY25, he received a call from V/A.R. at 0214 hours local time and she was "freaking out" and requested a "pick-up ASAP." ET3 RICH remembered V/A.R. was crying and having a "meltdown." ET3 RICH recalled hearing "car noises" and believed V/A.R. may have been outside. V/A.R. passed the phone to another individual who ET3 RICH later "found out" was S/COPELAND. ET3 RICH relayed the person V/A.R. passed the phone to asked how long it would take for ET3 RICH to arrive, to which ET3 RICH responded he was about ten to fifteen minutes away. ET3 RICH relayed he went through the gate to Norfolk Naval Station at 0228 hours and attempted to call V/A.R. multiple times, but she did not pick up. ET3 RICH checked V/A.R. location and saw that it was outside of the "X2 building" near the rounded driveway drop off area located in front of the building. As a note, the X2 building is also identifiable as Willis Manor, a barracks located onboard Norfolk Naval Station at 9712 Virginia Avenue, Norfolk, VA 23511. ET3 RICH stated V/A.R. was not there, and her phone was not there, and he started "freaking out a little bit." ET3 RICH showed pictures of V/A.R. to people working at the front desk of X2, not further identified by ET3 RICH, but they were unsure if they recognized seeing her. ET3 RICH checked the front area of X2 to see if he could see her phone in the grass and did not find it. ET3 RICH went back inside X2; the individuals working the front desk suggested he call his command and the local precinct on base to report his concerns.

8. ET3 RICH attempted to call the base police office, but did not receive a response. ET3 RICH drove to base police and notified them of the situation. ET3 RICH estimated he called HT3 GILLESPIE around 0300 hours while he was with base police and HT3 GILLESPIE joined him at X2 around 0430 hours to help look for V/A.R. ET3 RICH added HT3 GILLESPIE called him earlier on 29MAY25 at 0120 and 0143 hours, but he was asleep and missed the calls. ET3 RICH did not know why HT3 GILLESPIE called him that morning, but presumed it had to do with HT3 GILLESPIE's own concern for V/A.R. ET3 RICH stated HT3 GILLESPIE was coming off duty from the ship that morning. ET3 RICH remembered he had to end the call with HT3 GILLESPIE because his Command Duty Officer (CDO) was calling him back.

9. ET3 RICH believed V/A.R. phone died around 0430 hours on 29MAY25 due to her phone's location no longer saying "Live" and instead showing "Last Location" in his iPhone's "Find My" application.

10. Around 0500 hours, HT3 GILLESPIE stayed at X2 to continue looking for V/A.R. and ET3 RICH drove to V/A.R. barracks at Miller Hall, accompanied by two Masters-at-Arms (MAs) and waited for the Resident Advisors (RA) to arrive and unlock her door. ET3 RICH relayed the MAs accessed V/A.R. room around 0630 hours, but V/A.R. was not there. ET3 RICH stated the MAs did not permit him to go into her room but he peeked his head in and noticed the room looked like a photo or video of a "Fit Check" V/A.R. sent to her friend CSSN Gladys GARCIABARRERA, USN, DDG-95 on 28MAY25. ET3 RICH noticed the only thing that appeared missing was her backpack. ET3 RICH remembered HT3 GILLESPIE met him at Miller Hall to assist in searching. ET3 RICH remembered going back to X2 with HT3 GILLESPIE after searching Miller Hall. ET3 RICH estimated he concluded his search and left base to go to work around 0730 hours.

11. ET3 RICH stated HT3 GILLESPIE called him between 0800 and 0900 hours on 29MAY25 and told ET3 RICH he had checked S/COPELAND's room and did not see V/A.R. and S/COPELAND in the room. ET3 RICH recalled hearing from HT3 GILLESPIE that "the bed was made" and nothing looked "messed up." ET3 RICH believed it was possible HT3 GILLESPIE found out V/A.R. was with S/COPELAND from CSSN GARCIABARRERA.

12. ET3 RICH recalled there was an "All Hands Call" around 1000 hours on 29MAY25 and remembered a Chief pulled him aside and told him V/A.R. was found with S/COPELAND in S/COPELAND's room and that he could "relax." ET3 RICH learned FCC Brad PARKER, USN, DDG-95, was the person who found S/COPELAND and V/A.R. and messaged him via "GroupMe." FCC PARKER told him V/A.R. was "ok and safe" and affirmed he had seen V/A.R. that day.

13. ET3 RICH stated he recently attempted to find V/A.R. location on the morning of 07JUN25 as well as when he was at Naval Medical Center Portsmouth (NMCP) on 06JUN25. ET3 RICH stated ETC Donald ACKLEY, USN, DDG-95 escorted him to NMCP for a Command Referral to Behavioral Health. ET3 RICH relayed he attempted to sign into V/A.R. Navy Federal Credit Union (NFCU) account and her email account a few times on 03JUN25 or 04JUN25 on his laptop and desktop while at his barracks; ET3 RICH explained he had attempted to login to V/A.R. accounts using saved passwords, as V/A.R. previously borrowed and used the laptop. ET3 RICH further explained he had attempted the logins on both the barracks-wide Wi-Fi network, and on his own Wi-Fi network later in his room.

14. ET3 RICH signed a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure for the collection of his DNA via buccal swabs; Enclosure (B) pertains. ET3 RICH signed a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure of his MSI brand

15. Subsequent to the completion of this interview, PA accompanied ET3 RICH to his barracks room to facilitate the execution of the signed PASS. During that search, NCIS personnel identified instructional paperwork associated with pregnancy tests in his room. ET3 RICH explained that in approximately MAR25, exact date not recalled, he and V/A.R. had engaged in unprotected sex after consuming alcohol and afterward ET3 RICH could not recall whether he "pulled out" to avoid ejaculating in V/A.R. ET3 RICH and V/A.R. acquired multiple pregnancy tests from a local CVS, located in the vicinity of the Old Dominion University Campus, and waited approximately two weeks before conducting the tests. ET3 RICH reported that the test results were negative, indicating V/A.R. had not become pregnant from the incident.

Interpreting Call Detail Records

T-Mobile produces Call Detail Records (CDR), either with or without location information, in an Excel file containing multiple rows. The file includes both voice and message transactions. Each row represents one transaction on the T-Mobile network. Not all rows appear on every report. Some fields only appear in reports with location information.

Calls to 911 and calls made while roaming do not appear on this report.

T-Mobile generally retains details of all network-originated voice transactions for 24 months. As of February 2020, T-Mobile retains the metadata for certain types of 4G/LTE based text messages (SMSc and RCS) for only 22 months. If your records contain details older than 22 months from the date of production, these messages may not appear on the report.

Calls to Voicemail - Entries with outgoing calls to 8056377249 or numbers ending in 9999 indicate incoming calls forwarded (out) to the voicemail system. Calls forwarded to voicemail can also be identified using the Service Code column. The associated incoming call may or may not be captured. Entries with outgoing calls to 8056377243 = 805-MESSAGE indicate voicemail retrieval.

Timestamp - Please remember that T-Mobile systems natively use Coordinated Universal Time (UTC). Accordingly, the timestamps on these transactions appear as 00:00:01 to 23:59:59 UTC. T-Mobile is unable to convert these records to a different time zone. If you require records not captured in this response, please submit a new legal request that includes a description of records with the date/time adjusted for UTC.

Please note that T-Mobile network usage records may include 15- and 16-digit variants of an IMEI number. The first 14 digits are a conclusive match to the target IMEI.

Archived Records - If your legal request sought records older than 24 months, responsive records may include archived bill images. The timestamps on archive bill images vary depending on the legacy network for the subscriber and the type of transaction (i.e. voice, SMS). Due to these variations, and the static nature of the reprints, T-Mobile is not able to convert transactions on bill images to a particular time zone.

Set forth below are tips to help you understand data/information that is unique to the CDR_Quantum 5G report:

The retention of the CDR_Quantum records is nine months.

Both LTE and 5G usage will appear on the CDR_Quantum 5G report.

The duration times differ between a record appearing on the CDR_Mediations and CDR_Quantum reports because the information provided is sourced from various T-Mobile data collections. The CDR_Mediations source measures the duration based on the device's activity from start to finish. The CDR_Quantum source measures duration based on network activity.

Set forth below are tips to help you understand data/information that is unique to the Splunk SMS report:

This Supplemental Response includes the content of certain messages retained in connection with T-Mobile's Scam/Spam prevention efforts. The retention period for these messages is approximately 30 days. This retention period is subject to change based on business needs.

T-Mobile produces Scam/Spam message content in an Excel file containing four columns

- Date/Time Sent (PST) – Reflected in Pacific Standard Time. (T-Mobile is unable to convert these records into a different time zone. If you require records not captured in this response, please submit a new legal request that includes an adjusted date/time).
- Sending MSISDN – Telephone number of the sender.
- Recipient MSISDN – Telephone number of the intended recipient.
- Message content – Body of the message sent.

The messages produced consist of messages that were "sent". T-Mobile does not store data that would indicate whether the messages in the report were actually delivered.

A NOTE ON AZIMUTH: The azimuth listed is the center compass degree facing of the identified sector of the tower. Generally, a tower's coverage is circular and divided into three equal pieces (each 120 degrees wide). Due north is 0, due south is 180. However, not every tower is aligned with the first sector starting at 0. Using the listed azimuth, rough direction from the tower can be calculated for a call. The center degree of the sector's facing is indicated in this field. For example, if a facing has a listed orientation of 90, the center of the coverage is pointed at 90 degrees, but the sector will cover traffic from roughly 60 degrees on either side (thus 30 to 150 degrees in this example).

ET3 DANIEL RICH, USN INTERVIEW DATED 7 JUNE 2025

35:09: Special Agent: When was -- what was your first indication that anything was wrong or abnormal?

35:14: ET3 Rich: So, Thursday of last week I got a call at 2:14 in the morning. She called me. She was freaking out. 2:14, she calls me, she's freaking out. She's telling me how she needs a pickup ASAP, and she ends up passing the phone to someone else who I later found out was Copeland, someone else on our ship, a guy that she was hanging out with. He asked me how far I am, where I'm coming from. I told him like I'm like 10-15 minutes away. So, pass back to her, I reassure – I'm like I'm on my way, relax. "Okay, okay." Hangs up. 2:28 I go through the gate, I tried calling her again, no answer. And at that point I'm like okay, I have her location, let me just go to her location. Let me double back. On the phone the reason that she said that she was there was because she had been locked out of her room and that she went there to get a new room key, or to reactivate it and that she was planning on walking back to her room. I said no, let me pull up, let me get there, let me drive you.

On 5 September 2025, CDR Lauren Mayo and LT Christopher Dempsey, JAGC, USN, interviewed ET3 Daniel Rich, USN, in the presence of Ms. Marie Rendell and Special Agent Jessica Gokey, NCIS, at RLSO MIDLANT. The following is a summary of the interaction and is not intended to be verbatim:

ET3 Rich received a call from CS3 A.R. at 0214 on 29 May 2025 that woke him up. He stated she sounded was like she was having a panic attack. She was frantic and crying. She kept repeatedly stating that she needed to be picked up as soon as possible. At some point, a male who he later assumed to be CSSN Copeland, took the phone and asked how far away he was. It was not clear if the phone was passed to him or taken from her. ET3 Rich told the male that he would be there in about 10 minutes. The male replied "all right" and CS3 A.R. was then put back on the phone. She continued to be frantic and repeatedly stated she needed to be picked up. She also told ET3 Rich that she loved him. ET3 Rich hung up after telling her he was on the way.

While the male was on the phone with ET3 Rich, his tone was frantic as well, although not as frantic as CS3 A.R.

CS3 A.R. has had panic attacks in ET3 Rich's presence before. ET3 Rich opined that one possible trigger for her panic attacks would be a sexual advance.

ET3 Rich stated he had previously speculated that CS3 A.R. was outside based solely on the location of her phone according to her shared location. He advised he only believed that he heard car noises in the background because of that belief and that the background noise he heard could very well have been something else.

ET3 Rich also advised he had learned only after speaking with CS3 A.R.'s roommate later on that CS3 A.R. had lost her room key. He did not recall CS3 A.R. mentioning anything to him about having lost her room key or being locked out of her room on the phone call. He only recalled her repeatedly stating that she needed to be picked up.

A separate investigative action of this conversation will not be documented by NCIS.

S/COPELAND, JERMIAH TAYLOR/SN USN
M/B/NEE3/S/[PII]

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF HT3 MICHAEL GILLESPIE, USN

1. On 08Jun25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Investigator (PI) Tyler B. MANN conducted a follow-up interview of HT3 Michael Davontae GILLESPIE, USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) at NCISRA Norfolk, VA to develop additional information pertaining to the captioned investigation. Prior to initiating the interview, RA and PI identified themselves to HT3 GILLESPIE as a Special Agent and Investigator, respectively.

2. RA recorded this interview using an audio and video recording tool. This report serves as a summary of the interview and should not be treated as a verbatim account of the information discussed. A digital copy of the recorded interview is available on the optical disc appended to this report as Enclosure (A).

3. HT3 GILLESPIE identified himself as a former romantic partner and friend to [V/A.R.] HT3 GILLESPIE and [V/A.R.] dated for approximately five months in 2024, with their relationship ending in approximately Nov24. HT3 GILLESPIE identified ET3 Daniel David RICH Jr., USN, DDG 95, as the individual who dated [V/A.R.] after him. HT3 RICH could not provide information regarding precisely how much time elapsed between the end of his romantic relationship with [V/A.R.] and the beginning of her romantic relationship with ET3 RICH but noted that their relationship had also ended prior to [V/A.R.] disappearance. HT3 GILLESPIE reported that despite [V/A.R.] a tic entanglement with ET3 RICH, he had engaged in intimate acts with her on at least two occasions since the end of their relationship, in or around Feb25 and in May25.

4. HT3 GILLESPIE last interacted with [V/A.R.] in person on Wednesday morning, 28May25, at work aboard DDG 95. HT3 GILLESPIE admitted that the conversation with [V/A.R.] became contentious, as he raised the topic of [V/A.R.] returning a motorcycle helmet he previously gave to her. HT3 GILLESPIE noted there were specific care instructions for motorcycle helmets, and [V/A.R.] did not ride independent of their rides together, nor did she own a motorcycle herself. [V/A.R.] expressed frustration with HT3 GILLESPIE's request, and HT3 GILLESPIE withdrew the specific request for the helmet but continued to discuss the logistics of retrieving other items belonging to him from [V/A.R.] barracks.

5. HT3 GILLESPIE next interacted with [V/A.R.] during the late afternoon or evening of Wednesday, 28May25, via telephone. HT3 GILLESPIE reported [V/A.R.] called him, and they spoke cordially about how the remainder of her day went. According to HT3 GILLESPIE, V/A.R. informed him that she had a very good day, and that she had gone to Target with CSSN Gladis GARCIABARRERA, USN, DDG 95 for a shopping trip after work. HT3 GILLESPIE noted that V/A.R. had communicated with him in this manner while they dated, as she enjoyed having someone to discuss her activities with.

6. HT3 GILLESPIE reported he had duty onboard DDG 95 during the night of 28-29May25, including a specific watch shift in the later hours of the night and early morning. HT3 GILLESPIE reported receiving a text message reading "Fuck you" from V/A.R. sometime within the 2300-0000 hours timeframe. HT3 GILLESPIE was unsure of the specific time V/A.R. sent the message, as he only received it upon returning to the upper decks of DDG 95 from conducting watch on the lower levels of the ship where he did not receive cell signal.

7. Upon receiving the message, HT3 GILLESPIE became confused and subsequently concerned about V/A.R. well-being. The discrepancy between their earlier telephonic conversation and the text message was jarring, and HT3 GILLESPIE became concerned V/A.R. may be experiencing what he referred to as "an episode." HT3 GILLESPIE elaborated that V/A.R. suffered from Post-Traumatic Stress (PTS), associated with sexual abuse she suffered from a relative. HT3 GILLESPIE explained obliquely that he and V/A.R. had dealt with similar traumatic events in the past, and their shared experiences drew them together and helped them support one another. HT3 GILLESPIE began attempting to call and text V/A.R. multiple times, without success. HT3 GILLESPIE reported that at some point, exact time not recalled, he noticed an iPhone notification indicating V/A.R. had placed her phone on "Do Not Disturb" mode.

8. Between 0100-0200 hours on 29May25, HT3 GILLESPIE attempted to call ET3 RICH to enlist his assistance in reaching out to V/A.R. and ensure her safety. HT3 GILLESPIE explained that ET3 RICH would also be aware of the occasional severity of V/A.R. "episodes" and could take appropriate action while HT3 GILLESPIE was stuck on duty aboard the ship; however, ET3 RICH did not answer HT3 GILLESPIE's phone calls.

9. HT3 GILLESPIE reported that sometime around after 0300 hours, exact time not recalled, he was able to depart duty to begin looking for V/A.R. himself. HT3 GILLESPIE had historically shared his own location with V/A.R. via the iPhone's "Find My" application and been able to observe V/A.R. location, as well. After receiving V/A.R. text message, HT3 GILLESPIE had opened the "Find My" application, and noted V/A.R. cell phone was in vicinity of "X2." As a note, X2 is also identifiable as Willis Manor, a barracks located onboard Norfolk Naval Station at 9712 Virginia Avenue, Norfolk, VA 23511. By the time HT3 GILLESPIE departed the ship, he no longer had access to V/A.R. location but traveled to X2 as her last known location.

10. Upon arriving to the X2 barracks, HT3 GILLESPIE learned from the front desk workers that he was not the only individual who had recently asked about V/A.R. ET3 RICH had been at X2 earlier. HT3 GILLESPIE and ET3 RICH met at the X2 barracks shortly thereafter to search together. ET3 RICH had enlisted the assistance of Masters-at-Arms (MAs) from base police, and accompanied them to Miller Hall, V/A.R. assigned barracks, to look for her in her room. HT3 GILLESPIE stayed at X2 and was joined by other MAs to continue searching for V/A.R. there.

11. HT3 GILLESPIE learned from CSSN GARCIABARRERA, at a time not specifically recalled or reported, that V/A.R. had intended to spend the evening of 28May25 hanging out with S/COPELAND, a fellow culinary specialist from DDG95. HT3 GILLESPIE indicated that he reported this information to the MAs, who attempted to locate V/A.R. and S/COPELAND in a room identified by a Resident Assistant (RA), not further identified, as assigned to S/COPELAND. HT3 GILLESPIE accompanied the MAs and an RA to a barracks room located on the second deck of X2 but did not find V/A.R. or S/COPELAND. HT3 GILLESPIE noted the barracks suite inspected by the MAs and RA was empty, clean, and seemed largely uninhabited. As a note, S/COPELAND's actual barracks room was located on the third deck of the X2 building.

12. HT3 GILLESPIE noted his calls and texts to V/A.R. cell phone stopped being delivered at approximately 0430 hours on 29May25. HT3 GILLESPIE believed V/A.R. cell phone battery may have died, or the phone was turned off, at this time. HT3 GILLESPIE had to suspend his search for V/A.R. sometime between 0600 and 0700 hours, as he had a scheduled dental appointment at approximately 0800 hours. HT3 GILLESPIE provided information to ET3 RICH indicating MAs had entered S/COPELAND's barracks room and failed to find either S/COPELAND or V/A.R.

13.HT3 GILLESPIE reported having no further contact with V/A.R. after her phone died. HT3 GILLESPIE, ET3 RICH, and CSSN GARCIABARRERA continued to communicate with one another about her disappearance and were unconvinced by the DDG 95 Command report indicating that V/A.R. had been found and was safe on 29May25. HT3 GILLESPIE noted that S/COPELAND was the last person seen with V/A.R. and was therefore the individual that most likely knew what happened to V/A.R.

14. On Sunday, 01Jun25, HT3 GILLESPIE confronted S/COPELAND aboard DDG 95 and surreptitiously recorded the interaction with his iPhone. HT3 GILLESPIE showed RA and PI the video and provided a copy to PI. In that recorded interaction, S/COPELAND appeared to identify himself as the individual who asked ET3 RICH how long it would take for him to arrive when V/A.R. called ET3 RICH at 0214 hours on 29May25. S/COPELAND claimed that V/A.R. stayed with him after that phone call before leaving later that morning. HT3 GILLESPIE challenged S/COPELAND, informing him that he'd entered a room believed to be S/COPELAND's looking for V/A.R. at which point it becomes clear that HT3 GILLESPIE and the MAs entered a room on the incorrect floor. S/COPELAND then claimed that following a visit to his room by an unidentified "Chief" he had "dropped her off" outside her building. S/COPELAND told HT3 GILLESPIE that she, V/A.R. "was tripping" and crying while they were together. S/COPELAND also claimed that V/A.R. had begun consuming alcohol before he arrived, and that all he consumed was a "Buzzball or two."

15. HT3 GILLESPIE signed Permissive Authorizations for Search and Seizure (PASS) for his cell phone, an iPhone XR with serial number DX3FJFRQKXKN, his car, a blue 2004 Ford Mustang with Virginia license plate PII, his motorcycle, a Kawasaki Z650 with North Carolina license plate PII. The signed PASS forms for the execution of those searches are documented in separate reports. HT3 GILLESPIE noted that he had a fellow USN member friend staying with him at his barracks and therefore declined to immediately provide a PASS for his barracks. HT3 GILLESPIE noted he remained willing to permit a search of his barracks at a later time.

16. HT3 GILLESPIE signed a PASS for his Deoxyribonucleic Acid (DNA), via buccal swap, which was executed following his interview; Enclosure (B) pertains. The DNA swabs were collected and placed into evidence under ECD #HA9UT and item #455TC.

RESULTS OF PERMISSIVE AUTHORIZATION FOR SEARCH AND SEIZURE REGARDING HT3 MICHAEL GILLESPIE'S IPHONE

1. On 03JUN25, HT3 Micheal GILLESPIE, USN, USS JAMES E WILLIAMS (DDG 95) authorized the search of his personally owned Apple iPhone XR, Serial Number # DX3FJFRQKXKN, by signing a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure (PASS); Enclosure (A) pertains. Subsequently, on 03JUN25, HT3 GILLISPIE's cellular device was manually reviewed and revealed the following pertinent information:

2. Text Messages:
-Numerous text messages between HT3 GILLESPIE and contact "[redacted]" with telephone number ([redacted] The messages beginning on 27MAY25 appear to show plans of HT3 GILLESPIE responding to the residence of "[redacted]" and retrieving clothing and a helmet. The last message sent from [redacted] is on "Wednesday" at 23:22 hours. HT3 GILLESPIE continues to send numerous texts but receives no response.

3. Phone Calls:
-HT3 GILLESPIE appears to miss a Facetime Audio call from [redacted] on "Wednesday". HT3 GILLESPIE makes numerous calls to [redacted] following the missed call.

4. Video Recorded Interaction
-HT3 GILLESPIE sent a video recorded interaction between him and CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG 95. HT3 GILLESPIE reported this interaction was recorded without S/COPELAND's knowledge. The video's metadata indicates it was created on 01JUL25 at approximately 2004 hours. In the video, you can see S/COPELAND's nametag. S/COPELAND indicates CSSN [redacted], USN, DDG 95 stayed overnight in his room and left the following morning. S/COPELAND stated "chief" walked in his room and instructed S/COPELAND to drop [redacted] off at her room. S/COPELAND advised he dropped her off at her building at approximately 1300 hours, however, she walked towards the front or side of the building. S/COPELAND advised while [redacted] was in his room the night prior, she was "tripping" and described a moment wherein [redacted] called someone she used to talk to in Texas and indicated he did "things" to her and questioned why he did those "things". S/COPELAND stated his roommates were also home in their rooms at the time and he and [redacted] were in the living room. S/COPELAND stated [redacted] consumed alcohol prior to them meeting and he only consumed approximately two (2) cups of "Buzzball". S/COPELAND stated when [redacted] was crying, one of the aforenoted roommates came in and asked if everything was ok.

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF PSSN IRBIN GORDILLOCRUZ, USN

1. On 03JUN25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Agent (RA) Fritzner PHILEMON conducted an interview of PSSN Irbin GORDILLOCRUZ, USN, Airborne Command and Control Squadron 124 (VAW-124) in regards to his knowledge of this investigation. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ is one of 4 roommates of CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95).

2. This interview was audio and video recorded utilizing Case Cracker. A copy of the recording was subsequently saved to an optical disc and maintained with the case file. This report should not be treated as a verbatim or comprehensive representation of the interview; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ stated he returned to his barracks room at approximately 0400 on 28JUN25. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ had been on leave and flew back to Norfolk at approximately 0300. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ stated upon his return he walked into the common area of the room and noticed all the lights were off. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ stated he did not see or notice anyone on the couch or the floor of the common room area. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ admitted he was exhausted and was really only focused on going to sleep.

4. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ stated he woke up for work at approximately 0620 and exited his room at approximately 0645 with his roommate, AR John CALISSE, and they both noticed two individuals laying on the ground near the couch opposite their room. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ stated the female was laying on her back with her breasts exposed and her chest was rising and falling. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ further described the female as dark skin and having curly hair. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ stated he had never seen this female but did believe she was in the Navy. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ described his roommate, S/COPELAND, was naked and was laying with his head on the females stomach. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ stated he and CALISSE had to maneuver around the two laying on the ground to get to the front door.

5. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ stated on Saturday, 31MAY25, and Sunday, 01JUN25, he had been woken up in the morning by base security trying to locate S/COPELAND. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ stated on 01JUN25, base security had arrived and told S/COPELAND he had to check in with his Command due to him being UA. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ stated S/COPELAND, CALISSE, and himself went to DDG-95, utilizing CALISSE's vehicle. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ continued saying, S/COPELAND had to check into the Command and do a urinalysis test. Afterwards, they all went to Chipotle for food and returned to the barracks. PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ

RESULTS OF SECONDARY INTERVIEW OF YN3 SEAN MONAGHAN, USN

1. On 09Jun25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Investigator (PI) Tyler MANN conducted an interview of YN3 Sean MONAGHAN, USN, Helicopter Mine Countermeasures Squadron 12 (HM 12), pursuant to the missing person investigation involving CSSN [V/A.R.] ([V/A.R.] USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95).

2. The interview of YN3 MONAGHAN was recorded using an audio/visual recording system, and a digital copy was downloaded onto a Digital Video Disc-Recordable (DVD-R). This document is a summary of the interview and not a verbatim transcription. For full details of the interview, refer to the working copy of the original DVD-R; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. As background, YN3 MONAGHAN is the roommate of CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG 95, who was the last known individual to see [V/A.R.] before she went missing. It is believed [V/A.R.] was last seen in the room shared by S/COPELAND and YN3 MONAGHAN.

4. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed on Wednesday, 28May25, he arrived at his barracks room around 1900 from traveling back home to New Jersey. YN3 MONAGHAN stated when he arrived, he did not see anyone in the room. YN3 MONAGHAN continued S/COPELAND got home that night around 2200; however, YN3 MONAGHAN stated he had watch early the next morning, so he was already half asleep. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed he does remember seeing a lighter-skinned female with short hair; however, he did not recognize her, nor did he know who she was. YN3 MONAGHAN stated on Thursday, 29May25, he woke up around 0500 to get ready for work, and he noticed no one was in his room. YN3 MONAGHAN stated he walked out into their common space at approximately 0640 and observed S/COPELAND asleep on the floor of the living room in his underwear with a girl he did not recognize. Of note, YN3 MONAGHAN was shown a picture of [V/A.R.] by PA; however, he relayed he did not get a good enough look at the individual on the floor to positively identify her as [V/A.R.] YN3 MONAGHAN stated he returned from work around 1300, and no one was in the room. YN3 MONAGHAN stated, around 2000, he saw S/COPELAND and asked him if him and the female from that morning had been naked, to which S/COPELAND relayed they had been in their underwear. YN3 MONAGHAN stated he saw S/COPELAND again that night in the common space around 2200 when he went to make food. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed S/COPELAND did sleep in their room that night.

5. YN3 MONAGHAN stated on Friday, 30May25, he woke up around 0600 when

S/COPELAND left and then woke up again around 0900 when a representative (NFI) from S/COPELAND's Command came looking for him; however, he was not in the room. YN3 MONAGHAN stated the next time he saw S/COPELAND was when he returned to the room around 2200-2300. YN3 MONAGHAN confirmed S/COPELAND slept in their room that night.

6. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed on Saturday, 31May25, he noticed S/COPELAND left early in the morning again, although he was not sure what time. YN3 MONAGHAN continued he was woken up at approximately 1200, when the Masters-at-Arms (MAs) came looking for S/COPELAND and again, he was not in the room. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed S/COPELAND returned to the room late at night again; however, he was not sure of the exact time.

7. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed on Sunday, 01Jun25, S/COPELAND received a call from his command around 1000, needing him to come in to work. YN3 MONAGHAN stated he was unsure how S/COPELAND got to work that day. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed S/COPELAND returned to the room at approximately 2200-2300.

8. YN3 MONAGHAN stated on Monday, 02Jun25, he was questioned by the "homicide unit" while at work and on Tuesday, 03Jun25, NCIS "raided" their barracks room and took S/COPELAND. YN3 MONAGHAN stated, following the "raid" by NCIS, he asked S/COPELAND what NCIS was looking for, to which S/COPELAND responded, "I don't know, they're tripping." YN3 MONAGHAN relayed on Monday he noticed S/COPELAND was very skittish. YN3 MONAGHAN explained he walked into their room and when he opened the door, S/COPELAND looked startled and stated, "Oh, you scared me."

9. YN3 MONAGHAN stated S/COPELAND does have a car; however, it gets repairs done to it a lot. YN3 MONAGHAN stated S/COPELAND's "crazy ex slashed the tires." YN3 MONAGHAN described the car as being small, rectangular, and black with four doors. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed he drives a 2011 Toyota Camry with a New Jersey license plate number PII . YN3 MONAGHAN stated he has never let S/COPELAND borrow his car nor has he ever given him permission to use his car for any reason. YN3 MONAGHAN revealed he does leave his keys in places S/COPELAND could access them, usually on his desk in their room. YN3 MONAGHAN stated on 03Jun25, he did believe his car had moved parking spots and was so suspicious about the incident he texted his mom.

10. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed he did see S/COPELAND with a rolling suitcase a couple months ago. YN3 MONAGHAN described the suitcase as one that came up to his thigh, black, and had a handle for wheeling around. YN3 MONAGHAN stated S/COPELAND usually kept this suitcase locked in his closet; however, stated he had not seen it in "awhile."

11. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed he has not noticed anything in their room being out of place. YN3 MONAGHAN stated he deep cleaned their room on Monday, 02Jun25, where he noticed the bathmat in front of the toilet had a stain in one corner, he believed to be blood. YN3 MONAGHAN relayed this was not unusual to him because S/COPELAND had female friends over who would often leave tampons in their bathroom, and blood sometimes got on the floor. YN3 MONAGHAN stated, because he thought nothing of this, he placed the bathmat in the washing machine to be cleaned. YN3 MONAGHAN provided a hand drawn sketch of the bathmat to depict where he observed the blood; Enclosure (B) pertains. YN3 MONAGHAN also provided a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure (PASS) to enter his barracks room and collect the bathmat which will be documented under separate cover.

S/COPELAND, JERMIAH TAYLOR/SN USN
[redacted]

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF AR JOHN CALISSE, USN

1. On 03Jun25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Investigator (PI) John KOWALSKI conducted an interview of AR John CALISSE, USN, Airborne Command & Control Squadron (VAW) 124 regarding his knowledge related to the whereabouts of CSSN [redacted] ([redacted]), USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95).

2. The interview of AR CALISSE was recorded using an audio/visual recording system, and a digital copy was downloaded onto a Digital Video Disc-Recordable (DVD-R). This document is a summary of the interview and not a verbatim transcription. For full details of the interview, refer to the working copy of the original DVD-R; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. AR CALISSE reported on 29May25, while at his barracks Willis Manor, Building X-2, Room 335, on Naval Station Norfolk, at approximately 0200, he heard his suitemate CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG 95, and an unknown female singing karaoke in S/COPELAND's room. AR CALISSE stated he always heard loud music coming from S/COPELAND's room at all times of the night. AR CALISSE did not recall seeing any signs that S/COPELAND was consuming alcohol in the common area. AR CALISSE stated at approximately 1900 on 28May25, S/COPELAND requested to use his white 2014 Jeep Compass to which he obliged. AR CALISSE reported S/COPELAND returned at approximately 2000, knocked on his barracks door, and when he opened the door to obtain the keys, he observed a female in the kitchen area cooking, who he later identified as V/RESENDIZ.

4. AR CALISSE recalled waking up the morning of 29May25, at approximately 0500, to report to work on time. At approximately 0530, AR CALISSE stated he exited his room and upon walking into the common area observed S/COPELAND and an unknown female laying naked in the middle of the common room floor. AR CALISSE stated he observed them on their backs, face up, with their eyes closed. AR CALISSE stated he observed S/COPELAND laying on the thigh of the unknown female. AR CALISSE stated he did not see any clothing belonging to S/COPELAND. AR CALISSE stated he observed the female wearing red pajama pants with flowers, with one pant leg slightly on at the ankle, and her bra pulled down exposing her breast. AR CALISSE reported walking past them in order to leave the room and believed both S/COPELAND and the female to be breathing. AR CALISSE stated when he returned from work at approximately 1700, S/COPELAND and the female were not in the barracks room.

5. AR CALISSE described the female as brown skinned, long brown hair, and with what he believed to be a possible nose piercing. AR CALISSE stated this was his first time seeing the female; however, confirmed it was V/A.R. when showed a photograph.

6. AR CALISSE stated he did not see S/COPELAND again until Sunday 01Jun25, at approximately 1400, when he asked him for a ride to report to DDG 95. AR CALISSE agreed to provide transportation to S/COPELAND after returning from Walmart. AR CALISSE stated he transported S/COPELAND along with ISSA Irbin GORDILLOCRUZ, USN, VAW 124, at approximately 1700. AR CALISSE stated S/COPELAND was on DDG 95 for approximately one hour while ISSA GORDILLACRUZ and AR CALISSE waited in the parking lot for him to return. AR CALISSE stated when S/COPELAND returned to the vehicle he informed him he was required to do a urinalysis for not reporting to work on 30May25. AR CALISSE stated while driving from DDG 95 back to the barracks they stopped at Chipotle located at 4712 Hampton Blvd, Norfolk, VA 23508, at approximately 1900.

7. AR CALISSE stated when they returned to the barracks, S/COPELAND asked if he could use his car to get something to eat. AR CALISSE allowed S/COPELAND to use his vehicle giving him the key at approximately 2000. AR CALISSE stated when he woke up the next morning and proceeded to go to work, he noticed his car key was not on the kitchen counter where S/COPELAND normally leaves it after borrowing his car. AR CALISSE stated he called S/COPELAND to find out his location and was angry because he caused him to be late for work. AR CALISSE reported meeting S/COPELAND in the X-2 parking lot at approximately 0630 and watched him drive the vehicle into the parking lot. AR CALISSE stated he was unaware of the locations S/COPELAND traveled to while he had his vehicle.

8. During his interview, AR CALISSE signed a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure (PASS) for his Jeep Compass which will be documented under separate cover.

9. At the conclusion of the interview, while returning AR CALISSE to VAW-124, he located EZ Pass transactions and provided screenshots of the charges from 27May25 to 02Jun25 without being requested; Enclosure (B) pertains. AR CALISSE stated the charge on 01Jun25 was his return from the ship; however, all other charges were believed to be accrued by S/COPELAND.

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF FCC BRAD PARKER, USN

1. On 03JUN25, Reporting Investigator (RI) and Participating Agent (PA) Caroline ROBINSON interviewed FCC Brad PARKER (FCC PARKER), USN, USS JAMES E WILLIAMS (DDG 95), regarding his knowledge of the disappearance of CSSN [redacted] ([redacted]), USN, DDG 95.

2. The interview of FCC PARKER was recorded using an audio/visual recording system and a digital copy was downloaded onto a Digital Video Disc-Recordable (DVD-R). This document is a summary of the interview and not a verbatim transcription. For full details of the interview, refer to the working copy of the original DVD-R; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. The interview of FCC PARKER was recorded using an audio recorder and a digital copy was downloaded onto a Digital Video Disc-Recordable (DVD-R). This document is a summary of the interview and not a verbatim transcription. For full details of the interview, refer to the working copy of the original DVD-R; Enclosure (B) pertains.

4. On 03JUN25, FCC PARKER signed a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure (PASS) to allow NCIS to obtain screenshots of messages pertaining to the disappearance of [redacted]. Results of PASS will be documented in a separate investigative action.

5. FCC PARKER described the incident as it was reported to him. FCC PARKER stated on 29MAY25 at 0700, he was advised [redacted] was not doing well and began calling friends on the ship. FCC PARKER identified the friends as co-worker, CSSN COPELAND, later identified as CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG 95, ET3 RICH, later identified as ET3 Daniel RICH (ET3 RICH), USN, DDG 95, and "Gillespie", later identified as HT3 Michael GILLESPIE (HT3 GILLESPIE), USN, DDG 95. FCC PARKER clarified S/COPELAND, ET3 RICH, and HT3 GILLESPIE all stated she was seeking help that evening. FCC PARKER stated S/COPELAND relayed ET3 RICH went to her barracks room, Miller Hall BLDG U-16, she was not there and did not answer her cell phone. FCC PARKER stated he learned S/COPELAND did not show up for the "breakfast shift" at his schedule time (NFI).

6. FCC PARKER stated on the morning of 29MAY25, he went to locate S/COPELAND at his barracks room, Willis Manor, X-2, RM 335B, Bed A, on board Naval Station Norfolk, Norfolk, VA. According to FCC PARKER, S/COPELAND answered the door with groggy eyes, a pair of basketball shorts and the lights in his room were off as if he just woken up. FCC PARKER stated he did not notice any indications of alcohol use. FCC PARKER indicated he told S/COPELAND they needed to go to work, to which S/COPELAND stated he was not alone. FCC PARKER stated he asked S/COPELAND if it was V/A.R. and S/COPELAND confirmed. FCC PARKER stated he recognized V/A.R. in S/COPELAND's bed. FCC PARKER clarified V/RESENDIZ looked up, dismissively waved, rolled over and went back to sleep. FCC PARKER relayed V/A.R. was wrapped in a blanket with only her feet being exposed. FCC PARKER relayed at 0854, he texted LSC Rob JANSON (LSC JANSON), USN, DDG 95, confirming S/COPELAND and V/RESENDIZ were in S/COPELAND's room.

7. FCC PARKER stated he told S/COPELAND to step out of the room and into the common area. FCC PARKER relayed he asked if they were ok and if V/A.R. was in any imminent danger to which S/COPELAND replied "I do not think so." FCC PARKER stated S/COPELAND relayed he went to pick V/RESENDIZ up, who was having problems with her boyfriend (NFI) in Texas, and they watched movies. FCC PARKER said he asked S/COPELAND if he had a ride to work, to which S/COPELAND said he did. FCC PARKER stated he departed after he advised S/COPELAND to ensure V/A.R. was returned to her room and to get to work. FCC PARKER drew a sketch depicting the layout of S/COPELAND's room; Enclosure (C) pertains.

8. FCC PARKER relayed he was there for approximately five (5) to ten (10) minutes. Additionally, FCC PARKER indicated there was a logbook in the lobby where he signed in and out from. FCC PARKER stated at 1241, S/COPELAND called him stating he dropped off V/RESENDIZ at her barracks room and was waiting for his ride. FCC PARKER stated at 1523, he texted S/COPELAND asking why he was still not at work. FCC PARKER relayed at 1636, S/COPELAND texted him saying he was still waiting on a ride to work. FCC PARKER stated S/COPELAND never showed up at work and he did not hear from him until 01JUN25.

9. FCC PARKER stated on the morning of 30MAY25, V/A.R. and S/COPELAND did not show up to work. FCC PARKER conveyed he attempted to locate both of them in their respective rooms but was unsuccessful. FCC PARKER relayed he attempted to call and text V/A.R. and S/COPELAND but they did not answer. FCC PARKER stated he spoke with V/A.R.'s roommate (NFI) who stated she had not seen V/A.R. since the night of 28MAY25. FCC PARKER relayed at 0950, he called LSC JANSON advising V/A.R. was not in her room. FCC PARKER advised at 1017, he called and texted S/COPELAND from his barracks room, but he did not answer. FCC PARKER stated he spoke with S/COPELAND's roommate (NFI) who related he was in the room earlier that morning but did not know when S/COPELAND left.

10. FCC PARKER stated on 31MAY25, ET3 RICH filed a missing person report for V/A.R. FCC PARKER did not identify the filing agency. FCC PARKER advised S/COPELAND called him on the afternoon of 01JUN25 about his unauthorized absence (UA) status. FCC PARKER relayed the command called and texted him, to which S/COPELAND stated he does not normally answer his phone when he is not on duty. FCC PARKER relayed he asked S/COPELAND if he had heard from V/RESENDIZ. According to FCC PARKER, S/COPELAND stated he had not seen her since he dropped her off the afternoon of 29MAY25.

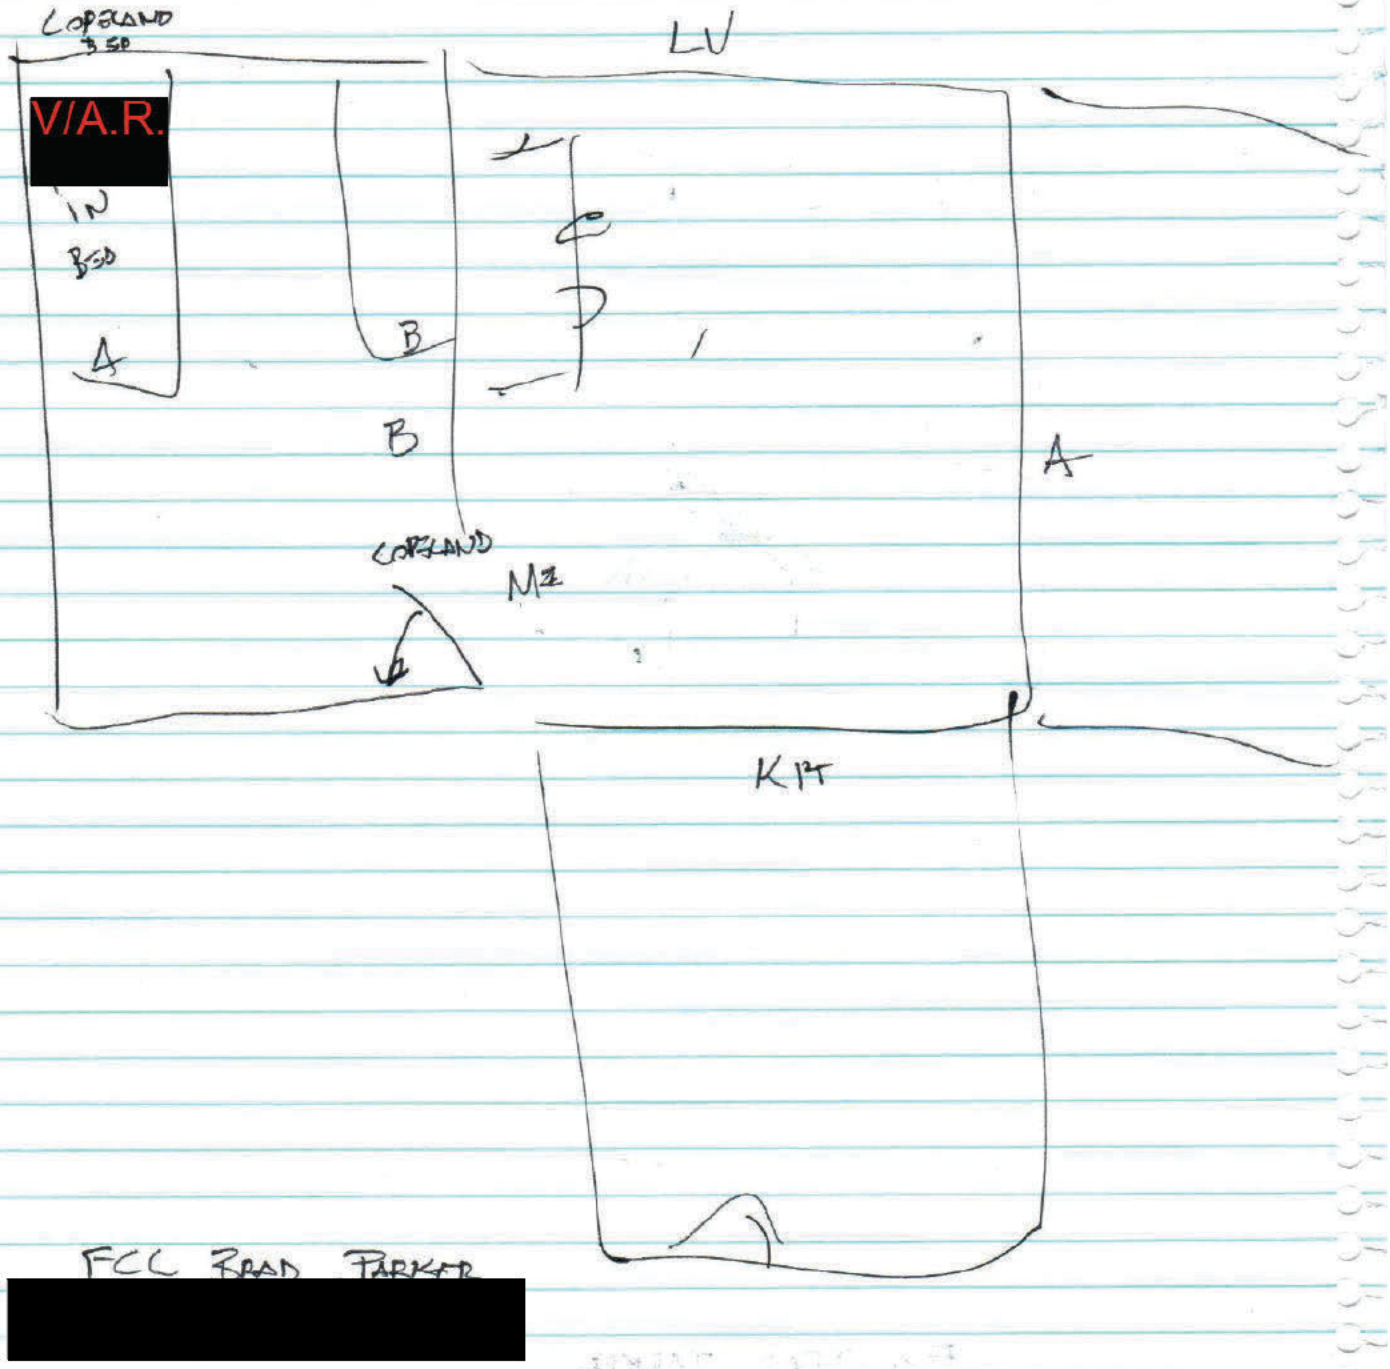
11. FCC PARKER conveyed on the morning of 29MAY25, V/RESENDIZ's LPO, CS1 HOWELLEL, later identified as CS1 Daryl HOWELLEL, USN, DDG 95, began sending daily texts to her. FCC PARKER stated on 01JUN25, the Commanding Officer, later identified to be CDR Timothy WINTERS, USN, DDG 95, mandated daily checks on V/A.R.'s room until she was found. FCC PARKER relayed on the same day, CS2 BRYANT, later identified as CS2 Joshua BRYANT, USN, DDG 95, went to her barracks room and she was not there.

12. FCC PARKER advised on 02JUN25, he went to V/A.R.'s barracks room because he was advised she left her phone in her room but was unable to locate it. FCC PARKER relayed the building manager (NFI) let him into the room and he "visually" looked for the her phone. FCC PARKER clarified he did not touch anything in the room. FCC PARKER stated S/COPELAND did not have a driver's license and is pending reckless driving charges with Virginia Beach Police Department.



13. No further information was obtained.

RESULTS OF INITIAL INTERVIEW OF CSSN JERMIAH COPELAND, USN

1. On 01Jun25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Agent (PA) Jessica GOKEY interviewed CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, USS JAMES E WILLIAMS (DDG 95) regarding his knowledge of the whereabouts of V/A.R. The interview took place in the lounge area on third floor of building X2, Willis Manor, located on Naval Station Norfolk (NOB), and was not recorded.

2. As background, V/A.R. and S/COPELAND were placed into a Unauthorized Absence (UA) status subsequent to 29May25, after failing to report to work. On 01Jun25, after speaking with S/COPELAND's mother, NCIS and S/COPELAND's mother contacted Naval Station Norfolk (NOB) Base Police to conduct a follow-up health and welfare check on both S/COPELAND and V/A.R. . The Naval Station Norfolk Watch Commander advised NOB Security Forces located S/COPELAND in his barracks rooms in Willis Manor, Room 335. NCIS was advised that Security Forces received no answer at V/A.R. 's door when they knocked on her barracks room located on NOB, Miller Hall, Room 1083.

3. During his interview, S/COPELAND described his relationship with V/A.R. as co-workers. S/COPELAND stated he texted with V/A.R. on Wednesday, 28May25 to discuss recipes and ingredients for tacos. S/COPELAND stated V/A.R. came over to his barracks room, made tacos and they both consumed alcohol. S/COPELAND explained V/A.R. gradually became more upset as the night progressed and they spoke about her current and past romantic relationships. S/COPELAND stated V/A.R. spoke on the phone to two (2) ex-boyfriends, both of which were confrontational calls. One call was with an ex-boyfriend he still believed was located in Texas (NFI) and the other call was with HT3 Michael GILLESPIE, USN, DDG 95.

4. S/COPELAND explained V/A.R. and HT3 GILLESPIE argued over returning a motorcycle helmet and that HT3 GILLESPIE wanted it back. S/COPELAND said V/A.R. explained her relationship with HT3 GILLESPIE was toxic and described her most recent ex-boyfriend, ET3 Daniel RICH, USN, DDG 95, as at first being a sweetheart and then he wasn't. S/COPELAND said ET3 RICH and HT3 GILLESPIE do not get along, that they have issues with each other, and opined it was due to their relationships with V/A.R. . S/COPELAND said HT3 GILLESPIE has come to the galley on the ship a lot, which sometimes caused issues. S/COPELAND said he did not know of any instances of HT3 GILLESPIE being violent toward V/A.R. and that HT3 GILLESPIE was more of a topic of conversation than ET3 RICH was during their evening together.

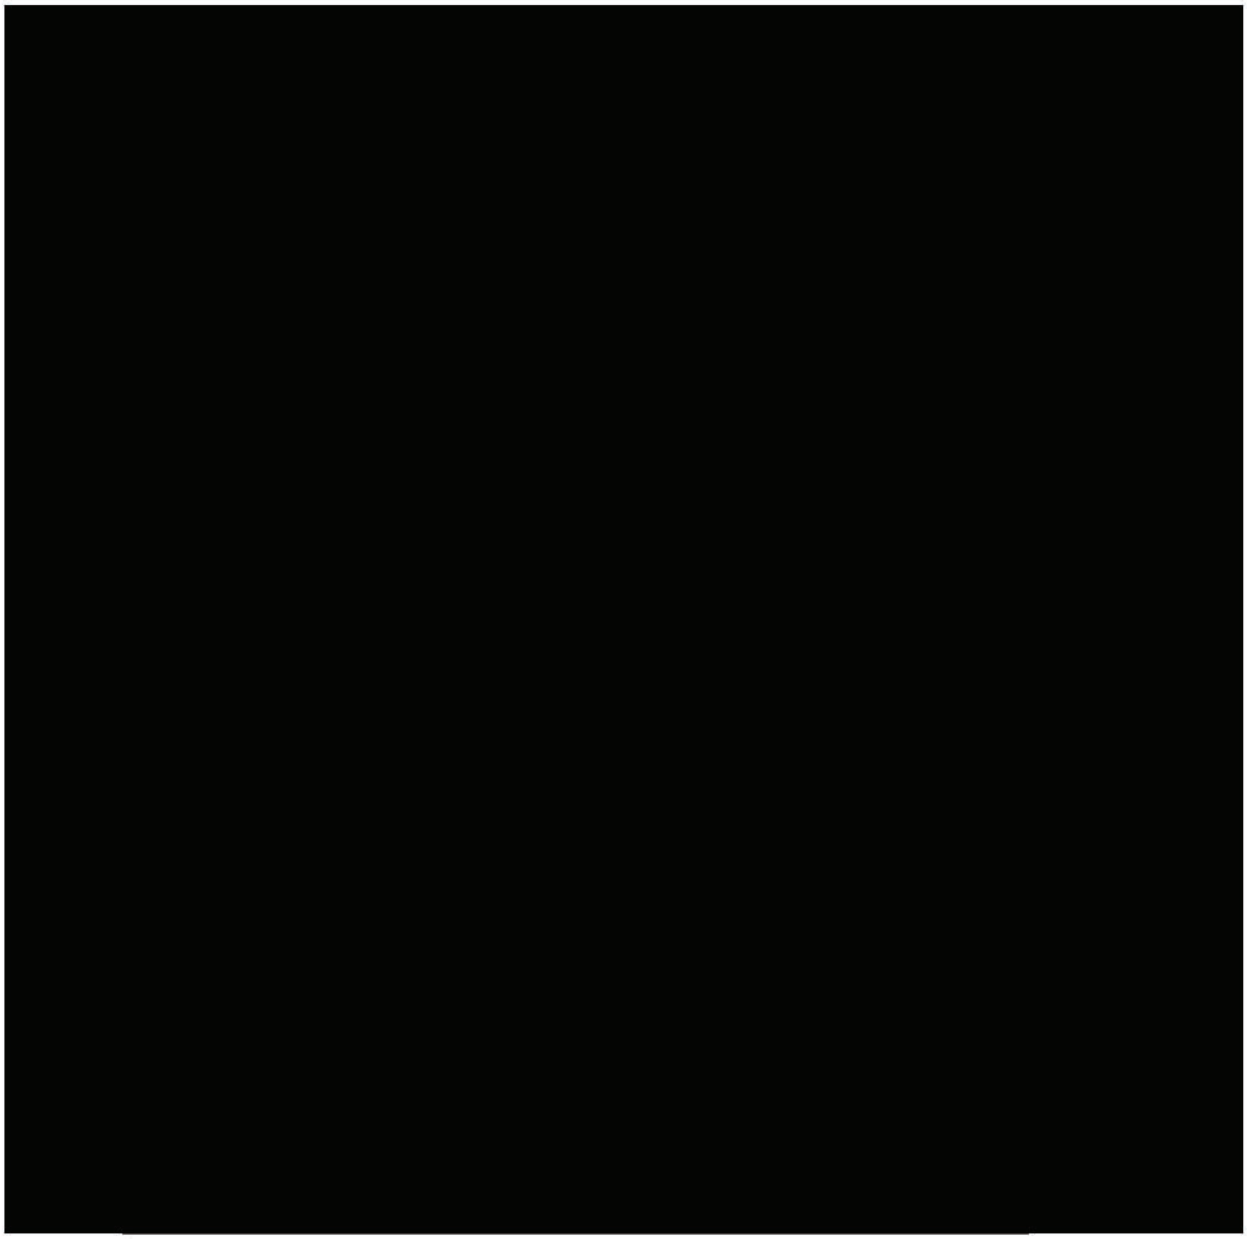
S/COPELAND described his role during the evening as a sounding board for V/A.R.



5. S/COPELAND recalled one of his roommates walked into the barracks suite (common area) and asked if V/RESENDIZ was okay as she was upset, which he (S/COPELAND) responded yes.

6. S/COPELAND explained V/A.R. spent the night in his barracks room and they did not have sexual intercourse. S/COPELAND said he was supposed to work on Thursday 29May25, however, he woke up late as FCC Brad PARKER, USN, DDG 95, came to his barracks room at approximately 0900 and woke he and V/A.R. S/COPELAND said he misunderstood FCC PARKER and did not report to work. S/COPELAND said he borrow his roommate's vehicle and drove V/RESENDIZ back to her barracks at approximately 1000 hours. S/COPELAND said this was the last time he saw V/RESENDIZ.

2. The examination revealed that on 29May25, at 7:28:08 AM, the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND unlocked the device by either the phone's facial biometrics or the PIN. The user then began to use the Apple iMessage App at 7:28:10 AM. The user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND did not respond to any previous text messages received and stopped using the Apple iMessage App at 7:28:38 AM. At 7:28:38 AM, the device then displayed two user notification events of previously received text messages from Aaliyah De La Cruz and CS2 Bryant. Between 7:28:48 AM and 7:38:48 AM, the phone was then placed back into a locked state. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshots as displayed in Axiom.

4. The user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND unlocked the device at 7:39:56 AM, and the device remained in an unlocked state for 1 hour, 13 minutes, and 4 seconds until going into a locked state at 8:53:00 AM. Between 7:39:59 AM and 7:41:08 AM, the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND was active on the Apple iMessage App and read incoming messages from phone number 910-549-9482 at 7:40:44 AM. The user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND did not respond to the text messages. The health database recorded health steps and distance events at 7:39:51AM. A cached locations record event logged at 7:41:03 AM, placed iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND the near Willis Manor X-2. The user momentarily switched to the TikTok App before utilizing the Twitter App between 7:41:56 AM and 7:52:55 AM. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshots.

5. Between 7:41:56 AM and 7:52:55 AM, the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND was using the Twitter App. While the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND was using twitter, the device received two incoming FaceTime audio calls and one cellular phone call from the phone number +19105499482. The user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND did not answer the phone calls while on the Twitter app. At 7:53:04 AM, the user then switched to the Snapchat App and appears to switch between the use of the iPhone's back camera to the front camera in the Snapchat App at 7:53:17 AM. The examination revealed the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND appears to take two pictures while using Snapchat based on the camera being active and the .jpg file extension. Snapchat saved the images named A4FF562B-4659-4E70-83E4-F07433AF8A8C.jpg and A5BD5969-9F93-4394-BD12-5A4FB27937C3.jpg. The user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND then replied to Snapchat user name "luv.layna22" at 7:53:55 AM. This reply was the last communication send by the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND until 12:44:35 PM when the user called the phone number (360) 521-1599. The user then switched back to the Twitter App between 7:54:14 AM and 7:55:10 AM. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshots as displayed in Axiom and the 29May25 Timeline Excel spreadsheet.

6. The examination of the Apple Photos App for the time period of 7:55:12 AM until 11:31:47 AM, revealed the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND was viewing adult pornography. Between 7:55:12 AM and 8:25:54 AM, the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND was primarily using the Apple Photos App. While the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND was viewing adult pornography, the device received an incoming phone call from "Brad Parker." The iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND received an additional four incoming calls until 9:01:12 AM. The user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND did not answer or respond to any of the incoming phone calls. Between 8:25:56 AM and 8:26:03 AM, the user switched to the Apple iMessage App from the Apple Photos App. The user did not respond to any previously received text messages nor did the user appear to read any unread text messages. Between 8:26:05 AM and 8:52:51 AM, the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND started to use the Apple Photos App again. While the user was viewing pornography, the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND received two text messages the phone number 631-804-1144 at 8:51 AM. The user did not respond to the text messages. Between 8:53:00 AM and 8:58:12 AM, the device was putted into a locked state for 5 minutes and 12 seconds. While the device was in a locked state, the health database recorded health steps and distance events at 8:54:33 AM. The user then unlocked the device for 16 seconds then placed the device back into a locked state between 8:58:28 AM and 9:01:44 AM. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshots:

7. Between 9:01:44 AM and 9:23:48 AM, the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND unlocked the device and was using the Apple Photos App to view pornography between 9:01:47 AM and 9:22:49 AM. While the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND was viewing pornography, the device received phone calls from “JEAN JACQUES,ED” and phone number 910-549-9482. The user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND did not answer or respond to any of the incoming phone calls. Prior to the device being placed in a locked state, the health database recorded health steps and distance events at 9:22:05 AM. Between 9:23:48 AM and 9:33:44 AM, the device was putted into a locked state for 9 minutes and 56 seconds. While the device was in a locked state, the health database recorded health steps and distance events at 9:33:46 AM. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshots as displayed in Axiom.

8. The examination revealed the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND unlocked the device using either the phone's facial biometrics or the PIN on 29May25, between 9:33:44 AM and 11:31:56 AM. The device remained in an unlocked state for 1 hour, 58 minutes, and 12 seconds. At 9:33:56 AM, the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND started using the Apple Photos App to view pornography for three seconds until putting the App in the background at 9:33:59 AM. Between 9:34:00 AM and 9:34:18 AM, the user then briefly switched to the Snapchat App for six seconds, then switched briefly to the Apple iMessage app for seven seconds, then switched again back to Snapchat App for two seconds, then switched back again to the Apple iMessage app for three seconds. The user did not respond to any previously received messages. The user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND did access two pictures in the Snapchat App at 9:34:01AM. The image file named 64A9B299-1EEB-7C3C-AE7F-21A6884B13F0.png is a thumbnail image created on the device at 9:34:01 AM. The file is located in the private\var\mobile\Library\Intents\Images\ directory. The purpose of the directory and this thumbnail appears to enable apps like Snapchat to integrate with iOS system features like Siri, shortcuts, and Spotlight. Specifically, this directory holds images associated with intent-related actions, such as group chat display thumbnails, or other visual assets that apps donate to the system for use in contextual suggestions. The original image appeared to be previously uploaded to the Snapchat app as the device's camera was not turned on for use with the Snapchat app until 9:34:13AM, and the file is saved as a .png file extension. The file named ba84c31cd6397c15534c237a861d177d was accessed on the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND at 9:34:01 AM, which appears to indicate the user accessed the Snapchat message from the user name "angelina244506." The snapchat message history was not recovered during the examination. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshots displayed in Axiom in chronological order.

9. Between 9:34:18 AM and 11:31:47 AM, the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND used the Apple Photos App to view adult pornography. The user viewed both pornographic images and videos during this timeframe and previously viewed adult pornography between 7:55:12 AM until 9:33:56 AM except for interruptions identified above. The user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND viewed pornography primarily from videos and images saved to the device by the user in the \private\var\mobile\Media\DCIM\ subdirectories and from the iCloud account for the Apple ID listed as jermiahcopeland7@gmail.com. The user also watched a small number of adult pornographic videos on Twitter and Tiktok. SDFE DAVISON located and extracted the adult pornographic images and videos to the folder named "(e) Pornography" on the FINDINGS MEDIA. The folder contains a file name "report.pdf" which consists of the main page of the report. The examination also revealed the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND started charging the phone at 11:08:17 AM until 12:12:27 PM. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshot as displayed in Axiom.

10. The examination revealed the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND viewed pornographic videos related to the iCloud account for the Apple ID listed as jermiahcopeland7@gmail.com. The iCloud videos cannot be viewed when exported from Axiom as iOS appears to store the files as a compound file or concatenated file. A compound file or concatenated file is a single file that actually contains two or more different types of files inside. A compound file or concatenated file is not intended for an individual to interact with the file and is usually used for internal use or system integration. iOS in this case appears to use the compound file or concatenated file to allow Apple Photos App to view videos stored in an iCloud account. The compound files or concatenated files in this case contain a plist file followed by a video file. As identified above, Apple uses plist files to store structured data for App configuration settings, user preference settings, data serialization, and system settings. The user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND watched 35 pornographic videos from the iCloud account. The file names all start with naming convention “CachedMedia-“ followed by numbers and/or letters. The files are all stored in the directory \private\var\mobile\Media\PhotoData\PhotoCloudSharingData\Caches\CachedMedia. A small number of the CacheMedia files were corrupt and could not be recovered. However, the file name associated with those files in the plist file resolves back to image files on the system associated with adult pornography. SDFE DAVSION manually carved 12 files to provide a representative sample of the pornography viewed by the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND. SDFE DAVISON also provided two files which were corrupt and could not be carved; however, SDFE DAVISON provided the image files resident on the device which resolved back to the files named in the plist file. SDFE DAVISON saved the files to a folder named “(f) Compound Files” on the FINDINGS MEDIA. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshots as displayed in Axiom to show the manual carving process.

INVESTIGATIVE ACTION 02JUN25

CONTROL: 01JUN25-NFNF-00237-7HNA

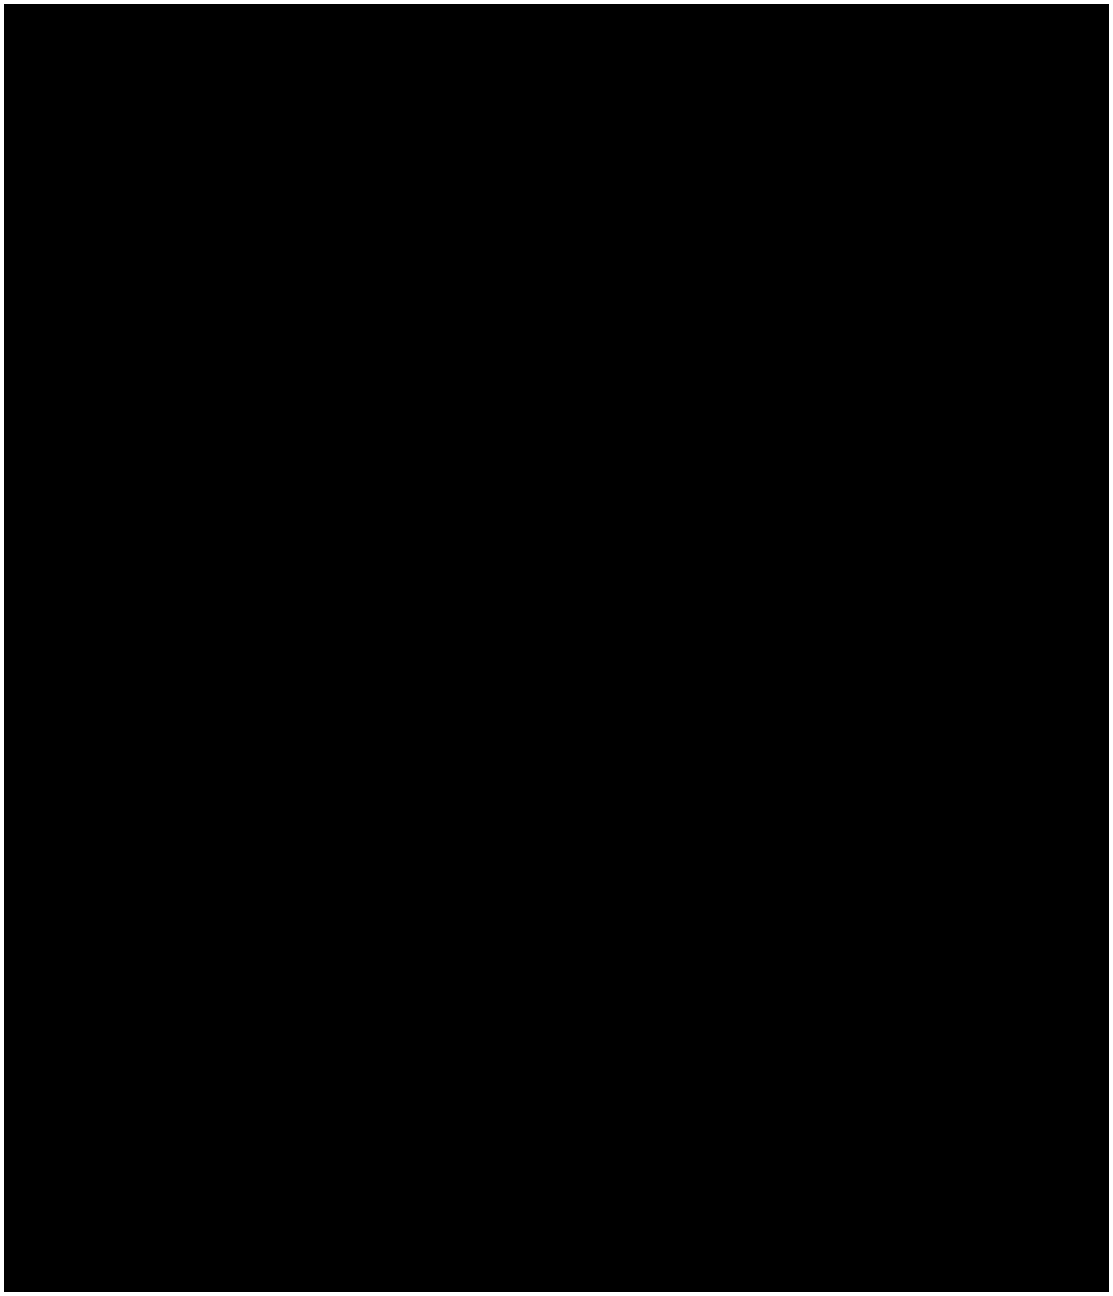
S/COPELAND, JERMIAH TAYLOR/SN USN
[redacted]

RESULTS OF NAVY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION SUBPOENA FOR [redacted] ACCOUNT

1. As background, [redacted] and CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG 95 were placed into a Unauthorized Absence (UA) status subsequent to 29May25, after failing to report to work. On 01Jun25, after speaking with S/COPELAND's mother, Rochell BROWN, CIV, NCIS and BROWN contacted Naval Station Norfolk (NOB) Base Police to conduct a follow-up health and welfare check on both S/COPELAND and [redacted]. The Naval Station Norfolk Watch Commander advised NOB Security Forces located S/COPELAND in his barracks rooms located on NOB, Willis Manor (X-2), Room 335. NCIS was advised that Security Forces received no answer at [redacted]'s door when they knocked on her barracks room located on NOB, Miller Hall, Room 1083

2. On 02Jun25, Reporting Agent (RA) obtained and served a military subpoena to Navy Federal Credit Union (NFCU) relative to [redacted]'s checking account the date range spanned of 02May25-01Jun25; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. On 02Jun25, NFCU's subpoena compliance team returned records, which indicated no substantial checking account activity since 28May25. The last substantial monetary purchase that posted to the account occurred on 28May25 at Target, 1245 N. Military Highway Norfolk, VA for $289.46; Enclosure (B) pertains.



4. Two (2) additional charges were observed post 28Jun25, however, they appear to be subscription base.

GEOLOCATION DATA

1. The examination revealed the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND did not contain any geolocation data other than locations near Willis Manor X-2 between 29-31May25. The geolocation data does not include cell tower data identified below. The Cached locations being considered for this assessment are based on accuracy measurements of 2 to 4 meters. The examination revealed two geolocations recorded in the device near the Vista Point Center, NSA Norfolk, on 30May25. However, the accuracy for each logged Cached location had an accuracy of over 2774 meters and are not considered accurate visited locations. The examination also disclosed a significant number of the 2316 Cached locations on 30May25 are over 800 meters and are not considered accurate visited locations. The examination also revealed a significant number of Cached Locations on 31May25 had large accuracy measurements and are not considered accurate visited locations. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshots as displayed in Axiom.

29May25 Geolocations

31May25 Geolocations

2. The examination revealed the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND recorded 119 Cached locations near Hampton, VA, on 01Jun25, between 12:12:31 PM and 12:21:23 PM. The exact location in Hampton cannot be determined as the accuracy of the Cached locations are between 2205 and 2206 meters which is approximately 1.3 miles. Based on the I-64 Hampton Roads Bridge-Tunnel being 3.5-mile corridor according to Wikipedia.org, the geolocations appear to be somewhere in Hampton, VA. The geolocation data for this timeframe did not contain enough data to determine routes and specific locations. Additionally, the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND recorded cached locations near Willis Manor X-2 within several milliseconds and seconds of the cached locations recorded in Hampton, VA. The examination revealed the Apple Watch SE (2nd generation) Cellular - 40mm identified above appears to record the geolocations near Willis Manor X-2 during this timeframe. The examination revealed the Apple Watch SE (2nd generation) Cellular - 40mm appears to be turned on and kept on a charger between 30May25, at 5:57:36 PM and 04Jun25, at 3:46:25 PM. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshots as displayed in Axiom.

S/COPELAND, JERMIAH TAYLOR/SN USN
M/B/NEE3/S/[PII]

RESULTS OF CONTACT WITH LTJG DAVID DEMAZURE, USN

1. On 03Jun25, LTJG David DEMAZURE, USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) provided Reporting Agent (RA) with the duty schedule and work schedule pertaining to CSSN [V/A.R.] ([V/A.R.] USN, DDG 95, CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG 95, ET3 Daniel RICH, USN, DDG 95, and HT3 Michael GILLESPIE, USN, DDG 95; Enclosure (A) pertains.

2. LTJG DEMAZURE explained ET3 RICH and HT3 GILLESPIE work Monday through Friday and also stand duty. ET3 RICH was on duty 26May25, and HT3 GILLESPIE was on duty 28May25. [V/A.R.] and S/COPELAND do not stand duty. [V/A.R.] was scheduled to work 26-27May25 and 30-31May25. S/COPELAND was scheduled to work 23-25May25 and 28-29May25.

3. LTJG DEMAZURE also provided a leave chit for ET3 RICH which showed ET3 RICH was on leave from 29May25 at 1600 to 02Jun25 at 0700. The leave address listed was [PII] Norfolk, VA, 23505; Enclosure (B) pertains. LTJG DEMAZURE stated [V/A.R.] S/COPELAND, and HT3 GILLESPIE did not have any leave in the prior 3 months.

4. On 03Jun25, LTJG DEMAZURE informed RA that [V/A.R.] and S/COPELAND do not have any personal spaces onboard DDG 95 as neither individual stands duty. Of note, on 06Jun25, S/COPELAND was placed on restriction and provided with personal spaces onboard.

5. On 06Jun25, LTJG DEMAZURE provided RA with a recall roster for DDG 95; Enclosure (C) pertains.

INVESTIGATIVE ACTION 06JUN25

CONTROL: 01JUN25-NFNF-00237-7HNA

S/COPELAND, JERMIAH TAYLOR/SN USN
M/B/NEE3/[redacted] PII

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF MARY BENSON, CIV, AND CSSN CARMESHA SAUNDERS, USN

1. On 06Jun25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Agent Cheyenne SIMMONS interviewed Mary B. BENSON, CIV, X2 Barracks Manager, Naval Station (NAVSTA) Norfolk, VA, and CSSN Carmesha SAUNDERS, USN, NAVSSTA, regarding their interaction with CCSN Jeremiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95) during the weekend from 30May25 to 01Jun25 at Barracks X2, NAVSTA.

2. BENSON advised she worked both Friday, 30May25 and Sunday, 01Jun25, at Barracks X2. BENSON stated she worked the day shift from 0600 to either 1530 or 1600. BENSON stated she is familiar with S/COPEPLAND as being a resident of the barracks and living on the third floor. BENSON stated she saw S/COPELAND on 30May25 "early part of the morning" in the fifth-floor lounge of Barracks X2. S/COPELAND was on his cellular telephone and wearing a dark hoodie shirt, with the hood pulled up over his head. BENSON stated at first, she did not recognize him because he had the hood over his head; however, once she spoke with him, she recognized him as he identified himself. BENSON came back to the lounge a little while later and asked what S/COPELAND was doing, to which he responded his roommate was "getting on his nerves". BENSON offered to move his room, and S/COPELAND denied the request. Looking at the lounge from outside of the door, S/COPELAND was sitting in the far-right chair in the far-right corner of the room. BENSON stated she did not see him the rest of the day.

3. BENSON stated on Sunday, 01Jun25, she was working at Barracks X2 and she received a call from the "ROC", which BENSON believed stood for Regional Operations Center. The ROC was checking on the whereabouts of S/COPELAND. BENSON stated base police also arrived to check on S/COPELAND, but they could not find S/COPELAND. BENSON said she went to the fifth floor and found S/COPELAND in a bathroom. BENSON knocked on the door to the bathroom and S/COPELAND responded that he was in the bathroom. BENSON stated she did not see S/COPELAND; she just spoke with him through the door. BENSON stated Base police then went up to the fifth floor and spoke with S/COPELAND.

4. BENSON further advised the company who cleans the floors in the barracks is Titan, and BENSON believed they started cleaning the floors either on 28May25 or 29May25. The supervisor for Titan is Antonio (NFI) and his number is 757-910-6405.

5. CSSN Carmesha SAUNDERS, USN, Naval Station Norfolk, advised she worked the front desk of X-2 on Friday and also saw S/COPELAND in the fifth-floor lounge between 1100 and 1200; however, did not know it was him until BENSON told her. SAUNDERS stated she saw a male with a dark hoodie on his telephone sitting in the lounge in the same chair BENSON described above. SAUNDERS stated she worked the rest of the weekend; however, she did not see S/COPELAND after Friday.

6. RA was provided a photocopy of the Contractor Sign-In Log for Barracks X2, which identifies who from Titan signed in to clean the floors from 23May25 to 06Jun25; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. The examination of the 4982 location and travel artifacts revealed a route the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND traveled on 02Jun25, between 04:00 AM and 06:00 AM. SDFE DAVISON created three route videos using Axiom Route View. SDFE DAVISON exported and saved the three videos to a folder named "(b) Geolocations" on the FINDINGS MEDIA. The video file named "route_export_part1.mp4" represents the first portion of the route traveled by the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND. The first portion of the route starts on 02Jun25, at 04:00 AM and ends at 04:32 AM. Between 4:18 AM (end of red route) and 4:29 AM (start of pink route), the precise location and route traveled by the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND is unknown since the device did not record enough geolocation data during this timeframe. SDFE DAVISON took a screenshot of the data as displayed in Axiom.

4. The video file named “route_export_part2.mp4” represents the second portion of the route traveled by the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND. The second portion of the route starts on 02Jun25, at 04:32 AM, and ends at 05:16 AM. While the device was traveling, the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND conducting a search for Parks in Norfolk and Trails in Norfolk. SDFE DAVISON took a screenshot of the data as displayed in Axiom.

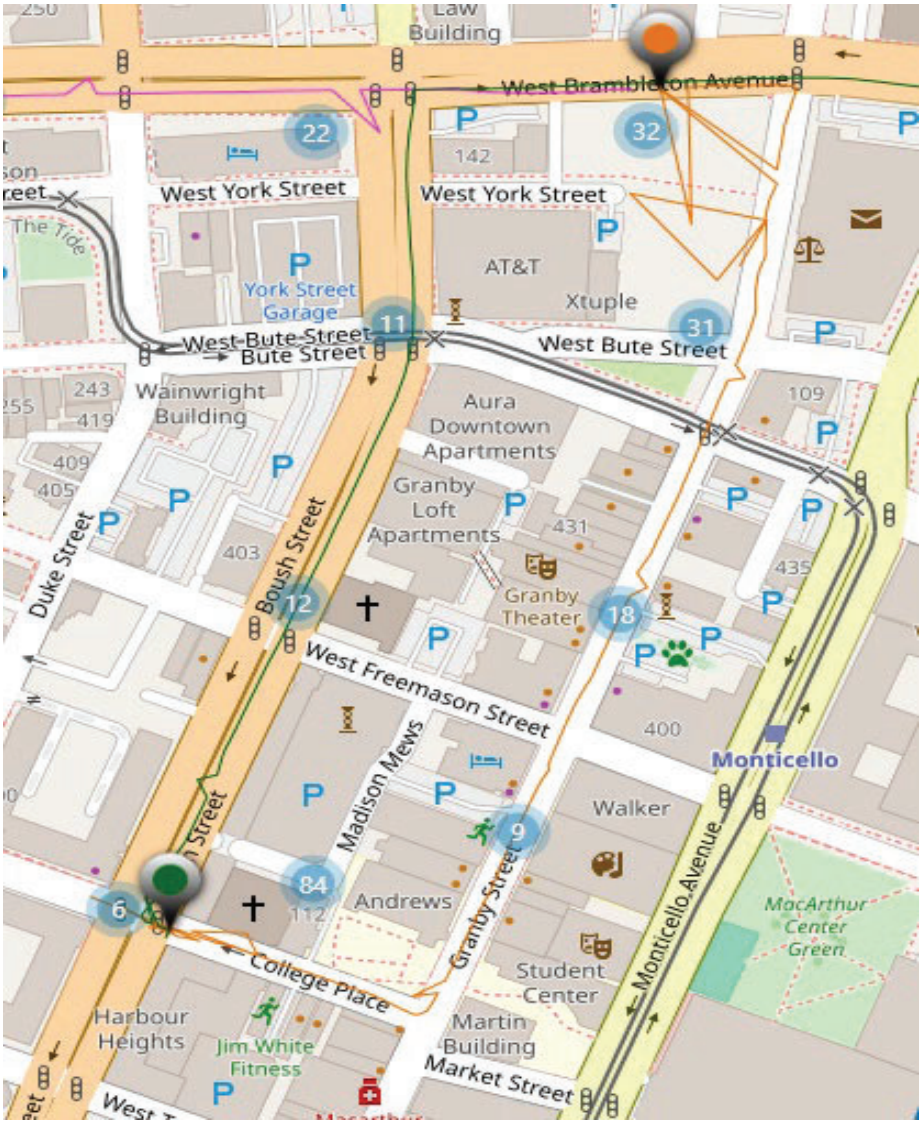
5. The examination of the second portion revealed the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND traveled on West 27th Street, Norfolk, by the Langley Federal Credit Union, 2701 Hampton Blvd, Norfolk, VA, on 02Jun25, at approximately 04:36 AM. The device continued to travel on Bowdens Ferry Road, Norfolk, VA, then onto West 25th Street, Norfolk, VA. The device started to travel South again on Hampton Blvd starting at approximately 04:40 AM. The fluctuations in the blue lines are location and travel artifacts with varying geolocation accuracy. An examiner must rely on all of the available data to rebuild an accurate picture of a route traveled. SDFE DAVISON took a screenshot of the data as displayed in Axiom.



6. On 13Jun25, Investigative Analyst (IA) Mary OAKLEY, NCISRA Yorktown, VA, provided SDFE DAVSION an image from the Vigilant Database System, which she received from the Newport News Police Department, VA. The image shows a white vehicle with temporary Virginia License plate number G21274 taken on 02Jun25, at 04:40:44AM. The picture was taken near West 25th street and Hampton Blvd, Norfolk, VA. SDFE DAVISON took a screenshot of the image file.

7. The examination of the second portion also revealed the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND traveled on Granby Street, Norfolk, on 02Jun25, at approximately 04:45 AM. The device continued to travel on College Place, Norfolk, VA, then onto Boush Street, Norfolk, VA. The device started to travel East again on West Brambleton Ave, Norfolk, starting approximately 04:48 AM. SDFE DAVISON took a screenshot of the data as displayed in Axiom.

8. The examination of the second portion also revealed the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND entered Merrimac Ave, Norfolk, VA, near the Broad Creek Apartments on 02Jun25, at approximately 04:56 AM. The device traveled around the residential area until appearing to stop behind 2852 Cary Ave, Norfolk, VA, on 02Jun25, at approximately 05:00 AM. According to the health data reported above, the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND began to record health data steps and distance on 02Jun25, at approximately 05:02:25 AM. The light blue circles with the white numbers in the images below represent the number of location and travel artifacts records in the area. The lower the number of artifacts represents the lower confidence in the data to place a device in a specific area. Conversely, the higher the number of artifacts represents the higher confidence in the data to place a device in a specific area. The examination revealed the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND recorded 635 location and travel artifacts on 02Jun25, between 5:00:11 AM and 5:15:42 AM, near the area of 2852 Cary Ave, Norfolk, VA. Based on the extremely high number of 635 location and travel artifacts, the examination revealed with extremely high confidence the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND was in this location on 02Jun25, between 5:00:11 AM and 5:15:42 AM. SDFE DAVISON took screenshots of the data as displayed in Axiom and the video.

9. The examination revealed the first artifact recorded in the area was a cached location recorded on the device on 02Jun25, at 5:00:11 AM, with a latitude of 36.8586565668269 and a longitude of -76.2542549822841. SDFE DAVISON visited the website https://www.gps-coordinates.net/ to determine an approximate address of the latitude and longitude coordinates. The website resolved the coordinates near the address 2852 Cary Avenue, Norfolk, VA 23504. SDFE DAVISON took a screenshot of the data as displayed in Axiom and the data displayed in the website https://www.gps-coordinates.net/.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

Arrange and bind the record of trial with allied papers in the sequence indicated below. The court reporter is responsible for certifying the record of trial prior to transmittal for appellate review, in accordance with R.C.M. 1112 and JAG/CNLSCINST 5813.1G.

1. Pages 1 (Cover page) and 2 (Chronology Sheet) of DD Form 490 (enclosure 7).

2. Court reporter certification of Record of Trial (enclosure 8).

3. Military Judge verification of Record of Trial (enclosure 8).

4. DD Form 490 (pages 3-6 and any continuation pages if needed) (enclosure 7).

5. Completed Post-Trial Checklist from JAG/CNLSCINST 5814.1G (enclosure 2).

6. Completed Convening Authority's Action Checklist (enclosure 4).

7. Post-Trial Documents.

a. Certificates/Proof of Service of the Certified Record of Trial to the accused and victim, if applicable (enclosure 7).

b. Convening Authority's Action and Entry of Judgment (enclosure 6).

c. Any requests for copies of the court-martial record pursuant to R.C.M. 1106 or 1106A (attach written requests, and any certificates/proof of service, but do not attach the victim's post-trial rights advisement or DD Form 2704).

d. Matters submitted by the accused and/or victim under R.C.M. 1106 or 1106A, or any written waiver of the right to submit such matters. Include all responses to requests here as well.

e. Any deferment request and the action on it (including any request to waive automatic forfeitures under Article 58b).

f. Conditions of suspension and proof of service on probationer under R.C.M. 1107, if any.

g. All clemency recommendations by members or military judge, if any.

h. Statement of Trial Results (enclosure 1).

i. Crime Reporting Information.

j. Accused's request for appellate defense counsel, or waiver/withdrawal of appellate review under R.C.M. 1115, if applicable.

k. All transfer orders, confinement orders, and excess leave orders.

l. Briefs of counsel submitted after trial, if any.

8. Preliminary Hearing.

a. DD Form 457, Preliminary Hearing Officer's Report, pursuant to Article 32, if such hearing was conducted, followed by any other allied papers that accompanied the charges when referred for trial (including any matters submitted under R.C.M. 405(l), unless included elsewhere in the record of trial).*

b. Waiver of Article 32 Hearing (if applicable).

9. Pre-Trial Allied Papers.

a. Convening Order and all amending convening orders.

b. DD Form 458, Charge Sheet (unless included at the point of arraignment in the transcript).

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

c. Congressional inquiries and replies, if any.

d. Advice of staff judge advocate, when prepared pursuant to Article 34 or otherwise.

10. Record of Proceedings.

a. Substantially verbatim recording of court-martial proceedings. Segregate open and closed sessions of the court-martial in accordance with R.C.M. 1113 and the following guidance:*

b. Ensure that each closed session of the court-martial is recorded on a separate DVD marked CLOSED SESSION, placed in its own envelope marked CLOSED SESSION, and sealed.

c. Label all DVD(s) and envelopes with the information on page 1 of this template.

d. Mark all DVDs and envelopes with "1 of X." as necessary (for example, the second DVD of six DVDs and its envelope should be marked, 2 of 6). All DVDs of open sessions may be in one envelope.

e. Mark all DVDs with their beginning and ending timestamps. The timestamps for closed sessions should match those shown on the Index.

f. Verbatim transcript or summarized report prepared in accordance with JAGINST 5814.1G. Include the following:

I. A certificate of correction, if any (including any supplemental certification for additional proceedings).

II. Court reporter and transcriptionist certification of verbatim transcript.

g. Records of former proceedings (Article 30a) and/or trials, (e.g., electronic/digital record of former proceeding, including audio recording and any scanned documentation/transcripts, CD/DVD format).*

11. Prosecution exhibits admitted in evidence.

12. Defense Exhibits admitted in evidence.

13. Appellate Exhibits including but not limited to, proposed instructions, written offers of proof or preliminary evidence (real or documentary), briefs of counsel submitted at trial, request to be tried by military judge alone (if any), the accused election of members under R.C.M. 903 (if any), any statement by convening authority required under R.C.M. 503(a)(2), and the election for sentencing by members in lieu of sentencing by military judge under R.C.M. 1002(b).*

14. Redaction. The following information shall be redacted in accordance with JAGMAN 1059 from the record of trial prior to releasing it to any accused or victim (including any transcript made pursuant to R.C.M. 1114 and attached to the record of trial) unless the information establishes an element of an offense, or is otherwise required:

a. Any recordings of closed sessions, any transcripts of closed sessions, and any sealed exhibits.

b. Names of minor victims, and names of minor witnesses. If an identifier is used, use only the initials.

c. Social Security Numbers.

d. Financial account information.

e. Home addresses.

f. Telephone numbers.

g. Personal e-mail addresses.

h. Dates of birth.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

i. Any other information that could be used to identify a specific person other than the accused.

*If the report of preliminary hearing or record of trial contains exhibits, proceedings, or other materials ordered sealed by the preliminary hearing officer or military judge, counsel for the Government, the court reporter, or trial counsel shall cause such materials to be sealed to prevent unauthorized examination or disclosure, pursuant to R.C.M. 1113. Sealed material shall be properly marked, individually placed in separate envelopes with a copy of the preliminary hearing officer or military judge sealing order affixed to it, and inserted at the appropriate place in the record of trial. Do not duplicate sealed material to include it in any copy of the record of trial. Instead, insert a copy of the sealing order in lieu of any sealed material, in any copies of the record of trial.

DIVIDERS ARE NOT NECESSARY TO SEPARATE EACH SECTION. IF USED, THEY CAN BE PAPER RATHER THAN CARD STOCK. IF A PARTICULAR COMPONENT IS NOT APPLICABLE IN THE RECORD OF TRIAL, SUCH AS AN ARTICLE 32 HEARING, EXHIBITS NOT ADMITTED, POST-TRIAL PROCEEDINGS AND VACATION HEARINGS, DO NOT INSERT A DIVIDER OR PLACEHOLDER.

FRONT AND BACK COVER MUST BE ON BLUE CARDS STOCK AND LABELED WITH GUM LABELS.

Binding. Each volume of a record of trial should be no more than 1.5 inches thick and bound at the top with metal or plastic fasteners. DO NOT interlace or "piggy-back" prong fasteners to create an oversized volume. DO NOT place hole punches where it covers up the evidence or language in the transcript. When it becomes necessary to assemble the record of trial in more than one volume, the volumes will be numbered consecutively, on the front cover, as illustrated below:

Volume 1 of 4 (Pages 1-250)
Volume 2 of 4 (Pages 251-400)
Volume 3 of 4 (Pages 401-652)
Volume 4 of 4 (Pages 653-901 and Exhibits)

Make the first volume of a multi-volume record an inch thick or smaller to allow for inclusion of post-trial documents. Limit subsequent volumes to 1.5 inches, unless dividing them requires assembling an additional volume smaller than a half inch.

GEOLOCATION DATA 02JUN25 0400-0600

1. On 09Jun25, SDFE DAVISON located geolocation data during the examination of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND. The examination revealed a cached location recorded on the device on 02Jun25, at 5:14:51 AM, with a latitude of 36.8586915425567 and a longitude of -76.2544464206239. SDFE DAVISON visited the website https://www.gps-coordinates.net/ to determine an approximate address of the latitude and longitude coordinates. The website resolved the coordinates near the address 2842 Cary Avenue, Norfolk, VA 23504. SDFE DAVISON took a screenshot of the data as displayed in Axiom and the data displayed in the website https://www.gps-coordinates.net/.

MARKED LOCATION TIMELINE

1. SDFE DAVISON located and exported timeline data concerning when the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND tagged the geolocation coordinates with the longitude 36.858536 and latitude -76.256816. The coordinates are displayed in the screenshot in the image file named IMG_2621.PNG identified above although the screenshot was not captured until later. The geolocation coordinates resolve to the wooded area in the vicinity of 2852 Cary Avenue, Norfolk, VA 23504. SDFE DAVISON saved all timeline location data to a folder named (c) Tagged Location Data on the FINDINGS MEDIA. The folder contains a Microsoft Excel file named, "Marked location Timeline Analysis.xlsx" which consists of the timeline report. The examination revealed that on 02Jun25, at 4:47:13 AM, the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND was located approximately near the corner of College Place and Boush Street, Norfolk, VA. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshots as display in Axiom.

INVESTIGATIVE ACTION 05JUN25

CONTROL: 01JUN25-NFNF-00237-7HNA

S/COPELAND, JERMIAH TAYLOR/SN USN
M/B/NEE3/[redacted PII]

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF ABHAA DEONDRE WILLIAMS, USN

1. On 05JUN25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Agent (PA) Nigal TUFT-WILLIAMS interviewed ABHAA Deondre WILLIAMS, USN, USS DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER (CVN-69), regarding the whereabouts of CCSN [redacted V/A.R.] [redacted V/A.R.], USN, JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95). As background, ABHAA WILLIAMS was identified as a friend of CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG-95.

2. The interview of ABHAA WILLIAMS was recorded using an audio/visual recording system, and a digital copy was downloaded onto a Digital Video Disc-Recordable (DVD-R). This document is a summary of the interview and not a verbatim transcription. For full details of the interview, refer to the working copy of the original DVD-R; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. ABHAA WILLIAMS stated he was friends with S/COPELAND and has known him for approximately two (2) months and they typically hang out on the weekends. ABHAA WILLIAMS said S/COPELAND gets aggressive with girls if they reject him. RA asked ABHAA WILLIAMS to describe what he meant by saying aggressive, to which he stated S/COPELAND gets physically and verbally aggressive towards girls and is more violent when he drinks alcohol.

4. ABHAA WILLIAMS stated he knew S/COPELAND "disappeared" on Thursday, 29MAY25. ABHAA WILLIAMS said he saw S/COPELAND through FaceTime from an unknown civilian female in their friend group around midnight of the 29th going into the 30th. ABHAA WILLIAMS said the FaceTime looked like S/COPELAND was at work, and it appeared he was on his ship. ABHAA WILLIAMS stated he did not see him in person until Monday, 02JUN25. ABHAA WILLIAMS stated LSSA Omeri SMOOT, USN, CVN-69, was at his barracks in Portsmouth when S/COPELAND called him. ABHAA WILLIAMS stated LSSA SMOOT left to go pick up S/COPELAND and would bring him back to ABHAA WILLIAMS' barracks. ABHAA WILLIAMS stated he believed S/COPELAND told LSSA SMOOT he was in jail over the weekend, and he was not with [redacted V/A.R.] ABHAA WILLIAMS said he did not ask S/COPELAND where he had been or what he had done over the weekend. ABHAA WILLIAMS stated S/COPELAND slept in ABHAA WILLIAMS' barracks that Monday night.

5. ABHAA WILLIAMS stated S/COPELAND has a large duffle bag which has wheels. ABHAA WILLIAMS stated he believed it was beige in color and stored in his closet. ABHAA WILLIAMS stated S/COPELAND had backpacks and other bags in his closet.

6. ABHAA WILLIAMS noted a change in behavior from S/COPELAND when he came

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF LSSA OMERI SMOOT, USN

1. On 05JUN25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Investigator (PI) Cotie WILSON interviewed LSSA Omeri SMOOT, USN, USS DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER (CVN-69), regarding the whereabouts of CCSN [redacted V/A.R.] [redacted V/A.R.] USN, USS JAMES E WILLIAMS (DDG-95). LSSA SMOOT was identified as a friend of CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG-95.

2. The interview of LSSA SMOOT was recorded using an audio/visual recording system, and a digital copy was downloaded onto a Digital Video Disc-Recordable (DVD-R). This document is a summary of the interview and not a verbatim transcription. For full details of the interview, refer to the working copy of the original DVD-R; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. LSSA SMOOT was identified in a previous interview as the person who said S/COPELAND told him he was in jail over the weekend of 31MAY25-01JUN25.

4. LSSA SMOOT denied ever being told by S/COPELAND he was in jail during that weekend. LSSA SMOOT said this theory came from people in the group chat throwing out ideas to explain why S/COPELAND was counted as Unauthorized Absence (UA). LSSA SMOOT stated he picked up S/COPELAND on 02JUN25 and took him over to their friends' barracks in Portsmouth to hang out. During this car ride, LSSA SMOOT asked S/COPELAND what happened and why he was unaccounted for Friday. LSSA SMOOT stated S/COPELAND told him the Command would not let him on the ship. LSSA SMOOT also said S/COPELAND told him [redacted V/A.R.] was sad and she was having possible boyfriend issues when he last saw her. LSSA SMOOT did not press or ask any further questions as he did not want the car ride to be awkward.

5. LSSA SMOOT stated S/COPELAND stayed at this friends barracks in Portsmouth overnight and he drove him to work the next morning which was 03JUN25.

BACKGROUND: On 31May25, NCIS was contacted by Norfolk Police Department (NPD) in reference to a missing person's report. NPD relayed ET3 Daniel RICH, USN, USS JAMES E WILLIAMS (DDG 95), was attempting to make a missing person's report regarding CSSN V/A.R. ( V/A.R. USN, DDG 95. NCIS subsequently contacted Command who advised V/A.R. and CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG 95, were in a status of Unauthorized Absence (UA) beginning on Thursday, 29May25. Command advised they believed V/A.R. and S/COPELAND were involved romantically, but did not know to what extent. On 01Jun25, NCIS made contact with Naval Station Norfolk Base Police to conduct a welfare check on the rooms of S/COPELAND and V/A.R. Base Police stated they found S/COPELAND in his barracks room; however, received no answer at V/A.R. door when they knocked. NCIS responded to Naval Station Norfolk and was able to gain entry to V/A.R. barracks room, in which she was not located. Subsequently, NCIS' Multiple Threat Alert Center (MTAC) initiated cell phone pings on V/A.R. mobile phone, which yielded no location data due to the phone possibly being powered off. NCIS conducted an interview of S/COPELAND who stated V/A.R. came over to his barracks on Wednesday, 28May25. S/COPELAND stated V/A.R. stayed the night and the next day, 29May25, FCC Brad PARKER, USN, DDG 95, came to his barracks room because he failed to report for work. S/COPELAND stated he borrowed his roommate's vehicle and drove V/A.R. back to her barracks around 1000 on 29May25. During the interview of S/COPELAND, he signed a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure (PASS) for his cellular device which was provided to NCIS Digital Forensic Examiners (DFE) for review. The DFE observed a screenshot on the device of S/COPELAND of a saved marked location near Cary Avenue in Norfolk, VA. During the course of this investigation, NCIS would launch search teams near known phone pings and last locations of both V/A.R. and S/COPELAND. On 09Jun25, subsequent to receiving the screenshot from the DFE, NCIS conducted a foot search of the area near the marked location and discovered a black duffel bag containing human remains, later identified through DNA as V/A.R.

JURISDICTION AND ARRIVAL: At approximately 1700, NCIS arrived to the location of Cary Avenue in Norfolk, VA, and conducted a foot search around the Broad Creek neighborhood and Richard Bowling Elementary School. Figure [1] is the screenshot of the marked location utilized by NCIS. At 1735, Reporting Agent (RA) received a phone call from Participating Agent (PA) Tiffany MARTINEZ stating a bag had been located off of a brush covered path behind a row of townhomes. Due to the location of the bag, at 1740, NCIS initiated contact with the Norfolk Police Department (NPD) who responded to the scene to assist. A copy of the NPD incident report detailing their response is appended as Enclosure (A).

SCENE SECURITY: Upon arrival to the scene, no other persons were present in the area but residents going about their daily routine. The area which was searched was not secured prior to arrival and was an open, wooded area, behind a school and residential community. NCIS participants divided into groups and ultimately located the bag by following the smell. Once the duffel bag was located, Andrew PISKE, CIV, K9 Handler, Virginia Department of Emergency Management (VDEM), and K9 Kyra, Certified Human Remains Detection Dog, approached the bag where she presented a positive alert to PISKE. An aerial topography image of the area searched by PISKE and K9 Kyra is appended as Enclosure (B). NCIS partially unzipped the bag to verify its contents to which human remains were observed. NPD was immediately contacted, and all searching immediately ceased. Due to rain, at approximately 1755, to protect the duffel bag, PISKE placed a black tarp over the bag. Figure [2] is a photo of the overall brush area where the remains were located. Figure [3] is a photo of the duffel bag in place. Figure [4] is the approximate GPS location of the duffel bag after conducting the foot search with the assistance of CalTopo. Figure [5] is the confirmation of the human remains inside the bag.

[1] See Rule for Court-Martial (R.C.M.) 1113(a), Discussion, "Upon request or otherwise for good cause shown, a military judge may seal matters at his or her discretion."

SCENE DOCUMENTATION: NPD assisted in maintaining the scene by providing a tent for protection from the rain while waiting for the Medical Examiner. At approximately 1900, Sarah CARNEY, CIV, Medicolegal Death Investigator, Tidewater Office of the Chief Medical Examiner (OCME) viewed the bag and remains inside. CARNEY captured several photos for her file and stated based off the condition of the remains it was recommended to not remove the contents and transport the bag as is to be opened in a controlled environment at autopsy. At 1905, CARNEY approved a search of the exterior pockets of the bag which was conducted by RA with no findings. At 2019, Price Removal Service arrived on scene to transport the remains to OCME for autopsy. Figure [6] is a photo of the transport tag. Once the duffel bag was removed, additional photography was conducted of the ground underneath. Figure [7] is a photo of the dumpsite with no bag present.

WEATHER AND LIGHTING: On 09Jun25, at approximately 1700, the weather in the area was approximately 80 degrees Fahrenheit, according to the Apple Weather App accessed via RA's NCIS-issued cellular phone. It was windy, hot and humid with low, dense, cloud cover and thunderstorms were predicted. Between 1850 and 2000, there was a range of weather from light rain to heavy thunderstorms and lightening.

EVIDENCE SEIZURE: No physical items of evidence were collected at the scene. PA Alison FOX completed photographic coverage of the scene utilizing a Nikon digital camera. A total of 113 digital photographs were captured, all of which were burned to a DVD-R and are appended as Enclosure (B). A disc was also placed into the Norfolk Consolidated Evidence Facility. FC Morgan CURRIE conducted FARO scans of the area which will be documented under separate cover and also placed into the Norfolk Consolidated Evidence Facility. A traditional hand drawn sketch was not completed due to the administering of the FARO device.

RESULTS OF AUTOPSY ATTENDANCE

1. On 10Jun25, Reporting Agent (RA), Participating Agent (PA) Morgan CURRIE, and Detective John MURPHY, CIV, Norfolk Police Department (NPD), attended the autopsy of CSSN [redacted V/A.R.] [redacted V/A.R.], USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) conducted at the Tidewater Chief Medical Examiner (OCME), Norfolk, VA. The autopsy was conducted by Dr. Fernanda LAMEIRA, CIV, Medical Examiner, OCME.

2. The removal o [redacted V/A.R.] from the duffel bag was conducted at 0915. The external examination of [redacted V/A.R.] commenced at 0920 after she was removed from the bag. Additional x-rays were conducted at 0925 yielding no fractures. Upon completion, [redacted V/A.R.] was placed on an examination table into a supine position. [redacted V/A.R.] was not wearing any clothes and showed visible signs of decomposition. [redacted V/A.R.] was wearing earrings, a gold cross necklace, and had remnants of a red cross tattoo on her back. Located in the duffel bag was a piece of foam. The hair of [redacted V/A.R.]Z had separated from her skull wherein a Navy patch with an E3 rank patch was located. Oral and anal swabs were collected from [redacted V/A.R.]Z. The aforementioned items were seized and entered into the NCISRA Norfolk, VA Evidence Repository under Evidence Custody Document Number NUM9W.

3. The internal examination commenced at 0959 using a "Y" autopsy incision. Dr. LAMEIRA completed an internal exam and stated [redacted V/A.R.]s organs appeared to be without disease and revealed nothing of note. Due to the condition of the remains, Dr. LAMEIRA could not indicate a preliminary cause and manner of death. The final autopsy report is pending the results of microscopic examination and toxicology results.

4. Fingerprints were taken from [redacted V/A.R.] utilizing a gloving technique and remain on file with OCME. The photographs were also placed into evidence; however, a copy is appended as Enclosure (A). A selection of photographs was placed onto a photo template; Enclosure (B) pertains.

5. The autopsy ended at 1147. The results of the autopsy and toxicology will be documented under separate cover.

AUTOPSY NO: T- 246-25
DATE/DAY/TIME: Tuesday, June 10, 2025, 0830
DECEDENT: V/A.R.
AUTOPSY AUTHORIZED BY: Dr. Lameira, acting Medical Examiner for Norfolk

Body Identified by: Tags on the body bag and suitcase. Definitive ID by fingerprint comparison.
Persons present at autopsy: Ms. Lacombe, Ms. Magruder, Ms. Sloulin, NCIS Danielle Ortiz, Morgan Currie, NPD John Murphy

Rigor: Absent Livor: Undetermined
Age: 21 Race: White Sex: F Length: 58" Weight:72 lbs. Eyes: No eyes
Hair: Black Body Heat: Refrigerated

GENERAL EXTERNAL EXAMINATION: The decedent is received in a sealed white body bag (lock #1504667). There is a second white body bag. A suitcase (38" x 21" x 15.5") is inside the second body bag. The suitcase is made of black fabric; brown fluid, maggots, and grass are around the suitcase. The body is that of a normally developed adult female. It is partially skeletonized, with the eyes, tongue, left hand, and some bones of the right hand absent. There are decomposition changes, including odor mortis and insect activity. The teeth are natural and in good condition. The chest and back are symmetric, with skeletonization of the right thorax, revealing the right anterior ribs and organs within the chest cavity. The abdomen is soft. The fingernails of the right hand appear free of tears; the toenails are unremarkable. There are areas of skin and soft tissue loss in the external genitalia. The anus is unremarkable.

CLOTHING AND PERSONAL EFFECTS: Nude. Personal effects: necklace, two earrings, a larger earring.

EXTERNAL WOUNDS: Examination limited by decomposition changes.

SCARS, TATTOOS: Tattoos on left arm and upper back,

MARKS OF THERAPY: None.

HISTORY: Missing person from May 29, found dead inside a suitcase on June 9.

PATHOLOGICAL DIAGNOSES:

1. Partially skeletonized woman
   a. Scene report – found in a wooden area inside a suitcase.
   b. Right rib fractures – 2nd-5th, likely postmortem.
   c. Autopsy with no evident trauma to the body.
   d. Postmortem toxicology positive for ethanol 0.083 % by weight by volume.

2. Additional findings: decomposition, advanced stage.

Cause of Death: Undetermined

The facts stated herein are true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

GROSS DESCRIPTION: Note: exam limited by decomposition changes.

SKIN: Tattoos. Partially skeletonized.

SEROUS CAVITIES: No adhesions or fluid accumulation. The diaphragm is intact. The organs are in normal anatomic position.

NECK ORGANS: Layered dissection reveals unremarkable soft tissue of the anterior neck. The larynx and hyoid are intact. The thyroid gland has a normal size and shape.

HEART: 77 g. The coronary arteries arise normally and have a right dominant posterior circulation. There is no significant atherosclerosis. The valves are normally formed. The foramen ovale is closed. The great vessels are unremarkable and free of obvious injury.

AORTA: The aorta and its major branches are normally distributed, with no significant atherosclerosis.

LUNGS: Left 155 g, right 181 g. The pleural surfaces are unremarkable and cover red-purple, mildly edematous pulmonary parenchyma.

LIVER: 299 g. The liver capsule is smooth and glistening, covering red-purple congested parenchyma.

GALLBLADDER: No bile. No stones were identified.

SPLEEN: 80 g. The splenic capsule is smooth, glistening, and intact. There is unremarkable underlying red-purple parenchyma.

LYMPH NODES: No lymphadenopathy is appreciated.

PANCREAS: Unremarkable.

ADRENALS: Examination limited due to decomposition changes; no evident lesions present.

GI TRACT: The tongue is absent. The esophagus is lined by gray-white smooth mucosa and courses to the stomach without focal lesions. The stomach is empty. A small amount of yellow chyme is present in the small bowel, and soft brown stool in the large bowel. An unremarkable appendix is identified in the right lower quadrant.

KIDNEYS: Left 155 g, right 181 g. Smooth cortical surfaces. Well-circumscribed cortico-medullary junctions. No dilatation of the collecting system or ureters.

BLADDER: Contains no urine. Unremarkable mucosa and wall.

GENITALIA: Unremarkable uterus, fallopian tubes, and ovaries.

BRAIN AND MENINGES: 784 g. Complete loss of normal architecture. The brain is a brow/gray soft tissue.

SKULL: Intact.

MUSCULOSKELETAL: Aside from the postmortem changes, the bony framework, supporting musculature, and soft tissues are grossly unremarkable. The cervical spinal column is removed, visualized, and it is intact.

MICROSCOPIC DESCRIPTION:
Liver (Slide 2): Interpretation is limited due to postmortem artifact. No evidence of inflammation, steatosis, or necrosis.

Kidney (Slide 2): Interpretation is limited due to postmortem artifact. Well-distributed tubules and glomeruli with no histopathological abnormalities.

Lungs (Slide 1): Interpretation is limited due to postmortem artifact. Edema and no other significant histopathological changes were observed.

TOXICOLOGY:
Samples were submitted for toxicological analysis. See Certificate of Analysis.
Waiting for another toxicology analysis. Still pending.

DNA AND FINGERPRINTS:
Samples of blood and fingerprints were taken and retained.

POSTMORTEM PHOTOGRAPHY:
Postmortem photographs were taken and retained.

EVIDENCE:
Suitcase, personal effects, DNA card x2, patch from inside the suitcase, PERK kit (219M00468), round disk from inside the suitcase, possible string from inside the suitcase, paper from inside the suitcase, fingernails, CD with exam photos to law enforcement. Second CD with exam photos to law enforcement (Norfolk PD).

SUMMARY:
V/A.R. was a 21-year-old woman, missing since May 29, who was found inside a suitcase in a wooded area on June 9. At autopsy, her body was partially skeletonized and relatively complete. No acute trauma was noted. Postmortem toxicology was only positive for ethanol. Ethanol may be postmortem, antemortem, or both. If antemortem, the low level would not explain the death. The degree of decomposition precluded a comprehensive assessment of soft tissue injuries or natural disease. Still, there was no indication that natural disease or drugs played a role in the death of this young woman. Suffocation cannot be ruled out at the autopsy. A definitive cause of death was not determined at autopsy.

CAUSE OF DEATH: Undetermined

MANNER OF DEATH: Undetermined

On 29 July 2025, CAPT Derek Butler, JAGC, USN, CDR Lauren Mayo, JAGC, USN, and LT Christopher Dempsey, JAGC, USN, interviewed Dr. Lameira, in the presence of LN1 Kathleen Vanetti, USN, Mr. Rob Robinson, Norfolk ME, and Dr. Wendy Gunther, Assistant Chief Medical Examiner. The following is a summary of the interaction and is not intended to be verbatim:

Dr. Lameira reported that due to the level of decomposition of, and post-mortem insect activity on, the body of V/A.R., no definitive cause of death could be discerned. Dr. Lameira was able to rule out stomping, stabbing, shooting, and a drug overdose as possible causes of death. She specified that the toxicology test only tested for specific drugs, but the lab was likely able to have additional testing done for specific prescriptions being taken by V/A.R upon request. Additionally, the toxicology report showed a BAC of .083 at the time of death.

Dr. Lameira noted that there was not enough remaining soft tissue on the body to indicate or rule out asphyxia as a cause of death. The only noted broken bones were ribs #2-5, which would not be consistent with attempts at CPR. There was not enough tissue left in the neck area to indicate whether there was any blood pooling in that area. The fallopian tubes and uterus were unremarkable with no indications of a pregnancy. There were no indications of any chronic conditions that would lead to a natural death and Dr. Lameira opined it would be unlikely for someone V/A.R.'s age to suffer a natural death.

It was explained that the alcohol ethenyl level, generally considered the BAC, could have been elevated by insect activity that creates yeast. No results had come back on the buccal and anal swabs that were conducted during the autopsy, and vaginal swabs were not conducted due to the lack of soft tissue resulting from decomposition and insect activity. Dr. Lameira explained that insect activity and decomposition generally begin in body openings (eyes, ears, mouth, nose, etc.) and areas where skin is pressed together (buttocks, below breasts, arms crossed, etc.). She opined that the folded position of the body in the duffel bag created the skin-to-skin pressure points on the chest that became areas of accelerated decomposition, in comparison to the other areas of the torso.

When asked, Dr. Lameira stated that there was not enough soft tissue on the body to determine whether there were any injuries to the body that would have been bleeding before death. Dr. Lameira explained that up to a liter of "purge" can be expelled post-mortem through the nose and mouth and appears red in color. "Purge" was explained as the fluid in the lungs and surrounding tissue that leaks out of the nose and mouth post-mortem, and can become further dislodged from the body if the body is moved.

When asked, Dr. Lameira stated that rigor mortis sets in within about 12 hours after death and opined that the body was likely placed into the duffel bag prior to the onset of rigor mortis. Dr. Lameira concured with Dr. Gunter that it was not unusual for people to mistake dead bodies for living people.

LUGGAGE IMAGE FILES

1. SDFE DAVISON located and extracted three thumbnail images during the examination of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND. The iPhone appears to name all the thumbnail images with the same of name of "5005.jpg." Each thumbnail image is located in the corresponding subdirectories of the \private\var\mobile\Media\PhotoData\Thumbnails\V2\DCIM\101APPLE\ directory. The specific directory in which the thumbnail file named "5005.jpg" resides contains the original file name of the image, movie, or Apple's live files. The three original file names from each thumbnail image resolves back to IMG_1111.HEIC, IMG_1114.HEIC, and IMG_1112.mov. SDFE DAVISON conducted a search for each original file, however, the examination did not recover the original files. SDFE DAVISON inserted the thumbnail files directly into this document.

2. The thumbnail files for IMG_1111.HEIC and IMG_1114.HEIC were created on 29Dec23. The thumbnail file for IMG_1112.mov was created on 08Jun24. The examination revealed the thumbnail file for IMG_1112.mov appears to be created due to the user of the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to S/COPELAND accessing and downloaded the original file in an iCloud account since the image is visually similar to the file IMG_1111.HEIC and the file is consecutively named to IMG_1112. All three thumbnails were last accessed on 05Jun25, at exactly 8:46:21 AM. All of 627 thumbnails in the \private\var\mobile\Media\PhotoData\Thumbnails\V2\DCIM\101APPLE\ directory and its subdirectories were accessed on 05Jun25, between 8:46:21 AM and 8:46:23 AM. The examination revealed an automated process accessed the files and is most likely contributed to an iCloud backup. SDFE DAVISON took the following screenshot as displayed in Axiom.

1. BACKGROUND

1.1. On 31May25, NCIS initiated an investigation regarding a missing person report. The missing person was later identified as CSSN V/A.R. ( V/A.R. USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95). According to witnesses, V/A.R. was last seen with CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG-95 at his barracks located at Willis Manor (Building X-2), Room 335, 9712 Virginia Ave, Norfolk, VA on board Naval Station Norfolk. Reporting Forensic Consultant (RFC) responded to Building X-2, Room 335 to identify and document any suspected bloodstains and other items of potential forensic value on scene.

2. ARRIVAL, JURISDICTION, AND AUTHORIZATION

2.1. On 03Jun25 at approximately 2004 hours, Reporting Forensic Consultant (RFC), Participating Agents (PAs) Joy NAROWSKI, Alison FOX, Brandon MOORE, Ashley ULLOM, Lauren GODETTE and Supervisory Special Agent (SSA) Danielle ORTIZ arrived at Building X-2, see figure 1. NCIS maintains primary jurisdiction. NCIS conducted a search of S/COPELAND's residence pursuant to a Command Authorization for Search and Seizure (CASS).

3. SCENE OBSERVATIONS—BUILDING X-2, ROOM 335

3.1. Building X-2 is a Navy unaccompanied housing military barracks with five floors containing multiple residences, see figure 2. Building X-2 has a parking lot located to the south of the building. Building X-2 is positioned in between Virginia Avenue and Maryland Avenue. Room 335 is located in the east wing, on the third floor, along the south side of the building.

3.2. Upon entering Room 335, RFC observed a foyer which led into the kitchen. South of the kitchen was a living room. RFC observed a broken coffee table in the living room. The coffee table also contained two red plastic cups and an opened bottle of "Uptown Cocktails" Strawberry Margarita ready-to-drink cocktail. Parallel to the kitchen and living room were two suites containing two single beds running along the east and west end of the residence. S/COPELAND was assigned to Suite B. Suite B contained two single beds, two desks, two closets, two sink vanities, and a single half bathroom which contained a toilet and shower. S/COPELAND's bed and closet were identified with a placard labeled as "BA". S/COPELAND's bed and desk were located along the east wall of the suite. North of S/COPELAND's bedroom, RFC observed a foyer leading into the closet and bathroom. RFC created a digital sketch displaying the layout of Room 335, see figure 3.

4. SCENE OBSERVATIONS—ROOM 335, SUITE B

4.1. RFC entered Suite B, see figures 8-14, and observed two single beds, two desks, two closets, two sink vanities, and a single half bathroom which contained a toilet and shower shared by the assigned suitemates. According to SSA ORTIZ, YN3 Sean MONAGHAN (YN3 MONAGHAN), USN, Helicopter Mine Countermeasures Squadron (HM 12), is the sole suitemate with S/COPELAND. SSA ORTIZ relayed YN3 MONAGHAN's belongings are assigned to bed, sink and closet labeled "BB" while S/COPELAND's belongings are assigned to bed, sink and closet labeled "BA".

5. SCENE OBSERVATIONS—HALF BATHROOM INSIDE SUITE B

5.1. RFC entered the half bathroom within Suite B and did not identify any visible bloodstain evidence within this area of the residence.

6. BLUESTAR APPLICATION—SINK VANITY

6.1. RFC was notified by PA NAROWSKI that she observed a suspected bloodstain on the northeast wall above the vanity sink belonging to S/COPELAND, see figure 15. PA NAROWSKI and the NCISRA Norfolk, VA Major Case Response Team (MCRT) conducted a preliminary test for the presence of blood on the stain using a Hemastix blood reagent test strip, yielding positive results. PA NAROWSKI and the NCISRA Norfolk, VA MCRT documented the suspected bloodstain and seized a swab from the area. These actions are documented under a separate report.

6.2. Listed on the Bluestar Forensics website, Bluestar is a chemical reagent which reveals the presence of blood in a large or minute/diluted quantity. The reaction occurs when Bluestar interacts with the heme component of blood producing a blue luminescence. False positives can occur when Bluestar comes in contact with household chemicals such as detergents, bleach or copper, per the Bluestar Forensic website, producing a white or faded blue luminescence. Prior to using Bluestar throughout the scene a control sample test was conducted producing a positive reaction.

6.3. RFC then conducted a preliminary test for the presence of blood using a Bluestar forensic kit along the sink vanity and sink bowl belonging to S/COPELAND, yielding positive results. RFC attempted to capture photographs of the Bluestar reaction on the sink bowl prior to the collection of items deemed as forensic value but was unsuccessful. RFC collected a swab from the stain within this area and entered it into the NCISRA Norfolk, VA Evidence Custody System under Evidence Custody Document Number JQNT4:

Item# NAH9K—One (1) swab taken from inside bathroom sink bowl containing suspected blood after Bluestar application

7. BLUESTAR APPLICATION—CLOSET BA

7.1. The NCISRA Norfolk, VA MCRT completed a scene documentation of Room 335 which included photographs, a scene sketch, and notes. Several items of evidence were identified and seized. These actions are documented under a separate report. During the scene documentation, the NCISRA Norfolk, VA MCRT requested assistance from Virginia Department of Emergency Management K9 Kira and Handler Andrew PISKE to identify human remains and/or other items of potential forensic value in the captioned investigation. K9 Kira and Handler PISKE conducted a search of Room 335, Suite B. K9 Kira and Handler PISKE alerted to the closet area labeled “BA”. RFC did not observe biological matter or suspected bloodstains in the closet with the unaided eye and subsequently the NCISRA Norfolk, VA MCRT effected photographic coverage, see figure 16. RFC and the NCISRA Norfolk, VA MCRT conducted a visual search of the belongings inside the closet and did not observe biological matter or suspected bloodstains. The NCISRA Norfolk, VA MCRT removed all belongings from the closet, see figure 17.

7.2. RFC then conducted a preliminary test for the presence of blood using a BLUESTAR forensic kit, yielding positive results. RFC effected photographic coverage, see figure 18, and collected swabs from the stains within this area and entered it into the NCISRA Norfolk, VA Evidence Custody System under Evidence Custody Document Number JQNT4:

- Item# 0TXF0—Four (4) swabs taken from left rear corner of closet for suspected blood after Bluestar application

8. BLUESTAR APPLICATION—SUITE B BEDROOM

8.1. RFC conducted a preliminary test for the presence of blood using a BLUESTAR forensic kit along the carpet, adjacent to Closet "BA", into the doorway of Suite B, yielding positive results, see figures 19-21. Subsequently on 10Jun25, the NCISRA Norfolk, VA MCRT collected several items deemed as forensic value to include the carpeted areas which tested positive for the presence of blood using the BLUESTAR forensic kit. These actions are documented under a separate report.

8.2. RFC observed a heavy concentration of Bluestar in the closet, forming a linear trail that gradually faded as it extended between Suite B and the living room. RFC attempted to capture photographs of the BLUESTAR reaction in the living room but was unsuccessful.

9. PHOTOGRAPHIC DOCUMENTATION

9.1. On 04Jun25, RFC took a series of photographs utilizing an NCIS issued a Nikon Z 6II camera (SN# 3068881) with a Nikon SB-5000 external flash. A total of eighteen (18) color photographs were exposed and subsequently downloaded onto one (1) Compact Disc-Recordable (CD-R); Enclosure (A) pertains. RFC entered the CD-R into the NCISRA Norfolk, VA Evidence Custody System under Evidence Custody Document Number 27C4G:

Item# 2UEEH: One (1) CD-R Containing (18) Photographs of Bluestar Reaction

1. BACKGROUND: On 04Jun25, at approximately 1315 hours, Reporting Agent (RA) Alison FOX, NCISRA Yorktown, was notified by Supervisory Special Agent (SSA) Danielle ORTIZ, NCISRA Norfolk, suspected blood was observed in a stairwell of Willis Manor, Building X2, 9712 Virginia Avenue, Norfolk, VA 23511 located on board Naval Station Norfolk. NCIS conducted an area canvass of Building X2 as part of proactive investigative efforts to locate CSSN Angelina RESENDIZ ( V/A.R. USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95). NCIS visually inspected and focused on the hallway and stairwell closest in proximity to Room 335 located on the third floor, which was the known room of CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG 95, a person of interest at the time of the investigation. SSA ORTIZ requested RA FOX respond to the area to document the scene and collect the suspected blood.

2. ARRIVAL AND JURISDICTION: On 04Jun25, at 1330 hours, RA FOX, and Participating Agents (PA) Joy NAROWSKI, NCISRA Yorktown, Dara ELK, NCISRA Portsmouth, and Lauren WATKINS, NCISRA Portsmouth conducted an examination of the stairwell. Willis Manor, Building X2 is located on board Naval Station Norfolk and is located within concurrent jurisdiction with Norfolk Police Department (NPD); however, NCIS maintains primary investigative jurisdiction due to V/A.R. and S/COPELAND both being active-duty Navy service members.

3. SCENE SECURITY AND SEARCH AUTHORIZATION: No scene security was present upon RA FOX's arrival. There is no reasonable expectation of privacy within the stairwell. Therefore, no search authorization was required.

4. EXTERIOR OBSERVATIONS: Willis Manor, Building X2, is a military barracks located on board Naval Station Norfolk. Willis Manor, Building X2, is a five-story building with a parking lot located in front and to the side. The building is located between Maryland Ave and Virginia Ave. Figure [1] is a Google Maps image of Willis Manor, Building X2, depicting its relationship and orientation to the surrounding buildings. The black arrow was added to the image to depict the exit location of stairwell examined.

5. INTERIOR OBSERVATIONS: RA FOX responded to Corridor 3006, which is located on the third floor. Barracks Room 335 is located in this corridor, within the same hallway as Stairwell 5. Figures [2], [3], [4], [5], [6], and [7] depict the entry way into Corridor 3006, the door to S/COPELAND's room, and the stairwell entrance point from the third floor, which can be identified by the last exit sign in the corridor. The black arrow was added to Figure [6], which shows the last exit sign in the corridor.

6. STAIRWELL OBSERVATIONS: Multiple areas of reddish brown staining were observed in the stairwell between levels 1 and 3. These areas were marked with evidence placards and photographed. Figures [8], [9], and [10] depict overall photographs of the stairwell levels as they were found. Figures [11], [12], [13], [14], [15], and [16] depict midrange photographs of reddish brown stains observed in the stairwell. REVIEW OF USACIL DNA REPORT

1. On 10Jun25, the US Army Criminal Investigation Laboratory (USACIL) completed a Deoxyribonucleic Acid (DNA) Report pertaining to items of evidence submitted for examination; Enclosure (A) pertains.

2. The results of examination revealed blood was identified on Exhibit 6 (closet swabs/SCENE-COPELAND BARRACKS) and Exhibit 9 (swabs placard D/SCENE-stairwell). Additionally, a female DNA profile was obtained from Exhibit 17.1 (swab of water bottle/SCENE-[V/A.R.]RESIDENCE), which is believed to be from CSSN [V/A.R.]([V/A.R.], USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95).

3. Regarding Exhibit 6 (closet swabs), the report revealed a DNA mixture interpreted as originating from two individuals was detected. The female DNA profile obtained from Exhibit 17.1 (swab of water bottle), believed to be from V/RESENDIZ, and the DNA profile obtained from CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, DDG 95, are included as contributors to the mixture.

4. Regarding Exhibit 9 (swabs placard D), the report showed the DNA profile obtained matches the DNA profile from Exhibit 17.1 (swab of water bottle), which is believed to be from [V/A.R.]

INTERVIEW OF PS1 CLARISSA IMPELIDODAYOAN, USN

1. On 25JUN25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Agent (PA) Corrie FYLE conducted an interview of PS1 Clarissa IMPELIDODAYOAN, USN, HELICOPTER MINE COUTERMEASURES SQUADRON (HM-12) regarding her presence in YN3 MONAGHAN's room on 02JUN25.

2. As background, YN3 Sean MONAGHAN, USN, HM-12 is the suitemate of CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, USS JAMES E. WILIAMS (DDG-95). On 02JUN25, YN3 MONAGHAN, PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN, and NCC Lorenzo CARTER, USN, HM-12 went to YN3 MONAGHAN's barracks room to clean due to an upcoming room inspection with HM-12's Commanding Officer.

3. This interview was audio and video recorded utilizing Case Cracker. A copy of the recording was subsequently saved to an optical disc and maintained with the case file. This report should not be treated as a verbatim or comprehensive representation of the interview; Enclosure (A) pertains.

4. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN explained the Commanding Officer of HM-12 was going to be conducting room inspections for the sailors who live in the barracks due to a Navy wide initiative to check the standards of the living conditions of sailors. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN said due to YN3 MONAGHAN's previously history with hygiene and cleaning issues, PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN and NCC CARTER accompanied YN3 MONAGHAN to his barracks room and proceeded to clean to make sure it was inspection ready. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN stated they went to the room between 0830-0900 on 02JUN25 and cleaned for approximately 1.5-2 hours. During which, no other roommates or S/COPELAND where present.

5. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN explained upon entering the barracks room she could smell what she described as "vomit and alcohol." PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN believed the room was the party room because it had that type of smell.

6. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN stated they cleaned the tile in the kitchen with a red mop and resembled a Swiffer but was not and had a pad on the bottom of it.

PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN stated they used multi-purpose cleaner due to no other cleaning supplies being available. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN did notice the counters with sticky and the floor in the kitchen was also. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN said they all then proceeded to clean the common area of the barracks with a vacuum. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN said she and NCC CARTER are the ones who vacuumed and YN3 MONAGHAN swept the carpet. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN stated she did not notice any unusual staining on the carpet.

7. Upon entering YN3 MONAGHAN and S/COPELAND's shared bedroom, PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN stated she could visually see YN3 MONAGHAN's side was dirty. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN stated she did not notice any other smells upon entering the bedroom. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN explained the tile floor was dirty but did not notice any sticking. PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN said YN3 MONAGHAN told her he uses S/COPELAND's sink because his was broken.

8. RA asked PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN if anyone had used the Bissell carpet cleaner, which she replied no.

9. RA asked PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN is she could recall any details about S/COPELAND's side of the room, which PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN replied she remembered the bed covers being "put together", there were shoes on the ground to include a red pair of Jordan's and Lego's on S/COPELAND's desk, however, she could not give further details.

10. RA asked PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN if she would be willing to give a sample of her DNA due to her being in the room, cleaning, and touching items that were taken as evidence in this investigation, PS1 IMPELIDODAYOAN signed a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure (PASS) to collect her DNA via buccal swabs; Enclosure (A) pertains. The two (2) buccal swabs were placed into evidence under item #L23R4.

RESULTS OF INTERVIEW OF CSSN JERMIAH COPELAND, USN

1. On 03JUN25, Reporting Agent (RA) and Participating Agent (PA) Bernadette DUFFY conducted an interview of CSSN Jermiah COPELAND (S/COPELAND), USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG-95) in regard to the Unauthorized Absence of CSSN Angelina RESENDIZ [redacted], USN, DDG-95 and himself.

2. This interview was audio and video recorded utilizing Case Cracker. A copy of the recording was subsequently saved to an optical disc and maintained with the case file. This report should not be treated as a verbatim or comprehensive representation of the interview; Enclosure (A) pertains.

3. Prior to being interviewed, S/COPELAND was advised of his Article 31(b) Rights by use of Military Suspect's Acknowledgement and Waiver of Rights form for an alleged violation of Article 86 (Absence without Leave) and Article 107 (False Official Statements). S/COPELAND, with full understanding of his rights, elected to waive his right to remain silent; Enclosure (B) pertains.

4. S/COPELAND was asked to recall the events on the night of 28JUN25 and what transpired the following days. S/COPELAND stated he and [redacted] were talking about food and making tacos. S/COPELAND continued saying, [redacted] was going to come over to his barracks, located at Building X-2, Willis Manor, Room 335, to make salsa and eat dinner. S/COPELAND explained he went to the Food Lion and bought the ingredients to make tacos and then he went back to X-2. S/COPELAND stated he then went and picked [redacted] up from her barracks, Miller Hall, and brought her back to his room. COPELAND explained later he utilized his roommates vehicle, later identified as a belonging to AR John CALISSE, USN, VAW-124 and being a white Jeep Compass, to pick up [redacted] S/COPELAND stated [redacted] was wearing a black shirt, black pants, slip on Uggs, a bracelet, and a hair clip. S/COPELAND stated [redacted] was also carrying her purple backpack. S/COPELAND stated he could not recall what time he picked V/RESENDIZ up but after returning to the room they began to make tacos.

5. S/COPELAND stated after eating, him and [redacted] started listening to music and started talking. S/COPELAND explained [redacted] began talking about HT3 Michael GILLESPIE, USN, DDG-95, and how she saw him with another girl on his motorcycle and how it had really upset [redacted] S/COPELAND stated [redacted] then text HT3 GILLESPIE "Fuck you" and then called an ex-boyfriend (NFI) from Texas. S/COPELAND explained he was sitting on the couch, and she was sitting on floor talking to the ex-boyfriend. S/COPELAND continued explaining how when V/A.R. ended the phone call with the ex-boyfriend, she started to call other people (NFI) and talk about how "GILLESPIE's not shit."

6. S/COPELAND explained he did not know much about the relationship between HT3 GILLESPIE and V/A.R., but S/COPELAND did recall V/A.R. was mad about the amount of money she would spend on HT3 GILLESPIE. S/COPELAND provided the example of HT3 GILLESPIE needed a lawyer and V/A.R. gave him $500.00 to hire one even though HT3 GILLESPIE could have received a public defender. S/COPELAND did not believe HT3 GILLESPIE and V/A.R. were in any physical altercations or abusive relationship. S/COPELAND stated V/A.R. went on a "rampage" and was becoming "agitated." S/COPELAND stated after completing the phone calls V/A.R. was becoming "emotional" and "crying."

7. S/COPELAND stated one of the roommates, "the Mexican" later identified as PSSN Irbin GORDILLOCRUZ, USN, Airborne Command and Control Squadron 124 (VAW-124), walked into the common area of the room and asked if V/A.R. was okay. S/COPELAND stated he told PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ, V/A.R. was fine and PSSN GORDILLOCRUZ proceeded to his room. S/COPELAND stated the night ended and they both went to sleep together in S/COPELAND's bed. S/COPELAND stated they did not have sexual intercourse. After going to sleep, S/COPELAND was awoken by FCC Brad PARKER, USN, DDG-95, knocking on the door of his bedroom. S/COPELAND said he could not remember what time it was but knew the sun was up. S/COPELAND stated FCC PARKER asked if the person in his bed was V/A.R. which S/COPELAND replied it was V/A.R. S/COPELAND explained FCC PARKER told him to get to work and asked if he had a ride, which S/COPELAND stated he told FCC PARKER one of his roommates could give him a ride to work. S/COPELAND admitted though he did not go to work due to "one of his roommates" not coming home. S/COPELAND further explained, him being UA was a big misunderstanding because he had the weekend off and he did not realize if you are marked UA for one day, you are marked UA for the days you remain away from work.

8. S/COPELAND stated he was marked UA Thursday, 29JUN25 until Sunday, 01MAY25 when base security located him within his barracks room. When asked his whereabouts for Friday and Saturday, S/COPELAND responded, he stayed in the barracks both days but would move from lounge to lounge. S/COPELAND stated he mostly hung out in the 5th floor lounge and Ms. Mary (NFI) could vouch for his whereabouts during the time frame.

9. RA asked S/COPELAND about the morning of 29JUN25 and what had transpired after FCC PARKER left the room. S/COPELAND recalled him and V/RESENDIZ woke up and cleaned the kitchen and V/A.R. left in an Uber, later clarified to be a Z-Trip.

10. RA asked S/COPELAND if he would sign a Permissive Authorization for Search and Seizure (PASS) for his cellphone, S/COPELAND agreed to signing a PASS and provided his passcode, 980377. Prior to signing the PASS, S/COPELAND requested to call his mother, and would not sign the PASS; Enclosure (C) pertains. PA asked S/COPELAND if he would be fine with answering further questions and call his mother later, S/COPELAND agreed.

11. RA had previously informed S/COPELAND NCIS was conducting a Command Authorized Search and Seizure (CASS) in his barracks room and the common area and began to ask questions about S/COPELAND's barracks room and his electronics. S/COPELAND stated he had an iPhone15 in his room and a PlayStation 5 in the common room.

12. RA inquired about V/A.R. s electronics to include her iPhone. S/COPELAND stated the only electronic V/A.R. had with her was her iPhone15. S/COPELAND confirmed the Apple iWatch was also his, which was located in his barracks room.

13. RA asked S/COPELAND if the statement he gave was true and accurate to the best of his knowledge, which S/COPELAND stated this statement was the correct statement. RA then confronted S/COPELAND on the discretions between his previous statement, given on 01JUN25 and the statement he gave during this interview.

14. RA asked S/COPELAND about him and V/A.R. being naked on the floor by the couch, S/COPELAND denied being on the floor naked with V/RESENDIZ. S/COPELAND stated he and V/A.R. fell asleep in his bed, clothed.

15. RA asked S/COPELAND about him changing his story about dropping V/A.R. off at her barracks, to V/A.R. leaving on her own after cleaning, to which S/COPELAND stated he did not remember saying he had previously dropped V/A.R. off at her barracks. RA asked S/COPELAND about how he knew V/A.R. was taking a Z-Trip from his barracks versus walking from his barracks, and S/COPELAND stated he just assumed V/A.R. ad taken a Z-Trip back to her barracks.

16. RA inquired about S/COPELAND telling FCC PARKER he would wait for his roommate to get home to take S/COPELAND to work. RA asked about S/COPELAND's roommate's work schedule and why he would tell FCC PARKER the roommate would take him to work knowing his roommate does not get home until approximately 1600-1700. S/COPELAND stated he would not ask anyone else to take him to work. S/COPELAND stated he did not know when his roommate would be home due to a squadron's working hours being different from the ships work schedule.

17. PA conducted another PASS for a backpack, barracks room, and

01:08:08: Special Agent: Okay.

01:08:11: CSSN Copeland: I believe so.

01:08:12: Special Agent: Did she walk? Did somebody come pick her up? Did she mention anything about how she was gonna get back?

01:08:15: CSSN Copeland: Getting an Uber.

01:08:16: Special Agent: An Uber. On base?

01:08:17: CSSN Copeland: Yeah they got Z-Trip.

01:08:24: Special Agent: Oh yeah. Not that they can't get on base, it's just kind of like, she didn't want to walk?

01:08:25: CSSN Copeland: No, like Z-Trip it's on base teleportation [ph.]. It's a Uber.

01:08:32: Special Agent: I see. Okay, got it. Do you know around what time that was that you saw her last?

01:08:38: CSSN Copeland: After Chief left and after she got ready and everything and she helped me clean up my room.

01:14:31: CSSN Copeland: It was just like "I'll see you later," "all right cool if you need something just call or text me." "All right I got you."

01:14:42: Special Agent: Okay. Was she still crying when she left? Or did she seem like she was fine?

01:14:44: CSSN Copeland: Nah, she was cool.

01:14:45: Special Agent: Okay.

01:14:46: CSSN Copeland: Obviously, like, if you go to sleep after having a bad night, usually if you go to sleep and you wake up, you're fine.

01:14:47: Special Agent: Okay.

01:14:52: CSSN Copeland: Well, that's just how I see it. I'm not gonna speak for her, like --

01:14:55: Special Agent: Yeah.

01:14:56: CSSN Copeland: If you're holding your emotions, you can hold your emotions, cool. But from the talk that I had and when I – when she woke up and shit before she left she said – I was just like have a good day if you need something just call or text me. She was like "all right."

01:15:10 Special Agent: Okay. And then did you hear from her again after she left?

01:15:15 CSSN Copeland: Nah, until I got back and then my Chief was basically saying we're both marked UA. And then from there that's when I texted her and I was like yo, like are you good, I was like they just marked me and you UA. And then I was just like, I asked her to call or text me if she get a text or whatever. She never responded.

02:14:10: Special Agent: When [CS3 A.R.] was on the phone with whoever -- when she was, I'll use your words, on like a rampage. Did she, when she was on the phone, did she ever ask anyone come to pick her up or anything like that?

02:14:20: CSSN Copeland: I don't think so. I mean like I said I was on the couch. I know she did call Rich and she was on the phone with her ex, but from what I recall I don't think so.

02:14:39: Special Agent: Okay. So you don't recall hearing her tell somebody like yo, come get me, come pick me up, I want to leave, or anything like that?

02:14:46: CSSN Copeland: No, ma'am.

02:14:47: Special Agent: Okay.

02:19:35 Special Agent: And then, can you give me an about what time she may have left?

02:19:39: CSSN Copeland: I don't know, because I don't even know what time Chief had came into the room, so.

02:19:35 Special Agent: Okay, okay. So, the reason again I'm asking is because on Sunday you told me that you, your roommate, and her got in the car and y'all dropped her off at Miller Hall.

02:19:58: CSSN Copeland: I didn't say that Sunday.

02:20:02: Special Agent: You sure?

02:20:03: CSSN Copeland: I said it was me my roommate, the -- my two roommates –

02:20:09: Special Agent Oh I'm sorry, not Sunday – I do apologize. When you guys took her home Thursday morning, I'm sorry, you, you're right, you did say that Sunday. So, Thursday, you told me that you, the roommate, and her got in the car and then y'all dropped her off at Miller Hall.

02:20:31: CSSN Copeland: Miller Hall is my barracks.

02:20:34: Special Agent: You're at X-2.

02:20:35: CSSN Copeland: Which is Miller Hall, isn't it?

02:20:39: Special Agent: That's Willis Hall. Miller Hall is the one right down the road. Her barracks.

02:20:44: CSSN Copeland: Now I'm confused. Miller Hall is my barracks.

02:20:48: Special Agent: Okay, let's just say it this way then. Sunday, you told me – on Sunday, when we talked, right?

02:20:54: CSSN Copeland: Right.

02:20:54: Special Agent: That you, roommate, her, got in the car, and y'all together dropped her off at her barracks.

02:21:02: CSSN Copeland: I don't remember saying that.

02:21:04: Special Agent: Okay. So, what – so, she got in an Uber then, now?

02:21:10: CSSN Copeland: Yes.

02:21:11: Special Agent: Okay, do you know if it was an Uber or Z-Trip?

02:21:15: CSSN Copeland: Probably a Z-Trip. I mean obviously most Ubers you have to be like on base or base access.

02:21:21: Special Agent: Right. I was just asking if you knew either way.

02:21:23: CSSN Copeland: Yeah.

02:21:24: Special Agent: Because again, she's still UA right?

02:21:25: CSSN Copeland: Well, when I say Uber it's like Z-Trip.

02:21:26: Special Agent: You're talking interchangeably?

02:21:27: CSSN Copeland: Yes.

02:21:31: Special Agent: Okay, that's fine, I just wanted to clarify, okay? Did she tell you she was taking a Z-Trip?

02:21:35: CSSN Copeland: No, that's what I suspected I was like, she was finna go –

02:21:38: Special Agent: Okay.

02:21:39: CSSN Copeland: Back to her room.

02:21:38: Special Agent: Okay. But she didn't tell you she was taking it?

02:21:44: CSSN Copeland: No, I assumed it was a Z-Trip.

02:21:49: Special Agent: Okay. Okay. Why did you assume it was a Z-Trip and her not just her walking home like she normally walks?

02:21:54: CSSN Copeland: I don't know, I mean.

02:21:56: Special Agent: I'm just asking.

02:22:00: CSSN Copeland: I never said she likes walking, so why would I assume she walks?

02:22:07: Special Agent: Okay. So, she left the room some time that morning, you guys, you never got in a car with her and took her anywhere?

02:22:19: CSSN Copeland: No, ma'am.

02:22:20: Special Agent: Okay.

….

02:25:55: Special Agent 2: You know that we're just trying to find [CS3 A.R.], right. So, do you know where she is?

02:25:59 CSSN Copeland: No, ma'am.

02:26:00 Special Agent 2: Did you have anything to do with her disappearance?

02:26:02 CSSN Copeland: No, ma'am.

On 5 September 2025, CDR Lauren Mayo and LT Christopher Dempsey, JAGC, USN, interviewed CS2 Rezan Taylor, USN, in the presence of Ms. Marie Reddish at Building A-50. The following is a summary of the interaction and is not intended to be verbatim:

CS2 Taylor described a call he received from CSSN S.R. on 11 April 2025 at 0604. He stated the call was approximately 10 minutes long. During the call he overheard CSSN S.R. arguing with CSSN Copeland. CS2 Taylor heard CSSN S.R. state that CSSN Copeland had placed his hands on her and CSSN Copeland was stating that CSSN Richardson had a knife. CS2 Taylor advised CSSN Richardson to leave and at 0654 she texted him that she had left. CS2 Taylor provided phone screenshots of these events.

CS3 Taylor learned later that CSSN S.R. had left and returned to CSSN Copeland's barracks, but he was not sure if the time she called him was the first or second time she was at CSSN Copeland's barracks room.

CS2 Taylor stated that he interacted with CSSN S.R. on a daily basis and based on his interactions found her to be a truthful person. He could not opine on her reputation for truthfulness among the crew.

CS2 Taylor advised that FCC Brad Parker, USN, was an interim Chief in the supply division. CS2 Taylor stated that FCC Parker was a dirt bag who failed to take initiative and did not do much.

CS2 Taylor advised he had spoken previously with CSSN Copeland about a speeding allegation.

CS2 Taylor also advised that on 9 June 25, while CSSN Copeland was on restriction, CS2 Taylor asked CSSN Copeland what happened between him and CS3 A.R. CS2 Taylor stated that CSSN Copeland advised CS3 A.R. was at his barracks room, they had been drinking alcohol, and the two began making out. CSSN Copeland then stated that CS3 A.R. wanted it to go further, but he stopped it. CS2 Taylor provided that he doubted CSSN Copeland was mature enough to have stopped the encounter at that point, but did not press him further. CS2 Taylor stated that he got the impression from CSSN Copeland that this all occurred in CSSN Copeland's bed. CS2 Taylor also provided that CSSN Copeland told him that CS3 A.R. left on her own the next morning. CS2 Taylor thought that was odd, because others had told him that CSSN Copeland had told them that he dropped her off at her barracks.

CS2 Taylor provided that CS3 A.R. was a great person who was very special. She was a great worker with a bubbly, strong personality. CS2 Taylor thought it was odd that she was with CSSN Copeland that night as there was no indication of a preexisiting relationship – other than professional.

A separate investigative action of this conversation will not be documented by NCIS.

I, Jessica Gokey, being first duly sworn state:

1. I am a Special Agent with the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) assigned to the NCIS Resident Agency Norfolk, VA and have been employed with NCIS since March 2022. During my tenure as a Special Agent, I have completed approximately 900 hours of instruction at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center (FLETC) in Glynco, GA, where I attended the Special Agent Basic Training Integrated Program (SABTI). I was provided instruction on investigations, federal law, and other various practice issues for investigators. I completed 40 hours of advanced family and sexual violence training. I am a member of the Military Criminal Investigative Organization Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force. I have attended the National Criminal Justice Training Center's Internet Crimes Against Children certification course and additional training through ICAC for an approximate total of 90 hours. I spent eight (8) years as an active duty member of the United States Navy, where I was a Master-at-Arms (MA). As a MA, I was a first responder to base incidents, misdemeanor crimes, and traffic accidents. During my tenure as a MA, I was employed with the Criminal Investigation Division (CID) where I worked various cases to include Domestic Violence cases, simple assaults, and other misdemeanor crimes. I have a Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice from Fort Hays State University, Hays, KS.

2. As a federal agent, I am authorized to investigate violations of law of the United States and to execute warrants issued under the authority of the United States.

3. On May 30, 2025, NCIS was notified of a missing person's report for CSSN [redacted], USN, DDG-95. NCIS was also notified that the last person to be seen with her, CSSN Jermiah COPELAND, USN, was in an unauthorized absence status and was also missing.

4. On June 1, 2025, COPELAND was located within his barracks room onboard Naval Station Norfolk, however, RESENDIZ was still missing.

5. During an interview on June 3, 2025, COPELAND advised that an Apple Watch and iPhone that were located during a search of his barracks room at the X-2 barracks onboard Naval Station Norfolk were his. COPELAND explained neither device worked. NCIS did not seize either device and left them in his custody.

6. On June 3, 2025, COPELAND gave a separate iPhone 15 to investigators after signing a PASS.

7. On June 6, 2025, COPELAND was placed in a restricted status aboard the barge for DDG-95. COPELAND was advised to bring his toiletries and belongings to the ship. COPELAND remained on restriction until a later arrest and pre-trial confinement beginning on June 9, 2025.

8. On June 10, 2025, NCIS executed a CASS for COPELAND's berthing onboard the barge associated with DDG-95 that he lived in while on restriction. NCIS was able to locate and seize the Apple Watch. However, the second iPhone found on the June 3, 2025 search of COPELAND's barracks was not present.

9. The second iPhone was not located after additional searches of COPELAND's barracks room. It remains lost.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Encl: (1) Discovery request of 30 Jul 25

1. Pursuant to reference (a), the Defense requests the following evidence be provided by the Government in connection with the Article 32 preliminary hearing in this case.

a. Statements within the control of the military authorities of any witnesses, including those that counsel for the Government intends to call at the preliminary hearing.

b. Copies of all evidence counsel for the Government intends to present at the preliminary hearing.

c. Any matters provided to the convening authority when directing the preliminary hearing. This specifically includes, but is not limited to, any communications between Government counsel and the Convening Authority's Staff Judge Advocate, and records of communications between government agents, including NCIS or other law enforcement and Government Counsel, should such records exist.

2. Pursuant to references (c) through (f), Defense requests the following evidence be provided by the Government in connection with the Article 32 preliminary hearing in this case. This evidence is relevant, not cumulative, and necessary to the determination of the issues required by subsection (a) of reference (c).

a. The name, telephone number, and address of any witness the Government intends to call.

b. The name, telephone number, and email address of all NCIS agents/investigators/military police and/or any other government agents or investigators who participated in the investigation of CSSN Copeland.

c. Copies of any witness statements of which the Government is aware relating to any offense charged.

d. Disclosure of all evidence seized from the person or property of the accused, or believed to be owned or possessed by the accused, and its present location.

e. Any known evidence tending to diminish the credibility of any witnesses including, but not limited to, prior convictions and evidence of other character, conduct, bias, or specific instances of untruthful conduct bearing on witness credibility.

f. The entire NCIS ROIs to include all enclosures.

g. Contact information for any person interviewed by NCIS in the course of this investigation.

h. The discovery previously requested by the defense on 30 July 2025. Enclosure (1).

4. The defense reserves the right to make a more detailed discovery request when and if the defense receives discovery in this case.

5. The defense reserves the right to waive this hearing at any time.

1. The Defense has already submitted two speedy trial requests in relation to the Government's investigation and case into CSSN Jermiah Copeland, USN. CSSN Copeland has been in confinement for over 50 days without charges. First, CSSN Copeland has the right to dispute his pretrial confinement, to do so requires discovery. Second, the professional rules of responsibility require fairness. If the trial counsel has access to discovery, out of fairness, it should be shared with the defense. Finally, providing discovery to the defense will assist in avoiding speedy trial prejudice and permit the defense to be prepared if the government pursues charges in this case. In accordance with references (a) and (b), which govern fairness to opposing parties and Government counsel responsibilities, and references (c) and (d), which govern pretrial confinement and pre-preferral sessions of court, the Defense requests the Government produce for use, inspection, and/or copying the following in the subject case:

a. Evidence

(1) Any evidence that is material to either the issue of guilt or the sentence, regardless of admissibility, that is known to the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, witnesses, or consultants.

(2) Any sworn or signed statements relating to the charged offenses, and any notes derived from those oral statements relating to the charged offenses.

(3) Any books, papers, documents, photographs, tangible objects, media, electronic records, or copies or portions thereof, which are within the possession, custody, or control of the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, and which are relevant to defense preparation or are intended for use by the trial counsel as evidence in the prosecution case-in-chief at trial.

(4) Any results or reports of physical or mental examinations, and of scientific tests or experiments, or copies thereof, which are within the possession, custody, or control of the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, and which are relevant to defense preparation or are intended for use by trial counsel as evidence in the prosecution case-in-chief at trial.

(5) Evidence known to the government that reasonably tends to negate the guilt or reduce the degree of guilt of the Accused on a charged offense, or is otherwise favorable to the Accused under reference (e).

(6) Evidence that adversely affects the credibility of any prosecution witness or evidence.

(7) All evidence or information of any identification of the Accused.

(8) A written list of, and access to, all evidence seized from the person or property of the Accused, or believed to be owned by the Accused, as well as any search warrant, consent form, command authorization or other basis upon which any search was conducted or any evidence was seized.

(9) Notice of the government's intent to offer any out-of-court statement under the residual hearsay exception.

(10) Copies of any diagrams that any witness has used for identification purposes and any notes or writing that any witness has reviewed and indicated was correct or adopted as an accurate statement.

(11) Copies of any subpoena or subpoena duces tecum issued in this case.

b. Investigative Documents, Records, and Procedures.

(1) A complete, legible, color copy, including all attachments, of any investigative report created by any investigative agency or command related to this case, specifically including but not limited to:

(a) All Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS) Interim Reports of Investigation;

(b) All memoranda or reports drafted by personnel assigned to USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) relating to this case; and

(c) All local law enforcement reports addressing the allegations, interactions, complaints, and arrests.

(d) All reports and notifications drafted by the Navy Absentee Collection and Information Center (NACIC) regarding CSSN Copeland and CSSN A.R.

(2) Any agency or law enforcement documents and data, made in connection with this case, including all attachments. This request includes all forms and documents, including witness reliability forms, data sheets, and other relevant documents. This request includes, but is not limited to, the following relevant documentation:

(a) Interview logs;

(b) Interview records;

(c) Source dossier and forms related to any Confidential Informants;

(d) Informants' notes;

(e) Any document detailing the disbursement of any funds in support of the investigation in this case;

(f) Investigative records checks, including NCIC checks, run on any person during the investigation of this case;

(g) Any documents related to searches and seizures;

(h) Internal communications, emails, or other documents used to brief, respond to, and/or request investigative activities related to this case. This request specifically includes any communication between law enforcement and a member of the Accused's command, the convening authority, the staff judge advocate, or any officer directing the investigation;

(i) All records reflecting the chain of custody of any evidence seized and/or tested; and

(j) All personal or business notes, memoranda, and other writings prepared by investigators in the case that are not furnished pursuant to any other provisions of this request.

(3) The names of all government investigators who have participated, or are presently participating, in the investigation of this case, as well as their accreditation, any previous law-enforcement or investigative jobs held, and a statement as to their length of service in such jobs.

(4) Any evidence of the revocation or suspension of the credentials of any investigators involved in this case, or evidence that any investigator was a subject or suspect in an internal affairs investigation.

(5) Notice of any expected forensic or scientific testing that may destroy evidence.

(6) All laboratory reports, expert conclusions or statements, chain of custody documents, forensic notes, and other evidence or documents relied on by government experts in the performance of their services. This includes any laboratory tests, field tests, and reports thereof, including but not limited to DNA, fingerprints, blood samples, handwriting exemplars, and chemical analyses of substances seized, regardless of the results of the tests.

(7) Copies of any inspections by accrediting bodies of any laboratory conducting forensic or scientific testing of evidence in this case.

c. Witnesses.

(1) The full names, locations, and telephone numbers of all individuals interviewed in this case or otherwise used in developing the case against the Accused.

(2) Any evidence from unit personnel files demonstrating any disciplinary actions against a potential government witness.

(3) Any evidence or information of any promises of immunity or leniency made to any potential government witness by trial counsel or military authorities or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities. This includes the contents of any formal or informal pretrial agreement reached with any co-conspirator or potential witness.

(4) The contents of any prior inconsistent statement or any statement that tends to show bias or motive to fabricate made by any potential witness in this case known by the government or agents thereof, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities.

(5) Any evidence that a potential witness consumed alcohol or drugs prior to witnessing the events that give rise to his or her testimony.

(6) Any evidence tending to show that any potential witness's ability to perceive, remember, communicate, or tell the truth is impaired.

(7) Any evidence that any potential witness has been diagnosed as an alcoholic, alcohol abuser, or controlled substance abuser.

(8) Any evidence that any potential witness sought or received mental health treatment, including specifically the mental health treatment records of the complaining witness.

(9) Notice of the government's intention to employ an expert witness or consultant and the name, contact information, and resume for the intended expert witness or consultant. This request includes the government's written request to the Convening Authority as well as the Convening Authority's written response.

(10) All personnel records for law enforcement and potential military witnesses for evidence of adverse performance, bias, or any evidence that would constitute grounds for impeachment.

d. Information and records regarding the Accused.

(1) The contents of all statements, oral or written, made by the Accused that are relevant to the case. This includes statements that are within the control of the government and military law enforcement agents, including closely aligned civilian authorities or entities, witnesses, or consultants.

(2) Any records of the Accused's prior civilian or court-martial convictions which the government may offer on the merits for any purpose, including impeachment.

(3) Copies of all documents, including emails, pertaining to any pretrial confinement or restrictions on the liberty of the Accused, including any change in the liberty status of the Accused since the alleged misconduct that forms the basis for the charges in this case.

(4) The Blue Ribbon copy of the Accused's service record book.

(5) Pursuant to Mil. R. Evid. 404, 413, or 414, all evidence or information pertaining to any other crimes, wrongs, or acts committed by the Accused that the government may seek to introduce at trial for any purpose, and notice of the government's intent to introduce such evidence.

e. Sentencing.

(1) Evidence known to the government which reasonably tends to mitigate the Accused's responsibility or might lead a fact-finder to adjudge a less severe sentence.

(2) Written material that will be presented by the government at presentencing proceedings, if any.

(3) The names, addresses, and a synopsis of expected testimony for the witnesses the government intends to call at presentencing proceedings, if any.

f. Unlawful Command Influence

(1) In light of reference (i), evidence of any direct communication, whether written or oral, by any senior military leaders—including civilians—which may have influenced the disposition decisions or actions of:

(a) Any officers acting under R.C.M. 305 in this case.

(2) In light of reference (j), evidence of any direct communication, whether written or oral, by any senior military leaders—including civilians—which might influence the post-trial disposition decisions or actions of:

(a) The Staff Judge Advocate under R.C.M. 1106; or

(b) The Convening Authority under Article 60, UCMJ, and R.C.M. 1107.

2. Specific Items Requested. In addition to the above items, these specific items are promptly requested.

a. The defense requests discovery of the following items that are relevant to defense preparation:

(1) Physical access for Defense to visit CSSN Copeland's barracks room in an unaltered state, which is located at X-2 barracks, room 335B.

(2) Any and all surveillance camera footage from X-2 barracks and Miller Hall from 28 May 2025 to 10 June 2025. If there is no surveillance camera footage at either of those two barracks, defense requests surveillance camera footage during the requested timeframe from surrounding buildings that are angled toward those barracks.

(3) The full autopsy report from the autopsy performed on CSSN A.R. on or about 11 June 2025.

(4) The names, contact information, and current commands of CSSN Copeland's and CSSN A.R.'s roommates from their barracks.

(5) All muster reports and liberty logs for the CS Department onboard USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) from 26 May 2025 to 10 June 2025.

(6) All records of leave chits for CSSN Copeland and CSSN A.R. while stationed onboard USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95).

(7) Phone records and call logs for CSSN A.R. from 25 May 2025 to 10 June 2025.

(8) Bank records for CSSN A.R. from 25 May 2025 to 10 June 2025.

(9) Full phone extraction from CSSN A.R. and CSSN Copeland's cellular phones.

(10) Copy of the following documents listed in LT Maddrell's email to CAPT Santicola of 3 June 2025:

a. Initial CMEO report of 17 September 2024;

b. CDRE's disposition and LOI issued of 31 January 2025;

c. "CSSN Appeal" of 12 March 2025;

d. CNSL CMEO Denial letter of 30 May 2025; and

e. UA SITREP for CSSN Copeland and CSSN A.R. of 1 June 2025.

(11) Any and all enclosures, to include media, missing from the investigations previously provided to defense relating to the accused. This request includes enclosures and media from prior charges, acts or wrongs the government anticipates providing notice as M.R.E. 404(b) evidence.

3. The Defense expects that the government will make a diligent effort to comply with this discovery request. As to any particular requested information, the Defense will regard any nonresponse or response without comment as an affirmative assertion by the government that the requested information does not exist. This is a continuing request, and as such, this request includes a request for any information that the government later discovers before, during, or after trial of this case, if any.

4. The Defense requests a response in writing within seven (7) days of service of this request. Please contact us with any questions or concerns you may have. You may reach me at (757) 341-4486 or via email at clifton.e.morgan4.mil@us.navy.mil.

Subj: GOVERNMENT ARTICLE 32 COMMENTS ICO CSSN JERMIAH T. COPELAND

Ref: (a) Article 32, UCMJ
(b) R.C.M 405(l) (2024 ed.)

1. The Government asserts that each specification alleges an offense, that there is probable cause to believe that CSSN Jermiah T. Copeland committed each charge and specification, the convening authority has jurisdiction over CSSN Copeland and the offenses charged and respectfully requests a recommendation that all charges and specifications be referred to a general courts-martial.

2. The Accused is currently on active duty with an enlistment date of 13 July 2023 and an end of enlistment date of 12 July 2027. Each charge and specification occurred while the Accused was on active duty. [PHE 3]

3. Below please find each charge and specification with corresponding elements, maximum punishment and corresponding hearing exhibits.

CHARGE I: VIOLATION OF THE UCMJ, ARTICLE 120

Specification 1 (Aggravated Sexual Contact): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, US Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did on board USS HARRY S. TRUMAN (CVN 75), on or about 24 July 2024, touch through the clothing, the vulva, breast, and buttocks of ABHAN C.R., U.S. Navy, with CSSN Copeland's body part, to wit: his hands, with an intent to gratify the sexual desire of CSSN Copeland by using unlawful force.

Elements:

(1) That the accused committed sexual contact upon ABHAN C.R. by touching through the clothing, the vulva, breast, and buttocks of ABHAN C.R. and

(2) That the accused did so by using unlawful force against ABHAN C.R.

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, 20 years confinement, E-1. (Category 3)

Evidence:

ABHAN C.R. described CSSN Copeland grabbing her arms and placing them behind her back and groping here and then placing his hand around her neck and squeezing while he continued to grope her. ABHAN C.R. described the pressure used as sufficient to obstruct her breathing during this period. While he was squeezing her neck, CSSN Copeland started touching her "areas" which ABHAN Rogers described as her buttocks, breasts, and vulva. [PHE 05a & 05b]

CSSN Cuestabravo stated that he received text messages on the morning of 24 Jul 24 from ABHAN C.R. indicating something bad had happened to her. Late that morning, ABHAN C.R. disclosed to him that CSSN Copeland strangled her and "touched her everywhere." CSSN Cuestabravo told law enforcement he observed bruises on one side of ABHAN C.R.'s neck related to her assault. [PHE 07]

Specification 2 (Abusive Sexual Contact): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did on board USS HARRY S. TRUMAN (CVN 75), on or about 24 July 2024, touch through the clothing, the vulva, breast, and buttocks of ABHAN C.R, U.S Navy, with CSSN Copeland's body part, to wit: his hands, with an intent to gratify the sexual desire of CSSN Copeland without the consent of ABHAN C.R.

Elements:

(1) That the accused committed sexual contact upon ABHAN C.R. by touching through the clothing, the vulva, breast, and buttocks of ABHAN C.R. and

(2) That the accused did so without the consent of ABHAN C.R..

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, 7 years, E-1. (Category 2)

Evidence:

This specification is charged as a contingency of proof.

ABHAN C.R. described CSSN Copeland started touching her "areas" which ABHAN Rogers described as her buttocks, breasts, and vulva. She described this touching as being done while actively trying to repel CSSN Copeland – evidence of her non-consent. [PHE 05a & 05b]

CSSN Cuestabravo stated that he received text messages on the morning of 24 Jul 24 from ABHAN C.R. indicated something bad had happened to her. Late that morning, ABHAN C.R. disclosed to him that CSSN Copeland strangled her and "touched her everywhere." [PHE 07]

Specification 3 (Sexual Assault – Incapable of Consenting): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did at or near Oslo, Norway, on or about 4 November 2024, commit a sexual act upon CSSN S.S, U.S. Navy, by penetrating CSSN S.S.'s vulva with his penis, when CSSN S.S. was incapable of consenting to the sexual act because she impaired by an intoxicant, to wit: alcohol, and the accused knew or reasonably should have known of that condition.

Elements:

(1) The accused committed a sexual act upon CSSN S.S. by penetrating her vulva with his penis

(2) That the accused did so when CSSN S.S. was incapable of consenting to the sexual act due to impairment by a drug, intoxicant, or other similar substance

(3) That the accused knew or reasonably should have known CSSN S.S. was incapable of consenting to the sexual act due to impairment by drug, intoxicant, or other similar substance.

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, 30 years, E-1. A dishonorable discharge or a dismissal is a mandatory minimum sentence for this offense. (Category 3)

Evidence:

CSSN Copeland admitted to penetrating CSSN S.S.'s vulva with his penis. [PHE 20]

CSSN S.S. consumed alcohol on the evening of 4 November 2024 and has no memory of sexual intercourse with CSSN Copeland. [PHE 09 & 11].

CSSA Jacqueline Bita accompanied CSSN S.S. in Oslo during the TRUMAN port call on 4 November 2024. She recalled arriving at unknown club and witnessing CSSN S.S. drink alcohol with other sailors. CSSA Bita noted that CSSN Copeland arrived to the club later and was not a member of her original group. CSSA Bita recalls at some point observing CSSN S.S. intoxicated and CSSN Copeland assisting CSSN S.S. to the bathroom. CSSA Bita did not observe any flirtation between CSSN Copeland and CSSN Simpson at any point in the evening. At some point later that evening, CSSN Copeland approached CSSA Bita and SR Jada Knight. CSSN Copeland showed them a video on his cellular phone of CSSN Copeland penetrating CSSN S.S. with his penis. CSSA Bita identified CSSN Simpson not by her face, but by her hair and gray sweatshirt. She could see CSSN Simpson's bare buttocks, but could not clearly tell if CSSN S.S. was conscious. [PHE 13]

CSSN Shamel Eaddy recalls observing CSSN S.S. at Fleet Landing prior to embarking on the liberty boat at the end of the evening. CSSN Eaddy stated CSSN S.S. was extremely intoxicated and requested help. She required clearance from the medical text before she was transported back to the ship. [PHE 15]

CSSN Alexis Rodgers described CSSN S.S. as drunk at the bar. She did not recall seeing CSSN S.S. and CSSN Copeland interact that evening. CSSN Rodgers stated that when it was time to leave the bar to return to Fleet Landing, CSSN Simpson needed assistance due to her level of intoxication. CSSN Rodgers opined that CSSN Simpson was disoriented at the end of the evening - in that she did not seem to recall where she was. [PHE 16]

CSSA Jakobie Gant described CSSN Copeland showing him a video of CSSN Copeland penetrating CSSN S.S. with his penis. CSSA Gant stated that he was very uncomfortable after watching the video because CSSN S.S. did not appear conscious or in a comfortable position. He stated that her face was down against the toilet. [PHE 17]

CSSN Jada Knight viewed the video of CSSN Copeland penetrating CSSN S.S.'s vulva with his penis. She recognized that the woman in the video was CSSN S.S. by her buttocks. [PHE 18]

CSSN Kaylee Parks stated that CSSN S.S. appeared very intoxicated at the bar. CSSN Parks observed CSSN S.S.'s slurred speech and noted that CSSN S.S. had trouble keeping her balance at the bar. While CSSN Parks did describe kissing and hand holding between CSSN S.S. – she also described CSSN S.S. as very intoxicated and 20 to 30 minutes later and she witnessed CSSN S.S. leaning her head against CSSN Copeland who was trying to keep CSSN S.S. head in an upright position. CSSN Parks stated that she heard CSSN S.S. ask CSSN Copeland for help using the bathroom. CSSN Parks indicated that when it was time to leave the bar, CSSN S.S. required two sailors to help get her back to the ship. [PHE 19]

Specification 4 (Sexual Assault – Without Consent): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did at or near Norfolk, Virginia, on or about 25 May 2025, commit a sexual act upon Ms. Y.J., by penetrating Ms. Y.J.'s vulva with his penis without the consent of Ms. Y.J.

Elements:

(1) That the accused committed a sexual act upon Ms. Y.J. by penetrating her vulva with his penis; and

(2) That the accused did so without the consent of Ms. YJ.

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, 30 years, E-1. A dishonorable discharge or a dismissal is a mandatory minimum sentence for this offense. (Category 3)

Evidence:

Ms. Y.J described an incident in CSSN Copeland's barracks room in which he grabbed her by the arm and pulled her into his room. Ms. Y.J. stated that CSSN Copeland wanted her to perform oral sex, but she told him no and that she was tired. CSSN Copeland penetrated her vulva and she told him to stop. Her pleas for him to stop were heard by another sailors in the common area of CSSN Copeland's barracks room who entered the bedroom and was able to free her from the situation. While the summary of interview submitted does not explicitly state what Ms. Y.J. was penetrated with – circumstantial evidence exists that it was with CSSN Copeland's penis – given that he was already attempting to use his penis for oral sex. [PHE 23]

Prior to the altercation with CSSN Copeland, Ms. Y.J. was in the CSSN Copeland's barracks room with two other sailors. When CSSN Copeland arrived and pulled Ms. Y.J. into his bedroom, AN Bradford was in the common area. He describes hearing Ms. Y.J. through CSSN Copeland's door. She was telling CSSN Copeland that she was tired. He describes hearing Ms. Y.J. tell CSSN Copeland multiple times that she was tired and hears her say "no, no, no." Her pleas concerned AN Bradford and the other sailor present in the common room to go to CSSN Copeland's door to help. When the door was opened, Ms. Y.J. was on the floor without her shirt. AN Bradford was so disturbed by the incident that he insisted on taking Ms. Y.J. home and that he was not going to leave her with someone that just sexually assaulted her. [PHE 24b]

CHARGE II, VIOLATION OF UCMJ, ART 128

Sole Specification (Aggravated Assault – Strangulation): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did on board USS HARRY S. TRUMAN (CVN 75), on or about 24 July 2024, commit an assault upon ABHAN C.R., U.S. Navy, by unlawfully strangling her with his hand.

Elements:

(1) That he accused assaulted ABHAN C.R.

(2) That the accused did so by strangulation and

(3) That the strangulation was done with unlawful force or violence.

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, 5 years, E-1. (Category 2)

Evidence:

This specification is charged as a contingency of proof for Charge I, Specification 1.

ABHAN C.R. described CSSN Copeland placing his hand around her neck and squeezing. ABHAN C.R. described the pressure used as sufficient to obstruct her breathing during this period. While he was squeezing her neck, CSSN Copeland started touching her "areas" which ABHAN Rogers described as her buttocks, breasts, and vulva. [PHE 05a & 05b]

CSSN Cuestabravo stated that he received text messages on the morning of 24 Jul 24 from ABHAN C.R. indicated something bad had happened to her. Late that morning, ABHAN C.R. disclosed to him that CSSN Copeland strangled her and "touched her everywhere." CSSN Cuestabravo he observed bruises on one side of ABHAN C.R.'s neck related to her assault. [PHE 07]

CHARGE III: VIOLATION Of UCMJ, ARTICLE 117a

Sole Specification (Wrongful Broadcast): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did, at or near Oslo, Norway, on or about 4 November 2024, knowingly and wrongfully broadcast an intimate visual image of the buttocks of CSSN S.S., U.S. Navy, a person who was at least 18 years of age when the image was created, is identifiable from the image itself, and did not explicitly consent to the broadcast of the image, when the accused reasonably should have known the image was made under circumstances in which CSSN S.S. retained a reasonable expectation of privacy regarding nay broadcast of the image, and where the accused reasonably should have known that the broadcast of the image was likely to cause emotional distress, to wit: embarrassment and that, under the circumstances, such conduct had a reasonably direct and palpable connection to the military environment.

Elements:

(1) That the accused knowingly and wrongfully broadcasted a visual image;

(2) That the visual image is an intimate visual image of another person to wit: CSSN S.S.

(3) That the person depicted in the intimate visual image

(a) was at least 18 years of age at the time the intimate visual image was created, and

(b) is identifiable from the intimate visual image itself or from information displayed in connection with the intimate visual image, and

(c) did not explicitly consent to the broadcast of the intimate visual image;

(4) That the accused knew or reasonably should have known that the intimate visual image was made under circumstances in which CSSN S.S. retained a reasonable expectation of privacy regarding any broadcast of the intimate visual image;

(5) That the accused knew or reasonably should have known that the broadcast of the intimate visual image was likely to cause emotional distress for CSSN S.S., and

(6) That the conduct of the accused, under the circumstances, had a reasonably direct and palpable connection to a military mission or military environment.

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, 2 years, E-1. (Category 2)

Relevant Definitions:

The term "visual image" means the following:

(A) Any developed or undeveloped photograph, picture, film, or video;

(B) Any digital or computer image, picture, film, or video made by any means, including those transmitted by any means, including streaming media, even if not stored in a permanent format;

(C) Any digital or electronic data capable of conversion into a visual image.

The term "private area" means the naked or underwear-clad genitalia, anus, buttocks, or female areola or nipple.

The term "reasonable expectation of privacy" means circumstances in which a reasonable person would believe that a private area of the person, or sexually explicit conduct involving the person, would not be visible to the public. Whether a reasonable expectation of privacy exists is determined based on the totality of the circumstances.

The term "broadcast" means to electronically transmit a visual image with the intent that it be viewed by a person or persons. See also, United States v. Lajoie, 79 M.J. 723, 727 (N.M.C.C.A 2019). (... Article 120c's prohibition on the broadcast of an indecent visual recording is violated when an individual uses an electronic device to display the recording for another to view, even if the electronic device is the same one that was used to record the image.

Transmission of the visual recording from one electronic device to another electronic device with the intent that the image be viewed by another person could also constitute a broadcast, but we do not find that the involvement of more than one electronic device is necessary for a broadcast to occur.")

Evidence:

CSSN Copeland admitted to law enforcement that he recorded himself penetrating CSSN S.S. while in the bathroom stall at a bar in Oslo, Norway. [PHE 20]

Several witnesses viewed the video and described seeing the bare buttocks of CSSN S.S. in the video.

> CSSA Bita identified CSSN Simpson not by her face, but by her hair and gray sweatshirt. She could see CSSN Simpson's bare buttocks, but could not clearly tell if CSSN S.S. was conscious. [PHE 13]
>
> CSSN Jada Knight viewed the video of CSSN Copeland penetrating CSSN S.S.'s vulva with his penis. She recognized that the woman in the video was CSSN S.S. by her buttocks. [PHE 18]
>
> CSSN Copeland showed CSSA Jackobie Gant a video of himself penetrating CSSN S.S. after he told CSSA Gant that he had sexual intercourse with V/Simpson. CSSA Gant stated that CSSN S.S.'s buttocks were visible in the video. [PHE 17]

CSSN Copeland acknowledged that he did not receive explicit consent to broadcast the image because he stated that he did not know if CSSN S.S. was even aware that he was filming her. [PHE 20]

CSSN Copeland knew or reasonably should have known that the intimate visual image was made under circumstances that CSSN S.S. retained a reasonable expectation of privacy and one that would cause CSSN S.S. emotional distress if broadcast to others. The video depicted graphic sexual activity and was filmed in a bathroom stall.

CSSN Copeland showed an image depicting nude portions of her body engaged in a sex act to multiple members of USS HARRY S. TRUMAN (CVN 75) - and more specifically other CSs - that she worked with.

CHARGE IV: VIOLATION Of UCMJ, ARTICLE 120c

Specification 1 (Indecent Recording): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. Elements:

(1) That the accused, without legal justification or lawful authorization, knowingly broadcast a recording of the private area of CSSN S.S.

(2) That the recording was made without the consent of CSSN S.S.;

(3) That the accused knew or reasonably should have known that the recording was made without the consent of CSSN S.S.;

(4) That the recording was made under circumstances in which CSSN S.S. had a reasonable expectation of privacy; and

(5) That the accused knew or reasonably should have known that the recording was made under circumstances in which CSSN S.S. had a reasonable expectation of privacy.

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, 7 years, E-1. (Category 2)

Evidence:

This is charged as a contingency of proof for Charge III, Sole Specification.

CHARGE V: VIOLATION OF UCMJ, ARTICLE 131b

Specification 1 (Obstruction of Justice): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did at or near Oslo, Norway, on or about 5 November 2024, wrongfully do a certain act, to wit: hide his cellular phone, with intent to impede the due administration of justice in the case of United States v. CSSN Jermiah T. Copeland, USN, against whom the accused had reason to believe that there were or would be criminal proceedings pending.

Elements:

(1) That the accused wrongfully did a certain act, that is, hide his cellular phone;

(2) That the accused did so in the case of himself against whom the accused had reason to believe there were or would be criminal or disciplinary proceedings pending;

(3) That the act was done with the intent to influence, impede or otherwise obstruct the due administration of justice.

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, 5 years, E-1. (Category 2)

Evidence:

CSSN Copeland admitted to law enforcement that he recorded himself with his cellular phone penetrating CSSN S.S. while in the bathroom stall at a bar in Oslo, Norway. [PHE 20]

CSSN Copeland stated that he gave his cellular telephone to CSSN Cousins and did not know what CSSN Cousins did with it [PHE 20]

CSSN Kaulise Cousins stated that while on liberty in Oslo with CSSN Copeland the day after CSSN S.S.'s assault, CSSN Copeland received a call while the two of them were at a bar. After CSSN Copeland took the call, he appeared very upset and told CSSN Cousins that CSSN S.S. "put a charge on" him and that his life was ruined. CSSN Copeland told CSSN Cousins that he was going to kill himself and made several attempts to run in front of trains. Furthermore, he refused to return to the ship. Shore patrol intervened and returned CSSN Copeland to the ship. [PHE 14]

CSSN Cousins stated that he never took possession of CSSN Copeland's cellular phone. [PHE 14]

Specification 2 (Obstruction of Justice): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did at or near Norfolk, Virginia, on or about 2 June 2025, wrongfully do a certain act, to wit: concealed the dead body of CS3 A.R., U.S. Navy, with intent to impede the due administration of justice in the case of United States v. CSSN Jermiah T. Copeland, USN, against whom the accused had reason to believe that there was or would be criminal proceedings pending.

Elements:

(1) That the accused wrongfully did a certain act, that is, conceal the dead body of CS3 A.R.;

(2) That the accused did so in the case of himself against whom the accused had reason to believe there were or would be criminal or disciplinary proceedings pending;

(3) That the act was done with the intent to influence, impede or otherwise obstruct the due administration of justice.

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, 5 years, E-1. (Category 2)

Evidence:

On the evening of 1 June 2025, CSSN Copeland was interviewed by NCIS regarding his knowledge of the whereabouts of CS3 Resendiz. [PHE 38]

Health Data from CSSN Copeland's cellular phone shows CSSN Copeland's device traversing stairs at 0355 on 2 June 2025. [PHE 44b, pg 1]

CSSN Copeland's barracks room is on the third floor of X-2. Multiple areas of reddish brown staining were observed in the stairwell adjacent to CSSN Copeland's barracks room between levels 1 and 3. [PHE 48b]

Forensic analysis confirmed the presence of blood in the stairwell. The DNA profile of the confirmed blood sample matched the DNA profile of CS3 Resendiz. [PHE 48c]

After travelling several stairs, cell phone data collected from CSSN Copeland's cellular phone shows CSSN Copeland leaving Naval Station Norfolk on 2 June 2025 around 0400. His cell phone is tracked travelling down Hampton Blvd, into downtown Norfolk before reaching a residential area near the Broad Creek Apartments at 0456. [PHE 44a, pgs 1 – 5, 6]

Along the route, a white Jeep with License Plate G21274 is captured on camera using the Vigilant data Vase System. [PHE 44a, pg. 6]

AR Calisse stated to law enforcement that CSSN Copeland asked to borrow his white Jeep Compass on the evening of 1 June 2025, but did not return it to AR Calisse until around 0630 on 2 June 2025. AR Calisse observed CSSN Copeland drive the Jeep back into the parking lot of X-2 at 0630 on 2 June 2025 . [PHE 36, pg. 2]

At approximately 0447, CSSN Copeland's cellular device is unlocked using either facial biometrics or the pin. The user opens Apple Maps and begins browsing map locations. At 0447, the user marks a location on Apple Maps. [PHE 44e, pg. 4 &7]

At approximately 0500 on 2 June 2025, CSSN Copeland's device stops behind 2852 Cary Avenue, Norfolk, Virginia. The heath data from this device records steps and distance at approximately 0502. The route taken on foot appears to leave the paved area and travel into a wooded area behind the residential homes. [PHE 44a pgs. 8-16]

Around 0516, the device returns to the vehicle and travels first to McDonalds and then back to Naval Station Norfolk arriving around 0558. [PHE 44a pgs. 17- 19]

Analysis of CSSN Copeland's cellular phone revealed a screenshot on the device of a saved location near Cary Avenue in Norfolk, VA. NCIS conducted a foot search of the area near the marked location and discovered a black duffel bag containing human remains, later identified through DNA as CS3 Resendiz. [PHE 47a]

Four photos were discovered (3 on the cellular phone of CSSN Copeland) and one on social media of a black duffel bag matching the description of the black duffel bag found in the wooded area near Cary Ave containing CS3 Resendiz's remains. [PHE 47g]

During a search of CSSN Copeland's barracks room, blood was identified in his closet. Forensic testing confirmed the presence of blood. The DNA profile of the confirmed blood sample matched the DNA profile of CS3 Resendiz. [PHE 48a pg. 12, and 48c]

Bluestar, a chemiluminescent reagent, was used to detect the presence of blood. The reagent reacted both in CSSN Copeland's closet and on the carpet leading out of his closet into the common area. The reagent illuminated a trail that looks similar to wheel tracks from a large, wheeled duffel bag. [PHE 48a, pg 13].

Specification 3 (Obstruction of Justice): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did at or near Norfolk, Virginia, on or about 4 June 2025, wrongfully do a certain act, to wit: hide his cellular phone, with intent to impede the due administration of justice in the case of United States v. CSSN Jermiah T. Copeland, USN against whom the accused had reason to believe that there were or would be criminal proceedings pending.

Elements:

(1) That the accused wrongfully did a certain act, that is hide his cellular phone;

(2) That the accused did so in the case of himself against whom the accused had reason to believe there were or would be criminal or disciplinary proceedings pending;

(3) That the act was done with the intent to influence, impede or otherwise obstruct the due administration of justice.

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, 5 years, E-1. (Category 2)

It is not an element of the offense that the Government describe the contents of the missing phone. Requiring the government to do so and penalizing the government for a failure to articulate the contents of the phone, rewards the Accused for his successful obstruction of justice. All that is required, is that the accused took a certain act, while he knew he was under investigation and did so to influence, impede or otherwise obstruct the due administration of justice. Here the accused lied about the functionality of his cell phone, was aware that the law enforcement was conducting multiple searches of his barracks room and barge space looking for items of evidentiary value. He successful kept this phone hidden but within his control, as evidenced the 8 June 2025 photo he took of himself while on the barge.

Evidence:

CSSN Copeland was interviewed by law enforcement again on 3 June regarding this knowledge of the whereabouts of CS3 Resendiz. [PHE 51]

During an interview on June 3, 2025, COPELAND advised that an Apple Watch and iPhone that were located during a search of his barracks room at the X-2 barracks onboard Naval Station Norfolk were his. CSSN Copeland explained neither device worked. NCIS did not seize either device and left them in his custody. On June 6, 2025, COPELAND was placed in a restricted status aboard the barge for DDG-95. COPELAND was advised to bring his toiletries and belongings to the ship. COPELAND remained on restriction until a later arrest and pre-trial confinement beginning on June 9, 2025. On June 10, 2025, NCIS executed a command authorized search and seizure for CSSN Copeland' berthing onboard the barge associated with DDG-95 that he lived in while on restriction. NCIS was able to locate and seize the Apple Watch. However, the second iPhone found on the June 3, 2025 search of CSSN Copeland's barracks was not present. This second iPhone was not located after additional searches of CSSN Copeland's barracks room. It remains missing. [PHE 54]

A photo of the missing iPhone is contained in PHE 55, pg 1.

A search warrant was obtained and executed on CSSN Copeland's Apple iCloud account. The search discovered a photo taken on 8 June 2025. The photo is a selfie of CSSN Copeland in his uniform with a white iPhone. CSSN Copeland appears to be on the barge when the photo was taken. [PHE 55]

CHARGE VI: VIOLATION OF UCMJ, ARTICLE 128b

Specification 1 (Domestic Violence – Strangulation): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did at or near Norfolk, Virginia, on or about 11 April 2025, commit an assault upon CSSN S.R., U.S. Navy, the intimate partner of the accused, by unlawfully strangling her with his hands.

Elements:

(1) That, the accused assaulted CSSN S.R. the intimate partner of the accused;

(2) That the accused did so by strangling CSSN S.R.; and

(3) That the strangulation was done with unlawful force or violence.

Maximum Punishment: E-1, TF, 8 years, DD

Relevant Definitions:

The term "intimate partner" means either (a) one's former spouse, a person with whom one shares a child in common, or a person with whom one cohabits or with whom one has cohabited as a spouse; or (b) a person with whom one has been in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature, as determined by the length of the relationship, the type of relationship, and the frequency of interaction between the persons involved in the relationship.

The term "dating partner," in the case of a specific person, means a person who is or has been in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature with such specific person based on a consideration of- (A) the length of the relationship; (B) the type of the relationship; (C) the frequency of interaction between the persons involved in the relationship; and (D) the extent of physical intimacy or sexual contact between the persons involved in the relationship.") The relative weight given to each of the named criteria in making the "dating partner" determination may vary depending on the facts and circumstances presented.

Elements:

(1) That the accused committed a violent offense, to wit: unlawfully pushing her with his hands; and

(2) That the violent offense was committed against CSSN S.R., who was an intimate partner of the accused

Elements:

(1) That the accused made to Special Agent Jessica Gokey, NCIS. a certain official statement, that is: that he had returned CS3 A.R., U.S. Navy, back to her barracks room on the morning of 29 May 2025 or words to that effect

(2) That such statement was totally false;

(3) That the accused knew it to be false at the time he made it; and

Evidence:

CSSN Copeland told Special Agent Jessica Gokey on 3 June 2025 that he did not know where CS3 A.R. went after she left his barracks room on the morning of 29 May 2025. [PHE 38]

[See exhibits for Specification 2 of Charge V]

CHARGE VIII: VIOLATION OF UCMJ, Article 118

Specification (Premeditated Murder): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did at or near Norfolk, Virginia, on or about 29 May 2025, with premeditation, murder CS3 A.R., U.S. Navy, by means of an act of the Accused.

Elements:

(1) That CS3 A.R. is dead;

(2) That her death resulted from the act of the accused

(3) That the killing of CS3 A.R. by the accused was unlawful; and

(4) That, at the time of the killing, the accused had a premeditated design to kill.

Maximum Punishment: DD, TF, Life without the possibility of parole (mandatory minimum of confinement for life with eligibility for parole), E-1 (Category 6)

"A murder is not "premeditated" unless the thought of taking life was consciously conceived and the act or omission by which it was taken was intended. Premeditated murder is murder committed after the formation of a specific intent to kill someone and consideration of the act intended. It is not necessary that the intention to kill have been entertained for any particular or considerable length of time. When a fixed purpose to kill has been deliberately formed, it is immaterial how soon afterwards it is put into execution. The existence of premeditation may be inferred from the circumstances." Dep't of Army, Pam. 27-9, Legal Services: Military Judges' Benchbook, para 3a-56-1 (10 Sep 2025)

Premeditation may be proven by a variety of factors to include precautions to avoid detection. United States v. Glover, 2002 CCA LEXIS 365 at *5 (factors to consider include, (1) vulnerability of the victim at the time of the attack, number and location of the wounds on the victim, confrontation between suspect and victim, threats made before the attack and precautions made to avoid detection). United States v. Matthews, 13 M.J. 501, 517 (A.C.M.R. 1982), rev'd as to sentence, 16 M.J. 354 (C.M.A. 1983)(hiding items containing fingerprints, concealed a blood-stained sweater, disposed the victim's watch, keys and shoes); .

Evidence:

PHE 47d – CS3 Angelina Resendiz is dead.

Her death was the result of CSSN Copeland's actions. He was the person with her when she was last verified to be alive (when she called ET3 Rich, not when seen by FCC Parker as his visual and audio report of her being alive is simply not consistent with the other evidence). Her body was in a duffel bag in his closet. He concealed her body as explained in Specification 2 of Charge V, and her body was found in his duffel bag.

The question to examine is whether this killing was premeditated or instead, an unpremeditated murder under Article 118(1) or (2), respectively of the UCMJ.

The circumstantial evidence demonstrates CSSN Copeland's motive and thus the fact that his actions were premeditated: to prevent CS3 Resendiz from making an accusation of sexual assault against him when he already had two sexual assault investigations pending (and thereby to obstruct justice). The evidence shows that his intent after that call was to kill CS3 Resendiz.

> In Oslo, Norway – CSSN Copeland reaction to a women accusing him of sexual misconduct resulted in proclaiming his life was over, attempts to kill himself, and refusal to return to the ship. [PHE 14] That was his reaction to what he knew was a second sexual assault allegation.
> Moving to what would have been his third sexual assault allegation in the early morning hours of 29 May, CS3 Resendiz made a panicked phone call to ET3 Rich pleading with him to pick her up. [PHE 30] CSSN Copeland's heartrate was elevated starting at 0152 and remained elevated until 0230. That data, the state of undress CS3 Resendiz was later seen in on the floor, the panicked phone call she made, and the admission by CS3 Copeland in PHE 53 that he had engaged in some sexual activity with CS Resendiz (albeit couched in an otherwise false statement about him rejecting further sexual activity) all demonstrate that CS3 Resendiz rejected CSSN Copeland's sexual advances and called a friend in a state of panic [PHE 53]
> From that call, CSSN Copeland learned that he had 10 minutes to stop CS3 Resendiz from making what would be a third report of sexual assault against him. The heart rate data from the period immediately after the call demonstrates his actions to carry out the plan he formed during that phone call. He had an elevated heart rate in the 15 minutes that immediately followed, which demonstrates a prolonged period of intentional, violent actions to murder CS3 Resendiz.
>
> Furthermore, CSSN Copeland lied to investigators when they asked if CS3 Resendiz called anyone to come pick her up.
>
> > 02:14:20: CSSN Copeland: I don't think so. I mean like I said I was on the couch. I know she did call Rich and she was on the phone with her ex, but from what I recall I don't think so.
> >
> > 02:14:39: Special Agent: Okay. So you don't recall hearing her tell somebody like yo, come get me, come pick me up, I want to leave, or anything like that?
> >
> > 02:14:46: CSSN Copeland: No, ma'am. [PHE 52b]
> CS3 Resendiz was never heard from again after that phone call despite repeated attempts from others to contact her.

CS3 Resendiz's phone died around 0456 and was never turned back on. [PHE 33]. If she was in fact alive when FCC Parker came at 0852, she would have plugged her phone in at that time after FCC Parker's check woke her up. It is simply not plausible that he woke her up then and that she did not immediately check her phone, see that it was dead and had been for hours, and then plug it in.

For the time period of 0755 until 1131, CSSN Copeland was viewing adult pornography on is his iPhone 15 Pro Max. [PHE 39b, pg. 15] This evidence makes it unlikely that he killed her after FCC Parker came the next morning.

CSSN Copeland replied to Snapchat user name "luv.layna22" at 7:53:55 AM. This reply was the last communication sent by the iPhone 15 Pro Max belonging to CSSN Copeland until 12:44:35 PM when the user called the phone number (360) 521-1599. CSSN Copeland received several incoming calls and texts that he did not respond to. [PHE 39b 6, 15, 18 -19]

CSSN Copeland did not go into work when scheduled to do so on the morning of 29 May. [PHE 37, pg. 6]. That fact shows a consciousness of guilt and a desire on his part to avoid answering questions from fellow crewmembers about where she was.

CS3 Resendiz's bank account shows no activity after 28 May 2025. [PHE 40]

FCC Parker arrives at CSSN Copeland's barracks room around 0852 and tells LSC Rob Janson – "I'm about to go into his room now." [PHE 37, pg 6].

At 0854, he says CS3 Resendiz is with CSSN Copeland. [PHE 37, pg 6].

CSSN Copeland lies to FCC Parker between 0854 and 0900 and tells him that CS3 Resendiz left her phone in her room. [PHE 37, pg 6].

CSSN Copeland further lies to FCC Parker and tells him CS3 Resendiz was "going through some shit and needed someone to talk to." He told FCC Parker that she called several people and he was the first to get her. She came over to his place, but forgot her phone. He also lied and said his phone died overnight and that is why his alarm did not go off. [PHE 37, pg 8]

CSSN Copeland lied to FCC Parker and told him that he had dropped CS3 Resendiz back at her barracks room at 1247. [PHE 37, pg 2]

CSSN Copeland did not go into work when ordered to do so by FCC Brad Parker. [PHE 37, pg. 9]

CSSN Copeland's roommate arrived back to his barracks room around 1300 on 29 May – neither CSSN Copeland nor CS3 Resendiz was there. [PHE 35]

Geolocation data places CSSN Copeland in the vicinity of X-2 for the entire period of 29 May through the evening of 1 June. [PHE 41]

Circumstantial evidence exists that CSSN Copeland went to great lengths to conceal his crime.

In an attempt to avoid detection and knowing that CSSN Resendiz's dead body was in his closet, CSSN Copeland sent her phone a text message on the evening 1 June 2025, asking her if she was ok and informing her that she had marked UA. [PHE 25d, pg. 6]

CSSN Copeland hid CS3 Resendiz's body in his barracks room's closet inside a large black duffel bag for 4 days. [PHE 48a pg. 12 & 13, and 48c].

CSSN Copeland hid CS3 Resendiz's body - still inside his black duffle bag - in a wooded area near Broad Creek. [PHE 44a pgs. 8-16], [PHE 47a], [PHE 47g]

When questioned by investigators about her whereabouts, CSSN Copeland lied multiple times. [PHE 36, 38]

Additionally, all of the evidence listed above for Specification 2 of Charge V demonstrates the extensive efforts he invested in attempting to conceal the body of CS3 Resendiz. They are all consistent with a consciousness of guilt that would accompany a premeditated, intentional murder.

4. For these reasons, the Government asks that you recommend all charges and specifications be referred to General Court-Martial and welcomes any additional recommendations as to form of the charges.

From: LCDR Amanda Serfess, JAGC, USN, Defense Counsel To: CDR John Butler, JAGC, USN Preliminary Hearing Officer

Subj: DEFENSE RESPONSE TO THE GOVERNMENT'S ARTICLE 32 COMMENTS ICO CSSN JERMIAH T. COPELAND, USN

1. The defense provides these comments to address the elements of a violation of Article 118 as charged in this case. A probable cause determination can only be made by evaluating the totality of the circumstances. It is a fact-based determination. Here, the government charged CSSN Copeland with premeditated murder. For there to be premeditated murder, CS3 A.R.'s death must have resulted from an act of the accused and, at the time of the killing, the accused must have had a premeditated design to kill. The principal difference between premeditated murder and unpremeditated murder is that for premeditated murder the accused must have had the premeditated design to kill, that is, the accused must have considered the act prior to the application of force and must have had the specific intent to kill, whereas unpremeditated murder requires the specific intent to kill or inflict great bodily harm without premeditation. United States v. Gray, 51 M.J. 1 (C.A.A.F. 1999) (citing United States v. Loving, 41 MJ 213, 279-280 (1994), aff'd on other grounds, 517 U.S. 748 (1996))) (emphasis added).

2. Here, there is no probable cause of premeditated murder, as there is no evidence of prior consideration or a specific intent to kill CS3 A.R. To begin, there is no direct evidence that CS3 A.R. was murdered or that she was killed by CSSN Copeland. There are no witnesses, no weapon, no known cause or manner of death. While CS3 A.R. was in CSSN Copeland's barracks room, she was there because the two had plans to hang out and make tacos. She was not there against her will or under duress. ET3 Rich received a phone call from CS3 A.R. in the early morning hours of 29 May 2025. However, there is no evidence to suggest that CSSN Copeland threatened CS3 A.R. or that she was scared for her life. During the phone call, she did not say anything about CSSN Copeland, she did not say anything about a sexual assault or an attempted sexual assault, she did not say anything about being frightened or threatened. According to two witnesses, ET3 Rich and HT3 Gillespie, it was normal for CS3 A.R. to have "an episode" where she would cry and panic.[1] It is also clear from the evidence that at some point, CS3 A.R. calmed down and went back to CSSN Copeland's room. This is clear because CSSN Copeland's suitemates saw CS3 A.R. alive and breathing in his room sometime during the morning of 29 May 2025 (between 0530 and 0645).[2] Additionally, at around 0852, FCC Parker observed CS3 A.R. alive, CS3 A.R. looked up, dismissively waved, rolled over and went back to sleep.[3] She was alive.

3. Evidence of CSSN Copeland's alleged reaction to a possible allegation of sexual assault in November 2024 is not evidence of premeditation in May 2025. Without considering the passage of time, the stated intent is not the same. It is one thing to say "I am going to kill myself" because you are upset about the possible implication of being accused of a crime. However, it is an entirely different state of mind to have the premeditated intent to kill another human. That is a speculative jump that does not and cannot establish probable cause. Additionally, and more importantly, there is absolutely no evidence that CS3 A.R. was going to make an allegation of sexual assault. She was alive at 0852 on 29 May 2025. She saw a chief petty officer, she waved and went back to sleep. There is simply no reason to believe that she was about to make an allegation of any sort.

[1] PHE 27 and PHE 31.
[2] PHE 34 and PHE 36.
[3] PHE 37.

4. For these reasons, the defense requests that you find that there is no probable cause to establish premeditated murder.

5. The defense further requests that you make a determination as to the reasonable likelihood of success at trial if the offenses related to CS3 A.R.'s death were severed from the others and tried separately.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

Arrange and bind the record of trial with allied papers in the sequence indicated below. The court reporter is responsible for certifying the record of trial prior to transmittal for appellate review, in accordance with R.C.M. 1112 and JAG/CNLSCINST 5813.1G.

1. Pages 1 (Cover page) and 2 (Chronology Sheet) of DD Form 490 (enclosure 7).

2. Court reporter certification of Record of Trial (enclosure 8).

3. Military Judge verification of Record of Trial (enclosure 8).

4. DD Form 490 (pages 3-6 and any continuation pages if needed) (enclosure 7).

5. Completed Post-Trial Checklist from JAG/CNLSCINST 5814.1G (enclosure 2).

6. Completed Convening Authority's Action Checklist (enclosure 4).

7. Post-Trial Documents.

a. Certificates/Proof of Service of the Certified Record of Trial to the accused and victim, if applicable (enclosure 7).

b. Convening Authority's Action and Entry of Judgment (enclosure 6).

c. Any requests for copies of the court-martial record pursuant to R.C.M. 1106 or 1106A (attach written requests, and any certificates/proof of service, but do not attach the victim's post-trial rights advisement or DD Form 2704).

d. Matters submitted by the accused and/or victim under R.C.M. 1106 or 1106A, or any written waiver of the right to submit such matters. Include all responses to requests here as well.

e. Any deferment request and the action on it (including any request to waive automatic forfeitures under Article 58b).

f. Conditions of suspension and proof of service on probationer under R.C.M. 1107, if any.

g. All clemency recommendations by members or military judge, if any.

h. Statement of Trial Results (enclosure 1).

i. Crime Reporting Information.

j. Accused's request for appellate defense counsel, or waiver/withdrawal of appellate review under R.C.M. 1115, if applicable.

k. All transfer orders, confinement orders, and excess leave orders.

l. Briefs of counsel submitted after trial, if any.

8. Preliminary Hearing.

a. DD Form 457, Preliminary Hearing Officer's Report, pursuant to Article 32, if such hearing was conducted, followed by any other allied papers that accompanied the charges when referred for trial (including any matters submitted under R.C.M. 405(l), unless included elsewhere in the record of trial).*

b. Waiver of Article 32 Hearing (if applicable).

9. Pre-Trial Allied Papers.

a. Convening Order and all amending convening orders.

b. DD Form 458, Charge Sheet (unless included at the point of arraignment in the transcript).

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

c. Congressional inquiries and replies, if any.

d. Advice of staff judge advocate, when prepared pursuant to Article 34 or otherwise.

10. Record of Proceedings.

a. Substantially verbatim recording of court-martial proceedings. Segregate open and closed sessions of the court-martial in accordance with R.C.M. 1113 and the following guidance:*

b. Ensure that each closed session of the court-martial is recorded on a separate DVD marked CLOSED SESSION, placed in its own envelope marked CLOSED SESSION, and sealed.

c. Label all DVD(s) and envelopes with the information on page 1 of this template.

d. Mark all DVDs and envelopes with "1 of X." as necessary (for example, the second DVD of six DVDs and its envelope should be marked, 2 of 6). All DVDs of open sessions may be in one envelope.

e. Mark all DVDs with their beginning and ending timestamps. The timestamps for closed sessions should match those shown on the Index.

f. Verbatim transcript or summarized report prepared in accordance with JAGINST 5814.1G. Include the following:

I. A certificate of correction, if any (including any supplemental certification for additional proceedings).

II. Court reporter and transcriptionist certification of verbatim transcript.

g. Records of former proceedings (Article 30a) and/or trials, (e.g., electronic/digital record of former proceeding, including audio recording and any scanned documentation/transcripts, CD/DVD format).*

11. Prosecution exhibits admitted in evidence.

12. Defense Exhibits admitted in evidence.

13. Appellate Exhibits including but not limited to, proposed instructions, written offers of proof or preliminary evidence (real or documentary), briefs of counsel submitted at trial, request to be tried by military judge alone (if any), the accused election of members under R.C.M. 903 (if any), any statement by convening authority required under R.C.M. 503(a)(2), and the election for sentencing by members in lieu of sentencing by military judge under R.C.M. 1002(b).*

14. Redaction. The following information shall be redacted in accordance with JAGMAN 1059 from the record of trial prior to releasing it to any accused or victim (including any transcript made pursuant to R.C.M. 1114 and attached to the record of trial) unless the information establishes an element of an offense, or is otherwise required:

a. Any recordings of closed sessions, any transcripts of closed sessions, and any sealed exhibits.

b. Names of minor victims, and names of minor witnesses. If an identifier is used, use only the initials.

c. Social Security Numbers.

d. Financial account information.

e. Home addresses.

f. Telephone numbers.

g. Personal e-mail addresses.

h. Dates of birth.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

i. Any other information that could be used to identify a specific person other than the accused.

*If the report of preliminary hearing or record of trial contains exhibits, proceedings, or other materials ordered sealed by the preliminary hearing officer or military judge, counsel for the Government, the court reporter, or trial counsel shall cause such materials to be sealed to prevent unauthorized examination or disclosure, pursuant to R.C.M. 1113. Sealed material shall be properly marked, individually placed in separate envelopes with a copy of the preliminary hearing officer or military judge sealing order affixed to it, and inserted at the appropriate place in the record of trial. Do not duplicate sealed material to include it in any copy of the record of trial. Instead, insert a copy of the sealing order in lieu of any sealed material, in any copies of the record of trial.

DIVIDERS ARE NOT NECESSARY TO SEPARATE EACH SECTION. IF USED, THEY CAN BE PAPER RATHER THAN CARD STOCK. IF A PARTICULAR COMPONENT IS NOT APPLICABLE IN THE RECORD OF TRIAL, SUCH AS AN ARTICLE 32 HEARING, EXHIBITS NOT ADMITTED, POST-TRIAL PROCEEDINGS AND VACATION HEARINGS, DO NOT INSERT A DIVIDER OR PLACEHOLDER.

FRONT AND BACK COVER MUST BE ON BLUE CARDS STOCK AND LABELED WITH GUM LABELS.

Binding. Each volume of a record of trial should be no more than 1.5 inches thick and bound at the top with metal or plastic fasteners. DO NOT interlace or "piggy-back" prong fasteners to create an oversized volume. DO NOT place hole punches where it covers up the evidence or language in the transcript. When it becomes necessary to assemble the record of trial in more than one volume, the volumes will be numbered consecutively, on the front cover, as illustrated below:

Volume 1 of 4 (Pages 1-250)
Volume 2 of 4 (Pages 251-400)
Volume 3 of 4 (Pages 401-652)
Volume 4 of 4 (Pages 653-901 and Exhibits)

Make the first volume of a multi-volume record an inch thick or smaller to allow for inclusion of post-trial documents. Limit subsequent volumes to 1.5 inches, unless dividing them requires assembling an additional volume smaller than a half inch.

Label the upper right-hand corner or the Preparation and Certification of Record of Trial Form (enclosure (8)) to reflect which copy it is, i.e., "ORIGINAL," "ACCUSED," "REVIEW" etc.

RECORD OF PROCEEDINGS

PROCEEDINGS OF A GENERAL COURT-MARTIAL

The military judge called the Article 39(a) session to order at Region Legal Service Office Mid-Atlantic, Norfolk, Virginia, at 1305, 9 October 2025, pursuant to the following order:

[General Court-Martial Convening Order No. 1-25, Commander, Navy Region Mid-Atlantic, dated 8 January 2025]

[END OF PAGE]

MJ: This court-martial's called to order in the case of United States v. Copeland.

Trial counsel, you may proceed.

ATC: Thank you, Your Honor.

This court-martial's convened by Court-Martial Convening Order No. 1-25, Commander, Navy Region Mid-Atlantic, dated 8 January 2025; copies of which have been furnished to the military judge, counsel, and the accused and which will be inserted at this point into the record.

There were 62 Article 30a, UCMJ, proceedings related to this matter. The summary of these proceedings have been provided to the court and marked as Appellate Exhibit III.

The charges have been properly referred to this court for trial and were served on the accused on 3 October 2025. The five-day statutory waiting period has expired.

The prosecution is ready to proceed with the arraignment in the case of United States versus Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, United States Navy.

The accused and the following persons detailed to this court are present:

CAPTAIN FRANK HUTCHISON, JAG CORPS, UNITED STATES NAVY, MILITARY JUDGE;

COMMANDER LAUREN MAYO, JAG CORPS, UNITED STATES NAVY, TRIAL COUNSEL;

LIEUTENANT CHRISTOPHER DEMPSEY, JAG CORPS, UNITED STATES NAVY, ASSISTANT TRIAL COUNSEL;

LIEUTENANT COMMANDER AMANDA SERFESS, JAG CORPS, UNITED STATES NAVY, DETAILED DEFENSE COUNSEL;

LIEUTENANT COMMANDER CLIFTON MORGAN, JAG CORPS, UNITED STATES NAVY, ASSITANT DEFENSE COUNSEL;

LIEUTENANT COMMANDER JASON KIM, JAG CORPS, UNITED STATES NAVY, VICTIM'S LEGAL COUNSEL.

Ms. Jacqueline Cheek has been detailed as the court reporter and has been previously sworn.

Both Commander Mayo and I have been detailed to this court-martial by Commander Lauren Mayo, Chief Special Trial Counsel, Office of Special Trial Counsel, Detachment Norfolk, under a grant of authority from the Lead Special Trial Counsel, Office of Special Trial Counsel.

We are qualified and certified under Article 27(b) and sworn under Article 42(a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Commander Mayo is also qualified and certified under Article 24a.

We have not acted in any disqualifying manner.

MJ: Thank you.

And the court has received Appellate Exhibit III and that is appended to the record.

ATC: Thank you, Your Honor.

MJ: Good afternoon, Seaman Copeland.

And I do appreciate the military courtesy, but you can remain seated unless I tell you to stand otherwise.

ACC: Yes, sir. Thank you.

MJ: Seaman Copeland, I'm gonna discuss with you your rights to counsel.

You have the right to be represented by your detailed defense counsel, Lieutenant Commander Morgan and Lieutenant Commander Serfess. Your detailed military counsel are lawyers certified by the Judge Advocate General as qualified to act as your defense counsel and are members of the Navy's Defense Service Office. Your detailed military counsel's services are provided at no cost to you.

You also have the right to be represented by a military counsel of your own selection, provided that the counsel you request is reasonably available. If you are represented by military counsel of your own selection, then your detailed defense counsel would normally be excused; however, you could also request that your detailed counsel continue to represent you, but your request would not have to be granted--your request would not have to be granted.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: In addition to your military defense counsel, you have the right to be represented by a civilian counsel at no expense to the government. Civilian counsel may represent you along with your military counsel, or you could excuse your military counsel and be represented by your civilian counsel.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any questions about your rights to counsel?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: By whom do you wish to be represented?

ACC: Lieutenant Commander Morgan and Lieutenant Commander Serfess.

MJ: And by those counsel alone?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Defense counsel, please announce your detailing and qualifications.

DC: Yes, sir.

All detailed members of the defense have been detailed to this court-martial by Commander Bryan Barletto, Executive Officer, Defense Service Office Southeast, with the authority delegated to him by the Commanding Officer of the same command.

All detailed members of the defense are qualified and certified under Article 27(b) and sworn under Article 42(a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, and no member of the defense has acted in any manner that might tend to disqualify us in this court-martial.

MJ: Very well. Thank you, Commander Serfess.

I have been properly certified and sworn, and I detailed myself to this court-martial. I'm not aware of any matter that might be ground for challenge against me.

Does either side wish to question or challenge the military judge?

ATC: No, Your Honor.

DC: The defense does not, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well. Thank you.

Counsel for both sides appear to have been--counsel for both sides appear to have the required qualifications, and all personnel required to have been sworn have been sworn.

Trial counsel will now announce the general nature of the charges.

ATC: The general nature of the charges in this case are:

One specification of aggravated sexual contact, one specification of abusive sexual contact, and two specifications of sexual assault in violation of Article 120 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

One specification of aggravated assault, strangulation, in violation of Article 128 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

One specification of indecent recording, and one specification of indecent broadcasting; both in violation of Article 120c of Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Three specifications of obstruction of justice in violation of Article 131b of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Two specifications of domestic violence in violation of Article 128b of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Two specifications of false official statement in violation of Article 107 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

One specification of premeditated murder in violation of Article 118 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

And the charges were preferred by Lieutenant Patricia Cannaday, JAG Corps, United States Navy.

An Article 32 preliminary hearing was conducted by Commander John Butler, JAG Corps, United States Reserves, on 18 September 2025.

MJ: Thank you.

Seaman Copeland, I'm now gonna explain to you your forum options; in other words, what type of court-martial you may be tried by.

You--you have the right to be tried by a court consisting of eight members. After empanelment of those members, as a result of excusals, the court could be reduced to no fewer than six members. No court member would be junior in rank to you.

You may request that the court members be comprised entirely of officers--that is, commissioned and/or warrant officers--or of at least one-third enlisted members.

Do you understand what I've said so far?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: If you're tried by court members, the members vote by secret written ballot and three-fourths of the members must agree before you could be found guilty of any offense.

If you are found guilty of any offense, you shall be sentenced by the military judge, me, using the sentencing rules that became effective on December 28, 2023.

Alternatively, you may request to be tried by military judge alone. If your request is approved, there will be no court members. The military judge will decide whether you're guilty or not guilty; and if found guilty, the military judge will determine your sentence.

If you do not select any of these forum options, then you will be tried by a court composed of members in accordance with the law and the convening order.

Do you understand the difference between trial before members and trial by military judge alone?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand the choices that you have?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: By what type of court do you wish to be tried?

DC: The defense requests to reserve forum selection in accordance with the trial management order.

MJ: Very well. That request is granted.

Seaman Copeland, what just happened is your defense counsel has indicated that you want to reserve your selection of forum until such time as directed in the trial management order, which is an order that I signed as the military judge directing trial dates and trial milestones. And so, you'll have to select your forum in accordance with the dates selected on that trial management order.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. The accused will now be arraigned.

ATC: All parties to the trial have been furnished with a copy of the charges.

Does the accused want them read?

DC: Seaman Copeland waives the reading of the charges.

MJ: Reading can be omitted.

Specification 3 (Sexual Assault - Incapable of Consenting): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did, at or near Oslo, Norway, on or about 4 November 2024, commit a sexual act upon CSSN S.S., U.S. Navy, by penetrating CSSN S.S.'s vulva with his penis, when CSSN S.S. was incapable of consenting to the sexual act because she was impaired by an intoxicant, to wit: alcohol, and the accused reasonably should have known of that condition.

Specification 4 (Sexual Assault - Without Consent): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did, at or near Norfolk, Virginia, on or about 25 May 2025, commit a sexual act upon Ms. Y.J., by penetrating Ms. Y.J.'s vulva with his penis without the consent of Ms. Y.J.

Charge II: Violation of UCMJ, Article 128

Specification (Aggravated Assault - Strangulation): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did, on board USS HARRY S. TRUMAN (CVN 75), on or about 24 July 2024, commit an assault upon ABHAN C.R., U.S. Navy, by unlawfully strangling her with his hand.

Charge III: Violation of UCMJ, Article 117a

Specification (Wrongful Broadcast): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did at or near Oslo, Norway, on or about 4 November 2024, knowingly and wrongfully broadcast an intimate visual image of the buttocks of CSSN S.S., U.S. Navy, a person who was at least 18 years of age when the image was created, identifiable from the image itself, and did not explicitly consent to the broadcast of the image, when the accused reasonably should have known the image was made under circumstances in which CSSN S.S. retained a reasonable expectation of privacy regarding any broadcast of the image, and where the accused reasonably should have known that the broadcast of the image was likely to cause emotional distress, to wit: embarrassment and that, under the circumstances, such conduct had a reasonably direct and palpable connection to the military environment.

Charge IV: Violation of UCMJ, Article 120c

Specification 1 (Indecent Recording): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did, at or near Oslo, Norway, on or about 4 November 2024, without legal justification or lawful authorization, knowingly make a recording of the private area of CSSN S.S., U.S. Navy, without her consent and under circumstances in which she had a reasonable expectation of privacy.

Specification 2 (Indecent Broadcasting): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did at or near Oslo, Norway, on or about 4 November 2024, without legal justification or lawful authorization, knowingly broadcast a recording of the private area of CSSN S.S., U.S. Navy, when the said accused knew or reasonably should have known that the said recording was made without the consent of CSSN S.S. and under circumstances in which she had a reasonable expectation of privacy.

Charge IV: Violation of UCMJ, Article 131b

Specification 1 (Obstruction of Justice): In that Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did, at or near Oslo, Norway, on or about 5 November 2024, wrongfully do a certain act, to wit: hide his cellular phone, with intent to impede the due administration of justice in the case of United States v. Charge VII: Violation of UCMJ, Article 118

Specification ~~(Premeditated~~ Unpremeditated Murder): In that Culinary Specialist ~~Seaman~~ Petty Officer Third Class Jermiah T. Copeland, U.S. Navy, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95), on active duty, did, at or near Norfolk, Virginia, on or about 29 May 2025, ~~with premeditation,~~ murder CS3 A.R., U.S. Navy, by means of an act of the Accused.

AND NO OTHERS

TC: Thank you, Your Honor.

The charges are signed by Lieutenant Patricia Cannaday, JAG Corps, United States Navy, a person subject to the code as accuser, are properly sworn to before a commissioned officer of the armed forces authorized to administer oaths and are properly referred to this court for trial.

MJ: Thank you.

Seaman Copeland, in a few moments I'm gonna ask your defense counsel to enter your plea, but I advise you that certain motions must be made before your plea is entered or else you waive the right to make them. Therefore, motions to dismiss or to grant other appropriate relief should be made at this time.

Defense, do you have any motions to file prior to entry of pleas?

DC: We request to reserve motions in accordance with the trial management order.

MJ: Very well. That request is granted.

And, again, Seaman Copeland, your defense counsel's requested to defer filing any motions until such time as directed in the trial management order, and the trial management order sets several deadlines between now and the trial dates in which you are to file motions. So, your defense counsel has deferred entry of motion until that time.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Accused and defense counsel, please rise.

[The accused and his counsel did as directed.]

MJ: Seaman Copeland, your defense counsel will speak for you.

How do you plead?

DC: The defense requests to reserve pleas in accordance with the trial management order.

MJ: Your request is granted. You may be seated.

[The accused and his counsel did as directed.]

MJ: And, again, Seaman Copeland, your defense counsel has requested to defer the entry of pleas until such time as directed in the trial managements order.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

So, I've alluded to, in several occasions just now, a trial management order in this case. I have signed the trial management order in this case, and it's been marked as Appellate Exhibit I and it is appended to the record.

So, barring any unforeseen circumstances, we'll next be in court on 10 December 2025 for an Article 39(a) hearing. And we have subsequent Article 39(a) hearings on 5 March 2026, 23 April 2026, and 2 June 2026. And I have set 3 June 2026 as the trial date in this case.

Are both parties tracking that timeline?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

In addition, yesterday, on 8 October 2025, government counsel submitted an application pursuant to Article 6b, Subparagraph (c), under the UCMJ and Rule for Court-Martial 801(a)(6), seeking to designate Ms. Esmerelda Castle, the mother of named victim CS3 A.R., who is deceased, as a person to assume the victim's rights under the UCMJ.

I have marked that application as Appellate Exhibit II, and it is appended to the record. The court granted that request, and I signed an order designating Ms. Castle to assume the rights of CS3 A.R. in this case as articulated under Article 6b, Subsection (c) and any other Navy rule, regulation, or instruction. And that order has been marked as Appellate Exhibit II(a), and it is appended to the record.

And finally, the court has received a notices of appearance from Lieutenant Commander Kim on behalf of victim Seaman S.S. That notice of appearance has been marked as Appellate Exhibit IV.

And the court also received a notice of appearance from Mr. Marshall Griffin, who has filed his notice of appearance on behalf of victim CS3 A.R. and her representative. That's been marked as Appellate Exhibit V. Both of those appellate exhibits have been appended to the record.

Are there any other matters to take up before the court recesses?

TC: No, Your Honor.

DC: Not from the defense, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Court's in recess until 10 December 2026--I'm sorry--10 December 2025.

Court's in recess.

[The Article 39(a) session recessed at 1314, 9 October 2025.]

[END OF PAGE]

[The Article 39(a) session was called to order at 0933, 10 December 2025.]

MJ: This court-martial's called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present with one notable exception, I'll--I'll talk about in a second.

Prior to coming on the record in--and since our last session of court, we've had a couple of out-of-court sessions pursuant to R.C.M. 802. Specifically, on 12 November, I met with counsel in chambers just as a pretrial status conference. We discussed the status of motions, the status of progressing to this hearing. Neither party brought up anything of significance.

And then we just had an e-mail exchange over the last couple days discussing the logistics of this hearing, what time we'd start, what--what order we would take up the motions, and what--I think that's it.

Do the parties agree with my summation of the two R.C.M. 802 conferences prior to today's hearing?

TC: Your Honor, the government agrees and nothing to add.

MJ: Thank you.

DC: The defense concurs and has nothing to add, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

And as I noted, one addition to the personnel: It appears as if Lieutenant Commander Mihill, United States Coast Guard, has been added to the defense team.

So, good morning, Seaman Copeland.

ACC: Good morning, Your Honor.

MJ: At your arraignment, I discussed with you your rights to counsel, and you indicated that you wished to be represented by Lieutenant Commander Serfess and Lieutenant Commander Morgan.

Do you need me to go over those rights to counsel again, or do you still understand those rights?

ACC: I still understand, Your Honor.

MJ: And since that arraignment, it--it looks as if Lieutenant Commander Mihill has been detailed to your defense team.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: And do you--do you want to be--in addition to Commander Serfess and Commander Morgan, do you want to be represented by Lieutenant Commander Mihill as well?

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Commander Mihill, if you would please announce your detailing and qualifications for the court.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor, good morning.

Lieutenant Commander Todd Mihill, United States Coast Guard. I've been detailed to this court-martial by Lieutenant Commander Amanda Serfess, OIC, Defense Service Office Southeast, Detachment Pensacola, by the authority granted to her by the Commanding Officer of the same.

I am qualified and certified under Article 27(b) and sworn under Article 42(a), Uniform Code of Military Justice. I have not acted in any manner which would tend to disqualify me.

MJ: Very well. Thank you very much.

So today we've got--I think I counted 18 motions. I think they're all defense motions.

Parties agree with my counting; 18 motions?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, the plan is, as I noted in an e-mail earlier is I think we're just gonna take those up in appellate exhibit order with a few deviations which we kind of grouped things together.

So, at that, I think we--we--unless there's any objection, we start with the first one and that's Appellate Exhibit VI, which is a defense motion for appropriate relief for illegal pretrial punishment.

Defense, I believe you're the moving party. Do you have any evidence you want to present on this motion?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor. We're gonna be calling Commander Flanagan, the OIC of NAVCOM Brig Chesapeake.

MJ: Very well.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): May I approach the well, Your Honor?

MJ: You may.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Prior to calling Commander Flanagan, Your Honor, I would like to lodge one objection. Recognizing that the court has wide latitude to receive evidence in whichever way it sees fit for an Article 39(a), the defense would point out that R.C.M. 803 allows for compulsory process of attendance at an Article 39(a) for a witness.

The defense believes that this witness is not providing just facts to the court; that we are going to be talking about his insights and his own personal impressions and his own personal actions, and that the--the court should have the benefit of being able to see the witness's face and talk to him in person here in the courtroom. So, we would object to telephonic testimony.

MJ: Okay.

Government, do you want to be heard on the objection?

TC: Your Honor, only that the objection is untimely. We e-mailed Your Honor--I believe it was earlier last week--indicating that Commander Flanagan was only gonna be available by telephone, if that was permissible, and you approved that request.

We can speak with Commander Flanagan on short notice if he may be available via VTC, but I haven't had that conversation with him, Your Honor.

MJ: Objection's overruled. I understand--I understand your argument. This is a motions hearing and the court's comfortable taking the telephonic testimony.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Understood, Your Honor.

MJ: You may proceed.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Your Honor, I'm gonna call him from the podium here.

MJ: Very well.

And just while you're doing that, for the record, the--the motion we're taking up is Appellate Exhibit VI. You submitted enclosures to that, which are Appellate Exhibit VII, and the government responded at Appellate Exhibit XLVIII with some enclosures in Appellate Exhibit XLIX. And those are all appended to the record at this point.

[A telephonic connection with the witness was established.]

WIT: OIC.

TC: Hey, good morning, Commander Flanagan. This is Lieutenant Commander Dempsey.

Are you prepared to testify?

WIT: Yep.

TC: Okay. Just so you know, you're on the telephone. It's broadcast through the courtroom. If you could, can you please stand and raise your right hand and I'll swear you in.

WIT: Okay.

COMMANDER BRIAN FLANAGAN, U.S. NAVY, was called as a witness by the defense, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant trial counsel:

Q. Okay. You can be seated.

A. Thank you.

Q. And then could you please state your name and spell your name for the record, sir?

A. Yes. It's Commander Brian Flanagan. That's F-L-A-N-A-G-A-N.

Q. And what is your rank and service, sir?

A. I'm a commander, O-5, in the United States Navy.

Q. And where are you stationed?

A. I'm at--I'm the officer in charge of the Consolidated Naval Brig down in Chesapeake, Virginia.

Q. Copy, sir. Thank you. I'm gonna turn you over to the defense counsel for some questioning.

A. Okay.

MJ: You may proceed.

Questions by the assistant defense counsel (LCDR MIHILL):

Q. Good morning, Commander Flanagan. This is Lieutenant Commander Mihill.

A. Good morning.

Q. Can you start off by telling the court a little bit about what your background and experience in the military is in?

A. I'm an 1110 Surface Warfare Officer. I've been a Surface Warfare Officer, or SWO, my entire almost 18 years of service after graduating from OCS.

Q. Okay. Do you have any previous corrections experience?

A. I do not.

Q. What kind of training did you receive to--to assume your role as the OIC down at the brig?

A. Just like my predecessors, I went to Millington to meet our--my boss's boss, the PERS OOD staff, and then I spent about a week there going over all the--all of their staff, their roles, and how that impacts the Charleston Brig, which is our parent command, and the Chesapeake Brig, which we're--we're a detachment of Charleston.

Then after that, I went to Charleston for another week and I observed their ACA accreditation. And then I followed the--you know, I met with all the key players down there--the CO, XO, CMC, TD--all the--the staff that I'd be working with in supporting us up here and basically shadowed the XO, who's the brig officer there.

And here, as the officer in charge, I'm the brig officer as well as kind of overseeing the entire operation; whereas there, they have a CO who oversees everything and then the XO is the brig officer.

Q. Okay. So, for all of that, the actual training piece of it was--from what I'm understanding, was just a couple of weeks.

A. Yes.

Q. There was a lot of familiarization with the--the facilities and the process but not necessarily training specific as to--as to corrections.

Is that correct?

A. Yes. Prior to the--the meeting in Millington, I--they were--they gave me a handful of references to read through so that I could be informed for the discussions. So that was just on my own time at my previous command.

And then the only other thing I bring training wise is just as a SWO, we're--we're a manager of people. And that's one of the largest parts of my job here is managing the facility and all the people that work here, so that's fairly standard across the Navy.

Q. Understood. Yeah. And I'm focusing specifically on the corrections piece of it. So just that couple of weeks; that--that answers that question.

And you--you mentioned your predecessors. Would that be Commander Ian Manealy[ph].

A. Yes.

Q. Did--did he have any--

A. And everybody before him. I don't--I'm not aware of any changes to the pipeline of coming here to take this role.

Q. I'm sorry, Commander. I don't--I don't quite understand what you said. Changes to the pipeline? Can you--

A. Yeah. Like, you're asking about the training I received prior to reporting. I don't--I don't--I'm not aware of any changes to that training pipeline that my predecessor or the people before him would have gone through that's different from what I did.

Q. Oh. That--that's right, sir. We're--we're only here to talk about what you've--what you've done in your role as the brig OIC.

But Commander Ian Manealy was your--was your predecessor, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you take over for him?

A. I took over here in May.

Q. Okay. What kind of a pass down did you get from him? What kind of a turnover did you have?

A. A lot of phone conversations and e-mails back and forth. I was on deployment on my previous--at my previous command. And then we did miss each other by a few weeks, and he gave me a extremely large turnover binder, and I've been able to discuss any questions I had with him after reviewing that. I still have contact with him.

Q. Okay. Did you guys--

A. As far as--

Q. Did you--was--I'm sorry.

A. Go ahead.

Q. Nope. Go ahead, sir. What were you saying?

A. The only--the only other--the only other part of a turnover that I received was we have a command senior chief here who has been here for about almost three years, so he really brought me up to speed on everything.

Q. Would that be Senior Chief Sandy[ph]?

A. No. It was Command Senior Chief Jostice[ph].

Q. Okay. Okay. And in your pass down from Commander Manealy, was there any--did you have any specific discussions about maximum custody or anything like that that was--that had changed at the brig recently?

A. No. No. The guidance that I followed for that is straight out of the SECNAV instruction.

Q. When you say "SECNAV instruction," you're talking about the 1640?

A. I'm talking--I've got it pulled up right here. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now I want to talk to you a little bit about--about Seaman Copeland.

You're tracking who he is?

A. Yes.

Q. You recently had a conversation with him about his maximum custody status?

A. Yes, he asked me about it.

Q. And you--you told him in that conversation that there is basically nothing he can do--ever do to get off of maximum custody status.

Is that not correct?

A. I don't believe I used those words; but, essentially, based on the nature--essentially, based on the guidance the SECNAV gives me and the authority it gives me in making that determination, I told him based on the allegations against him and the potential length of the sentence that he would receive if he is to be found guilty, that I don't foresee him not being a max custody prisoner.

Q. Okay. Yeah. And, in fact, we--we received a disclosure where you--you discussed that in your experience serious charges and long confinement can--can create security risks.

Is that correct?

A. It--it can, but the--the guidance in the SECNAV spells it out so that those are factors to consider when determining if we wanted to override the objective based review.

Q. Right. And we're--and we're gonna get to that in just a second, Commander. But specifically, it was in your experience, and I'm just--your experience begins in about May of this year.

Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, when Seaman Copeland came to the brig, you mentioned that you had--that you had safety concerns for him. Can you tell me a little bit about that?

A. It's really primarily based on the intake process. They ask him questions about how he's doing and get an assessment of his mental status. And initially, he was on POI, which was prevention of injury. As you can imagine, most of the prisoners that arrive here are fairly distressed. Being confined is not something that everybody wants to do.

He was taken off of that status, but this--the nature of his allegations make--make me consider him to be more of a security risk than somebody for a minor infraction.

Q. Based just on the nature of the charges. Were you given any--any of the--any discovery surrounding those--those allegations?

A. Can you clarify that?

Q. Sure. That was a bad question. I'm sorry. I'm using my words.

Did--did anybody give you evidence about what he was alleged to have done that brought him to the brig?

A. No. I--I just knew of the overall--the overall case I guess, the news reports, and--and the manner in which he arrived.

Q. Tell--tell me more about that, Commander; the nature of the news reports.

A. So, obviously, you know, I watch the local news. There was news about the case--the Resendiz missing case. And then, normally, we receive a little bit of a heads-up before prisoners are brought here for confinement, but he was brought here in the middle--late at night--I'm not sure exactly what time. I wasn't here at the facility--by NCIS.

And right off the bat we kind of just put two and two together; hey, this could be related to that. And--and then from there, we found out later that it was related.

Q. Okay. And I understand when prisoners come to the brig they're originally classified as max and then--for a week or so and then they get downgraded, but that hasn't happened in this case. He's never been downgraded from maximum custody.

Is that correct?

A. He has not.

Q. Okay.

A. You don't necessarily come in as a max, but you will be in special quarters initially until your cleared medically and clinically and you attend indoc, where they explain kind of the rules and regulations and how everything works here. Then once you're cleared and have completed indoc, you--you may be downgraded and moved into general population.

Q. Okay. So, just to be clear, your--your decision to--to--to look at the allegation on the charge sheet--because at the time it was only for--for 118, alleged murder--you--you coupled that with news reports that you had seen and things that you had learned outside of your job to make the decision to keep him in max?

A. No, that--that was just, hey, we got this prisoner. We didn't get any heads-up. NCIS brought him in, and it was the same time. So, we--we kind of connected the dots. That didn't go into the decision. The decision was based on the charge.

Q. Okay. So--so your contention is that it was solely on the charge. The fact that you had seen and you were aware of--of a--of this individual from news reports, you're just saying that didn't play any factor in your calculus?

A. No. But I have responsibilities to report to my boss if we have any prisoner that may generate media interest. And since it was in the news, I gave them a cursory heads-up; hey, we received this prisoner, this may be related to this case, just want to let you-all know, and we'll report back with more once we know more. And that--that did not factor into the decision to keep him as a max prisoner.

Q. Okay. How often have you made that report back to the brig CO, or have you talked to him about the further media coverage?

A. It--it really comes up more when he has hearings coming up. That's about it. It's not a daily report. But we have reports that we have to make based on, you know, if there's a staff is hospitalized. There's all kinds of different incidents where we have to make reports to our boss and then he reports up to Naval Personnel Command.

Q. Right. No, I understand that.

But there is--so each time Seaman Copeland comes to court, you--you--you're ending up having to send reports to Charleston.

A. Not really a formal report; more of a conversation. Hey, this is coming up just so you're tracking. We have, you know, escorts lined up. These are the people that are gonna escort; whether there's media attention anticipated--those sorts of things.

Q. Okay. Have you followed the news stories of the case?

A. I watch the news while I'm in my office.

Q. Okay. So, on a daily basis?

A. Say again?

Q. So, you--you--you're watching the news on a daily basis?

A. Yes.

Q. Now you also mentioned in a--in a conversation with the prosecutors in this case that you've--that you actually feared for--for Seaman Copeland's safety if he were to transfer to gen pop.

Do you recall that conversation?

A. I do.

Q. Can you tell me more about that, please?

A. There was no specific incident that--that I'm referring to. It's more of a--you know, prisoners that are--that are high visibility as far as media goes, attracts attention from other prisoners via--the prisoners also are able to watch the news. They have it on the news channel while they're eating chow.

And if it's the local news, they very well could have seen that--that story being covered. And as more information was released, those news stories specify that there was a suspect being head in pretrial confinement here at this facility.

Q. Okay. Have you fielded--whether personal or professional, have you fielded any--any questions from folks about--about this case in particular?

A. No. We refer all--all media inquiries to the CHINFO office.

Q. Okay. I understand that that's where you would refer them to, but have you--have you received them? Have those calls come into you?

A. Initially, we received a few calls from local media. And after, I don't know, maybe a few days to a week, they--they basically stopped. I'm not aware of any recent calls.

Q. Okay.

All right. Let's--let's shift gears a little bit and let's talk about the reclassification process in this case. We're talking about Seaman Copeland's maximum custody. You do not believe that there's anything he can do to--to get off of that status, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. Since he's been there, you have not documented any behavioral issues with him.

A. He had one minor one when he first got here; nothing significant. But other than that, no.

Q. Okay. He's--he has attended classes since he's been there.

A. Yes.

Q. Those classes reduce his--his points for the reclassification process below the threshold for him--in order for him to be able to be qualified to--to transfer over to medium in and general population; isn't that true?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you've made the--you have made the determination in every instance of reclassification that that point system should be overridden, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. Now you--your input is not the only person that goes into those reclassification proceedings, correct?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. You also take input from your--from your--from your ops folks, from your CDOs, that sort of thing?

A. Yep. Medical, clinical, operations, and CDOs.

Q. Okay. Who's Master Sergeant Gibbons?

A. He's the operations officer here.

Q. Where does he fall out in the hierarchy of the--of the brig chain of command?

A. He's the department head.

Q. Okay. And the--and the CDOs, are those the--those are the corrections officers within the brig, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. These are the folks that do rounds and check on maximum custody prisoners every 15 minutes?

A. No. They--there are--there are other watch standers that do those rounds, but the CDO is over--like, when I leave the building, the CDO is designated in writing from my boss, the commanding officer of Charleston Brig, as the command duty officer. They are in charge of the facility.

So, if I go on leave, they are, you know, qualified by the commanding officer to run the facility.

Q. Okay. I understand that.

A. Into the--on ship.

Q. And--and those--those folks who become CDOs, they are the watch standers generally, right? They--so your CDO can change day to day?

A. Yes.

Q. And that--those--

A. Yeah. They--they are in charge of the duty section that is on watch at--at whatever given time?

Q. Okay. So, they--they have more interaction with the prisoners than you do on a daily basis?

A. Yes.

Q. And those CDOs, when you--to qualify as CDO, are they previously a watch stander?

A. Yes.

Q. So, they've had interaction--they have interaction--

A. Yep. They start--

Q. --when they're--when they-re not the--

A. --they start as, you know, escorts, rovers, and they work their up--their way up through all the different controlling stations until they qualify as a CDO. That's the highest qualification here.

Q. Okay. So, they've--they've been--they've been on all the floors and dealt with all the prisoners?

A. That is correct.

Q. On a daily basis?

A. Yep.

Q. Sometimes on a--on a every 15-minute basis when these--when these inmates are on maximum custody status?

A. It depends--yeah, it depends on what's going on. But there are--there are watch standers in--in that housing unit, and those are the ones that do them every 15 minutes. And then the CDOs go through multiple times a day but not every 15 minutes, because they have to oversee the entire facility.

Q. Right. I understand. Watch standers may be there every 15 minutes but not the CDO. I understand. Thank you, sir.

So, these--and the folks at medical, they--they have--they have personal interactions with the inmates?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And now, talking back to the reclassification piece of this, almost without fail, all of those people with personal interactions with Seaman Copeland have recommended that he--he be reclassified into general population.

Is that not correct?

A. That is not correct.

Q. It's not correct.

A. There are some--he's been here for--for some time. There are some that were recommended that he was moved into general population, and there are others where it is not.

Q. I--I would agree with you. And the--and the reclassification documents are all in front of the court, so the military judge will be able to see that handful of times where perhaps somebody has made a different recommendation. I would proffer that it's--that that was early on.

Isn't that correct, sir?

A. I--I'd have to dig through them all. I only have a few of them in front of me. I have a bunch of them on the computer I can--I can pull up.

Q. That's all right, sir. No--no reason to do that. We have them here.

A. Okay.

Q. Do you--do you have anything else in front of you?

A. I--I just have a few of those. I have the SECNAV that I've been referencing. I have an SOP about custody classification. I have this handling letter.

Q. Okay. If you--if you wouldn't mind, sir, you can--you can close all that and put it to the side, please. If I ask you to reference something, I'm--I'll ask you specifically to reference it. But while you're providing testimony, I don't need you to be--to be looking through all that stuff.

A. Yeah, I just have it on my desk.

Q. Okay. Now these reclassification documents and reclassification boards, in your--in your conversations with trial counsel you discussed that there is an appeals process, correct?

A. Yes, there is.

Q. And you've--you have stated that Seaman Copeland has not availed himself of that appeals process?

A. He has not appealed any of our--our decisions.

Q. Okay. Who does that appeal go to?

A. If I'm the one making the determination, the appeal would go to my boss.

Q. Okay. And you--you believe that you are overriding based on the--the authority of the SECNAV and based on your boss's directive.

Is that true?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay.

A. Yes. I've had multiple conversations with Charleston about it.

Q. Okay. Would you expect that your boss would overturn your decision if Seaman Copeland were to appeal that decision?

A. No.

Q. Let's talk about--a little bit about what maximum custody status means. Generally speaking,--I'm not talking about Seaman Copeland at this point; but generally speaking, you're talking about being confined to a cell for 22 hours a day, correct?

A. Yep.

Q. You--the inmates who are in maximum custody status will eat their meals by themselves in their cell?

A. Yes.

Q. When they are availed of their one hour of rec time, they will go outside by themselves for one hour?

A. Yep.

Q. They are--their rec area is a separate rec area, separate and aside from the general population rec area?

A. Yes.

Q. When they are allowed into the--the day room for--for one hour a day, are they allowed to interact with any other inmates?

A. No.

Q. So, a maximum custody prisoner at the brig in Chesapeake is functionally solitary confinement?

A. The only people they interact with will be staff or command or legal visits or personal visits.

Q. Okay.

A. And as the max, they have to request personal visitation.

Q. Okay. Now as far as Seaman Copeland goes, you--you have--you've made an exception where he's allowed out of his cell for--for one extra hour a day, correct?

A. Yes. We're--we've been basically trying to meet in the middle as far as he has been behaved as a prisoner, so we have been working with him to be able to get out of his cell a little bit to--to clean up different areas of the brig by himself. That way he's not in the cell for the full 22 hours a day.

Q. Okay. So, what we're talking about here is a flexibility for an extra hour--one hour, correct?

A. I believe so.

Q. Where he is by himself?

A. He's not by himself. He has--there are guards present.

Q. Okay. There are--there are guards present. And what he is doing is he's--he's cleaning and working at the brig?

A. Yep. We also allow him to go down for library call; whereas, normally, the librarian would bring a cart of books or a paper that he could fill out requesting specific books that we have, and then the librarian would bring them to his cell. But he's allowed to go to the library.

Q. Okay. And he would go there by himself with a guard?

A. With guards.

Q. Okay. But, again, since he's been there, no--no misconduct other than one minor thing in the beginning?

A. Yep.

Q. And your testimony is that you--you don't know anything about the case other than the fact that there was an allegation of a 118 murder case, and then your knowledge of that case from the media hasn't played a role in your--in your determinations?

A. That's correct. I'm aware he has other charges now.

Q. Okay. And that--that informs your opinion now?

A. It feeds into it, yes.

Q. Okay. Generally, a maximum custody prisoner is not allowed contact visits with their attorneys, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And the--the room that we are talking about--the visitation room that they are in is a--is a--essentially, it's an 8-by-8 cell divided in half, correct?

A. I don't know the specific dimensions, but, yes, it is a small area divided in half with plexiglass and slots to slide documents through.

Q. Okay. Have you ever been down there while anybody's been in that room having a conversation, sir?

A. I have not, but I have had multiple people, to include my CO, there and test it out.

Q. Tell me more about that, sir.

A. Well, we had the trial counsel--I don't remember his name, but it was a captain, O-6, came down for a tour. We showed him that facility. He went in there with--I believe with our Master Sergeant Gibbons that you referenced earlier. They had a conversation with other members of the trial counsel and my staff outside, asking--talking loudly; if they could hear them, they said no. My CO did the same thing recently last month.

Q. Okay. Now, in this case, you--you have made an exception to that policy where you're not allowed to have a contact visit with your--with their--with their attorneys, correct?

A. Say again?

Q. You've made an exception to policy for Seaman Copeland to meet with us?

A. In my--in this facility?

Q. Yes.

A. In the no contact?

Q. You've made an exception to that policy and--and allowed a single contact visit; is that correct?

A. To be honest, I do not recall that.

Q. Okay.

One moment, Your Honor.

A. I believe the conversation was if--if the defense wanted to have a no-contact visit, they could arrange for a meeting in I guess your office.

Q. Understood, Commander. Thank you.

One moment, Your Honor.

Commander, I want to go back to your--your predecessor, Commander Manealy, in the pass down that he gave you. Are you--are you aware of him having to testify in court?

A. I am not.

Q. Did he discuss with you the fact that the brig's maximum custody policy has been held by two military judges to constitute illegal pretrial punishment?

A. No.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That's all the questions I have for now, Your Honor.

Thank you, Commander.

WIT: Yep.

MJ: Trial counsel, cross-examination?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant trial counsel:

Q. Good afternoon, sir. Can you hear me okay?

A. Yes, I can.

Q. Okay. This is--or sorry, good morning rather. This is Lieutenant Commander Dempsey, the trial counsel.

A. All right.

Q. What risks do you assume reducing Copeland's--Prisoner Copeland's classification status?

A. As we discussed earlier, with the media interest and the stories being played on local news which the other prisoners may have seen, sometimes that can cause issues between prisoners.

And then if the allegations are true and--and he is guilty of--of the crimes he's accused of, that causes a safety concern for our staff and our other prisoners.

Q. Okay. Thank you.

So, I want to read an excerpt from the SECNAV manual that we were just discussing. It's on page 10 of Enclosure (2) to the government's response.

It says, "Ultraconservative custody classification results in a waste of prisoner and staff manpower. A large number of max and MDI prisoners reduces the number of staff available for supervision of the kinds of productive work available to lower custody classifications. Classification systems must follow established but flexible procedures."

Despite that language, do you still feel that it's appropriate to have Copeland--Prisoner Copeland on a max status?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you explain why?

A. Because--well, for one, we're a level one facility. If he was to be a posttrial and was found guilty of those crimes, he would not even be housed in this facility. We--we have people from--anywhere from 1 day up to 90 days.

Q. Um-hmm.

A. So, he would not even be confined in the facility to begin with. So, that--that is one reason that we would be more cautious than not.

And then also I mentioned, you know, if he is guilty of those crimes, then that could potentially pose a risk to other prisoners if there was to be an argument between them that escalated; and if he's unrestrained walking around, that also poses security risk for our staff.

Q. Thank you, sir.

And do you recall in early October of this year, the trial counsel submitting a request for a contact visitation with the defense counsel in this case between CSSN Copeland and his counsel?

A. I--I--I do.

Q. Do you recall your endorsement on that request?

A. I don't. I--I remember this came up and the defense filed a motion previously saying--kind of saying the same; that it was unjustly--we were unjustly keeping him as a max. And I know the judge in that case did not concur and he sided with us.

Q. Okay. And do you recall if that contact visit was approved by your commanding officer?

A. I--I do not at this--honestly, I do not.

Q. Okay. Was the--was the stepdown for CSSN Copeland, where he got that extra hour outside of his cell, was that on 11 August of this year?

A. I--

Q. I'll ask you not to reference any material while you're testifying, please, sir.

A. I don't remember the date that it--that it came up, but it came up eventually because, as mentioned, he's been--he's been scoring just below where he would be kept as a max. That would be--that would be seven points, but he's been scoring at a six because of the courses that he's been taking. And he's not getting any extra points for--because he hasn't committed any infractions other than the one when he first got here.

So, it's--so he's barely--he's one point below, but--so at some point we discussed, hey, is there anything we could kind of do while keeping him as a max to, you know, afford him a little bit more freedom, some incentives for good behavior while he's here. That's where that conversation began. The date, I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Thank you, sir.

And I just want to also circle back to the times when people had tested out the no-contact room. I just want to clarify. You said that people could not hear their discussion from outside of the room or inside of the room?

A. Outside.

Q. Okay. Thank you.

A. They--we had people--because if we have a max prisoner go, we're still gonna have guards there to make sure, you know, nothing's happening that's not supposed to and--and the people stood outside where those--the guards would stand and they could not hear the conversation.

Q. Thank you, sir.

And then have you ever intended to punish Prisoner Copeland at all?

A. No.

Q. And a follow-up to that is, have you been using your authority and the SECNAV manual to make these determinations?

A. Yes.

ATC: One moment, Your Honor.

MJ: Take your time.

ATC: Sir, that's all the questions I have. I'll turn it back over to the defense, to the military judge who may have some follow-ups.

MJ: Commander Mihill, any redirect?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor. One moment, please?

If I may, Your Honor?

MJ: You may.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant defense counsel (LCDR MIHILL):

Q. Commander, this is Lieutenant Commander Mihill again. Just a couple follow-up questions.

Trial counsel just asked you about the assumed risk and you--you--when we were talking, you said the media didn't influence your opinion. But when you just answered the prosecutor's question, you said that--that the--the decision to put him in general population would be influenced by the fact that the--the media reports may have made their way to the general population.

Is that correct? So, there was media influence?

A. So, the--you're asking if the media's reporting influenced my decision, which it did not. The fact that the prisoners were aware that we had a prisoner that's on the news at our facility did.

Q. Did. It did influence that decision.

A. So, what the media said did not, but the fact that the prisoners here are aware that we have a prisoner that's be--that's in the news, that weighed into the decision.

Q. Okay. I understand.

Now, you mentioned that you're a level one brig.

A. Yes.

Q. And that--and that if Seaman Copeland is guilty of the offenses, then that's--that's a problem for your facility, correct?

A. Yes. He would be transferred elsewhere. So--

Q. So, your position is, is that--so your position is that maximum custody solitary confinement, if he is guilty--he's a pretrial prisoner--is the only appropriate place for him to be?

A. At this facility, yes.

Q. Okay. Now you mentioned that--that in this case, at some point, that the--that the military judge did not--did not concur--did not concur with the defense. I would want to ask why do you think that? Why do you think the judge didn't concur with the defense?

A. I was not at that hearing. I only heard back from the people that we sent as escorts. And the main reason was it was a motion that said we were unjustly keeping him as a max prisoner, and then the--they basic thing that I cited for the reasoning is the SECNAV authority that's given to us to make that determination based on those two factors we've discussed earlier and--and--

Q. Okay.

A. --my understanding is the judge concurred.

Q. So, you--you got that information from the--from your folks that were up here, and you--you don't know that--the fact that that motion was never heard--

A. I--

Q. --never heard by this court, correct?

A. I believe I talked to the trial counsel as well, but it's been a while.

Q. Understood, Commander. I would say that the--the trial counsel's facial expression when you gave your response would indicate that that's--that's not accurate.

Now, when Seaman Copeland comes up here to the brig--comes up to our building, the courthouse, when he's in the courtroom the military judge dictates his movements, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. However, any other place in this building that he goes, your people have to follow your rules with regards to his movements, correct?

A. Um-hmm, yes.

Q. Whether or not he is wearing shackles, that's--that's your policy as well?

A. Yes.

Q. So, the only place where Seaman Copeland is outside of your control is when he's in this courtroom sitting in front of the military judge.

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Going back to the--the test--the testing that was done on this room where--where the folks from OSTC came down and that sort of thing, when did that happen?

A. I don't remember the date.

Q. Was it before you--was it before you checked in?

A. No, it was not. I was here.

Q. Okay. Did they--did they attempt to share any files?

A. That I do not know, but we have two different slots in each cell--or each visitation room that--that are large enough to pass files through.

Q. Okay. Did they attempt to share any screens or any videos or anything like that?

A. I--that I do not know, but there is clear plexiglass where you could see a video through.

Q. Did they attempt to share any audio or anything like that?

A. Just speaking together.

Q. Okay. Turning to the reclassification piece of this, you said that he is--Seaman Copeland has consistently come in below the points required for him to be a maximum prisoner?

A. One point below.

Q. One point. Okay. But he's below the threshold.

A. Yep.

Q. And you mentioned that you checked in in May is when you assumed your duty?

A. Yep.

Q. And you said that you're not aware of any court case which found that the maximum custody classification constituted illegal pretrial punishment and those--those folks were awarded three-for-one credit for the time that they served in maximum custody. You're not aware of that?

A. No.

Q. You're not aware of a Prisoner Ramineek[ph], a U.S.--a U.S.--

A. I'm aware of Prisoner Ramineek.

Q. You are aware of him?

A. Yes.

Q. And he was there while you were there?

A. He was.

Q. He was one of the--the folks that received three-for-one credit for his time in maximum custody and you are not aware of that?

A. I'm aware he was awarded time served. I was not aware that Commander Manealy testified at that hearing.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): No further questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Recross?

ATC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Commander Mihill, is Commander Flanagan subject to recall?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): No, Your Honor.

MJ: Subject to recall?

ATC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Commander Flanagan, this is Captain Hutchison, the military judge. Thank you for your testimony. You are permanently excused. But as long as the trial continues, please don't discuss your testimony with anyone except the counsel involved in this case. You may go about your duties. Thank you.

WIT: All right. Thank you, sir. Bye.

[The telephonic connection with the witness was terminated.]

MJ: Commander Mihill, any additional evidence on this motion beyond what you've already submitted as part of your enclosures?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): No, Your Honor.

MJ: Government, do you have any evidence on this motion beyond what's already submitted?

ATC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: All right. So, Commander Mihill, I've--I've read your motion. Do you have additional arguments you want to make beyond what you've expressed in your motion?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): If I may, Your Honor.

MJ: You may.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I just want to make a very clear point that the defense is not arguing an intent to punish here. The defense is not asking the court to strike down a corrections policy. That is not what we're asking to do.

We're asking you to look at--to look at the King case and look at the Contreras case and evaluate whether or not these--these--this pretrial restrictions, pretrial confinement is unduly harsh or excessive in this case and is applied to Seaman Copeland.

The--the government in their--in their response sites heavily to Mosby. I will qualify that case for the court in that in the Mosby case there was--there was no other evidence put before the court. There was simply he's in maximum custody; that should be pretrial--that should be illegal pretrial punishment. That's not what we have here.

You've just heard testimony that there is a wealth of things going on at the brig, and the court has ample evidence to find that this--this pretrial confinement is unduly harsh. It is far more strict than is necessary to get Seaman Copeland to show up and arrive here in the courtroom, which is the intent behind pretrial confinement.

The government also points to this stepdown in these--these contact visits as--as part of a flexible demonstration of this--this policy. The defense position is that that's not flexible. What you're doing is you're allowing him still to be alone by himself for one hour a day at which point he goes and cleans the brig. Not entirely unlike what we have in Contreras. It's the same things that are going on there, right?

And then the other thing is that these--these--these contact visits with his counsel, if flexibility is the constitutional right to participate in your own defense and confer with your counsel, then I guess that's flexibility; however, I would proffer to the court that that--that simply is not the case, Your Honor.

Pending any questions, that--that is the--the argument and only comments I wish to make on the government's motion.

MJ: Thank you. No questions.

Commander Dempsey, do you want to be heard?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor. Just in rebuttal to what the defense just argued, Your Honor.

Defense said that there is a wealth of things going on in this case that were not occurring in Mosby and that's correct. The--the brig OIC has allowed a stepdown for maximum classification, demonstrating his flexibility for the SECNAV policy. He's permitted--while his--his superior, the commanding officer of the brig in Charleston, has permitted contact visitation with his counsel. Again, a deviation from the standard policy of max custody prisoners.

They're endeavoring to meet their responsibility to keep not only Seaman Copeland safe but their other--the other inmates safe and their staff safe while balancing the serious allegations that Seaman Copeland is accused of.

And--and, Your Honor, I would draw your attention to Enclosure (4) of the government's motion where commanding officer of the brig in Charleston stated that I note that isolated instances of previously demonstrated compliance do not mitigate risk with prisoners facing severe con--sentences and consequences. This is particularly true in cases where a prisoner may receive unexpected news or information that might serve as a trigger for volatile behavior. Allowing contact visits for prisoners designated with the custody classification of maximum increases risk to the safety of visiting personnel and my staff.

He goes on to just discuss that by even allowing that contact visitation, he recognized that he was taking an enormous risk, not just to Seaman Copeland or his attorneys but to his staff and potentially other inmates. But he did that in the interest of remaining flexible and applying the SECNAV policy, Your Honor.

There's no intent to punish and there's a legitimate nongovernment--or nonpunitive reason for following the SECNAV instruction in this case. Thank you, Your Honor.

MJ: Thank you.

Okay. I'm gonna take all this under consideration. I'll issue a ruling in due course. You know, obviously--so, defense, just to be clear, you are not seeking release from pretrial confinement. You're simply asking for pretrial confinement credit.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That is correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Which--which does not inure until at least there's a conviction if at all.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, I--I will issue a ruling in due course after I take--take all this under consideration.

Okay. Let's move to the next motion, which I have as--actually, I'm gonna shift up a little bit. We're still gonna do the--the next motion in order, which is Appellate Exhibit VIII. That's the defense motion to exclude evidence under 404(b), but I think it makes sense to combine that with your motion to exclude evidence under 413. The government's response responded to those both.

So, let's take up Appellate Exhibit VIII, which is the 404(b) motion, and then Appellate Exhibit XVIII, which is the 413 motion.

And, government, you respond in Appellate Exhibit LX with enclosures in LXI and LXI(a).

And the government--the defense has got--has enclosures at Appellate Exhibit IX and Appellate Exhibit XIX.

So, government, you've got the--this is--you're the proponent of this evidence. You have the burden. Do you have additional evidence you want to present on 404(b) and 413?

ATC: Not in addition to what we presented via e-mail last night, Your Honor, Enclosure (63) and (64).

MJ: Okay. I--I have those as well.

TC: Okay. But beyond that, no, Your Honor. No additional evidence.

MJ: Defense, do you have any evidence to present on these motions?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): No additional evidence, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Government, do you want to be heard on the--beyond--do you want to be heard on this motion? Do you want to talk about it?

ATC: Your Honor, I think our argument is laid out fairly well in our--in our motion. The only thing I'd like to draw attention to, Your Honor, is that the defense cites to Hills and says that M.R.E. 413 is a close cousin of 404(b) and we need to be careful about how 404(b) evidence, of using charged misconduct--to use charged misconducted. But 404(b) and 413 are distinguishable on that point, Your Honor.

MJ: Fair point.

Let me--you've categorized the evidence you seek to--to admit in five or six different categories, and I want to focus on the--the evidence of strangulation to begin with.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: You allege that two of the charged offenses--maybe three, I have to look back--but some of the charged offenses allege instances of strangulation of--of certain victims. And then although you don't allege that strangulation was the act by which Petty Officer A.R. was--was murdered, in your--in your bill of particulars you're gonna put forward that theory.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: In your 404(b) notice, you indicate that you want to use the fact that--or the--the idea that A.R. was strangled to prove common plan or scheme for the other offenses.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay. I guess a bit of my problem there is--or part of its problem--a concern is the evidence of that strangulation seems to be what you're trying to prove to prove the offense. So, understand Hills doesn't apply. But you don't have any direct evidence of that.

And so, I--I--if you go through the Wright-Berry factors, I'm interested in how you--you would weigh that particular allegation or--or suspection--suspicion of strangulation and how it would be probative with regards to the other two, where you have direct evidence--or at least direct allegations of strangulation.

It's easier for the court to see it the other way around. Much harder--I'm not sure I'm--not sure I'd rule that way. I'll have to think about it. But--but as an additional matter, taking the--the--the suspicion of strangulation of A.R. to prove the other offenses seems almost counterintuitive.

ATC: If I may just consult with counsel, Your Honor?

MJ: You may.

And--and just to put a finer point on that because you brought it--because it--you know, brought it up in regards to Hills, Hills of course says you can't use propensity evidence that's charged to--to prove other charges.

Doesn't apply to 404(b), but the notion here is that you would--you would use evidence that you have that--that A.R. might have been strangled to--to bolster the other allegations where there's direct evidence of strangulation and then use those charges to then go back and prove that A.R. was strangled. And that seems very bootstrapping and circular.

ATC: And I--actually, I completely concur, Your Honor. I think what I'm--what I'm really just trying to say is there's that escalation of--of behavior between those three offenses to show what happened with CS3 A.R. and that's really what we're trying to demonstrate, Your Honor.

Not to say what you're saying here, Your Honor, that A.R.--what happened with A.R. also proves what happened with the other two.

MJ: Okay. It's the other way around.

ATC: Just that common scheme, the escalation is kind of what we're trying to prove. And I apologize for any confusion on that point in my motion.

MJ: Okay. That does clear that up.

Okay. Just--let's talk about the 413. What exactly--I want to talk about the evidence you seek to admit for 413.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: And how that would play out in court.

ATC: Yes, sir.

So, L.L. is a--is a high school classmate of the accused. I say "high school," but this was just three years ago. And she was--there's an abusive sexual contact that occurred at her residence that she reported nearly immediately to her parents and the police. There was a police investigation. That case was closed for unknown reasons really, beyond what they state in the report that--lack of corroborating evidence, so to speak.

L.L. would testify to what happened to her, and the defense has requested a witness who was present in the home when this allegation occurred. Those are the only two witnesses that the government would intend to produce for this trial which we already intend to produce well over 60 witnesses, Your Honor.

MJ: I guess that's the thought though is how many more witnesses do we need or would we have for something not on the charge sheet? What--the court's concern is a trial within a trial for some uncharged misconduct--alleged misconduct.

ATC: Yes, Your Honor. It's really the probative value of this evidence to us is extremely high, as is the nature, typically, of these sexual offenses. There is only one witness.

And using 413 as propensity to prove the charged misconduct helps--helps the members believe that these victims may be telling the truth. He's done it in high school and that conduct has not stopped, effectively, Your Honor.

And that's why we think that the probative value highly outweighs any--any time constraints that are being put on the--on this trial.

MJ: Okay. Anything further? I don't have any more questions.

ATC: No, Your Honor. Thank you.

MJ: Defense, I'll let you be heard as well if you--if you want to be heard.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Since we filed these motions independently, Your Honor, Lieutenant Commander Serfess is gonna talk about 413 and I have the 404(b).

MJ: Fair enough.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Whichever--whichever you'd like to hear first.

MJ: Let's--let's talk about 404(b) first.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Okay. 404(b). So the-- MJ: You heard my questions to the government, but I'm happy to hear any argument you have otherwise.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I think what we--I think where we're at, Your Honor, is despite that--the long and lengthy notice that the government has provided, we're really only talking about four instances of actual 404(b) other acts evidence.

The defense would concede that everything else the government is seeking to introduce is admissible to prove up the alleged offenses in this case.

MJ: Let's--that's a good point.

You don't disagree and, government, you don't disagree that all of this charged misconduct is--is going to come in as res gestae of the offenses of which they're related.

Fair enough?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I--we would agree with that, Your Honor. I think the-- MJ: But I think you would disagree that the government can use that evidence to prove other things.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): And I think it comes down to the instruction that we're--that is gonna be given after the court hears the evidence--the fact finder hears the evidence. That would have to be something that we take up at a later time, but as far as the alleged other acts that are in fact themselves part and parcel of the charged acts, defense sees those as not being 404(b) and not worthy of instruction.

So that--that's--

MJ: And--and--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --a lion's share of what we're talking about.

MJ: What--what are those?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): It's probably easier to talk about the ones that are--are actually 404(b), Your Honor.

MJ: Right.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): The ones that we've laid out in our motion. So the misleading--the alleged misleading statements to investigators during the--during high school investigations, the alleged nonconsensual kissing--I realize the government, in their--in their motions has kind of walked that back a little bit and made it res gestae of the 413 evidence, so I'll let Lieutenant Commander Serfess speak to that--and then this evidence of an evil grin, and he looked like somebody else from--from the high school allegations and from the allegations made by Ms. C.R. in this case.

MJ: Well not--to the extent C.R. testifies, that's res gestae of the offense against her.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): She can testify--testify about her perceptions in that moment, yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Fair enough. Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): But to--to draw--

MJ: But to use that to show something else, you object to.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): To use a--to use a witness statement from a--from an uncorroborated, unadjudicated, preservice, multiple years ago one-off statement about an evil grin to tie those two things together to--to demonstrate motive, intent--

MJ: I understand.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --whichever ones the government has lumped together here, that--that simply should not be the case.

MJ: I understand your argument.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): And we've laid those out fairly well in the motion.

One area that I--that is not well laid out is the--the--the factors--the Reynolds factors for the alleged broadcasting and recording of K.M.B. I'm happy to talk about that if the court would like me to--to talk about that.

MJ: Please proceed.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Turning to prong one of Reynolds, there--there is statements made. There is things that were said. However, the government really can't prove that--that it actually happened nonconsensually; can't prove that a crime happened or something like that.

They--they can point to the--the statements that--the statements that were taken; however, there's--

MJ: So, are you talking about the alleged broadcast of--of the alleged sexual encounter that--that they can't prove that the broadcast happened?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): The--the--so I'm talking about the K.M.B. allegation from Oak Harbor preservice, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Understand. Never mind. Got it.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Preservice.

MJ: Got it.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Not the--not the S.--

MJ: I understand.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --S.S. allegations.

So, the preservice allegations that were investigated, phone extractions were done, witnesses were talked to, and ultimately nothing happened. So that--that is--that is where we are. So, to the extent that there was never probable cause and there was never charges, government will have--they can't get past prong one of Reynolds for that.

Turning to the logical relevance here, they cite this--this preservice--alleged preservice recording as evidence of a common scheme, knowledge or intent, but that's all they do is allege these words.

They point to similarities, but they don't link a--they don't link a mental state. They don't link a--they don't link any of these things that you're required to do under intent or motive. It's not simply enough to say this is kind of like that; therefore, he knew this was wrong then. That's propensity and that's what we're--that's what the court needs to guard against.

And then finally, prong three, the prejudicial value of this is substantially outweighed--or the probative value of this is substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice.

What we're talking about is--is an act that there's really no strength that it's ever been--that it--there's no strength of proof there. The probative weight--it's a different encounter, a different person, different time, different conditions.

As the court points out, this--this is gonna lead to an unnecessary distraction to the fact finder because the government's gonna have to bring this person in here to say that these things happened and then surely, we are going to--to put on a case to rebut this because our position is that it's--it's not relevant here nor needs to be proven up.

The time to prove it is buried in those--those witnesses and the necessary time to--to prove that--to attempt to prove that up.

Temporal proximity--not there. This is more than two years ago. Frequency--this is--this is one time that we're talking about. Intervening circumstances--we're talking about high school graduation, Navy boot camp, leaving town, living on your own, deployment abroad; that there's--these two things couldn't be further removed from each other.

And lastly, the relationship between the parties. We're talking about kids in high school and we're talking about a young lady who--who was hiding from her parents by her own admissions within the evidence the court has, who didn't want her parents to know what was going on, who--who--who may--or actually may not have lined up with who she believed herself to be. She's got incredible motive to fabricate these allegations.

And to use them now to prove up common scheme, knowledge or intent for an offense that happened two years later in a country far, far away, simply, the prejudice is entirely too high for any probative value I would say, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That is the extent that I needed to comment on any of these--

MJ: Thank you.

Commander Serfess, you want to talk about the 413 issues?

DC: Just briefly. I mean, same, same. I mean, we--we--we've laid this out very clearly in--in our motion, and I think the 403 balancing test really speaks to this.

Yes, I understand it was just a few years ago, but it is when Seaman Copeland was a child. And so, the court should really consider that; of having a trial within a trial in this court-martial about, you know, juvenile offenses and how much weight that should really be given or how much value it has to any of the charged conduct that occurred after he joined the Navy and after he was an adult.

And the--it--I mean, the case law says that. The court should consider the fact that somebody was a child, and it is going to create a trial within a trial and have us call at least one extra witness but potentially an expert to speak to, you know, the mindset, you know, of--specifically of a child.

And we layout our defenses pretty clearly in our motion; that there are defenses here and the court has to consider that when considering the value of 413 evidence, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Thank you.

Government, you've got the burden, so I'll give you the last word on 404, 413.

ATC: Yes, Your Honor. Just one point on 404(b) with respect to K.M.B., who is a separate high school victim. The government does not intend to admit evidence of the underlying sexual encounter between the accused and K.M.B., merely the fact that he was under investigation, investigators were seeking his cell--cell phone, and that he hid that cell phone from investigators and it was never recovered. Just as it relates to his--the charged misconduct of hiding the cell phone with CSN--CSSN S.S. and with CS3 A.R. as well, Your Honor. And that's laid out in our motion as well.

MJ: So--so--and I read your motion. I understand. I--but I guess the--the point is that you're seeking to only admit that evidence that he was under investigation.

And how would--how would that play in front of the members if there's--there's this investigation on him and we're not gonna tell you what that's about, and during the investigation he allegedly hid his cell phone, and you should use that to show that he hides cell phones?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor. I understand your concern with that, but the probative value of that evidence is, again, just extreme, right?

We have two charged instances of him of hiding a cell phone with a semi plausible excuse both times. This just undermines--or, sorry, undermines those excuses and proves that he intentionally hid his phone. This would be the third time that he had done that.

A limiting instruction could be given, Your Honor, to--to make sure the members do not read into what that investigation may have been in to.

MJ: Okay. I understand now.

ATC: Thank you, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Thank you.

Okay. Again, I will, you know, continue to consider the well-crafted motions by both parties and the evidence you presented, and I will issue a ruling in due course.

I'm ready to move onto the next motion unless we want to take a health and comfort break.

DC: The defense would really like a health and comfort break.

MJ: Okay. It is 1035. Let's come back at 1045.

Ten minutes enough time?

DC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay. Court's in recess until 1045.

[The Article 39(a) session recessed at 1038, 10 December 2025.]

[The Article 39(a) session was called to order at 1052, 10 December 2025.]

MJ: This court is once again called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

Okay. During the break, the parties let me know that we'd like to take up the motion to suppress the search and seizure of the appellant's phone, statements he made, and the search of his barracks, so we'll take that up next.

So first is--well--well, government, do you have a preference which order we take these in?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: So, let's take up the motion to suppress the phone--the search and seizure of the phone. The government--the defense filed that in Appellate Exhibit XXVIII and submitted enclosures in Appellate Exhibit IX.

And then the government responded to all of the government--all of the defense's motions to suppress in Appellate Exhibit LVIII, with enclosures in LIX. So those are all appended to the record. We'll take that up now.

Government, you bear the burden, correct?

TC: That is correct.

MJ: Defense?

DC: So, I know that government's gonna call witnesses. We just plan to ask them all the questions though for all of the suppression motions, or do you want us to--

MJ: No. I think for judicial economy that makes sense.

DC: Okay.

MJ: Government, are you prepared to do that?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So--so I guess what you're telling the court is that these witnesses are relevant to suppressing the phones, suppressing the barracks--some may be--be relevant to each of the suppression motions; is that right?

DC: That's correct.

MJ: Okay. Then no need to call them more than once. Let's--let's take care of all the questions you have for each one while they're on the stand, okay?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Government, you have evidence.

TC: Thank you, Your Honor.

The government calls Special Agent Jessica Gokey.

MJ: Very well.

SPECIAL AGENT JESSICA GOKEY, NAVAL CRIMINAL INVESTIGATIVE SERVICE, was called as a witness by the government, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the trial counsel:

Q. Can you please state your full name and spell your last name?

A. Jessica Gokey, G-O-K-E-Y.

Q. And what is your current city and state of residence?

A. Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Q. What is your current occupation?

A. I'm a special agent with NCIS.

Q. And how long have you been a special agent with NCIS?

A. I was hired in March 2022.

Q. Do you have any prior law enforcement experience outside of NCIS?

A. Yes.

Q. What is that?

A. I was on active duty as a master-at-arms for eight years, and then I went into the reserves as a first-class master-at-arms.

Q. Can you describe for the military judge a little bit about your law enforcement training and education that you've received?

A. Yes.

So along with the military side of the training that I've received, I've also received professional training through FLETC, which is the federal law enforcement training center in Glynco, Georgia. That's approximately 900 hours worth of just basic agent training where I train in law, evidence, and how to do my job properly. I also have advanced training in ICAC related aspects of my job.

Q. Okay. And--so I want to draw your attention to the case of United States v. Copeland. What is your role in this case?

A. I'm the case agent.

Q. Okay. And you're the case agent specifically involving the--the cases--well, let me draw your attention to the case involving Seaman Copeland and Petty Officer Resendiz.

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, how did you become involved in this case?

A. On the 31st of June of this year, I was the duty agent, and I received a phone call from the SSA, who was the--in charge of well. And he called me that afternoon around like 1500-ish, and he had briefed me on the day's previous events involving two missing sailors from the base.

MJ: Special Agent Gokey, you--

WIT: Yes?

MJ: --you said 31 June. Is--you mean 31 May?

WIT: Yes. I'm sorry, yes.

TC: Thank you.

WIT: Thank you.

So that day, I received the phone call from Agent Miller. He back-briefed me a little bit on, you know, what happened previously before, and let me know that Mr. Copeland had come back; however, Ms. Resendiz was still missing.

And at that point, he asked me to come meet him down here on base, and we were actually gonna go talk to Mr. Copeland.

Q. Okay. Does NCIS investigate missing persons?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, did you have an opportunity on the 1st of June to speak with Seaman Copeland?

A. I did, yes.

Q. And where did that conversation take place?

A. In the X-2 barracks.

Q. Okay. And what, if anything, did Seaman Copeland tell you on the 1st of June?

A. He told me that him and Ms. Resendiz had made plans to, you know, make tacos. And they had been texting that, you know, Mr. Copeland was gonna go grab the ingredients to make those tacos and Ms. Resendiz was gonna be picked up by Mr. Copeland, brought back to his barracks, and they were gonna cook dinner and hang out together.

Mr. Copeland stated that they were, you know, listening to music and just having a good time. He stated that throughout the night, that Ms. Resendiz had some confrontations with some ex-boyfriends; that she had texted one of them "fuck you," and that kind of started, you know, this emotional rollercoaster of what she was on is how Mr. Copeland was essentially describing it. She called a couple other ex-boyfriends and just continued to have those conversations.

Mr. Copeland stated that eventually he had just gone to sleep. And then whenever we asked him some clarifying questions--you know, like had you-all had any sexual relations or any romantic relations that night, Mr. Copeland stated, no, they did not. They did not have a relationship like that.

We asked Mr. Copeland what happened, like, the next day, and Mr. Copeland had stated that he had used one of his roommate's vehicles to take her back to her barracks on Miller Hall, which is on base as well, at approximately 10 a.m.

Q. Okay. And so that was the 1st of June, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now between the 1st of June and the 3rd of June, did your investigation continue?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And just kind of give me some wave tops of--of what NCIS was doing to try to find Petty Officer Resendiz.

A. Yes.

So, we were pinging phones--her phone. We were pinging her phones. We were doing emergency orders to financials. We were calling friends, family. We were doing a lot of interviews and pulling anybody in who may or may not have seen her. We were receiving tips, so we were running those down. We were just attempting to track her last whereabouts at that point.

Q. Okay. And were those tips--tips of people who said they had seen her recently or things of that nature?

A. Correct, yes.

Q. Okay. Now a decision was made to reinterview Seaman Copeland on the 3rd of June; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. All right. And what was the--the purpose of that interview to--when you interviewed Seaman Copeland on the 3rd of June?

A. It was to clarify some discrepancies that had been brought up by talking to other individuals who were around.

Q. What were some of those other individuals?

A. Mr. Copeland's roommates.

Q. Okay. And what, if anything, did they tell you that was of interest?

A. So, the biggest thing would have been the three roommates had told me at that time that when they had left that morning, approximately 7:00 to 7:30 in the morning, that there was a woman. They did not know her name or couldn't really give much of a description except she had darker skin and darker hair; who was laying on the floor with her breasts out exposed. And that

Mr. Copeland was laying on her naked kind of on her hip, stomach area.

Q. Okay. Now when you--so on the 3rd of June, when you interviewed Seaman Copeland, did you think you were interviewing him in the course of a murder investigation?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. I had no reason to believe. I had no reasonable suspicion or probable cause to assume that something terrible had happened to Ms. Resendiz.

Q. Okay. Was the purpose you were just trying to find her?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Now, let's talk about how Seaman Copeland--like when he arrived at your interview. Did that interview take place at the NCIS field office here on Naval Station Norfolk?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And prior to him arriving to that June interview, did you obtain his iPhone 15?

A. I did, yes.

Q. And how did you obtain his cell phone?

A. So myself and a few other agents had gone to his barracks room to execute a command authorized search and seizure, a CASS, to search the barracks room for anything related to an--Ms. Resendiz, excuse me, or her herself.

So, whenever we arrived, I had three of my REACT members call everybody out, which is protocol for us to make the room safe and secure for us to go in and search. Everybody was called out, to include Mr. Copeland. He answered the door, he was taken back, and he was given to one of our investigators who--and he was promptly put in handcuffs for our safety. He was--you know, basic weapons search.

Then we pulled out all three of the roommates and they were all placed into handcuffs as well. And then we also found another young lady there, Ms. Cook, who we also pulled out. She was not placed into handcuffs, but she was physically restrained on the side of the room--or excuse me, the side of the hallway while my guys went in and cleared and made the room safe.

Once the room was determined to be safe, we allowed our NCRT team or our forensics team to go into the room and to begin their search based off of my CASS.

I then went to Mr. Copeland. I reintroduced myself. I also introduced Special Agent Duffy. And then I explained to him, you know, kind of what was going on; that I had that CASS, and that we were going to be searching the room; and that in the meantime, we are gonna take him down to my office here on Norfolk and have a talk if he chooses to do so.

Q. Okay. And so, at that time, did you seize his iPhone 15?

A. Correct, yes. So, it was found during the safety search.

Q. Okay.

A. The search of his person.

Q. And did you seize it based on probable cause?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And what facts led you to believe there was probable cause to seize his phone?

A. The previous conversation that I had had with Mr. Copeland he had stated that he had, you know, text messages between them; that he had spoken to Ms. Resendiz. And then also just in my training and knowledge I know that iPhones or phones in particular are always tracking our location, so I was working under, you know, what he had previously told me; that he had actually dropped her off. And so, I kind of--I wanted to see that.

Q. Okay. All right. Now let's talk about the interview itself. So before asking any substantive questions of Seaman Copeland, did you advise him of his Article 31(b) rights?

A. Yes.

Q. And what--and while you were explaining those rights to him, was he able to communicate with you clearly?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he appear to understand those rights?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he, in fact, tell you he understood those rights?

A. Yes.

Q. And what indication did you have that he understood what you were talking to him about and that he understood his rights?

A. Yes. So, the way that I specifically read rights, I read them in a way that I have since I was an MA. There's--I read the top paragraph to the individual who I'm speaking to, and then I read the rights themselves, the one through five.

I ask them multiple times, "do you understand. They either say yes or no. If they say no, I explain further. If they say yes, I have them initial next to that line and I explain to them you're not waiving your rights at this time. This is just letting me know and everybody know that you fully understand what I just read to you.

Once we get done to number five, I usually say words to the effect with--you know, do you understand these again, do you have any more questions. They say yes or no; we proceed forward.

I asked Mr. Copeland, you know, with your rights in mind, do you wish to have this conversation with me or proceed to have this conversation with me, words to those effect. He said yes, I'll talk. So, then I have--I have Mr. Copeland and everybody else I speak with read out the bottom paragraph.

And the reason why I do that is just so I can gauge, you know, their--their--use of their English language. Like, can they read it? You know, I can, you know, base my questions off of the way that they read it. I can see if they're nervous or not as well.

Q. Okay. And so, based on your assessment, did--did it appear that Seaman Copeland understood the rights advisement you provided him?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now let's talk a little bit about the--the duration of that interview. Is it fair to say the interview was about 3 hours and 17 minutes long?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And it began sometime between 9:00 and 9:30; is that fair?

A. That's fair.

Q. Okay. And during that interview, did you allow Seaman Copeland to take breaks?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you--do you provide him with water?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you provide him with food?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he ever tell you he was unable to continue the interview?

A. No.

Q. Did he ever appear disoriented during the interview?

A. No.

Q. Did he ever appear too tired to continue?

A. No.

Q. Did he ever tell you he was too tired to continue?

A. No.

Q. All right. Now while--you mentioned in the beginning that there was a--a command authorized search and seizure going on at Seaman Copeland's barracks room on the night of 3 June, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And was that going on at the same time your interview with Seaman Copeland was going on here on board Naval Station Norfolk?

A. Yes.

Q. Now we'll--at some point, you know, through the course of the--your investigation or NCIS's investigation, it was determined there was a presumptive positive field test for blood found in Seaman Copeland's closet in his barracks room, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, did you learn about this during the interview or after?

A. After.

Q. Okay. Now let's just briefly talk about that presumptive positive test. It's--I think the proprietary name is a Hemostick; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And can that field test ever give false positives to your knowledge?

A. Yes.

Q. Can that field test ever tell you whose blood--if it is blood--whose blood it is?

A. No.

Q. Okay. All right. Now, going back to the interview on 3 June with Seaman Copeland, did he provide you with oral permission to search his iPhone 15?

A. He did, yes.

Q. And so, you--you asked him for permission to search, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And he responded, yes?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he also provide you with his passcode?

A. He did, yes.

Q. And was it the correct passcode?

A. It was.

Q. During the--now you did present him with a written consent form, correct?

A. I did.

Q. And did he sign that written consent form for the iPhone 15?

A. No.

Q. Okay. But at the--did he ever tell you though don't search my phone?

A. No.

Q. Did he ever tell you I revoke my consent?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Now, let's talk a little bit about--now let's go from June 3rd to June 6th. In that time--sorry. Back up.

So, after the interview concluded with Seaman Copeland on the early morning hours of the 4th, did you take him back to his barracks room?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Okay. And after that search was complete, did you release the scene back to Seaman Copeland?

A. Yes.

Q. Now the next day, so on that--the day of the 4th, did you start the process to obtain a command authorized search and seizure for Seaman Copeland's iPhone 15?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you present that on the 4th or the 5th to the commanding officer of Naval Station Norfolk?

A. I believe it was the 5th.

Q. Okay. And was that CASS approved?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And is that the basis for which Seaman Copeland's phone was searched?

A. Correct.

Q. All right. Now let's talk about the 6 June interview. Did NCIS interview Seaman Copeland again on 6 June?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you conduct that interview?

A. I did not.

Q. Okay. Did you, however, provide the materials to those interviewers prior to their interview with Seaman Copeland?

A. Yes.

Q. Now at the time you complied those materials and I guess prebriefed those interviews, did you suspect Seaman Copeland of murder?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. I still at the time did not believe I had enough evidence.

Q. Okay. Would you consider him a person of interest?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Okay. Now for context, at the time of the interview on 6 June, had Petty Officer Resendiz's body been found?

A. No.

Q. Had USACIL provided DNA results for the blood found in the closet?

A. No.

Q. Had USACIL provided DNA results for the blood in the stairwell?

A. No.

Q. And were you still pursuing leads that she could possibly be alive?

A. Absolutely.

Q. All right. One moment, Your Honor, if I may.

All right. And with regard to that 6 June interview, did you remain at that interview, or did you go to leave to do something else?

A. I left.

Q. Okay. And with regard to the presumptive positive--or the--the blood found in Seaman Copeland's closet, was it of an amount that was significant to you at all?

A. No.

Q. And in--in what way? Was it--

A. There was obviously enough there to be tested and to be seen; however, it wasn't enough that would--I would think that a reasonable person could have been deceased from it. It wasn't enough.

TC: Okay. No further questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Thank you.

Defense counsel, cross-examination?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

Questions by the defense counsel:

Q. So, I just want to talk to you a little bit about the day that you searched and interviewed Seaman Copeland. So that day you got a CASS, the 3rd of June?

A. Correct.

Q. And you wrote the affidavit?

A. Yes.

Q. And you drafted the--the CASS?

A. Yes.

Q. And the CASS states that you were authorized to search in the case of United States v. Angelina Copeland but that was a typo, right?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Then the affidavit states that--facts in the criminal investigation into United States v. Angelina Resendiz.

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. And so, in the affidavit you describe facts that lead you to believe that you would find evidence of a crime.

A. Yes.

Q. Specifically, evidence of unauthorized absence.

A. Yes.

Q. And then the items that you were authorized to search for were in the affidavit.

A. Yes.

Q. Because earlier you just testified that you were looking for any evidence of--of Resendiz, but that's not what the--the CASS authorized, right?

A. Fair.

Q. There was a list of items that you guys were authorized to look for.

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. For instance, used condoms.

A. Correct.

Q. So, can you explain to the court how a used condom would be evidence of an unauthorized absence?

A. Well, at that point, we were operating under what your client had said earlier; that him and Ms. Resendiz did not engage in any romantic or sexual relations. I was still kind of operating under the assumption that perhaps Mr. Copeland did know where she was or had, you know, dropped her off somewhere else at that point.

So, with her being, you know, still gone and him saying they've never engaged in any sexual encounters and then with the roommates saying that, you know, they saw presumptually[sic] Ms. Resendiz or just a--a female with their breasts open--or, excuse me, exposed and him being naked, I--we could surmise that perhaps, you know, there may potentially be the crime of sexual assault at that point or anything else along those lines.

That's why we were looking for potentially, like, used condoms or any signs of maybe some sexual activity.

Q. So, again, unauthorized absence though. How would the used condom be evidence of unauthorized absence? I'm just trying to--you know, there needs to be a nexus between the items that you were looking for and the crime that you suspect the person of doing.

So, at this--according to this, you--it's confusing because there's some typos. You either suspect Seaman Copeland or Seaman Resendiz of unauthorized absence, right?

A. Both.

Q. Both of them. Okay.

Explain the nexus between a used condom and unauthorized absence for the court.

A. That's the best explanation I can give to you at this moment, ma'am.

Q. Okay. And if you did find--why did you think that you would find a used condom?

A. Like I said earlier, your client said that there's no sexual activity. The roommates somewhat give me a little bit more that there may have potentially been, so that's why we were looking for that.

Q. Is the--this--the standard for probable cause is a reasonable belief that you would find the thing that you're looking for in the place that you're looking for it at, right?

A. Um-hmm.

Q. So, he says that he didn't have sex with her. The roommates say that they saw her in some sort of disrobe. What made you believe that you would find a used condom in the room?

A. Just in my training and experience I have investigated numerous sexual assaults or sexual contacts. I just know at most times that sometimes we are gonna find pieces of evidence, to include condoms and condom wrappers.

Q. Okay. So, let's--let's talk a little bit about the search that was actually conducted. So, you weren't there.

A. Correct.

Q. But you briefed the agents who were--who were gonna conduct the search before they went.

A. Correct.

Q. And you told them what the CASS authorized and to search for.

A. Yes.

Q. And you would agree they weren't supposed to be searching for anything belonging to Resendiz. That there was a limit to the CASS, which was the list--the things that were listed in the--the affidavit.

A. Things listed in the affidavit, yes.

Q. Okay. So, did you know that they were gonna use electronic detection storage device dogs?

A. Yes.

Q. You did know that?

A. Um-hmm.

Q. Anywhere in the CASS authorize that?

A. No.

Q. Okay. And did you know they were gonna use Bluestar?

A. Yes.

Q. And was there anything in the CASS that permitted that?

A. We were searching for DNA and blood, and that is a tool we use to find that.

Q. Anything in the CASS authorizing the use of Bluestar?

A. No.

Q. Did you know that they were gonna use cadaver dogs?

A. I knew we had one on scene.

Q. And was there anything in the CASS that permitted them to look for cadaver dogs?

A. No.

Q. And I don't know a lot about cadaver dogs, but they're looking for a cadaver, which is another word for a dead body, right?

A. That is a question beyond my scope. I do not know the answer to that.

Q. Okay. But you would agree that the word "cadaver" means dead body.

A. Well, that's not--I believe--again, I believe that's not their actual title as that K9. I could be wrong.

Q. Okay. What did you think--I mean, it wasn't in the CASS, so you didn't write it in the CASS. Did--did you--and you knew they were using the cadaver dogs. What did you think that the cadaver dogs would find that would be evidence of an unauthorized absence?

Q. At that point, with the use of that specific K9, they were a tool that was presented to us. We had multiple agencies and multiple individuals throughout the entire state say, hey, do you need us, do you want to use us, because that--our K9s, our Bluestar, the Hemosticks--they're all tools that we have in our tool belt that we can use. And so, they were there, they offered their service, and we took it upon ourselves to use them.

Q. Well, that didn't answer my question. What evidence of unauthorized absence did you think the cadaver dogs would--would find?

A. Any--I don't know exactly what all they hit on so, again, that would be out of my purview. Or excuse me, signal on.

Q. Okay. So, when you showed up to Copeland's room for the search, that's when you took him to the interview room.

A. Yes. We got him out of the room and then I, along with a couple other agents, took him to U-40.

Q. Okay. And you arrested him, essentially.

A. He was detained.

Q. And you searched him.

A. Correct.

Q. Put him in cuffs.

A. Correct.

Q. Put him in the back of your car.

A. Correct.

Q. And seized his phone.

A. Correct.

Q. And you seized his phone because you believed that you had probable cause to do so.

A. Correct.

Q. But you didn't have a CASS.

A. Not at that moment.

Q. So, what gave you the authority to seize his phone at that time?

A. If I have reason to believe that there is evidence or fruits of a crime on any piece of electronic, I am authorized to seize it and place it into either our evidence facility or hold onto it until a point whereas I can apply for a CASS or a warrant and then I can execute the actual search of that device.

Q. So, you believe that you do not need a CASS or a warrant to seize somebody's property.

A. Correct, if I have probable cause to believe that there is evidence on there.

Q. And you had probable cause or you believe that you had probable cause to seize his phone before you even got to his room, right?

A. Correct.

Q. But you didn't ask for a warrant when you were submitting the CASS to the CO for the room. You didn't ask for a warrant for Seaman Copeland's room--I mean for Seaman Copeland's phone.

A. Not at that moment. My priority was getting into that room.

Q. Okay. So, I'd like to talk a little bit about the interview with--with Copeland. So, you read him his rights and told him that he was suspected of violating Article 86, unauthorized absence, and a violation of Article 107, false statement, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you did not provide him any cleansing warning for the previous times he was questioned, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you suspected him of being UA but not at that moment, right?

A. No, because he had been found.

Q. Okay. And this is for the three days that he was--didn't come to the ship.

A. Correct.

Q. What statement did you suspect was false at that time?

A. The--him and Ms. Resendiz engaging in any sexual activity or romantic activity.

Q. And why did you think that was false?

A. Just based off of the roommate's testimony previously about her--presumptuously her, excuse me, being half naked on his floor.

Q. Okay. And you would agree that the purpose of the rights advisement is to, like, orient the suspect, right, to what--what you're about to talk about?

A. Absolutely, yes.

Q. Okay. But then during the interview you tell him that NCIS doesn't investigate unauthorized absence.

A. Essentially, we don't.

Q. Okay. And you don't, at the time, suspect him of a homicide or a kidnapping or harming A.R. in any way.

A. No.

Q. So why did you read him his rights then? If NCIS doesn't investigate unauthorized absence and you don't suspect him of--of hurting A.R., why do you even read him his rights?

A. I was gonna ask him incriminating questions. And in--the in--let's say if Ms. Resendiz had shown up and she was unharmed and she was okay, the conversation that me and Mr. Copeland had about his unauthorized absence, I could have been able to turn over to command so then they could have used that as evidence against him for his unauthorized absence.

So, if I'm asking any sailor any incriminating question, I'm obligated to read them their rights prior.

Q. Did you interview a CSSN Richardson as part of this investigation?

A. I believe so. I don't recall exactly who all I interviewed on that.

Q. She is an alleged victim on the domestic violence case, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you interviewed her.

A. Correct, me and another agent.

Q. And you did not read her--her rights; and during that interview, you told her that you weren't reading her rights because you weren't gonna use any of this against her in the conduct that she was suspected of, right?

A. Correct.

Q. So, during the--the interview, there were times where you and Special Agent Duffy leave the room.

A. Yes.

Q. But there's a camera feed and you guys can see the other end of that camera outside of the--the room, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And did--so did you--you were able to see--or somebody was keeping an eye on Seaman Copeland during those times.

A. Correct.

Q. And he was sleeping during those times, right?

A. His head was down.

Q. You could--did you hear him snoring?

A. I did not. I was in a different room.

Q. And during that interview of Seaman Copeland, you found out that one of the cadaver dogs signaled on a backpack?

A. Correct.

Q. But you still didn't suspect him of harming A.R.

A. Nope.

Q. So, we talked a little bit about the--the verbal consent and then he did not want to sign the--the written consent.

A. Correct.

Q. Then later on in the interview you asked him to consent to a search of the--the barracks.

A. Correct.

Q. And he does that.

A. Yes.

Q. And then you re-ask him if he would like to consent to the search of his phone.

A. I believe Agent Duffy asked those.

Q. Um-hmm.

A. But on the PASS, we had the backpack, the barracks, and the iPhone.

Q. Well, that's not what it says, but--so--but he; wouldn't sign the consent form for his iPhone 15.

A. For the first PASS.

Q. That's correct.

A. No, he did not.

Q. And then when you get back to the room, you take him with you, right, to his room?

A. Correct.

Q. And you didn't hear when he asked to have his phone back?

A. No.

Q. Did Special Agent Duffy ever tell you that he asked for his phone back?

A. I don't recall her saying that to me.

Q. Okay. Hold on one second.

A. Um-hmm.

Q. Do you recall what day you gave the--the phone to the digital forensics?

A. I believe it was on the 4th.

Q. Okay. So that--that same day.

How did you know that the passcode was correct?

A. We checked it.

Q. And did you put the phone in airplane mode?

A. Absolutely.

Q. And what material did you give to the agents for the 6 June interview?

A. Every morning prior to us breaking out into our groups to continue on with the investigation, we would do a big brief in the morning, so they knew about everything that had been happening prior to. I gave them a copy of the previous interview with your client, and then I just spoke with them in person.

Q. Okay. So, before you interviewed Seaman Copeland on even the 3rd, you had a conference about what to notify him of, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And OSTC, the--the trial counsel, were present at that?

A. Correct.

Q. And then--so just tell me about how you guys decided to read him his rights for UA and false official statement.

A. If I recall correctly, I was talking with Commander Mayo and Lieutenant Commander Dempsey, along with another previous OSTC who has since left, and, again, if I was gonna ask him any incriminating questions about him being absent from his command those three days--you know, I was gonna ask him where were you, items like that--I had to read him for that specifically. And then also we came to the conclusion also with the 107 like I gave earlier.

Q. And during the interview, the trial counsel were also there to consult with during the--the interview.

A. Yes.

Q. And at no time did--you know, with the signaling of the cadaver dog and the search of the room, at no time did anyone decide that--that they should read him his rights for a homicide or a kidnapping or in any way harming A.R.?

A. No, that would have been premature.

DC: No further questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Government, do you have any redirect for Special Agent Gokey?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the trial counsel:

Q. All right. Special Agent Gokey, I just, like, want to ask you a few questions in response to some of the questions that defense talked to you about.

Let's talk first about the purpose of this investigation at the onset, so starting on 31 May of 2025. What was the purpose of this investigation?

A. We had two missing sailors.

Q. Okay.

A. And one had been found at that point. The other one was still missing.

Q. Okay. And was it important to your investigation to understand the relationship between the parties involved?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Was it important for your investigation to know the relationship between the missing sailor and the last person that she had that--that had seen her alive?

A. Yes.

Q. And would knowing if the two were in a romantic relationship be important to your investigation?

A. Yes.

Q. So, would knowing if the two had a sexual relationship--like a romantic relationship rising to a sexual relationship be important to your investigation?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So--so talking to--like, directly speaking to the--the condoms listed--the used condoms or wrappers in the CASS. Finding those used condoms in a room would be helpful to your investigation?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Defense asked you about the use of Bluestar and whether or not that was covered by the CASS. Do CASSs detail the tools that you may use to conduct your search?

A. No.

Q. So, would a CASS ask you--or would a CASS tell you that you could use a magnifying glass?

A. No.

Q. Would a CASS tell you that you can use a camera?

A. No.

Q. Would a CASS, you know--so this CASS authorized you to look for DNA, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And what--and Bluestar illuminates blood; is that correct?

A. Blood and unfortunately other items as well.

Q. Okay. So, would the use of Bluestar help further--help you find items listed in Attachment (b) of that command authorized search and seizure?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Let's talk about the use of a cadaver dog. Do you--what is the--what is the purpose of--of a cadaver dog?

A. From my vague understanding, they hit on--excuse me--they signal on specific odors to include decomp.

Q. Okay. And is it--is it fair to say that if someone committed suicide in the--in that room that the cadaver dog might alert?

A. Potentially, yes.

Q. Okay. And the cadaver dog did alert to an item in that room, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And was that item ultimately searched?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was that item?

A. It was a backpack with some personal belongings of Mr. Copeland's.

Q. Okay. Did--was anything of evidentiary value found in that book bag?

A. No.

Q. Okay. All right. One moment, Your Honor.

All right. The last thing I want to talk to you about is defense asked you about whether or not NCIS investigates unauthorized absence. Earlier you said NCIS does investigate missing persons investigation--or does missing person investigations, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now when a--when a service member is a missing person, is that a UA?

A. Technically, yes.

Q. Okay. And so, in this case you were searching for a service member, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And so, in this case you were investigating UA.

A. Yes.

TC: Okay. No further questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense, recross?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Is Special Agent Gokey subject to recall?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. I don't have any questions for you, Special Agent Gokey.

You want--you want her subject to recall?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, Special Agent Gokey, I'm gonna temporarily excuse you from these proceedings. But while the proceedings last, please don't discuss your testimony with--with anyone except the counsel involved and just be available to--be on standby if you need to be recalled, but you can step down. Thank you.

WIT: Thank you, Your Honor.

[The witness was warned, excused, and withdrew from the witness stand.]

MJ: Trial counsel, additional evidence on this motion--on these motions?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

The governmental next calls Special Agent Danielle Ortiz.

MJ: Very well.

SUPERVISORY SPECIAL AGENT DANIELLE ORTIZ, NAVAL CRIMINAL INVESTIGATIVE SERVICE, was called as a witness by the government, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the trial counsel:

Q. Can you please state your full name and spell your last for the record?

A. Sure. My name is Danielle Ortiz, O-R-T-I-Z.

Q. And what is your current city and state of residence?

A. Norfolk, Virginia.

Q. Okay. And what is your current employment?

A. I am a supervisory special agent at NCIS.

Q. How long have you been with NCIS?

A. Since 2011.

Q. Okay. Do you have any other law enforcement experience?

A. I do not.

Q. Okay. As a supervisory special agent, can you explain to the court what--what that is?

A. Sure. I've been a supervisor since 2023, so I essentially have oversight over the daily duties of our special agents. So, it's their--their actions, their reports, their kind of just day to day on what we do.

Q. Okay. Can you give us a little look into the training and education you've received to be a law enforcement officer?

A. Sure. So, it started with obviously going to the Federal Law Enforcement Training Academy. That was the first thing that we all do. We go through CITP, and then a NCIS add-on.

After that, we go into the field and kind of choose our own paths in terms of what our interests are. So, after that, we are required to take a lot of basic training for our common cases--sexual assault, domestic violence, things like that. So those were all the things I did early on in my career.

Q. Okay. So, I want to draw your attention to the 3rd of June, 2025. Were you involved in the search of--one of the searches--the initial search of Seaman Copeland's barracks room?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And prior to conducting that search, can you give us a sense of, you know, the information that you were provided about what the purpose of that--of that search was?

A. Yes. The information that was provided was that Ms. Resendiz was missing for several days and that was kind of it; that she had been seen in that room, and that was kind of it, so not much more.

Q. And were you provided--or were you read what the command authorized search and seizure authorized you to look for?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Okay. Now, before we get into what happened in the room, I want to talk generally about NCIS and their mission to search for missing persons. I guess, does NCIS investigate cases involving missing persons?

A. We do. Missing persons, anyone that's UA has become sort of a huge staple with NCIS in the past two to three years. It even has its own case category now. We have two different case categories.

So typically, we receive calls from command in terms of sailors that haven't come to work or perhaps are experiencing suicidal ideations. After consulting with command, going through a small list of, hey, what actions have you taken, right, it's typically on us to do more law enforcement techniques. So that could be pinging phones, working with local law enforcement, do welfare checks, other sort of local tactics that we could use in terms of where this person last was, things like that.

So, we're doing that, running surveillance, knock and talks, all just for sailors who don't come to work.

Q. Okay. And was that the purpose of this investigation in the beginning?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Okay. So--so let's talk--so after you were briefed on what the command authorized search and seizure allowed you to look for, walk us through how the team conducted the search of that barracks room.

A. Sure. So, we had composed a small team with MCRT members. If you want me to discuss kind of that and--

Q. Sure.

A. Okay. So MCRT is our Major Case Response Team that NCIS has that's composed of people who have certain forensic qualifications.

So, for me, my training, I've been a certified CSI since 2016. I've certified twice through my own accreditation through the IAI, which is the International Association of Identification. I've taken almost every training that's under the sun, forensically, for NCIS.

I've been a forensic associate. I've been a forensic consultant where I ran forensics solely by myself for two years when I was in Okinawa. And then I came here after being afloat and then becoming a supervisor. I was asked to be a team lead based off of my forensic qualifications.

So, it's not normal to have an SSA as a TL from CRT, but because myself and our other TL are also accredited as CSIs, we run the teams here in Norfolk. So, I want to give you that background.

So, I'm CRT--going back to that. We have two teams here. We have Team A, Team B. I run Team A. So, we do anything that has to deal with a team that could do a search, a crime scene. Anything that's gathering evidence, we're going because we're trained and we always are at the ready, we're on call, and we have the equipment.

So, we started identifying a team of people who could--who were available and who were forensically qualified to go into the room and conduct the search. So, the--the process is the same no matter what.

So, essentially, we get the team together, we do an equipment check, we do a PPE check, and then Jessica, who's the case agent--Special Agent Gokey, sorry--brought us the CASS and so we knew kind of what we were doing in terms of what we were looking for.

We go to the scene, work with the facility manager to get into the room, and all this is documented through notes, right? We have a notetaker. Sorry. I'm not trying to bore you, but I'm trying to give you the background.

So, we have specific roles in terms of a team lead, a notetaker, a photographer, and someone who manages evidence, and some miscellaneous personnel who can either help bag or doing time or just making a log of who's coming and who's going, right?

So, we get to the room, and it's an automatic, okay, we're gonna walk through and we're gonna see what we have. That's always kind of step number one; what equipment do we need, what do we see in terms of that's just out in plain view that we need to process.

Then after that, it's overall photography, so we do everything in situ, which means as it is in place, and then we always do our reminders in terms of if you see anything, raise your hand and we'll come over and take a photograph, right? Don't touch it, don't move it. Meanwhile, we also have a sketcher too. I hate that role so I always forget it. So that person's also taking measurements and things like that.

So, we go through, we identify everything, and then at that point after the overall photography is when we go hands-on. So, if we're going through drawers or looking for things, if you find something that you think is important, the TL will come over and take a look. We'll capture it via photography and decide whether or not we want to take it. That was the process that was done for that room. Standard.

Q. Okay. I still want to talk to you a little bit about Seaman Copeland's closet.

A. Okay.

Q. Did you gain access to that closet?

A. Yes.

Q. And why did you do that?

A. It was part of the CASS.

Q. Okay. And what did you believe you would find inside of that closet that would help you find Petty Officer Resendiz?

A. Well, it was so much I think when we--her--anything related to her is what we were looking for; her personal belongings. That's--that's the short of the question.

However, when we went into the room, he didn't have a lot of things. So, we knew that there could potentially be more in the closet; clothing, electronics, ID, uniforms. I mean, specifically, we were looking for items that people said she had been seen with, and that was, like, number one. Backpack, uniform, things like that, any ID card or room--room key, things like that we were looking for.

Q. Okay. And did you remove all the items that were in that closet?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And once you removed the items from the closet, what, if anything, drew your attention?

A. So before, if I can just kind of give you an overview because we were very methodical and there was a--the closet had--so there--there's a break between--there's a threshold where there's like a metal strip and it goes from carpet to tile.

So, the closet--the tile in front of the closet was sticky. So, before we even opened the door, we had assumed there had been something on the floor. Maybe it hadn't been cleaned or maybe it was cleaned. We didn't know. So, we wanted to kind of see what was causing that residue.

So, when we open the closet, it's natural. We went through all the clothes one by one, moved them all out so we could see the bare tile. And it was still just kind of sticky and brown, and so that was kind of, like, what we saw initially.

In the left corner of the closet, there was a small, almost looked like a sticker I think we labeled it as, maybe a clothing tag--something like that just to give people an idea of what it is--that had moisture and it was brownish-reddish in color.

Q. Okay. And what did that indicate to you that it might be?

A. I wasn't sure at the time to be honest with you, and so we decided to test it in addition to testing the sticky residue.

Q. Okay. And how did you test it?

A. We used Hemosticks and swabs. The swabs can't tell us anything. They're just collection and they go into a bag.

So, a Hemostick is a presumptive test that--to get kind of geeky--it just reacts with the peroxide that's in your hemoglobin, right? It's just a field test. It's a small strip, and it gives you a positive or a negative. A negative is no coloring. A positive, you're looking for yellow to green. Green is more positive than yellow, so, yes.

Q. Okay. And--and when you conducted the--the test with the Hemostick on that sticker--

A. Um-hmm.

Q. --what, if anything, did it indicate?

A. It turned green, so it--it was a positive presumptive. So, we tested the tag, and we tested the tile below the tag as well because it had a small sort of partially crusty, partially moisture residue, and so we processed that as well. Also tested positive, and then we collected the dryer part of the residue and put it into a glassine envelope. Small clear bag.

Q. That Hemostick test can't tell you whose blood it is though.

A. No.

Q. Okay. Or even if it really is blood.

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. And can you give the military judge a sense of, like, how much of this brown residue was--was present in the closet?

A. Maybe somewhere--I would say a little bit larger than the size of a quarter or stamp. So, it's a--the best size I can give you is you know the tag in the back of your shirt, that's what it looked like, sir.

MJ: Okay.

Questions by the trial counsel:

Q. All right. So, after conducting the--the field test for blood on--on that--on the closet, what's--what did you--what did your team do next with regard to the closet?

A. Well, after--so I just want to make sure that we're talk--all these steps are memorialized through photography. I want everyone to know that, right? Before we touch it, we photograph it. Then we process it, we photograph it. We even photograph the Hemostick, right? I mean, it's super detailed.

So, after we pick it up, we do some more swabs, and then we know we have a presumptive, so the natural progression is to Bluestar it, right? Let's see if we can get it to light up.

Q. Okay. And did you do that in this case?

A. Yes.

Q. What are some of the limitations, if you know, of the use of Bluestar?

A. It--it has to be--I mean, it's also a--it's also a reactive, so you have to have complete darkness. Not--I mean, it's--you can't see--you can't see it. We knew that there was something there because of the presumptive, right? So, after it's applied, it's just--you can't overapply. I mean, that's just kind of one of the--one of the limitations, right? You don't want to saturate it too much. So, we kind of knew that we had only a couple tries to get it, and so we just kind of went for it.

Q. Does it ever react to, like, cleaning agents or things like that?

A. Oh, sure. Yeah. I mean, it's meant to. It's the--so to give you some--some context--I mean, I think everyone understands the sticks. So Bluestar is--it's a tablet that goes into distilled water and it's mixed and it dissolves with that distilled water, and then it's sprayed onto the surface.

So, it's meant to illuminate with the red blood cells in your hemoglobin. However, it can pick up detergent. It can tell you if a place has been cleaned, right? So, it will fluoresce. However, the--the glow is different; meaning if it's bleach, right, it will be a duller glow and it won't last for as long. That's not what we saw.

Q. Okay. So, after finding the presumptive positive with the Hemostick and then the results with the Bluestar, did you think you were investigating a murder scene?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. Because it's--one is that you never know what you have, right? You don't--I mean, we're getting these--these field positives, but I also understand that these--it's--it's a field test for a reason because it needs to be processed in a controlled lab, right? So, it's always like we'll take it and we'll let the lab decide, right?

It's also my experience doing hundreds if not thousands of crime scenes that most people that occupy these rooms don't live very clean and, also, the barracks really aren't that clean either. So, it could have been something that was left over from, you know, prior to when Seaman Copeland lived there. So, we just didn't know.

Q. Okay. Now the--the team also used a cadaver dog, correct?

A. Um-hmm.

Q. Can you explain to me what--what the purpose of the use of that cadaver dog was?

A. So, the cadaver dog was offered as a service for us, right? And so, I didn't want to turn down the service, and I'm never gonna turn down having a dog around, right? So, we offered to have the dog come to the scene and just do a quick run-through before we did--before we processed anything to see if there was any scent or if the dog picked up on anything that would help us in what we were looking for; was kind of just, hey, it's a service that's available so we're--we're gonna take it.

And there really wasn't any reason or suspicion. It was just kind of like if you have a service to offer that can help us with something that we can't see with the naked eye, then we'll take it.

Q. It was a tool that could be used to find Petty Officer Resendiz though, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And items that she might have had on her possession--

A. Yes.

Q. --or on her person?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. If something had happened to her.

A. Yes.

Q. Now did the dog provide some alert to an item in Seaman Copeland's room?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was that?

A. The backpack.

Q. Okay. And were you present during the search of that book bag?

A. Yes.

Q. And what, if anything, of evidentiary value was found in the book bag?

A. I mean, it--I think it was his--his gym bag. I mean, he would have to confirm, but it looked as if there was gym items in there if I recall. Like deodorant and maybe some shower materials, so...

Q. And is that a common that--or is it possible for, you know, cadaver dogs and dogs of that nature to hit on items with excessive sweat?

A. Absolutely. It's body odor, so it's a scent. So--and he, you know--he--he kind of gave us an overview saying, you know, the dog has different tiers of--we'll call it hitting, right? So, it can be--a hit would be when the dog lays down, right? A signal could be a spin, right? The dog kind of goes in a circle, right? It shows interest.

And so that's what happened with the backpack. And it turned out--I mean, and he said right then and there, listen, we're in the month of June. It's hot. If Seaman Copeland's wearing that bag walking, you know, around base, it's gonna have his natural scent and his odor on it. And that was what, you know, Andrew explained to us--the dog handler.

Q. Okay. So, the use of the Hemostick and Bluestar and the cadaver dog, although not explicitly listed in the CASS as a tool, did you believe you were authorized to--to use those tools to find Petty Officer Resendiz?

A. Can you repeat the question in a more--

Q. Yeah. Let me--I need to rephrase that.

Are--are the tools that you're able to use to conduct your search ever listed in a CASS?

A. No.

Q. Okay. So, did you feel you were authorized to utilize Bluestar in the course of your search?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay.

A. It was the natural progression of what we were finding.

Q. The same with the Hemostick?

A. Yes.

Q. And the cadaver dog?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And at the conclusion of your search, did you release the scene back to Seaman Copeland?

A. Yes.

TC: Okay. One moment if I may, Your Honor?

MJ: Okay.

TC: No further questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Cross-examination?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Subject to recall?

TC: No, Your Honor.

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: All right. Supervisory Special Agent Ortiz, thank you for your testimony.

WIT: Thank you, sir.

MJ: You are permanently excused. Please don't--hold on one second. Please don't discuss your testimony with anyone else and while--as long as the trial continues except for counsel involved.

WIT: Yes, sir.

MJ: Thank you very much. You're excused.

WIT: Thank you. Have a good day.

[The witness was warned, excused, and withdrew from the witness stand.]

MJ: Do you have additional witnesses--

TC: One, Your Honor.

MJ: --on this motion?

Okay. Let's take a five-minute health and comfort and then we'll come back and take your next witness.

So, court's in recess until--till five till.

[The Article 39(a) session recessed at 1152, 10 December 2025.]

[The Article 39(a) session was called to order at 1159, 10 December 2025.]

MJ: This court-martial's called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

Trial counsel.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

The government next calls Special Agent Bee Duffy.

MJ: Very well.

SPECIAL AGENT BERNADETTE DUFFY, NCIS, was called as a witness by the government, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the trial counsel:

Q. Can you please state your full name for the record?

A. I'm Special Agent Bernadette Duffy.

Q. And spell your last name for the record?

A. D-U-F-F-Y.

Q. And what is your current city and state of residence?

A. Chesapeake, Virginia.

Q. Okay. Are you currently employed?

A. Yes.

Q. Where are you employed?

A. With the Naval Criminal Investigative Service.

Q. And how long have you been an NCIS agent?

A. Approximately six years.

Q. Do you have any prior law enforcement experience?

A. I do.

Q. Tell me about that.

A. I was a member of the Norfolk Police Department for eight years.

Q. Okay. Can you talk to the military judge, like, wave tops of your training and education in law enforcement?

A. Yes. So, I went through the Norfolk Police Academy, where I was a patrol officer for approximately three years and then I became a detective. So, I've been through various specialized training to include interview training, search and seizure training, things of that nature.

Q. Okay. In your capacity as an NCIS agent, have you ever been attached to a ship as the agent afloat?

A. I have, yes.

Q. And which ship was that?

A. The USS Harry S. Truman.

Q. And--and when were you the agent afloat on the USS Harry S. Truman?

A. I began underways with the Truman in January of '24 throughout the course of that year, and then I finished the deployment with them on the 1st of June of this year.

Q. Was Seaman Copeland a member of the USS Harry S. Truman while you were an agent afloat?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So, prior to 3 June of this year, had you had the opportunity to meet with Seaman Copeland?

A. Yes.

Q. And had you interviewed him?

A. Yes.

Q. Approximately how many times had you interviewed him?

A. Approximately five times--five interactions with Seaman Copeland on the ship.

Q. And were those related to cases involving victims on the USS Truman?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And during those interactions, did you read him his 31(b) rights?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And did he appear to have any difficulty understanding them?

A. No.

Q. Any--during any of those previous five interactions, did he ever--did you ever observe any difficulty on Seaman Copeland's part communicating with you?

A. No.

Q. Or understanding the conversation?

A. No.

Q. Following the conversation?

A. No.

Q. Did he respond appropriately and coherently to questions you asked him?

A. Yes.

Q. And during some of those interviews, you even talked about his family, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. He asked you questions about how to become a law enforcement officer?

A. Correct.

Q. During any of those previous interactions, did you have any concerns about Seaman Copeland's ability to understand you?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Now, you mentioned that you had the opportunity to interview him. Have you--previous to 3 June, had you had the opportunity to ask him for a consent to search?

A. Yes.

Q. Approximately how many times had you discussed with him a request to consent to search?

A. Approximately three to four.

Q. Okay. And during those times where you advised him about his rights to consent to search, did he appear confused in any way?

A. No.

Q. Have any difficulty understanding you?

A. No.

Q. Did he in fact grant you consent to search?

A. Yes.

Q. And were at least one of those occasions an oral request to search?

A. Correct.

Q. And on all those occasions after you requested to search, you did in fact search?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. All right. Now I want to talk to you about the 3 June interview. Were you present during Seaman Copeland's 3 June interview on board Naval Station Norfolk at the NCIS field office?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was your role during that interview?

A. I was a secondary agent in the interview.

Q. Okay. And prior to that interview, what was your--what was your impression of the investigative posture of the case?

A. My impression of the investigative posture was that at that time it was a missing person's case. So, I had just a wave top understandings. The ship had pulled in I think approximately two days prior, and I was at the field office for an unrelated reason that day.

And when I was speaking with Special Agent Gokey, she mentioned that Seaman Copeland was with Seaman Resendiz prior to her disappearance, so that was my understanding of his involvement.

Q. Okay. Did you suspect at that point that you're interrogating a murder suspect?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. My understanding of the facts that were understood by NCIS at that time--and, again, I didn't have the full read out--was that there was no indication that she was deceased.

Q. Okay. So, let's talk about the beginning of that interview. Was Seaman Copeland advised of his Article 31(b) rights before questioning him?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he indicate to you that he understood those rights?

A. I believe Special Agent Gokey read his rights, but, yes, I was in the room when he indicated he understood.

Q. Now based on your previous interactions with him, the multiple prior rights advisements that you were a part of, did he appear to fully comprehend those warnings?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he agree to speak with you and Special Agent Gokey?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Let's talk about his demeanor during that interview. Did--through the course of that interview, did he ever appear confused or impaired in any way? Or I'm sorry, cognitively; had difficulty understanding you.

A. He didn't appear to have difficulty understanding me.

Q. Okay. Did he ever appear to be too tired to continue?

A. No. He appeared to be tired. I believe he was sleeping during breaks in the interview, but I did reengage with him when we walked in and say are you still good.

Q. And how did he respond?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And were breaks provided to him throughout the interview?

A. Yes.

Q. And after each break, did he reengage to continue the interview?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. All right. Let's talk about the consent request to--or the request to search his iPhone 15. Did--did Special Agent Gokey ask for consent to search Seaman Copeland's iPhone 15?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he provide oral consent to search that phone?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he provide the passcode to that phone?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he appear to understand what he was consenting to?

A. Yes.

Q. And later, when he was presented with that written consent form, he declined to sign it?

A. Yes.

Q. But did he ever tell you that he revoked his consent?

A. He never revoked consent in a way that I would consider to be an unequivocal revocation of consent.

Q. Okay. Did he ever tell you, I--you know, don't search my phone?

A. No.

Q. Okay. And after the interview was concluded, was Seaman Copeland taken back to his barracks room?

A. Yes.

Q. And, to your knowledge, was the scene then released to him at the conclusion of that search?

A. I don't have any direct knowledge of the scene releases. I had left after the interview.

TC: Okay.

One moment, Your Honor, if I may.

MJ: Sure.

Questions by the trial counsel:

Q. Were you present when--did Seaman Copeland, at the--at his barracks, ask for his phone back?

A. I'm sorry. Can you rephrase the question?

Q. Sure.

Were you present where--or was there ever a time when Seaman Copeland, at his barracks, asked that his phone be returned to him?

A. Yes. So, I--I cannot recall specifically if it was at the barracks or in the vehicle on the way back. I can't recall that piece, but I do recall him asking something to the effect of can I get my phone back. And I explained to him that we were seizing it at that time. We were going to apply for a CASS, not saying that we were gonna get one or we weren't, but it would be returned to him in the event that we didn't obtain a CASS. And to be clear, I--I wasn't involved in the CASS process.

Q. Okay. Were you involved in the seizure process?

A. I don't recall.

TC: Okay.

All right. No further questions, Your Honor.

Thank you.

MJ: Defense counsel, cross-examination?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant defense counsel (LCDR MORGAN):

Q. Good afternoon, Special Agent Duffy.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. So, I kind of want to--let's just start from the top. So how exactly did you get involved with this investigation?

A. So, I--after pull-in, I was at the NCIS office for an unrelated reason. And--well, it was my return home party. So, because of this case, there weren't a whole lot of agents there. And eventually, when I saw Special Agent Gokey, she mentioned to me that Seaman Copeland was in the company of Seaman Resendiz, like, prior to her disappearance.

Q. And she gave you the whole rundown of things that happened prior to that?

A. No, not--not in particular. So, I didn't--I didn't get the granular detail. I think that they had had a prior interview with him that I was--we hadn't even pulled in for yet. So, she did mention to me that they were gonna try to speak to him that evening, and I offered--because I had interacted with Seaman Copeland prior--to be the secondary on that interview.

Q. Did she discuss what was discussed during the first interview with Seaman Copeland?

A. Not in a level of granular detail that I can recall.

Q. Okay. But you--but you did notify him for unauthorized absence and false official statement, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. But you had no clue what he was--what the prior statement was?

A. Well, point of clarification is I believe Special Agent Gokey went through his rights with him and I did not.

Q. You were in the room though.

A. I was.

Q. And you were interviewing him regarding those offenses.

A. That's correct.

Q. Why exactly did you guys read him his rights for Article 86 and 107?

A. Whenever we question a sailor in reference to an event, if there is any indication that we will be discussing a crime that they may or may not have committed under the UCMJ, they're advised of their rights. So, because it organically could come up in the discussion of Seaman Resendiz's disappearance, then we wanted to make sure that we read him for that.

Q. But why specifically those?

A. So, as far as the unauthorized absence, I was told that he was UA with Seaman Resendiz prior.

Q. Okay.

A. And as far as the false official statements, I think that there--and this is speculation, right, because I'm not exactly sure, but there was some information, I think, that throughout further witness interviews, another witness had disputed whatever Seaman Copeland passed to Special Agent Gokey prior to that. So, there was a question of whether or not he had lied to her on their initial interview.

Q. Okay. You stated earlier that there was no indication that she had been harmed or potentially deceased, correct?

A. That's correct. That I was aware of.

Q. But you knew how long she had been missing.

A. I think approximately three to four days, but I'm not spun up on that.

Q. Gokey tell you that none of her friends or family had heard from her?

A. Yes.

Q. She did tell you that?

A. Yes.

Q. She did also tell you that the last place she was seen was in Copeland's room?

A. Yes.

Q. And at no point you suspected him of potentially harming her?

A. No.

Q. At any point between the time, she went missing up until the time she was found, at any point did you suspect that she was potentially--potentially dead or harmed?

A. No.

Q. Were you a part of any discussions about what Seaman Copeland would be read articles for at all, period?

A. I may or may not have been there when they were working it out; but because I wasn't the case agent, I don't remember specifically the discussions.

Q. At any point did you consult with any attorneys about that?

A. About specific--did I consult with any attorneys about--

Q. Correct.

A. --what he would be read for?

Q. Or were you present.

A. Or was I present?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And what--what exactly was the rationale behind just Article 86 and 107?

A. Can you rephrase the question?

Q. I'll rephrase it. At any point were any other articles--punitive articles suggested as to--to read him his rights for?

A. I can't recall.

Q. You don't remember?

A. Correct.

Q. Now while you guys were interviewing Copeland inside the room, was anybody else listening to that interview?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall who?

A. Specifically, I believe there was a couple NCIS agents in there. I don't remember exactly. A couple of them were newer. There was Lieutenant Commander Mayo and Lieutenant Commander Dempsey as well.

Q. Okay. And why exactly were--was OSTC there at midnight listening to this interview?

A. That would be a question for Special Agent Gokey. It's not unusual for us to loop in OSTC for cases of this nature as far as, you know, like a sailor we don't know where they're at.

Q. So, like UA and 107?

A. That's not typically a case category that NCIS would investigate, no, but in reference to the fact that Seaman Resendiz was UA and she had not been heard from by her family and there were concerns that that was unusual behavior for her.

Q. Now you said that during the break you observed Seaman Copeland sleeping, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You knew he was tired.

A. Yes.

Q. But you proceeded on with answering--asking him questions during the investigation.

A. Yes.

Q. But either way it was clear to you that he was very tired.

A. It was clear to me he was tired.

Q. In fact, you mention it several times throughout the interview.

A. Correct.

Q. During your interview, you stated you want to be straight with him. You said, did you have anything to do with Resendiz's disappearance. Do you recall that?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you mean by that?

A. So typically, when we conduct these investigations, anyone we interact with--and I want to be clear I'm not the case agent on this case. But anybody that I interact with gets the same questions; is, do you know where she's at, did you have anything to do with her disappearance. And I treat those as blanket questions to any witnesses that we interact with throughout the course of the investigation.

Q. And for this particular one, you--you were specifically asking Copeland.

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask--interview anybody else?

A. I didn't.

Q. Let's talk about the PASS and the phone. Now, the conversation in the car when Seaman Copeland asked for his phone back, that wasn't the first time you told him that the phone was seized, is it? In fact, you told him that the phone was seized when he first came into the room.

A. I don't recall.

Q. You don't recall that?

A. I don't.

Q. You spoke to trial counsel in this case, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You told them that you mentioned when see--when you took the phone before Seaman Copeland even came in that you told him that it was seized.

A. So, I didn't take the phone.

Q. But you were clear with Seaman Copeland that his phone was seized at the time it was taken.

TC: Objection, Your Honor. I think there's--

MJ: What's the basis?

TC: --maybe some misunderstanding of--of what that 701 actual says.

MJ: So, but I--I've got the 701 disclosure.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yeah. Right.

MJ: So, the objection's overruled, but I've got the 701 disclosure so I can--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: --I can look at all the evidence.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Absolutely.

Questions by the assistant defense counsel (LCDR MORGAN):

Q. But at any point, Seaman Copeland was made clear that his phone was seized, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now at the time the phone was seized, you stated you believed there was probable cause to seize it?

A. Correct.

Q. And if there was probable cause, why--why didn't you seek a CASS to search the phone?

A. Why didn't I see a CASS?

Q. Seek a CASS to search the phone.

A. I was not the case agent.

Q. Okay. And even though you weren't the case agent, you--you would not have any--any act in seeking a CASS at all, period?

A. No. That's typically what a case agent would do for continuity purposes.

Q. But you were aware that a CASS was signed earlier that day, right? For the room--for the search of the room?

A. I'm trying to remember when I was aware that there was a CASS for the room.

Q. You knew at the time that you guys were interviewing him that there were people searching his room, correct?

A. That's correct. So, I guess I did know at that point.

Q. All right. You guess you know?

A. I did know at that point.

Q. Okay. And now you said that you had probable cause to--to seize the phone. Why exactly do you feel like there was probable cause to seize the phone?

A. Based upon an assertion from Special Agent Gokey that there is probable cause to seize the phone.

Q. So, your basis for probable cause was solely based on a conclusion of somebody else? You don't know the specific facts that led to you believing there was probable cause to seize the phone?

A. Can you rephrase the question?

Q. What particular facts led you to believe that there was probable cause to seize the phone?

A. So, I didn't have the full background that Special Agent Gokey had as the case agent. So, when she tells me that there's probable cause to seize the phone, I'm inclined to believe her.

Q. Okay. So, your indication that you believe there was probable cause is solely based on the conclusion of somebody else.

A. Correct.

Q. You stated that you believe that Seaman Copeland gave you consent to search his phone, right?

A. Correct.

Q. In fact, that's based on solely the fact that when he was initially asked he said yes and provided his passcode, correct?

A. Can you rephrase the question?

Q. That opinion is based solely on the fact that when Gokey asked to search his phone he said yes and provided his passcode, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was halfway early in the interview?

A. Correct.

Q. There were other statements that was made after that, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And in fact, right after that, you guys presented him a written PASS, a written authorization. He didn't sign that, did he?

A. No, he did not.

Q. And that was specifically for the search of the iPhone 15.

A. That's correct.

Q. Now you guys presented him a second PASS in writing and that was for the search of a backpack, barracks room, and electronic devices, quote, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And it's your understanding that the signature for that PASS did not apply to the previous search or consent to search the iPhone 15, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And that's because he didn't sign the PASS for the iPhone 15, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, when you guys were going through that second PASS, talking about the barracks room, the backpack, and electronic devices, that did not apply to the iPhone 15, Copeland had some questions for you about what all entails with the PASS, right? He asked you about consent, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes?

He asked you about the scope of a PASS, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. He asked about being able to revoke a PASS, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And being able to refuse a PASS if he wanted to, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Being able to take it back; the consent.

A. Yes.

Q. And--and right after that, he signed that PASS for the--for the 4 June PASS for the barracks room, the backpack, and the electronic devices, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And then right after that you circled back and you said I want to revisit your phone. You say are you still okay with that and he says no, correct?

A. Correct. I think he said something to the effect of, no, I want to go home.

Q. He says no, period. I just want to go home, right? In response to your question about let's circle back to the phone, are you still okay with that, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you recall that?

A. Yes.

Q. And you still believed that he search--gave you authorization to search his phone?

A. Correct. At the time I didn't consider that to be a revocation of consent. It was partially probably because of how I phrased the question. My recollection is I put it in front of him, I said are you okay with revisiting this, and he said, no, I just want to go home.

Q. Okay. And not only that, he asked for his phone back.

A. That's correct.

Q. And you tell him no.

A. That's correct.

Q. Right.

A. It--it was phrased--my recollection is that it was phrased like a question; like, can I get my phone back. And I explained that it was seized, and we were gonna keep it in our custody for, you know, Special Agent Gokey to seek a CASS.

Q. You--you stated earlier that this isn't the first time you've dealt with PASSs with Copeland, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. In fact, you said at least three occasions--three to four is what you said.

A. Correct.

Q. And in those three, the four occasions, he's consented to those PASSs before in the past, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. You said one was oral. The other one was in writing, I assume?

A. One was oral and the other three or so were in writing, correct.

Q. Okay. And he signed those.

A. He did.

Q. He didn't refuse to sign.

A. Correct.

Q. Okay.

A. He did not refuse to sign.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): One moment, Your Honor?

MJ: Take your time.

Questions by the assistant defense counsel (LCDR MORGAN):

Q. And just to be clear, you've never seized a phone in an unauthorized absence investigation before, have you?

A. I can't recall having seized a phone in an unauthorized absence investigation. Not to say that I haven't, but I can't recall an incident.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Okay. Nothing further, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Redirect, government?

TC: One moment, Your Honor.

MJ: Sure.

TC: No further questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Is Special Agent Duffy subject to recall?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense, subject to recall?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor.

MJ: Special Agent Duffy, thank you for your testimony. You are permanently excused. Please don't discuss your testimony with anyone else except the counsel involved in the case, but you can return to your duties. Thank you.

WIT: Yes, Your Honor.

[The witness was warned, excused, and withdrew from the witness stand.]

MJ: Government, do you have any more evidence to present on these motions?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense, do you have any evidence on these motions?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, I think--I think what I'd like to do is kind of take up each one of the motions to suppress and sort of bifurcate your arguments to the extent you have any so that I'll hear from both sides on each one before we go to the next one.

So, let's start with the phone; the--the defense's motion to suppress the search and seizure of the iPhone 15.

So, government, you have the burden since it's--you're the proponent of the evidence so I'll let you go first. And, again, I--I've read your motion--I mean, I read your response. So--and now--now that I've heard the testimony, I'll let you be heard and I'll let you know if I have any questions.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

To the extent that--I mean, I don't want to regurgitate what we've already provided in our written filing, but there are just like several layers of permissible legal authorization for the--the government to have seized and searched Seaman Copeland's phone.

First, there was probable cause to seize the phone. Whether it was at the beginning or the end of the interview, Seaman Copeland articulated to law enforcement that he had spoken with the--the victim, you know, prior to her disappearance; that they had corresponded about making tacos, coming over. That was the last place that she had seen alive was with him in his barracks room.

He also discussed, you know, various other actions that, you know--that--or people that Seaman--sorry--that Petty Officer Resendiz was corresponding with via her phone. But on his phone, he would have evidence of their communications.

Furthermore, he also told law enforcement that he had driven her from his barracks room to another location, so that phone would have evidence not only confirming the correspondence, the communication between the parties but also the geolocation information--

MJ: Does--

TC: --would determine.

MJ: Does the fact that NCIS believes that some of the statements he made on 1 June were inconsistent with other evidence they discovered, does that play into their probable cause to look at the messages between Resendiz and Copeland?

TC: Yes, Your Honor. I think the government would agree with that.

The--you know, to the extent that there were--you know, it kind of bleeds into other motions, but other things that became apparent between 1 June and 3 June about the relationship between the parties. You know, there would be potentially evidence on the phone, you know, discussing the relationship between Petty Officer Resendiz and Seaman Copeland which would be helpful to the investigation to--to find where she was.

I mean, I think the--the overview of kind of where law enforcement's mind was from the 31st of May through really the 9th of--you know, the 10th of June was they were trying to find Petty Officer Resendiz. There were--you know, the--we tried to provide in our motion kind of, you know, an overview of all the different investigative actions that law enforcement was undertaking during that period of time and all the multiple leads.

A fair conclusion about what was going on at that time was that Petty Officer Resendiz and petty--and Seaman Copeland--you know, Seaman Copeland was potentially helping Seaman Resendiz further her UA; that she had some sort of mental health crisis. There was some indication that she may have gone UA to New York. We were checking hospitals. You know, things of that nature. And that he had information about that. And knowing the relationship between those two parties was integral to that investigation to find her.

MJ: Okay.

TC: So, there was probable cause to--to seize the phone from the outset, but you don't have to stop there, Your Honor. He also provided permissive authorization for search and seizure. He did provide it orally.

Now the case law we provided--you know, various, you know, federal court cases, several circuits that discuss the difference--well, first, they discuss oral consent and written consent, but our rules also make the distinction between consent to search and consent to seizure.

MJ: Okay. That's what I was gonna talk about. I--if I--maybe I missed it. I--I don't--I didn't see any evidence that--in testimony--I'll go back and look at the evidence. I didn't see any--any testimony about a consent to seize.

It--are you saying that that evidence exists; that at some point he voluntarily turned over his phone and says you can have this?

TC: Sir, I think by implication if you're allowed to search it, then you would need physical possession of the phone to do that.

MJ: No, no. Understand that. But--but our case law makes clear the distinction between seizure and search. And it seems to me the government's position is the seizure was a lawful seizure based on probable cause. And then I think we get into the question of then whether or not it can be searched.

TC: Yes, Your Honor. I think the government's position would be--again, like, it's by implication. If you allow someone to have--

MJ: You give someone you passcode--

TC: Right. You--you expect them to take possession of it.

MJ: But if it's already out of your possession and you're asking him at this point--we've got your phone. What's the passcode; can we search it. I'm not sure--I don't know. I'm not sure that implicates the consent to seize.

TC: Yes, Your Honor. So--well, so then, again, the multi--like the different layers of the legal authorization for the government to have seized and searched that phone, the seizure we believe there was probable cause and that he gave a permissible authorization to--to search that phone.

MJ: But what about the--the--the authority to seize--so it's a temporary detention?

TC: Yes, sir, that's another basis as well; that he was--he was temporarily detained to be brought to law enforcement and that was a permissible reason for law enforcement to have obtained his phone.

MJ: Okay.

TC: So, Your Honor, so with regard to the permission to search, he did give oral consent, and we tried to lay that out in our motion, the words that were used. He was asked can I search your phone, he says yes. He then provides the keys to that phone with his passcode. He is then read the permissive authorization for search and seizure. He doesn't say that he declines to allow the search. He just asks--.

MJ: Let me jump ahead. Is his declination--when he says, no, I just want to go home, is it the government's position that he is--that he is not revoking consent to search, but he is--just doesn't want to fill out any more paperwork.

TC: That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Is that the government's position? That's what I got from your motion--your response.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

TC: Yes, Your Honor. And there is--there are numerous federal cases that discuss--you know, we laid out in our motion that discuss a subsequent refusal to sign a written consent does not eviscerate the oral consent that was previously given. And I think this is a good example of a case that--that follows that case law.

MJ: Okay. If there was no consent, is the search still lawful?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

So, the--law enforcement, after they seized the phone, quickly obtained a command authorized search and seizure for that phone which the defense does not challenge. The--you know, the--the particular--the--that command authorized search and seizure, the interview ended on the 4th of June in the early morning, and that NCIS agent was in front of the commanding officer at seven o'clock on the 5th.

MJ: Just a point of clarification in the evidence, the--the search authorization--and this relates to the search of the--the CASS for the barracks. But it--it happened on the video that I watched at the end, and it says--it--it says 1241, 4 June. I don't think that's 41 minutes past noon. I believe that's 0041. That's just a typo, right?

TC: That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: So--so this interview ends and--at zero--just before 01 in the morning on the 4th of June. Just getting the timeline right. Is that--is that right?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay, okay.

TC: And then within, you know, slightly over 24 hours, NCIS is in front of the commanding officer obtaining a CASS for that iPhone 15, which was approved, and then that is the basis for which NCIS conducted a search.

MJ: Was any search conducted prior to receiving the CASS?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

TC: And so--so the--it's government's position that--that--each of those layers independently gives legal authorization to have seized and searched the phone. But moreover, even if none of those things had happened, we have good faith that law enforcement relied on that command authorized search and seizure to conduct the search of the iPhone 15 and then inevitable discovery.

So just like laying out what was happening right around the time--like right after that interview. Regardless of what happened in the interview, no information from that interview on the 3 June factored into the other legal process that law enforcement and the government was--was seeking at the time. Specifically, the--the government sought a 2703(d) order for Seaman Copeland's--to Seaman Copeland's cell phone provider, which provided information that Seaman Copeland, on the 1st of June, had communicated with Seaman--with Petty Officer Resendiz. There were about five contacts to her on that night.

Immediately, the government was also to determine through interviewing Seaman Copeland's roommate, Airman Calisse, that Seaman Copeland had borrowed his white jeep on the night of 1 June into the early morning hours of 2 June. And independent of, you know, anything that was derived from that 3 June interview, law enforcement ran the plates of the vehicles that Seaman Copeland was known to used and one of which was that Jeep liberty--or, sorry, that white jeep, and that was caught on Flock camera driving around Hampton Boulevard and 24th Street.

So, we have Seaman Copeland contacting the victim with his cell phone, and then immediately--like, you know, within hours, getting in a vehicle and driving to a location in the Hampton--you know, in the Hampton Roads area.

So, it's--you know, there's probable cause to seize his phone at that point based on that information that he is--she's potentially alive. He's communicating and he's going to visit her. All, you know, fair--you know, fair for the government to obtain his phone to get geolocation data and more information about where Petty Officer Resendiz was.

MJ: Okay.

TC: So, for those bases, Your Honor, the government had legal authorization to seize and search that phone.

MJ: Okay. Thank you.

Defense counsel.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Regarding the search of the phone or the--the seizure and search of the phone in your motion.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. So--so I want to be clear here, that seizure happened when it was taken. There is no implication by any PASS that a seizure was gonna happen proactive--retroactively, okay? So just being clear with the court, that seizure had already taken place. He did not consent to that, okay, by anything.

You know, also want to make clear, you know, I think it's pretty telling in this whole situation when Special Agent Gokey was--was questioned, she said two things: She said that she didn't--she felt like she had probable cause, but she also felt like she didn't need a warrant to seize the phone.

She said she didn't need a warrant without being able to articulate or being--or articulating any type of exigent circumstance to seize that phone. I mean, she had plenty of opportunity to get a CASS if she felt like she had probable cause.

MJ: Let me ask this: When they interrogated Seaman Copeland on the 3rd of June, was he in custody? Was that a custodial interrogation?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor.

MJ: Was--was he detained?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor.

MJ: But he was placed in handcuffs.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): What was that, Your Honor?

MJ: He was placed in handcuffs.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, Your Honor, he was.

MJ: And he was put in the back of an NCIS vehicle.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: And he was driven to NCIS field office.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: So, you don't--you don't believe he was detained?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor. Correction. We do believe he was detained.

MJ: Okay. So--so doesn't the rules of evidence permit, you know, seizure of his phone upon detention?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Not without a basis, Your Honor. And if--again, if they believe there's probable cause, they had the opportunity to get a CASS.

MJ: Well, I think the--I think the--the rule and the case law supporting the rule on temporary detention is short of probable cause.

Now the government says it was a probable cause search and that--that may be true, but even short of that, doesn't--doesn't our rule allow temporary--you know, the seizure of items of evidentiary value short of probable cause based on temporary detention?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): I mean, temporary, Your Honor, but these people had already seized the phone and made that perfectly clear to Copeland--

MJ: But they seized it--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): --that he wasn't getting it back.

MJ: They seized it when they put him in handcuffs.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. But they--but--but it made it clear, Your Honor, that he wasn't getting that phone back and that was a permanent seizure not a temporary one.

MJ: Well--okay.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Also, Your Honor, kind of going back to whether he even consented to this phone, now let's break this down because when he was first questioned about being able to search his phone, he did say yes and he did provide a passcode. And defense does not contend that that wasn't an oral consent to search the phone at that time. The issue is the fact that Seaman Copeland revoked that consent to search the phone.

MJ: Even if that is true, the government contends they didn't search anything until they had a command authorized search and seizure from the CO of the Naval Station. So even--even if he didn't consent, their search was incident to a search authorization as opposed to consent.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): But that's not true, Your Honor, because--

MJ: So, tell me why.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Because in the DFE report, it specifically states that the--the extraction of the phone was already made.

MJ: So--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): The extraction of the phone was the search, Your Honor.

MJ: Well--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): The examination of what was already extracted from that phone--

MJ: What kind of extraction was it? I think the evidence suggests it's a--it's a full file extraction; in other words, a complete rip of the phone.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: And the government's argument is that's--that's a continuation of the seizure. And isn't that what U.S. v. Strong says; isn't that what CAAF just told us in--in Strong, you know, a year and a half ago?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor. Because, again, that--one, it's not incident to arrest, right? It's not incident to arrest. And--and on top of that, the DFE specifically states in the report that the extraction and the search itself was based on the PASS, a PASS that we know was revoked and invalidated solely by the unequivocal statements by Seaman Copeland saying, no, he did not want them to search the phone and asking for his phone back.

I mean, when you look at case law, yeah, you know, defense agrees, right? I mean, the case law insinuates from different circuits that asking for the phone back is not enough alone, right? You need more. But there's more in this case and the more here is the fact that he was specifically asked right before leaving let's revisit the phone; are you still okay with us searching that. That's exactly what it says. He shakes his head no and not only did he shake--shake his head no, he stated no. He did not want them to search the phone.

On top of that, it's pretty clear Special Agent Duffy spoke about multiple occasions where she's interviewed Seaman Copeland in the past, and he was--he gave oral consent to search in those occasions. He also gave written consent to search in those occasions.

At no point in any of those instances does Seaman Copeland ever refuse to sign an authorization that he actually gave a PASS for. And you need to look at the totality of the circumstances here and the context surrounding everything at play.

And--and what's at play here is that Seaman Copeland and Special Agent Duffy--even having a relationship with Seaman Copeland from the past--understood that he did not sign an authorization to search that phone. He refused to sign it.

Not only did he refuse to sign it, she said let's--are you still okay with us searching the phone. He says no; shakes his head no. Then immediately after following--whether it's on the way back or at the room--he says I want my phone back too; can I have my phone back.

So, when you have all those together, that's a clear indication that he does not give consent to search--for them to search his phone.

And I think what the government is looking for and kind of what they said that he--he didn't say this or that. I mean, the case law is also clear that there are no magical words that are needed. All that's needed is a clear, unequivocal statement or--or acts that would indicate that he did not consent to search the phone. And that's exactly what was made in this case.

MJ: Let me ask you about--you did not mention in your motion inevitable discovery and the government makes a case for inevitable discovery. Let's say the consent was improper, let's say the seizure--that the seizure was improper, the--the search of the phone was improper, all illegal.

Why doesn't the--why should this evidence be excluded when the government asserts there's inevitable discovery?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): One moment, Your Honor.

So, Your Honor, inevitable discovery cannot be the results or fruits of the poisonous tree here.

MJ: So--but I--but I think the government's point is it's--so if the illegality we're talking about is the seizure of the iPhone 15 and then the search of that iPhone 15, and I recognize there's another motion that we'll talk about here in a second--we've talked about--that the search of the barracks--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: --room was illegal. So even if that were illegal too, there's evidence--we--none of you talked about it but it's in the evidence you provided me--there's a search of the common stairwells, correct?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: In those stairwells on the same day, June 3rd, blood was found and that blood was later tied to Seaman resend--or Petty Officer Resendiz. Is that--that's the state of the evidence; you agree with that?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: There are 2703(d) orders being sought on the 4th of June independent of anything to do with the search of the barracks room or the--the phone, and those returned indications that Petty Officer Copeland--or Seaman Copeland was communicating via phone with Seaman Resendiz--or Petty Officer Resendiz.

So those two things taken together, wouldn't that give the government probable cause to go seek a search authorization for the phone at that point independent of any illegality of the barracks search or of the seizure and search of the phone itself?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, no, Your Honor, because, again, those are--those are all steps that are found on a basis of--that led from illegal searches in the past altogether. Even--even finding the screenshot in the phone where the body was located comes solely from the phone.

MJ: Well but that's--but that gets back to, you know--but, again, if--if a--that's in--that the government argues anyway that's inevitable discovery; that--that even though the search of the three--the 3 June, 4 June search of the phone was illegal, had the government known about the illegality at the time, there was a--they were still making enough independent investigatory steps where they would've inevitably sought and gotten a search authorization for the phone and all that evidence on the phone would have been discovered.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Not based on an independent step outside of illegal search that's already happened, Your Honor.

MJ: Well, what about the search of the stairwells that found Petty Officer Resendiz's blood? What about the 2703(d) order? What about the statements made by the roommates that were inconsistent with the statements Seaman Copeland made on June 1st, which were--which were not subject to this--these motions?

All those inconsistencies--the blood in the stairwell, the 2703(d) orders--would they not have led NCIS to then go seek a search authorization for the phone?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor, because, I mean, they--they made it perfectly clear. Multiple agents came in here and spoke about how they didn't even consider Seaman Copeland for even harming her, causing harm to her in any way. They--they all spoke about how there was no--no belief that there was a crime scene, the room itself.

And--and, again, all this is based on them getting into those spaces, getting into the phone based on illegal searches. And that's the issue we have here is because the government wants to say, okay, well let's just--let's just lean back on inevitable discovery. But the problem is, Your Honor--yeah, we can tie one independent basis but, again, that--that--maybe--maybe the blood would have been found in the stairwell, but there wouldn't have been a body found potentially.

Again--

MJ: Well, the--I think the government's point is the blood in the stairwell--which is a common area where there's no reasonable expectation of privacy--that was an investigatory step that they took--that NCIS took--even if their search of the barracks room was illegal, that's an investigatory step they took.

Finding Resendiz's blood in a stairwell and based on statements Seaman Copeland made on June 1st could reasonably cause them to--to want to find his cell phone regardless of any illegal searches.

Do you not agree with that?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor. There is--there is no nexus to the cell phone itself.

Like, again, and I think Lieutenant Commander Serfess made this perfectly clear when she was questioning Duffy, there has to be a nexus. There has to be a reason why--a reasonable belief that there is something articulable on that device that they need to search that would lead to evidence of a crime.

MJ: So, again, missing persons investigation at this point, so the government says. 2703(d) order on the 4th of June, no indication that's based on anything that went on--on the 3rd of June--so the government says. You can rebut that--that 2703(d) order returns cell phone records for Seaman Copeland that indicate he talked to--or he at least messaged or--or sent correspondence to a phone tied to seaman--Petty Officer Resendiz.

So once that returns several days later, wouldn't that give NCIS probable cause to then seize Seaman Copeland's phone now that we know there are records between a missing sailor and him?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): One of the things that it would do, Your Honor, even if they did--even if he did give authorization to search the phone, it would limit the places in which they can search. And--and that's kind of what you fall back to, right? Just because you can get the phone don't mean you can search everything.

And so, you know, making it clear, Your Honor, none of these CASSs that--that we have in front of you that led to the discovery of anything in the room, anything in the phone was based on anything authorized.

And--and, again, you know, I want to make clear, defense--we do intend to challenge the CASS on 5 June, and I think it made it--made it clear in the fact section of the motion, like, we had just received that 5 June CASS right before being able to file a motion. And, of course, we have future hearings scheduled in this case, and we do intend to challenge that.

And so, you know, it's not that, okay, well, defense does not challenge the 5 June CASS and, therefore, it would have been found regardless. No, we do challenge the 5 June CASS, and we will do that in a future session, but, again--

MJ: I--you're--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): --it's all based on something illegal.

MJ: Counsel, you're--you're still talking about search authorizations and I'm saying--let's say I agree with you and that every single search authorization, every single consent was invalid. Now I haven't reached that determination yet. I have a lot of things to consider, and I'll take all this evidence in.

But let's say for the sake of argument that I agree with every point you're making; that every search authorization was invalid, the seizure of the phone was invalid, the search of the barracks room was invalid. I'm asking about inevitable discovery from this other information.

If I've got cell phone records that tie Seaman Copeland's phone to Petty Officer Resendiz's phone on the 1st of June, doesn't that give NCIS probable cause to search that cell phone even though they--they previously illegally searched it? Wouldn't that--that's the inevitable discovery the government's asking this court to occur.

And the inevitable discovery doctrine talks about--well, you know what it talks about. I mean, you know what the law says.

So why isn't that inevitable--why wouldn't that inevitably be discovered?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Just because somebody contacts another individual does not automatically give you probable cause to search the phone. Are we gonna search everybody's phone that--that had contact with Resendiz at the time or during those--those hours or tried to contact her? No, we're not gonna do that.

MJ: I think the government's position would be it's not everybody. It's the last person that anybody's seen with her.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): That we know of.

MJ: That we know of. Fair enough.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. And, again, it's that we know of and--and also somebody that the--law enforcement has already made clear they don't suspect of anything related to her--her missing--her missing, whereabouts, or potential harm.

So, you know, want to make that clear. Those aren't our words. That--that--that is straight from the mouth of three agents that came here and testified today. And that's what you have to work with, and that's the burden that the government has to overcome. And they can't.

Because, again, right, they want to lay on inevitable discovery but also their own witnesses are saying that at no point up until the body was found, did they suspect Seaman Copeland of doing any wrongdoing other than unauthorized absence and 107.

MJ: Okay. Anything further on the motion to suppress the phone?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Thank you. Understand your argument.

Let's take up the motion to suppress the statements.

TC: Yes, Your Honor. If--if I may before we do move to that--

MJ: I'll give you the last word. You have the burden.

TC: Just something that defense mentioned with regard to future litigation on this issue. Defense has chosen to file this motion now. The idea that they can later file another motion to suppress after you rule on whether or not the--the contents of this phone are admissible, absent good cause, I don't know what their--what the basis would be, and I just want to make sure that--

MJ: You know, what--that motion's not before me. I don't have a motion to suppress any--I have a motion to suppress the evidence but the defense at this point not made an argument to suppress based on an illegal search, based on command authorized search from 5 June so I will take that up when it comes and those are the arguments you can make at that time.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: If it comes.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: But--but I understand your point.

TC: You said moving to statements, Your Honor?

MJ: Unless you have any additional on--you know, you have the burden, so I'll give you the last word on the motion to suppress the phone.

TC: No, Your Honor, nothing further.

MJ: Okay. Let's move to the statements; both 3 June and 6 June statements.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Again, heard all the evidence and I read your motion, so anything else to highlight?

TC: Just--Your Honor, just to highlight that at the time of that, you know, 3 June interview, I mean, just looking at what law enforcement saw, it was a missing persons investigation. There was no body. There was no DNA. We had a sailor--we tried to layout the--you know, the general--and, sorry, sir.

A point of clarification: So, I just want to correct the record with regard to that 2703(d) order, I think I represented that everything was--nothing was gleaned from that 3 June interview that might be used in the (d) order. We--the--one of the facts that was detailed--articulated in the (d) order was that Seaman Copeland had provided us with his phone number, which we could have obtained through a subpoena or any other reason, but I just wanted to make that clear for the record--

MJ: I understand.

TC: --that that's one fact that was highlighted in that (d) order.

But to move to the statements again, the--the context in which--the context is important; what law enforcement was aware of at the time of that 3 June interview. No--each agent came in and testified that they did not believe it to be a, you know, murder investigation. It is, you know, common for, you know, sailors to--to go UA.

This one, there was concern about the sailor's mental health. There were numerous witnesses that discussed her mental health, possible places she could go. Law enforcement was going to hospitals. They were getting tips, you know, about, you know, where--where she might have been.

While there were presumptive positives, you know, found in his barracks room for blood that was not communicated to the interview team. But even if it was, it doesn't provide very much information at this juncture in the investigation. Could be a false positive, could be someone else's--someone else's blood, could be Seaman Copeland's blood. It is a data point but does not move Seaman Copeland from a--even a witness to a potential--to a suspect at that--that juncture.

And I ask the court to--you know, to look at Metz as a good, you know, bright-line rule for, you know, when, you know, a person of interest is not necessarily a suspect.

So, the rights advisement at that point for 107 based on the inconsistencies between the 1 June interaction and the 3 June interaction, 107 was warranted.

And then for agents to talk to Seaman Copeland about where he was during that period of time. He was in an unauthorized absence status and as a person subject to the code, he is supposed to be advised of his 31(b) rights as it pertains to 86. So, from that perspective he was given the proper rights advisement for what they suspected him of.

In terms of the voluntariness and the totality of the circumstances, he was given breaks. It was a--only a three-hour interview. I mean, it's a long movie. It was not that late at night and starting between 9:00 and 9:30; ending a little bit after midnight. Again, it's not--it was not that late at night nor did it last that long.

He never asked to stop the interview. During the interview he appears to be tired but the agents, to their credit, checked in with him multiple times and they gave him permission to tell them he was too tired by they themselves saying, I am too tired--I'm tired; you must be tired. And he never takes them up on that offer to end the interview.

He understood, you know, what those--the rights advisements were. He understood--you know, he appeared to understand what was going on. He answered questions coherently. He has a lot of experience with law enforcement. And an agent who has interviewed him multiple times before had no concerns about his ability to understand what was going on in that interview.

So, both the rights advisement was--was the correct rights advisement, and the--the totality of the circumstances lend themself to a--lend themselves to a voluntary interview on 3 June. The statements contained there within should not be suppressed.

Moving to the 6 June interview, again, we are only three days past June 3rd. The agents, you know, discuss kind of what information had been gleaned during those three--three days and not much more than she was still missing.

So, you know, agents--you know, I asked what agents were to have advise him of. You know that it was looking like, you know, potentially because there was no proof--you know, a lot of proof of life during that period that maybe she was deceased, but they did not have any indications to move petty officer--sorry--Seaman Copeland from a person of interest to a suspect.

And, again, I draw the court's attention to Metz, which I think Metz--agents in that case had even more information about that accused being suspected of setting that fire. And there was a witness who said if anyone's got a grudge it's that guy. And, you know, he's the guy with the keys to that--that maintenance facility. You know, this is the guy you go look at.

And those indications are not present in this case. What we have in this case is it's the last person to have seen her alive--or sorry, to have seen her. We know that he has reached out to her which is kind of antithetical to someone being dead if you're texting them or--or calling them.

We know that--we knew that, you know, he, you know, potentially had gone to see her or, you know, gotten in a car and, you know--and, you know, gone to visit her. Something of that nature.

So there really wasn't anything more for law enforcement to have advised him of at that point. So, the rights advisement, they did the best that they could. They advised him again of 107 and then they oriented him to what they wanted to talk to him about. We believe you have knowledge of the possible death of Angelina Resendiz, and that's what they questioned him about.

So, you know, the 31(b) rights, I mean, we try to, you know, orient the accused as best we can to the offenses that we believe he has committed and we're orienting him to the--you know, the topics that we wanted to speak with him about and that rights advisement was proper, Your Honor.

The--the characteristics of that interview happened in the morning; 8:45 in the morning. Not a very long duration. He appears to, again, understand what's going on. He asks questions. He's engaged. And for all those reasons, the totality of the circumstances support a voluntary interrogation.

Pending your questions, Your Honor.

MJ: No questions.

Defense counsel, do you want to be heard on the motion to suppress statements?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, Your Honor.

So, I'll just provide one clear fact that we learned today that wasn't in the motion, and that's exactly that the agents were notified of the cadaver dog hit during the course of the investigation--the interview with Copeland, okay?

And--and absent any questions from the court about the 3 June interview, because I think we've touched that quite a bit today, the defense will move on to the 6 June interview.

MJ: Let me ask you about one instance of the 3 June interview: Is it the contention that--that he was--that Seaman Copeland was too tired and was--well, let me just ask--you framed it sort of two ways.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: That he wasn't warned properly. He wasn't oriented to the crimes that NCIS really suspected him of. And two, that he was tired and unable to follow or--is it--is that--is that the second prong that you sort of attack?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): That is--that is correct, Your Honor. It's on two fronts. You know, I think it was perfectly clear--I mean, we all know that it was eleven o'clock at night, even branched over into the next day past midnight, in which they interviewed Seaman Copeland.

They--they saw him on the--the video screen at every single break with his head down, sleep. They acknowledged several times how tired he was and how tired he looked. And it is our point that, you know, he was not in the--the right place or state of mind to be able to provide statements at that time.

MJ: But it--but it's also your point that he unequivocally told officers, no, he doesn't want his phone searched.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Absolutely. He was clear with that.

MJ: Could he--could he--if he's--if he's got the wherewithal at the end of the interview to do that, doesn't he have the wherewithal at any point to say I don't want to talk anymore; I invoke my rights to remain silent, I want to lawyer--any of those things?

How does--how does his ability to--to revoke his phone--search of his phone dovetail with--with his supposed inability to--to follow along and to understand his rights with regards to the interrogation?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, Your Honor, I think it's perfectly clear that, you know, at--at some point, I mean, he was--he was just responding to a question when he was talking about his phone. I mean, he--he--you're right. He did make a response--a clear response when he said no to his phone.

But I think, you know, it's pretty clear also, just by the--the video itself, how tired Seaman Copeland was and that wasn't conducive to a proper point in which they should have interviewed him.

MJ: Okay. I understand. Let's move--if you're ready to move to 6 June.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

So, moving to the 6 June interview, you know, there's--there are some things that we also learned today that wasn't included in the motion. I kind of want to go over those.

So, there are several things that we now know NCIS had knowledge of before they even did the 6 June interview. And Special Agent Gokey said that she pretty much provided those agents knowledge of the background of everything they found at that point leading up to him going in for that interview.

Several things was, you know, at this point, clearly, Resendiz had already been missing for nine days. She was missing for nine days. No point of contact with family, friends whatsoever, period.

They search Seaman Copeland's room; had a presumptive positive test for blood within his room. Looking at that by itself, okay, you know, the government probably put out there that, you know, okay, sometimes there are false positives.

But in addition to the presumptive blood test, you also had it light up with the Bluestar. And, you know, they said that sometimes that it can indicate, you know, presence of bleach or something like that, but Special Agent Ortiz said in her statements--she said that wasn't what it indicated though because of how long it was lit.

And we know that not only was it presumptive positive for blood, not only was she missing for nine days, not only did she have contact with friends or family, but you also have this pool of stuff within the closet and other places within his room that--that lit up as though it was presence of blood.

In addition to that, she--she kind of hinted at, well, we don't know when this blood was there. Maybe it was in--you know, in the room prior to him even moving in, but that wasn't the case because she also noted that the substance, the liquid was moist, right? So--so that's recent.

And--and the same thing on top of that, they also talked about the cadaver dog that is--that is there to sense the presence of decomposition, hit--hitting at--at a portion of his room or the bag in his room.

So, all that on top of each other is exactly what these agents knew going into that 6 June interview, and not once did they read him his rights for doing any harm to Resendiz prior to asking him questions.

And then on top of that, they had several questions even prior to that--and I--and I lay that out in the motion--before they even got to the rights advisement. And that's pretty indicative here because exactly what they wanted to do was to--they just wanted to question him. They didn't want to actually provide him rights of what they actually suspect. They didn't want to do that because they want him to talk.

And they felt like if they read him his rights for 118 or murder, kidnapping, whatever--at this point, I think it was clear indication that what they should have suspected him from--for which is an objective test--looking at it objectively is murder, right? But they didn't do that.

And that's the issue that we have in this case, and--and that's exactly why all those statements should be suppressed.

MJ: Okay. Thank you very much. I don't have any questions about that.

I'll give you the last word, government, since you--you have the burden.

TC: Your Honor, I would just say that the cadaver dog alert--I think both agents test--two of the agents testified and we put in our motion also that it was likely a false positive. It was body odor. It was a gym bag. There was nothing of evidentiary value found in that--in that backpack and--but nothing further, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Thank you. I don't have any additional questions.

Do we want to talk about the final motion with regards to these motions to suppress the barracks search?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Again, government, you've got the burden.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Again, I've--I've heard all the evidence, read all your motions. So, anything additional you want to add?

TC: No, Your Honor.

Well--

MJ: Anything else?

TC: --actually, if you give me a chance, I'll--but I don't want to--I don't want to re--I don't want to--

MJ: No, I'm not rush--I'm not rushing you. We have--we have as much time as we need. I'm just saying I--I will just point out that the motions on all of these subjects were extremely well-written by both parties. So, you have framed the issues very nicely for the military judge.

And so--so you don't need to rehash anything, but if you want to comment on things or in particular that you find particularly relevant, you can let me know, especially based in light of the evidence we heard today, so...

TC: Yes, Your Honor. If I may then, so--so, again, multi--multiple levels of evidentiary--or of legal authority for the government to have searched and seized items in Seaman Copeland's room on the 3rd of June.

First, we--there was a valid CASS that was obtained and that CASS was styled to search for Petty Officer Resendiz. This was a last known place that she was seen, and the affidavit informs, Attachment (B), about what--what they were looking for. And all the agents testified they were looking for her, for indicia of her in that room.

So, you know, one of the things, you know, they were looking for was--was DNA. DNA leaves a trail of where a human has been and where a human might be. Other instiment--instrumentalities of the crime, I mean, how NCIS investigates missing persons for a service member is through Article 86. And so how might she have left that room.

Were there bus tickets? Were there plane tickets? Were--a rental car. I mean, anything that might indicate how she left that room, where she went, things of that nature, were all fair game pursuant to the--you know, pursuant to that CASS.

You know, defense makes arguments about the tools that were used and I think Special Agent Gokey may have gotten confused about what the--the CASS authorized, and CASSs don't authorize the tools that one may use to find the items in Attachment (B), I mean, as evidenced by our questions about magnifying glasses or--you know, or cameras or things of that nature aren't specifically articulated in a CASS.

However, Attachment (B) does say items with DNA. And how might one find items with DNA? Well, you know, a Hemostick, you know, will tell you if blood is potentially present. Bluestar will tell you if blood was--was potentially present, which would lead you to indicate that there's maybe DNA there as well.

But even more so, Your Honor, when law enforcement entered that closet to find items that might--might have--might be of--you know, might be Petty Officer Resendiz's, you know, they--they noted that the rest of the barracks room was kind of devoid of other personal effects so that closet, you know, seemed to be where all the items were kept.

When they removed the items, I think plain view of--of that--that sticker in the back of that closet, you know, a brown substance--you know, a brown substance. Yes, they did--you know, they--it did appear to be wet, and that was something that--you know, it's entirely reasonable for them to have tested that to determine whether or not a presumptive positive would come back for--for blood.

But, again, that's only a data point. It's not indicative of that it is actually blood or it belongs to any--you know, to Petty Officer Resendiz. It could be Seaman Copeland's.

And I'll proffer to the court, barracks room are not the most sanitary places, and it is, you know, just as likely that that sticker, moist for whatever reason, is still in the back of that closet and has nothing to do with this investigation whatsoever. But it is a data point which investigators, you know, eventually were able to, through further testing, determine the evidentiary value. But at that juncture, it was just--it was simply a data point.

MJ: Let me ask this--those are questions about it. Why--why does the CASS authorize to search--to seize used condoms?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

I think on redirect, talking with Special Agent Gokey, and she was trying to understand more about Petty Officer Resendiz and her mindset and the relationship, you know, potentially with other people involved in this investigation.

And at--you know, as of 1 June, you know, Seaman Copeland told law enforcement that there was basically no romantic relationship between the two of them. But, you know, by the time the--the CASS was obtained on the 3rd, roommates had--give some indicia that there was--something had happened because there was of woman partially nude in their common area on the morning of 29 May.

So used condoms might provide more information about the relationship between Petty Officer Resendiz and the person who last saw her alive. Romantic relationship might, you know, give someone a reason to help that person continue to be UA. I mean, if that person has, you know, more affection towards, you know, Petty Officer Resendiz than just a coworker--excuse me, sorry. Sorry. I'm getting animated.

Ms. Cheek, I'm so sorry.

Getting animated--you know, and anything it's more than just a coworker relationship. He might have more reason to continue with this lie about where she is. I mean, all of those factors play into what investigative leads the--you know, NCIS was going to continue to--to pursue.

So, yes, used condoms would be something of evidentiary value as Special Agent Gokey, you know, did--did mention and that's why it would be included in the CASS.

Does that answer your question, sir?

MJ: It does. Anything further?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Thank you.

Defense counsel.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

I'm--I'm not buying it with this--with this CASS, Your Honor, and I--I hope that the court isn't either.

This--I mean, from the very beginning of this CASS from, like, start to finish, it's problematic. For one, the warrant itself, which is what we have to look at--the four corners of the warrant--is so confusing to me because they're looking--they're looking for stuff in the case of Angelina Copeland.

That is a pretty serious typographical error, and it makes me--it should make everyone who looked at this warrant confused and not have a good faith basis to do whatever they're going to do, because they don't even know what--whose crime they're searching for or the nexus for it. But--but then we--

MJ: Doesn't the--doesn't the affidavit refer to Angelina Resendiz?

DC: Then, yes, Your Honor. So, they're looking for evidence of Angelina Resendiz's criminal activity, right? It--we're talking about reasonableness of a--of a search. That's the crux of the Fourth Amendment; what is reasonable.

Is it reasonable to invade Seaman Copeland's privacy and--and his interest in his room in his closet because they are looking for evidence of somebody else's crime? I do not believe that that's reasonable and I--the government doesn't cite a case.

MJ: I--but doesn't that happen all--but doesn't that happen all the time, I mean, outside the military? This is a--you're on a Fourth Amendment search in--in-- DC: Yes, Your Honor. I don't know if it happens all the time. The government didn't cite a single case that allows that.

But then let's say that that is authorized, Your Honor--

MJ: So--so let me ask this: I mean, there's--there's some evidence that she was in his barracks room before she went missing.

DC: There's tons of evidence that she was in his barracks room on the 29th of May, yes.

MJ: So why is it unreasonable--it--if, in fact, she is UA and that's the crime they are investigating, you're saying it's unreasonable to go look for the last place she was known to be?

DC: I don't think it's reasonable to invade somebody's privacy to look for evidence of--of UA for a couple of days. No, I do not think that that--that that is reasonable.

MJ: Do you have any case law to support that?

DC: Do I--

MJ: Did--is it--

DC: I don't have the burden here, Your Honor. So, no, I don't have any case law but I'm saying that I do not think that that's reasonable. But then if you look--

MJ: Well, I--and I don't--I understand your position, but I--

DC: Um-hmm.

MJ: --the--the--and—and--I care very much about what you think.

DC: Okay.

MJ: But I--

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: --is--is there case law or something that says--I mean, I--and I understand the government has the burden, but the government has said and presented evidence that Resendiz was in his barracks room and now she's missing.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: So, you're asking this court to find it unreasonable to go look in the last place she was.

DC: For what, Your Honor? That's what we're asking.

MJ: For her.

DC: If--okay. Then they didn't have authorization for that, because the CASS doesn't say that. The CASS lists out the things that they were looking for to look for evidence of her UA and none of them are her. They don't say that here.

What they're saying that they're looking for is used condoms. I have no idea what the nexus is that. The special agent could not connect that. These are the things they were supposed to be looking for.

Yet, the people that were conducting the search, the people who were actually conducting the search, that is what they thought, Your Honor. That's what they thought. They read this and what they actually wrote down is that they were looking for anything belonging to Resendiz. But that's not what the CASS authorized them to look for.

And--and still--let's say they did find something belonging to Resendiz, right? Let's say they--let's say they found, you know, a backpack belonging to her. How would that be--what is the nexus between finding a backpack in the room and her UA? We know that she was in that room. Why would finding a backpack--

MJ: Why do we know she's in that room?

DC: Why do we know that she was in that room? Because she said she was going to that room. I mean, she--she told her friend that she was going to that room. I--I have no reason to believe that that's not true. And also, Seaman Copeland told NCIS that--that she was in that room, and the roommate saw her in that room. I mean--

MJ: The roommate saw an individual in that room.

DC: That--

MJ: Is it a reason--

DC: That's true.

MJ: Is it--is it a reasonable investigative step to confirm what the roommate saw?

DC: That's true. And Chief Parker said that he saw her in that room as well, and he--he was her chief. I mean, it seems to me everything points to the fact that she was in that room.

MJ: So, I guess the question I have is just because there's evidence that she was in that room, does that mean it's conclusive and the government is no longer allowed to look for indicia that supports that conclusion?

DC: No, Your Honor, but--

MJ: No--

DC: --perhaps, yes.

MJ: So, the answer's no?

DC: No.

MJ: The answer's they do not have the authority to--

DC: No, they absolutely have the authority. I don't disagree with that. Again, but how is that evidence of her unauthorized absence? Whatever they find in her--in that room that belongs to her, I don't understand--I do not see the nexus. There is no nexus between them finding something that belongs to her in that room and her being UA. She could have been in that room on the--on the 29th of May and gone to work the next day.

MJ: So, the--

DC: So--

MJ: I think--I think the court agrees with you in the sense that it wouldn't prove beyond reasonable doubt she was UA during the time frame you're looking at.

DC: Um-hmm.

MJ: But it would be circumstantial evidence that she was not at work during some portion of time.

DC: How is that true, Your Honor? Because she was in--

MJ: Well, I don't have to answer questions.

DC: Well, I'm telling you it doesn't make any sense to me at all. That's what I'm saying. She was in that room at some point when she was on liberty. We--we know that. That is--that is an undisputed fact. The fact that she was in that room while she was on liberty is not evidence that she was at some other time in an unauthorized absence state.

She existed in this world. Her--her DNA was in places. That doesn't mean that she was in an unauthorized status. I mean, frankly, it would be more evidentiary value if her DNA was found not in that room because that is a place that we know that she went to; that she wanted to go to; that she planned to go to; and that she was there during the hours of liberty. That--we--we all know that.

It's not evidence of her unauthorized absence that her DNA would have been in that room somewhere. And, again, that's not--they're--the agents, they don't even--they don't even pretend to have a good faith basis. They're--they are saying they're looking for her.

The one--Special Agent Ortiz tells the trial counsel that she's looking in the closet for Seaman Resendiz. Now, based on the fact that nobody suspects at this point that Seaman Copeland has done anything bad to Resendiz, I can only assume that they are thinking they're gonna open the closet and they're gonna find a very alive and unauthorized status Resendiz behind a padlocked closet. I--that's not reasonable.

But even if we say it is, the CASS doesn't authorize that. It's not saying you can look for Resendiz. It's saying that you're looking for bed linens and used condoms and all these things that have absolutely no nexus between their existence and her unauthorized absence status. Because that--that's just not what they were looking for. This is so clearly subterfuge that they were looking for evidence of a crime.

But then we'll get to the plain view standard if you're ready for me to move on or you want to--

MJ: I am.

DC: Okay. Well, the plain view standard. There was nothing in plain view. And if you notice, Your Honor, I--I crafted the motion understanding that there are some things that, you know, Seaman Copeland's roommates could have consented to, right?

I mean, the common areas, got it. They're--you know, they're--there's--there's no dispute about that. The roommates can consent to the search of the common areas.

I'm only talking about the stuff that Seaman Copeland has exclusive control over and didn't authorize for NCIS to search in his PASS. Like blood on the floor of the closet and room.

And there was no plain view. Special Agent Ortiz was very clear about that. She saw that sticker that she saw, and she said I didn't know what that was. She had to pick it up and she had to test it. And so that's the same as Hicks. Once you have to pick it up and test it to know what it is, it's not in plain view anymore. So, this wasn't in plain view.

And so, we're asking the court to suppress the blood on the closet and on Seaman Copeland's--in--on the floor of Seaman Copeland's side of the room, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Thank you very much.

Commander Mayo, you have the last word since it's your--your burden. Do you want to comment on the subterfuge search that the defense alleges; that DNA is so overbroad that that's not what they're looking for?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

Again, like--the purpose of this investigation was to find Seaman Resendiz--or Petty Officer Resendiz. DNA leaves a trail of where someone is and where they have been.

To items found in the last place that she was seen gives some indication of where she also might be. So that is further information helpful to that Article 86 investigation to terminate that 86 and to find her. So, all--all perfectly reasonable items to be searching pursuant to 86 for Petty Officer Resendiz. So there--no subterfuge is apparent in this case, Your Honor.

And if I may, Your Honor, there is a footnote in one of our--okay. Sorry. Not in one of our--it's M.R.E. 315 and 16 establishes that there's no requirement that a search authorization be served on a suspect only. To the extent the court--we're looking for authority to have executed the search on Seaman Copeland's barracks room for the purpose of finding Petty Officer Resendiz.

Something I didn't touch on in the--in the original argument is inevitable discovery. It's still present here. Even if that CASS was not obtained on the 3rd of June, which it was, and--and good faith--and, in good faith, relied upon by agents to find Petty Officer Resendiz in places that she might be found. I do disagree with defense's assertion that she might not be found behind a padlocked closet. You know, people hide in closets all the time. It's not unreasonable that when Seaman Copeland and his roommates--NCIS arrived, that someone ran in the closet, they locked it.

MJ: What about defense's argument that even if that were true and she's hiding in the closet, that's not what the CASS authorizes? The CASS authorizes to search for her DNA.

TC: Well, that's a pretty big source of DNA, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

TC: The--but moreover, inevitable discovery is really where--you know, again, the--the last--you know, another layer of legal authorization for this court to find that the contents of that room should not be suppressed.

I draw the court's attention again to the 2703(d) orders and the information obtained from roommates about his--his movements; that--you know, on the morning--you know, between 1 and--and 2 June; but more importantly, the stairwell and the common areas right outside of his barracks room.

We have, you know, his--blood found in the stairwell found by both NCIS and the building manager who indicated that there was a brown substance in the stairwell directly next to his barracks room.

So once that was tested and determined to be Petty Officer Resendiz, it's naturally that, you know, government would obtain a command authorization based on that to then search his room.

So, for those multi layers of legal authority, the--those--the items found from the 3 June CASS should not be suppressed.

MJ: Very well.

Okay. I think that closes the book on the motions to suppress. So, we're past the lunch hour and I want to make sure people have a chance to have lunch and especially Seaman Copeland.

So, to be clear, I will take all this under consideration and I will issue rulings in due course on each of these motions from the defense.

How much time do you want for lunch?

DC: Just--just 30 minutes, sir.

MJ: I'm gonna be magnanimous and I'm gonna give you till 1400.

So, court's in recess till 1400.

[The Article 39(a) session recessed at 1322, 10 December 2025.]

[The Article 39(a) session was called to order at 1415, 10 December 2025.]

MJ: This court's once again called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again, with the exception of Ms. Cheek who has been relieved as court reporter by Petty Officer Hall. And Petty Officer Hall has been previously sworn.

Okay. Let's take up the next motion in order and that's the motion to compel production of experts. There's several motions filed by the defense in this case--or four motions, I think. Those are:

A motion to compel an expert pathologist, which is Appellate Exhibit X, and its enclosure, Appellate Exhibit XI.

A motion to compel a mitigation specialist in Appellate Exhibit XIV, with enclosures at Appellate Exhibit XV.

A motion to compel an expert in human memory and reaction, and that's Appellate Exhibit XXIV; the enclosures in Appellate Exhibit XXV.

And a motion to compel an expert in sexual sadistic behavior, which is Appellate Exhibit XXVI; enclosures at XXVII.

The government responded to those in sort of omnibus response to--to compel all those experts in Appellate Exhibit LIV, and they provided additional enclosures at Appellate Exhibit LV. All those are now appended to the record.

So, defense, I believe you have the burden with respect to each of these, so let's start with your motion to compel an expert pathologist.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any--you don't have any additional evidence to present on this motion?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): No additional evidence, no witnesses, Your Honor.

MJ: And, government, you don't have any--and is that true for all these motions? All these motions to compel experts, no--no additional evidence for either side?

TC: That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, let's just take up your--your argument. Again, read your motion. If you--do you have any additional stuff to add?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Only want to touch on a couple things from the government's response, sir; the fact that the allegation that the defense is refusing to follow the JAGMAN or that we're refusing to engage with the government to find an adequate substitute.

I--I would just like to direct the court to the rule itself, 703, and U.S. v. Reyes, 80 M.J. 218. Both of these things stand for a trial position that if the byname expert is--is--if the expert is necessary, which the government concedes as far as the pathologist goes, that the byname expert shall be approved. If not, the government shall provide an adequate substitute.

In this case, we've received a list of people that the government--I don't even know if they've spoken with them. I don't know if they're available. I have mixed contact information for all of these folks.

It's not the defense's burden to do the legwork to find the adequate substitute. That's not the way--that's not the way case law's written; that's not the way the rules are written. There is no requirement for us to take the government's list and say these people are better so use these folks without any sort of idea of whether or not they've even been vetted as adequate substitutes.

Now, we found--

MJ: Now. Just to be clear, you're--you're the one who's asked for an adequate substitute because, I mean, they've got to provide you with a comparable--I mean, you would--you would analyze their credentials, compare them with the expert you have, and make a motion to--that they're not adequate.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That is correct, Your Honor.

MJ: What is the government's threshold level to determine that--why isn't the list they've given you good enough?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): What the government is asking us to do is basically go back to the drawing board and say here's a bunch of other people. We like these maybe. We--we don't know who has spoken to any of them.

MJ: So, what minimum requirements would you need from them before you would go into your more in-depth search to determine whether or not they're adequate or not?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): And it's certainly our responsibility once the government provides that adequate substitute--

MJ: So that--so--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --to verify that person.

MJ: Well, don't put the cart before the horse. If they--if they give you an adequate substitute--I mean, if you're making them give you an adequate substitute, aren't you conceding that they're adequate?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): The defense position is that Dr. Banerjee is the appropriate expert.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): We've asked for that person. The government recognizes that that variety of expert is necessary. They just don't like the fees that she charges. And if it's their contention that they will find an adequacy substitute--within their motion they talk about looking for a government substitute. They were unable to find one. So, they produced a list of other folks that maybe these people work.

MJ: So--so the question again is, what--what information would they need to provide you that would satisfy their burden to--to give you what they consider to be an adequate substitute?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): If the government could tell us consistent contact information, provide CVs for these folks. If they could explain that they're available for the trial dates. All of those things would then put us in a position where we could evaluate those folks to decide if they are in fact adequate substitutes.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): The list we received is not a this is a list of adequate substitutes. This is people that might work.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Now the government cites to the--the indigent fees in the Northern District of California as evidence that we're not adhering to the JAGMAN, but if you look at JAGMAN 146(l)(3) it says employment in the course of 703(d) will be paid a compensation at the rate prescribed in advance by the official empowered to authorize those employments.

Now, Dr. Banerjee has worked with the military before. She has been approved as an expert in courts-martial, and we have asked for her participation here.

The government is now incumbent upon them to either approve that expert or to find us an adequate substitute, not just say we searched Google and these are folks that might meet the criteria.

So, defense's position is that in the absence of anything that allows us to do the next step of that legwork, the--the employment of Dr. Banerjee conceded necessary, and we believe that she should be appointed in this case, Your Honor.

MJ: I understand your argument.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Government.

TC: I guess no--no good deed goes unpunished, Your Honor. So, the government did not just search Google for a list of suitable alternatives. We contacted an expert in the field and asked for an ad--someone in this field that would be ad--that would be comparable to this person's--who was unavailable--credentials, and that was the list that was provided.

To the extent the government was not tracking that that was not a permissible option to allow defense to choose someone from that list and to that extent--I mean, to the extent the court is going to order any relief in this case, the government can have a week to pick one of those people on those lists and provide it to defense as an adequate substitute.

MJ: You have--you have accurately predicted the exact relief I'm gonna provide.

So, at this point, the--the motion before me is to appoint an expert but 703 requires that, you know--that I--that I rule that an expert--expert consultation is required, so I will--I do order that; expert consultation is required.

And so, government, it appears your attempts to provide an adequate substitute have not been met. And I do--I do agree the government needs to require a little more legwork than simply a list, understanding the list may not be just a Google search. But I think the--the defense has accurately described the information they would need to go about determining whether there--these are an adequate substitute.

So, by next Friday, which is the 19th of December, I'm gonna order the government to provide an expert or more than one with a CV, fee schedule, and availability that meet the requirements of this court's TMO and provide that by next Friday.

And then you--defense, you will have an opportunity to review that and determine whether or not you believe that's an adequate substitute; and then if it's not, you have the remedies available to you that we can take up in due course.

Everybody understand my ruling?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Okay. Next, mitigation specialist.

DC: The defense did not request oral argument, Your Honor, so we don't--

MJ: Very well.

DC: --have any oral argument.

TC: Nothing further, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Then I'm--I'm satisfied with the--the pleadings and I will rule in due course on that as well.

Human memory. You want to talk about that one? I don't remember off the top of my head whether you requested oral argument or not.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): We did, Your Honor. Just to--just to-- MJ: And you're requesting Dr. Wetherill; is that correct?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): We are requesting Dr. Wetherill, yes.

And the reason that--for that is commentary upon the government's response is that they alluded this is a strategic preference by the defense. That's not accurate.

This--requesting three different--and Commander Morgan may or may not talk about Dr. Dickson. It's dictated by the government's charging scheme in this case. They've--they have--they've approved an expert in recidivism, and it's very clear what Dr. Sani was approved for in this case.

And they sum it up accurately. She's going to base her professional opinions on things that--should she need to--need to testify on the merits, the defense may be limited in what they can ask her or if they can call her or what they can bring her to do.

Now Dr. Wetherill brings a different side of expertise here where she--she's an expert in blackouts. And we know that one--at least one of the victims is going to talk about being blacked out or being in some state of a blackout.

While Dr. Sani's education, training, and experience may go to that, she, after her preparation as a recidivism expert, may not be able to take the stand on the merits and--to rebut the government's evidence.

So, defense position is that the--the employment of Dr. Wetherill is--is necessary given the way that the--the case has been charged and the--the information that the experts will rely on in order to formulate the basis for their opinion; that the employment of Dr. Wetherill is--is necessary in conjunction with that of Dr. Sani.

MJ: Okay. Government.

TC: Your Honor, I--I don't quite understand the--the argument that Dr. Sani would not be able to--to provide expert consultation on all the areas that defense has highlighted. The argument that that somehow would, you know, open the door to information gleaned from the accused, maybe in certain cases that--that's a possibility. But in this particular case, for what they've requested each of these experts to opine on, other than like a blanket statement that this will--you know, this will waive attorney work product or privilege as to what Dr. Sani gleaned from the accused, they don't articulate like how that could happen.

So, they--to the extent that they--you know, they have a forensic psychologist who has been approved, who they do not dispute has expertise in the areas that they are asking for these other experts to be appointed. There's no reason why Dr. Sani couldn't provide that consultation for them in those other areas.

MJ: Okay. Let me--let me drill on that point, is--is Dr. Sani competent to talk about memory confabulation or memory--that's not the right word--but--but recording memory, blackouts, the kind of things that Dr. Wetherill--Wetherill will testify to--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): We--

MJ: --or--or consult on?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Well, we've specifically said Dr. Sani's opinions in this case for her--her ability to assess risk and recidivism. That's why we've engaged her.

Now as a forensic psychologist is she qualified? Likely, Your Honor. It's not an avenue that we've pursued, but to the extent that we haven't laid out a situation where that wouldn't--where that would be the case--this is all in the hypothetical.

Dr. Sani comes in and does a--does an interview with the accused, talks about the alleged offenses--all of the alleged offenses to determine what's gonna happen, you know, in the future. That--that's her purpose. That's why we told the government we want that person. They come in here and they have that conversation. Inherent in that conversation is--is probably a discussion of facts and circumstances surrounding the alleged offenses.

Well, if--if the government's evidence needs to be contested, if there needs to be somebody put on the stand to rebut an assertion or evidence put on by the government expert, Dr. Sani's basis and what the government can probe is her basis for her--her opinion. It will be based on conversations that she's already had.

So that is one particular situation in the hypothetical where that--those two things cannot be separated from each other and that will end up ultimately either inhibiting the way the defense can present their case, or it will lead to a--a piercing of that privilege.

MJ: I'll give you one more chance, but I'm gonna let the government respond to that.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

Still not following how--if the--the defense's purpose for calling Dr. Wetherill is to talk about alcohol and its effect on memory for the victim in this case, how--you know, the--the traditional, you know--you know, people who drink alcohol sometimes have blackouts. They sometimes have, you know, blank spots in their memory, and they might not be forming memories at the time but, you know, they might be, you know, functioning at a level where someone might perceive them to be functioning. That has nothing to do with what the accused tells this expert. This expert, Dr. Wetherill, will be testifying about--

MJ: Well, that's--

TC: --her observations.

MJ: --that's--that's--that may be true, but, again, all hypotheticals.

But--but what if what Dr. Sani talks to the accused about in determining his risk for recidivism and his future harm is they talk about the events at issue, and what if he makes admissions to her, and then you're called upon the stand for her to testify about how alcohol affects memory and things like that.

A fair question would be, based on your expert opinion, are the facts in this case consistent with someone who blacked out--would she be able to answer honestly--honestly if she knew that was not the case because, for instance, Seaman Copeland had confessed to, no, she was--she was dead drunk, way--I mean, I'm not saying he would say that. I'm not saying that's what happened.

But if she knows facts given to her by Seaman Copeland, can she actually--can she then assess--can she testify independently about what happened or what could have happened based on her knowledge and expertise in blackouts?

TC: Yes, Your Honor, because I--I--I can't conceive of a situation where the accused--even if the accused told her I did it, right, the way that this expert testimony comes out at trial is, you know--you know, how much alcohol did this person have. You know--you know, or tell me about blackouts.

It's--it's a general kind of explanation about that phenomenon. And, you know, are these factors, X, Y, and Z, consistent with someone in a blackout? Yes. They don't--you know, they don't--you know--and there's no--I can't think of a question the government would ask in this particular situation that would pierce that privilege and get into statements that the accused made to Dr. Sani.

But even if that were the case, then I offer the court another--another alternative solution; is that we grant--that the court grants two forensic psychs and not three.

Because now, if the argument is that Dr. Sani is going to speak with the accused for recidivism purposes, then Dr. Wetherill and Dr. Dickson aren't going to talk to the accused for that purpose and there's no reason why there should be two additional experts to testify when both are forensic psychologists and both are eminently qualified to talk about alcohol and memory.

MJ: Okay.

TC: So as an--as an alternative resolution, Your Honor.

MJ: I understand your argument.

I--I gave you the last word on this and then we can move on to the--which--which is related of course--which is the sexual sadistic behavior.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): And Commander Morgan is prepared to talk about that. I imagine the argument is much the same, Your Honor.

The--the specifics of--of Dr. Dickson is the fact that she's an expert in a very particular field. And I--having not spoken with her about the overlap between her and what Dr. Wetherill will testify to, the argument would remain the same; is that the basis for those opinions may be different reasons why they find themselves on the stand and that--that how they get to those things as the basis for their opinions, separate and aside in different areas. The same argument.

MJ: I understand.

Okay. Let's--understand all that. I'll take that under consideration as well.

Let's talk about the last expert, the sexual sadistic expert. And, Captain Morgan, are you gonna talk about that?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Honestly, Your Honor, I think Lieutenant Commander Mihill laid it out perfectly exactly why they're different.

MJ: Well, I understand why they're different. Why--why is--why is this expert necessary to defense preparation? What about her skill set--her--her skill set?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Her, yes--yes, Your Honor.

MJ: What about her skill set is relevant--not relevant--is necessary for your preparation in this case?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. I mean, it's absolutely relevant. And it's based on solely the government's charging scheme in all of this and--and the facts underlying some of the allegations that--that the government charged; specifically, you know, with--with C.R. You know, that--that whole situation led to thoughts of, you know, her--and she even admits this in her own statement; is that, you know, he--he stated that, you know, I like to be strangled in a--in a sexual way.

MJ: Okay. So, let me ask this: Is--is--do you need an expert to discuss why C.R. might like to be strangled?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Absolutely, Your Honor.

MJ: So--okay. But then--I guess that goes to the point that there's no evidence of that--at least not that I've seen. The--the evidence that she likes to be strangled is the accused's own statement that he heard she liked to be strangled to her. She's never adopted that--at least I--I didn't see any evidence of that.

So, is--is the accused simply telling someone that he heard something about her evidence of that trait?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Providing her acknowledgment of that, Your Honor, you know--

MJ: Can--can you point to me where she acknowledged that except by just telling whoever she reported to the story? Is--is relaying the story of what happened to her acknowledging that that is true or that's a true statement?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Not necessarily, Your Honor, but--but within the context of which it happened, right, I mean, every--the allegation is abusive sexual contact, and so the whole manner in which the--the strangulation happened, you know, happened in a sexual context. And it also goes to the state of mind of Seaman Copeland at the time that it happened.

MJ: But, again, we're talking--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): And even--even assuming that every--all her statements are true.

MJ: Well, what does this expert--what does this expert provide? What--what is the specialty that--that she discusses?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): One explanation to the members, Your Honor, that, you know, we can all probably assume that maybe people would have some general idea about kind of what all could have encompassed sexual sadistic behavior, especially when we're talking about strangulation in the bedroom or--in a sexual context, but we--we can't rely on that assumption, Your Honor.

I mean, it is--I mean--in addition to that, I mean, she--she's gonna allow us to develop other theories--possible theories based on what the evidence shows and--and use her expertise to be able to establish that.

MJ: But you have to have some threshold. What--what--again, is her expertise necessary because one of the alleged victims may have this behavior? Is that--is that the argument?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct and especially how the government's also trying--

MJ: Okay. So where is the evidence for that argument? Where is the evidence for that behavior? And if it's simply that the accused--and I'm not gonna put words in the accused's mouth. I'm gonna say is it simply because the victim--the alleged victim has reported the accused told her that he heard she liked to be choked?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): And the context in which the alleged assault even happened or took place based on the--the alleged victim's own account.

MJ: So, I guess what I'm getting at is you are not arguing that you need this expert because of some sexual sadistic behavior that the accused might have, but based on behavior or trait that an alleged victim might have.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): And, Your Honor, that's exactly why we need this expert; to be able to develop potential theories in line with that. I mean, again, what--what the government charged and what the government's also-- MJ: So, what--I'm sorry, go ahead. Go ahead.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): What the government charged and what the government is also reporting in terms of 404(b) is other acts of--they're trying to use the act of strangulation, especially in a sexual context, to be able to show other things.

And so--well, whether it's a sexual context or--or not, right? Just the act of strangulation, we should be able to bring forth on expert to be able to develop potential theories in line with that.

MJ: But I--what evidence do I have that those potential theories could exist? I mean, the only evidence you're giving me is a statement about one of the victims. About one of the victims; not--not from the victim but about one of the victims that I don't have any support for.

So, what--what evidence is there that--of this sexual sadistic behavior would otherwise be manifest anywhere?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): So, Your Honor, when you point to, you know, what the--what evidence is out there, you know, this--this is the exact issue that we're dealing with and the reason why we need this expert and why we're--why the whole point is to develop potential theories is--is solely based, again, on the charging scheme as well as the--what the government has purported they are trying to introduce as 404(b) evidence in this case.

And--and the fact that a lot of these things, especially once we start questioning these people, will lead or potentially lead to potential defenses that--that we're--that we are--that's necessary in order to be able to show the innocence in this case and--and--and to prevent the government from being able to prove their burden beyond a reasonable doubt.

And--and--and that is solely the reason why we're requesting this expert; is to, again, allow us to develop potential theories which goes to defenses in this case.

MJ: Okay. I understand your argument.

Government, I'll let you be heard.

TC: Nothing additional from our written filing, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

Okay. Again, I'll take all this--with the exception of the pathology expert, which I--I ordered the government to do some work on, the other three experts I will take under consideration, and I will issue a ruling in due course. And I will--I will try to expedite those rulings, because I know they--they further develop the course of your preparation.

Okay. Let's move on to the motion to compel discovery, which is Appellate Exhibit XII.

The government's response is at--I don't know where. I don't know. We'll figure it out.

DC: They did make a response, sir.

MJ: They did. I got it somewhere. I just--it's an eyesore. I can't look at it.

DC: It was XLV. No, I'm sorry. That's the suppress discovery. I don't know. Suppress discovery is funny.

MJ: Okay. So, I'll--but I'll look--you don't have any evidence on this motion, correct?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

DC: No, Your Honor. And we--and we rest on our filing.

The--the issue the defense has is that we're in a dangerous territory in--in our opinion of the trial counsel deciding when there's new or different information that they're getting from witnesses, one. But--but, two--because we're not getting any disclosures at all.

But two, even if the trial counsel talks to a witness in this case, we should be provided a disclosure that that happened, because, like we said in our motion, the fact that witnesses are more willing to talk to the trial counsel than the defense, that demonstrates a bias.

And so, all we want to be told is, one, that we've been provided all new or different information, not just that it's denied; and, two, that they've spoken to--to witnesses.

MJ: Well, do you--do you have any rule or law that requires that; that they--that they talk to witnesses; that they've got to provide dates and times when they've talked to witnesses?

DC: The law is R.C.M. 701; that it's relevant to the defense's preparation for the reasons that we stated in our motion, Your Honor.

MJ: How is it relevant to defense preparation that they talk to a witness and no new information was provided?

DC: It goes to the witness's bias; that they're talking to the government more than the defense. And that--that's exactly what we spell out in our motion, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Government, do you want to be heard?

TC: Just pending your questions, Your Honor.

MJ: One moment.

You can have a seat. It may be a second. I do appreciate the courtesy.

I don't have any questions. I'll--I'll consider this. I'll get a ruling out to you in short notice.

Okay. That's the motion to compel discovery.

Multiplicity. That motion, has that been mooted--or not mooted, but the government concedes?

TC: Yes, Your Honor, the government concedes.

MJ: Okay. So, what is the plan? Are you gonna withdraw and--withdraw one of the specifications?

TC: Yes, Your Honor, the lesser included.

MJ: Okay.

Defense, does that satisfy you?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. And so I--let me--let me be clear: There--there is a--there are scenarios and worlds of facts where--where the--where I think it's abusive sexual contact is not necessarily a lesser included offense of aggravated sexual contact, but, defense, you agree in this case that that's not the case; that this--in this case, the consent element of abusive sexual--the lack of consent element of abusive sexual contact is in fact a lesser included offense--the lesser included of the force element in aggravated sexual contact?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: And, government, you agree these are two--this is the same crime. It's not--it's not two separate incidents near in time.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, I--I just don't--if we get to the end of this and he's convicted of a lesser included offense, I don't want the argument to be never on notice.

So, you agree this is--this is a lesser included offense of the--of the greater offense.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So that's mooted. I don't have to--the government's gonna withdraw the abusive sexual contact offense there.

All right. Let's move into the Appellate Exhibit XX, which is the motion for appropriate--motion to dismiss based on violation of speedy trial rights under 707 and--R.C.M. 707 and Article 10, UCMJ.

Government, I believe you've got the burden here.

TC: That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Any evidence you want to present beyond what you presented in your motions and enclosures?

TC: Nothing--no, Your Honor; only perhaps reference the Enclosure (7) we discovered last night.

MJ: Okay.

TC: Just as an indication of the ongoing investigation.

MJ: Do you have any arguments you want to make on this motion?

TC: Nothing that wasn't included in our motion, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

TC: But pending any questions.

MJ: No questions.

Defense counsel, who's--who's--who's got 707?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right here, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): So, I do want to just respond to one of the things that the government brought forth in their motion and that was their citation to--I want to make sure I'm correct--Casta--Castanedamanzo. Castanedamanzo.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Citation for the record, 2023 CCA Lexis 85.

So, they--they claim that that case is pretty instructive just because the delay in that case was significantly more than what we're talking about here up until arraignment. I think it--it was a total of 259, 260 days or so.

You know, part of the reason why the court didn't find any issue in that case is--is pretty distinguishable from this one. They talked about the fact that there was no evidence that the conditions of that confinement were harsh or oppressive. We're talking about the prejudice element here. That is completely different from what Seaman Copeland is experiencing.

You--I mean, part of what we filed in this court is, you know, a motion for illegal pretrial punishment. You heard Commander Flanagan talk about the oppressive conditions that Seaman Copeland has to deal with and live with every single day; 22 hours of lockdown, an hour of rec, by himself in solitary with guards surrounding him.

MJ: Let me--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): An hour of work--

MJ: And I do--I do understand your motion there on the issue, but you know--and correct the court if I'm wrong--typically that Barker v. Wingo analysis of prejudice deals with prejudice to the accused's right to--or the ability to get a fair trial. And it talks about things like spoliation of evidence and witnesses being gone and not the--the--I don't want to say routine, but not the--the rigors of pretrial confinement but rather the--the harm that's caused to his case by significant delay--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well--

MJ: --which is, you know, losing evidence and witnesses disappearing, things like that.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, that's only, Your Honor, when it's not as oppressive as what Seaman Copeland is dealing with, right? If--if they're talking about the--and this is--and I'll pull it out, so talking about the actual prejudice, you know, it's assessed in light of three different interests, right?

The first interest is to prevent oppressive pretrial incarceration, to minimize the anxiety and concern of the accused, and to limit the possibility that the defense will be impaired, to include the possibility that a convicted person--person's ground for appeal might be impaired.

So, I think where the court is getting to is the--is the third interest, but there's others. And--and that's exactly what the defense is articulating here.

And--and it's not just the routine confinement that Seaman Copeland is experiencing. Like, what is--what he is experiencing is very oppressive, and I think that's by objective means. I mean, two trial courts have already found the conditions that Seaman Copeland is--is being subjected to is illegal pretrial punishment.

I mean, and the--and the one thing that the--that the brig has said, okay, well, we're gonna give you this because of the good behavior you did, that--what they talked about was an hour of working, an hour of cleaning the brig with the supervision of--of guards while still in solitary and unable to even speak to anybody else. And--and that's kind of what we're talking about there.

MJ: Let me--let me ask you this: So, two things, you--you make both an Article 10 argument and an R.C.M. 707 argument. So, do I get to the prejudice analysis if I'm speaking strictly about 707?

And I do but--but only--only with regards to how I would dismiss the case, right? Dismissal with prejudice or not.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: If I find a 707 violation, there is only one remedy, is dismissal, correct?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: But if I don't find the 707 remedy, then I never have to worry about the--the prejudice, correct?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Repeat that?

MJ: If I don't find the violation of 707; in other words, if I find that the--the convening authority appropriately excluded delay and that the 120-day clock from imposition of confinement to arraignment has been met, then I never get to the prejudice analysis, correct?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, that's--that's not true, Your Honor. And may--maybe for the 707.

MJ: Well, I'm--I'm--two things: 707 is distinct--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: --from Article 10. I'm talking about just 707.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): I agree, but--but this case specific--

MJ: Hold on. No, the--hold on.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Okay.

MJ: Just 707.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): 707.

MJ: If I find that the convening authority appropriately excluded delay--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: --and that with the excludable delay, Seaman Copeland was arraigned within 120 days of his--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: --imposition of confinement, that satisfies 707 and I never have to worry about--I never get to whether there's prejudice to his--to his harsh confinement, correct?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): For 707 that is correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So--so not gonna rule today, but--but I understand your prejudice argument.

Let's talk about Article 10.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: Is the art--is the defense's contention that the Article 10 violation--obviously, you know, Article 10 clock starts upon imposition of confinement, and it goes at least until--at least until trial on the merits.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: And this case is docketed for June 3rd or June 4th to begin trial on the merits.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): That is correct.

MJ: But--but everything after arraignment you would agree has been agreed to by the defense counsel.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): That is correct, Your Honor. However--and this kind of goes to a point that the government made in their motion that I also wanted to address once we talked about the different interests and the factors of Wingo; and that is, you know, the government can't get the benefit of--of the delay and then say, okay, well, now because of the delay we caused, we're gonna hold--hold the defense to the standard of, okay, well, now they acquiesce and agree to, you know, a--a potential delay that lasted to June.

You know, the whole point of what the defense was trying to do from the beginning of this case was prevent any potential delay. I mean, the government wanted to say they--they offered to do the trial in February; however, they--they also refused to give us any discovery in the case initially. We put--

MJ: Well, and I--and I would--I--I--you would have remedies if that's the case.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. And--

MJ: I mean, if--so I guess if the government wants to go to trial in February and you say--I mean, it seems to me one alternative would be--would be absolutely, sure, and then immediately file motions to dismiss for failure to provide discovery or--or--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, the remedy for discovery in that case would be just a continuance and that--and that--

MJ: But then--but then that would certainly inure to your benefit from Article 10's perspective.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, and then that would've just delayed it even further. We're talking about the amount of experts we're dealing with in this case. Like, we've--we've submitted numerous requests for experts. Some are already granted. The ones not granted you saw motions with here today.

Trying to coordinate the schedules of all those individuals would potentially have delayed this case past June, and that's not what we wanted to do in this case. So, we put it for a time that we--we had to based on the fact that, hey, one, we had to be prepared. If we don't have discovery in this case, how can we possibly be prepared--prepared for this case.

And then on top of that, we also don't want to just say, okay, well let's just do it in February without--without knowing what's out there and then potentially delay it even further because now we're operating in the space where we have so many people and hands in the pots and now, we have to coordinate every single person's schedule to accommodate a trial that works for everybody.

And so that's the issue. Because, again, we requested discovery in this case all the way back in June. Just--just out of the interest of fairness and to present--prevent any delay potentially in this case. We didn't get it then. The government--the government wanted to put it in--into their--their trial procedural--

MJ: What--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): --outline--

MJ: What--what were the--what were the discovery requirements by the government in June?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): There were no requirements for them to do discovery, Your Honor, but, however, the government knew Seaman Copeland already had counsel in this case. We were already detailed to it.

MJ: So--so is the delay you're talking about fashioned upon a lack of giving you discovery that they were not required to give you?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No.

MJ: Then what is--what is the government delay you're talking about post-arraignment?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, so post-arraignment, we're--we're talking about the discovery because that shows the interest that the defense had.

MJ: Again, just--just so I'm clear, which--which discovery?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): The--

MJ: The discovery you requested before they were required to give it to you?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. Because it shows the interest that the defense had to--to prevent any delay in this case.

And the reason why I'm bringing that up, Your Honor, is to specifically address your concerns about, well, this TMO, right? Both sides agreed to a trial date in June.

MJ: I guess--I guess the point I'm making is the government's under no obligation to provide discovery until they're required to provide discovery, and that's at least until charges are referred and there's been an arraignment.

And--and--and you're fashioning--your argument seems to be that--that you were forced to accept a slower process because they didn't do something they weren't required to do.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, that's part of what Article 10 looks at, Your Honor; is whether the delay is caused by the government, and the delay is. If--if they're not giving us--even after preferral, they didn't give us discovery until literally 22 days later. Like, we--we didn't get discovery at--before preferral when we requested it initially, even though the government wants to put that in their--their trial outline and their deadlines. They didn't even acknowledge it. Then they preferred the charges and still didn't give us discovery up until the time, like, just a few days prior to the 32.

And so--right. And that's a good point, Your Honor. Like, at the end of the day, you know, we're talking about what the government was obligated to do. They also weren't prevented from providing us discovery either. And--and that--that goes to the analysis of the delay the government is causing to prevent the defense from being able to properly do the case in a timely fashion and why that shouldn't be attributable to--to the defense.

MJ: Have you ever--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): And that's--that's that factor.

MJ: Have you ever requested a speedy trial from this court?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): We requested a speedy trial twice of the government in this case.

MJ: All right. My question was much more specific. Have you ever requested a speedy trial from this court?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Not through a motion, no, Your Honor.

MJ: What about at arraignment?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No.

MJ: I mean, as I recall, at arraignment you deferred the entry of pleas, you deferred the entry of motions, you deferred the entry of forum--all in accordance with the TMO that I'd signed--the court had signed the day before.

So, you know, to the extent you thought the government was moving too slowly, could you not have brought that to the court's attention at that time.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, part--

MJ: And demanded a speedy trial and said not guilty, entered a forum and demand--demand a trial at that point?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): That is true, Your Honor, but, again, that--that would also assume that--well, the defense does not have to be properly prepared or adequately prepared to represent their client, which is absurd and--and not reasonable.

And--and the reason why that would be the case if we did do that is based on the actions of the government, and that's the issue here.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Because, again, we're talking about discovery that they could have given us but chose not to. And even on top of that, we're still operating in a--also a space--and I don't want to leave this to the wayside--the government knew the issues that we were having with even communicating with our client. That--so--and we did bring that to the court's attention; however, court said we don't have standing.

MJ: The--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): So--

MJ: The--this court did not.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. This--this court did not.

MJ: During a 30a proceeding over which I presided--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: --I found that there was no standing, and--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: --I believe that's the right law.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

And--and so just--just bringing forth that point, Your Honor, that's to your point about, well, why didn't you bring it to a court. Well, we did for that. And--

MJ: Well, that was--that was a--that was a similar motion that you brought today about illegal pretrial confinement. And that 30a ruling was that it didn't have to do with speedy trial. It had to do with access to your client.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): True. But it ties hand-in-hand, and it--and it's also referenced in the motion itself.

MJ: I understand.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right, right? That we literally referenced that motion in the speedy trial motion because it goes hand-in-hand. It goes with being quality prepared.

And--and to the court's point, wanting us to kind of barrel roll the case that we have--we're not adequately prepared for. Like, we literally could not even talk to Seaman Copeland in a space that was conducive to privileged communications, one on one, and securing attorney/client privilege up until the time of 6 October. 6 October when we got the one--the limited exception of being able to meet with him in a--in a--in a space that's not a room where you can't hear each other.

I mean, the OIC didn't even know about it, but, you know, it was signed by the CO and we--we were able to do that. But that was 6 October, Your Honor. Seaman Copeland went into confinement on 9 June. 9 June to 6 October, with us filing Article 138 motions to the command saying what--what--what the brig has is not accommodating or conducive to adequate attorney/client relationship or communications, then refusing to assist us by--you heard Commander Flanagan said the--the sole thing to fix this--the alternative remedy would be to just have Seaman Copeland transferred to the defense spaces to be able to meet with him.

But when we tried to do that, every single turn the command denied us. We--we raised that to the trial counsel. They did nothing to assist with that. We filed an Article 138 motion against--a request against the command and an actual 138 complaint against the command for not assisting us by bringing Seaman Copeland here to be able to meet with us. Our hands were tied, Your Honor. And that's the issue.

At every single point, big government present--prevented us from being able to know what evidence was even out there, prevented us from being able to speak to our client, and then want to take the advantage and say, well, even with us doing all of that, now we're gonna hold it against you for--for allowing--or request--or agreeing with June--a June deadline--or for trial. That's problematic.

And--and, again, I want to just preference six--6 October, Your Honor, was just days before the arraignment. So, when we're talking about scheduling TMOs and deadlines, you know, based on the court's rules and stuff like that, like, being able to even meet with our client in person in a space where we can talk to him just days before, that's unreasonable to expect us to come in there and say not guilty, let's move forward today.

Maybe we would have been able to do that if they complied with everything we requested, but they didn't. And it's the--it's the delay that they caused, and that's why the Article 10 looks specifically at government's actions in causing delay in the case.

And they can say, okay, well, you know, maybe we acted, you know, every so often, every--every other day or something like that. Some of--some of this stuff even raised that I kind of want to even highlight, Your Honor, aren't--aren't even attributable--like, it's not even actions by the government.

They talk about waiting for the autopsy from Dr. Rodic. Dr. Rodic, as we know from the--the--the motion to compel witnesses, which of course we'll talk about, you know, he's--he's the person that was a third party that did the second autopsy. That wasn't even secured by the government. That was secured by Resendiz's mother.

They talk about--they even had a portion in here talking about, well, the defense filed their initial discovery request, and they mentioned that back on the June 30 line in--in the spaces of this stuff, but, again, they--they mention the defense filed--submitted the initial discovery request as part of the reason for the delay. I mean, they include it in the timeline, but they didn't even address that. They--they didn't even respond to us. They didn't acknowledge the fact that we even sent it to them. They could have, but they didn't.

And so, these are all issues and--and they--and they just want to rely on the fact that, okay, well, defense didn't do this or they're--they're just requesting June, but it's because of all the delay that they caused, Your Honor. And that's the issue in this case with Article 10.

MJ: Thank you. I--I understand your argument.

Government, I want to give you the chance to respond because Commander Morgan had a lot to say there.

TC: Yes, Your Honor. I appreciate that.

The defense requested a speedy trial, and the government delivered. We brought this case to arraignment within 46 days under the 707 clock, in all told, 122 days. This is a complex murder investigation where the body was hidden in the woods. It was decomposed; required significant forensic testing, witness interviews, not to mention the fact that there were four other allegations from different victims pending against the accused.

The government moved as fast as it possibly could, not just with reasonable diligence to bring this case to trial. And we did so at their request.

The requirement of the government to provide discovery attaches at referral under R.C.M. 701; to provide discovery sooner, any more than we did--because we did provide discovery with respect to his confinement order and with respect to the Article 32 hearing in this case. Over 50 exhibits were provided at the Article 32 hearing.

They also had the opportunity to file a discovery request at the 32 hearing, which they did. The 32 officer ruled on that discovery request.

They had significant amount of evidence, not to mention access to their client which I'll get to in a minute, which would allow them to reasonably prepare for trial.

But, Your Honor, at this--at this stage, I'll proffer that there are thousands of pages of discovery that have been given over to the defense. To marshal that evidence and put it in a discoverable format would have impeded our ability to investigate the offenses at the same time and bring him to trial as fastly as possible.

We tried to balance the concerns of what is required under the rules with his demand for a speedy trial, and that's what we did. That is how we were able to bring this case to trial as fast as we did. And the decisions that we made were because of that.

We didn't violate any rules in doing so, and they have had ample time to prepare. It is now December. They've had months to review this evidence.

And as you know--as noted earlier, Your Honor, the investigation continues. They believe we've spoken with witnesses that we have not spoken with yet. Every day, as outlined in our motion and beyond, we have worked on this case to bring it to trial.

And frankly, we believe that the defense may have waived their speedy trial claim when they requested that trial not be held in February but in June, based on experts that have not yet been consulted or appointed. That didn't make sense to us.

Moreover, Your Honor, we asked to arraign the accused, and they asked for a delay until Wednesday of the--of that week for that arraignment to happen. Had we arraigned him on Monday, which was our initial intent, we would have met 120 days without excludable delay. We brought this case to trial on time.

And moreover, Your Honor, I just wanted to speak briefly about the prejudice. There's no tangible prejudice to this case. As NMCCA held in Castanedamanzo, that--the NMCCA or the CAAF have never held that the fact of pretrial incarceration alone is prejudicial to a client.

And Castanedamanzo is unique. He was in pretrial confinement during the COVID epidemic, so it was actually worse than just solitary confinement. The certifications were that he was completely confined, and the court still did not find prejudice and they never have.

Talking about unable to communicate with their client, Your Honor, it's really an absurd proposition. As you heard from Commander Flanagan this morning, they offered them the no-contact booth, which has plexi--plexiglass and the ability to pass documents. Brig staff tested to see if you could hear outside of that room, and you cannot. It is like a tomb in there, Your Honor.

But more than that, they can make phone calls with their client. That has never been impeded. And that the trial counsel went out of their way to request from the brig, as outlined in our motion under Article 13, that they set up a contact visit with the defense and their client just so--you know, to try to allow them to have that access. That was approved by the brig.

In fact, the government was under the impression that that was a standing approval. And if it wasn't a standing approval as it seems the defense is indicating now, they've never requested that again. That was on 6 October.

If their last decision to meet with their client on 6 October--the last time they met their client in person in a contact setting was in 6 October, that is their choice. We have not received a request to try to accommodates that again.

And, again, we were under the impression, reading that approval, that that was a standing approval, and I believe that it is.

And last, they've stated that the government was unreasonable and prejudiced their client because we're unwilling to move a max status alleged murder from the confinement--from confinement in the brig in Chesapeake where he is supervised 24/7 and bring him to Building A50--transport him a significant distance in a van with brig chasers from a command who've attended a brig chaser training. That is all; to A50 just so that they can meet with him when they have completely--they have a complete safe--safe way of doing that at the brig.

Just to bring him here, just to bring him back just so that they can meet with him in that capacity is a completely unreasonable proposition. There's no prejudice from our denial--the government's denial to do that.

Pending any questions, Your Honor, I think I've responded to everything the defense raised.

MJ: Thank you. No questions.

Commander Morgan, I'll give you the last word since you hold the burden here.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): I appreciate that, Your Honor.

So just to address a few things, so we're not saying that we are still unable to meet with Seaman Copeland in a--in a space now. The--the only thing I raised about that is the fact that we--we mention that to the government back in June and now it wasn't until 6 October when that was resolved. That's--that's--so for clarity's sake.

MJ: I understand.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): We're not saying it's an ongoing issue. The issue's been resolved. But the fact that it happened literally just days prior to arraignment where we were trying to even schedule the TMO, that's the issue.

One more thing, when we're talking about all the complexities of this, the complexities of that, and--and, okay, well, we couldn't do this or else we wouldn't be able to investigate--the government has infinite resources.

Saying that because trying to get discovery to the defense counsel is gonna prevent them--and I assume NCIS--from being able to do a proper investigation--because it's not the trial counsel investigating--you know, that's absurd.

They can farm it out to whoever to do whatever. You know, they--they don't have no relationship--no attorney/client relationships to--to deal with. They're fungible. They--they can get whoever--whatever hands in the pot they can to--to get whatever discovery is out there to the defense counsel. So, I don't--I don't buy that.

Another thing is when we're talking about the complexity, yes, the--the allegations in this case are serious. But a lot of the stuff on that charge sheet was already substantially completed.

You look at the date of--of the allegations in--in some of the other charges--all the other charges really, all that stuff happened prior to Resendiz even going missing. All that--all those--all those cases were already substantially completed, Your Honor.

The only one that we can say probably wasn't was the one--the charge of Y.J., Jimenez, and that's because it was--it was part of this investigation. They--they ended up finding her stuff through Copeland's phone and just reaching out to random people.

So--but everything else, Your Honor, was substantially completed. And when we're talking about the reasonableness of the delay, you gotta consider that, because it's not reasonable when you look at--at it in the grand scheme of things.

You know, we talked about what was done, what was not done. You look at the autopsy report. They said part of the reason for the delay was they were waiting for toxicology stuff to come back. The toxicology stuff came back--back in July.

And if they would have just met with the autopsy person like they said they did in the motion--they said they were meeting with the--with the coroner or the pathologist who did the--the initial autopsy several times. Well, he received that autopsy--that toxicology report in July of 2022--22 July.

They put in their request for excludable delay back in August, which is of course we know is later than 20--July 22--that they're still waiting to get this stuff. Talk to the people. NCIS was at the autopsy. They couldn't--they don't have to wait for all that stuff and have it--that was--that was done in July.

So, again, when we're talking about the reasonableness, you gotta consider all that; the totality of everything and how most of this stuff was substantially completed. And, honestly, everything with Resendiz, NCIS had interviewed hundreds of people; had--had--did a bunch of scene documentations; had--had--you know, did all that stuff prior to Copeland even going into confinement.

And part--and part of the reason that we're looking at in the case that the government cited to--you know, part of the--part of the rationale they looked at in determining that it--that it was reasonable was that, yeah, all that stuff happened after he was placed into confinement.

Here, all that stuff happened before. Everything was done. There was only a few things, a few big investigative steps that hadn't been completed. And we know that didn't lead to anything because they didn't even charge an act for murder.

So, it's not reasonable, Your Honor, and--and we should win on Article 10 and 707 because, again, the convening authority didn't question the excludable delay request because we know something that had already been done is something that they said we need a delay for. If they would have just questioned, maybe they would have figured that out

MJ: I understand your argument.

I--I misspoke earlier and said you have the burden. You do not. The government's got the burden.

So, I will give you the last word if you have anything else to add, Commander Dempsey.

TC: Just to clarify one point, Your Honor. So, there was an autopsy conducted on June 10th when the body was recovered. That report was not completed until September.

Trial counsel leaned forward and reached out to the--to the person who had conducted an autopsy at the Norfolk Medical Examiner's Office and met with them on 29 July 2025. The investigation--or the autopsy was not complete. It required significant testing after just an observation of the body.

But based on what they were able to tell us in that interview--and you'll see in our log--we made immediate steps to begin to discuss how we were going to prefer charges given, especially that we could not identify a specific act at that time and the complications that that involved.

In an interest of meeting the speedy trial demands of the defense, when we could have, we believe, waited for additional evidence to maybe fill that gap, we decided to move forward with what we had before that autopsy was filed and prefer those charges.

MJ: Fair to say the other investigations there on the charge sheet, which--which the defense says were substantially complete, that--the--based on your 404(b) notice and--and your response to their motion, those--those investigations became relevant to the murder charges you eventually preferred?

TC: Yes, sir.

And just to--I guess the easiest way to say that is when a new allegation comes up, you know, you have to reevaluate all--all other ongoing investigations, right? And that's essentially what we were doing.

And even in those investigations, some significant steps had not been taken. For example, Richardson had never been subsequently interviewed based on what happened with her. And just several steps. It just required, again, reanalysis of essentially proof in those cases.

MJ: Okay. I understand.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: You've given me a lot to consider. I will take all this under consideration and I'll issue a ruling on this motion in due course.

I'm ready to move to the next motion unless we need a health and comfort. We've been going about an hour. I'll--I'm good if the parties are good.

TC: Government's good to proceed, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. In that case let's take up appellate exhibit--Appellate Exhibit XXII, which is a motion for appropriate relief, change of venue.

No evidence to present on this motion from either party?

DC: No, Your Honor.

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: And does--does either party want to be heard on this, or you rest on your motion?

DC: Just briefly to address some of the things--

MJ: You do carry the burden, defense. I'll let you go first.

DC: Just--just briefly that--because I think that the defense has laid--laid out--and I just want to address the--the government concern about doing voir dire early might cause delay and the defense just disagrees there.

We're just talking about a few months. We will give the--the trial counsel--I mean, frankly, we could do forum selection, you know--we could probably provide forum selection tomorrow, Your Honor, that way they have plenty of time. The convening authority, when they're selecting members, availability is certainly one of the things that they can consider when they're--when they're selecting members is availability and when they're available. That's not--that's--that's actually one of the things that they should consider.

And if we do voir dire in March when we're already to scheduled to be in court, then, one, it will assist us in determining whether there is the prejudice that's outlined in these cases because we'll be able to actually talk to the prospective members about that.

And two, if we--if we are able to find, you know, eight members or--depending on if the convening order allows for alternates, we'll be able to--the court will be able to issue them an order to stop now looking--you know, watching the media. They'll--they'll be able to know now that--that they're a part of this and to stop--to stop looking at the, you know, comments and all the stuff that could cause prejudice. So that way we would actually know.

And then we would know if we can't. If we--if--like, there's just no way we're--we're not gonna be able to find eight members than haven't been prejudiced by the media, then we can move the trial to somewhere like Jacksonville where there has been significantly less media attention on this case.

MJ: So, if the concern is the pretrial publicity that members of the Hampton Roads Area--potential members of the Hampton Roads Area might have been exposed to, one, I think you concede that--that voir dire is a process by which that can be meted out and whether or not the actual members are prejudiced by--by their knowledge through media of what they think happened.

But, you know, unlike a civilian jurisdiction where the jury pool is, by law, required to come from the jurisdiction, what--what prevents the convening authority from--from thinking that himself and saying, you know what, I'm gonna pull members from Groton or I'm gonna bring members from Newport or Jacksonville? What--what prevents him from doing that?

DC: Nothing. I mean, if--and if that's the remedy that the court wants, we just want to know now because what we don't want to do is, come June, get members in here and then they're--

MJ: Well--

DC: Yes.

MJ: Well, here's what I'll say is I--is it is no business of the court to tell the convening authority how to pick members. That is--that is a--a statutory authority he has under Article 25 and--and the court, unless you make a motion or--or carry the burden otherwise, I--I presume he will do that in accordance with the law and regulations.

I will say that part of the discussion we had in setting trial dates, I believe the dates initially offered to the court were for about a two-week trial and it was the court that pushed back and made the trial really the entire month of June. And I will just share with you the thought process was I thought voir dire would take a significant amount of time.

And so I think it is--so while I understand why a change in venue might--might seem desirable because you can negate the--the prejudice that might exist from members, I think that can be done by finding members who are not prejudiced either because through the voir dire process we weed them out or because they come from places besides Hampton Roads, which is, again, in the province of the convening authority and I'm not gonna tell him how to do his business. But--but they know that too.

So, I--I think there's probably time during the long session of trial that we have--we've--we've scheduled, but I don't know.

DC: And I--and I disagree with you, Your Honor, that there's enough time in that three-week period. And our concern is, is that a continuance in this case would be catastrophic, right? I mean, the government has quite a number of experts. We have a quite a number of experts. And then finding another day where all--everyone is available, I fear that it would lead to a continuance to like December or something like that.

And so doing voir dire in March would just alleviate that concern. It would just save us--

MJ: So, are--are you--are you no longer arguing for a venue change to Jacksonville or somewhere else and instead arguing that we change the trial schedule to--to conduct--to bifurcate the voir dire process from the trial? Is that--is that--are you abandoning your--

DC: I'm not abandoning it. The case law seems to not avail itself to me--

MJ: Okay.

DC: --in the way that I would like it to. So, it's just that I don't have a great argument even though I do think that would be--

MJ: I understand.

DC: --an appropriate remedy, the courts don't seem to agree with me, and so this is an alternate remedy.

And I'm not abandoning it because it's possible that we do voir dire and we realize that that is the only--that is the only remedy, because that's where we learn about--I mean, that's what the case law tells us; is that--that's when we learn if there is the kind of prejudice because of the publicity.

MJ: I understand. Thank you for your--for your comments.

Government, why don't we just do voir dire in March?

TC: Your Honor, for the reasons that we laid out in our motion, I think it interjects too much unpredictability in selecting members and then three months later expecting them to be available, be able to forecast what sort of issues they might have encountered from the time they were voir dired three months earlier to the time of trial.

Talking to folks or to--to members, you know, right before trial occurs, we get the--the latest and greatest of what's going on in their lives and the information they have that may or may not affect the--the fairness of the trial, so...

MJ: What about the concern that the defense has that we get to June, we get to trial, and we simply go through a couple weeks of voir dire and can't seat eight--eight members because of knowledge about the case?

TC: Your Honor, I--

MJ: Or just, you know, implied bias?

TC: Right. Your Honor, I think those concerns would--I mean, if that happens, which the government does not think will happen, it would still--we'd still run into that issue in March, and we just have three months of voir dire until we get the panel.

But the--the nice thing about, you know, the amount of time that Your Honor has blocked off for trial in June, the convening authority can still, you know, supply--you know, detail new members to the court-martial and we can just cut into the trial date.

MJ: You do agree with the court's assessment that he's not bound to the folks that he can reach out and touch with his hands? I mean, he--he--there's no--there's no requirement that he pick people from Hampton Roads, correct?

TC: That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: I mean, indeed, he can certainly pick from--it's Commander, Navy Region Mid-Atlantic so he can seemingly pick from the entire Mid-Atlantic Region.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Fair to say?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: And probably beyond that through agreements with other commanders.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Anything else to add?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Last word.

DC: Again, Your Honor, we're just talking about three months and then we would have time, because if we run into the situation that--that you just described in June and then we have to change venue. But if--in March that won't be a problem. Because if we can't, then we can change the venue.

I mean, we're in the military, people go on deployment, we prepare things three months in advance. I think that we could do something--I mean, that's just--it's barely even three months--March to--to June. Maybe it is three months. I'm very bad at days.

But--but if we realize that it's going to be an issue, I mean, we just--the OIC of the brig just testified that the media attention has been such that he's concerned for Copeland's safety in the brig because other prisoners might want to hurt him.

So, you know, these are the--the people who work at the brig are the same people; they're the--they're same military members that are potential members in--in Copeland's trial. And I would just--it steams conducive to, like, efficiency to figure that out in March and not wait until June; because in March, then we have a remedy that we can do in advance of June and not cause any delay.

In June, if we run into the issue, sure, the convening authority can get new convening orders and, sure, at that time he can get new members, but it gets more and more dangerous that it could cause delay in a trial where the defense has, you know, demanded speedy trial and that the accused is in--in maximum confinement. And, you know, he won't be after--he won't be in maximum confinement no matter what happens after his trial.

MJ: I understand.

Okay. So given the fact that the--although the defense has not conceded their motion for a change of venue, given the fact that--that Commander Serfess has conceded that the law is not on her side, the court agrees, and so I'm gonna deny the motion for a change of venue.

And I'm also going to--and to the extent the request to do the voir dire in March is perhaps styled as an amendment--you know, request to amend the TMO, I'm gonna deny that as well. I find that the convening authority has the resources and the ability to throw members at this veneer and to impanel enough members in accordance with Article 25 where we can use voir dire as the appropriate process to determine whether or not there is any bias, actual or implied, from the members.

And to the extent we--we don't have a quorum after we go through the initial voir dire, I would expect the convening authority to be flexible and will require him to be in getting us new members and continually getting us new members from wherever he needs to get them in a timely fashion so that we can continue on the trial on--on time.

So--so I'm gonna deny your motion, and I would just urge the government to make sure the convening authority realizes that we're going to have to have a members panel and--and he's gonna have to be flexible in--in assigning them based on the criteria in Article 25, and I'll leave it at that. I trust the convening authority to do what he's empowered to do and what--what is statutorily required of him.

Parties understand my ruling?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Let's move to Appellate Exhibit XXX, which is the--everybody doing okay?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Let's move to Appellate Exhibit XXX, which is the motion to produce witnesses.

Okay. Defense counsel, I think you've got the--the burden there. Again, no evidence to present; just--just argument?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, Your Honor, just argument.

Just want touch base on one of the things that--I think it's pretty laid out why these people are relevant and necessary, but to the--to the--to the point about the--the hearsay argument the government raised for--give me one second, Your Honor.

MJ: Just to set the stage, you--you are asking for three witnesses.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, Your Honor, just three.

MJ: That's Seaman Miguel, Mr. Teelez, and Dr. Rodic.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct, yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Rodic. Okay.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes.

MJ: Okay. Go ahead.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): So--so talking about--and I want to address the hearsay argument for Brian Teelez Mendez because that--I think that was pretty much the only thing the government raised as to why he shouldn't be compelled.

But, you know, everything in that--in the text message--or the Instagram message that he received from Resendiz talking about what she was experiencing in her command and--and all that. It is admissible. It's not hearsay. Nothing in those messages are being offered for the truth of the matter. It's only going to her state of mind and why she--why the defense's theory is that you know--

MJ: Is this the statement where she's making--remind the court. She's making statements or she's texting that something's--her work center's toxic or something like that?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct. You know--

MJ: So not offered for its truth; not show that the work center is actually toxic, but rather--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: --to show she thinks it is. That's how she feels.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Exactly. That's how she feels and that's what--you know, part of our theory is that she could have potentially committed suicide. And so, you know, we need to develop that theory.

I mean, there are--there's already statements out there that says she has, you know, potentially mental health issues and episodes. And--and whatchamacallit gives us that--Juanrogel Miguel. He--he's a--he is like a brother to her he says. I mean, he talks about the episodes that she experiences, the mental health issues that she's faced, potential mental health issues that caused her to actually need treatment. And--and on top of that, you have the text message or the Instagram messages--

MJ: How would he know that? Look—So--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): How would who know?

MJ: So, I understand your argument about Mr. Teelez. We'll come back to that. When it comes to Seaman Miguel, what--what would he testify to?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): He's gonna testify to the episodes that he's witnessed her have.

MJ: Okay. And why are those relevant?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well--well, it's relevant because during the night she was with Seaman Copeland, she called, you know, her ex-boyfriend, Petty Officer Rich--

MJ: My understanding is the evidence suggests that those were panicked calls.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. Episodes.

MJ: Well--okay. We--we can call them episodes, but--but the description that--I mean, Petty Officer Rich describes is panicked, frantic--fair enough? Fair assessment?

Whether that's true or not, that's what the evidence seems to suggest for--for our purposes here.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. In addition to the fact that she's also, you know, reached out to somebody else and told them eff you.

MJ: I--I'm just trying to--at this point, I'm just trying to make sure we--that I understand your interpretation of that call.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: And Petty Officer Rich seems to suggest that it was frantic and panicked. Is that a fair assessment of his--of what he--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: --thought the call was?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: So that's what the state of the evidence is.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): That--that is true, but he also talked about episodes. He even mentioned episodes that she's had in the past.

MJ: Okay. So, again, let--why is that relevant?

I--I guess my point is why are--why are ep--and the point I'm getting at is, is Miguel's specific description of those episodes is quiet and not talking and he's gotta talk to bring her out of it, which is--seems to the court, dissimilar to what ET3 Rich is describing.

So, I note--you know, we can colloquially call them both episodes, but they don't seem to be similar. So, my question again is, why is what Seaman Miguel is gonna testify to relevant here?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, Your Honor, because that's exactly what the government is planning to use. Like, they're--they're planning to use evidence of the--the phone call, of course, to--to show that, you know, she was frantic, et cetera.

At the end of the day, just because she had one episode, you know that he's able to talk about from the bar that she had where she was--

MJ: So first off, I--you know, I think the government's point is he's a--he's a lay witness and so you and I--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: --are--would be lay witnesses when it comes to episodes.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: So, you know, I--I'm not sure if he were to testify that we'd allow him to use the words "episode." So, he would be testifying about things he observed.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: Is a fair point?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct. And--and his personal knowledge about her mental health struggles.

MJ: Well, but how does he have that personal knowledge?

He--I guess my point is, does--where is that personal knowledge? What personal knowledge does he have?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): He--he was--he was her best friend, Your Honor. He--he knows what she had--

MJ: Did he--did he--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): --or where--where she was.

MJ: Okay. Explain that to me. What--what--what would he testify to about her mental health struggles? Would he testify what she told him, because that's--I mean, if that's offered for its truth that seems to be hearsay.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Give me one moment, Your Honor.

One moment, Your Honor.

MJ: Take your time.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Okay. So, Your Honor, a couple of things.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): So, you're right, right? So, part of what he's gonna talk about is specifically his observations, right? Observations in terms of what he has observed when she--when she has told--when she has told him that she has been experiencing a mental health issue.

And I--and I think that, you know, part--part of that is he's observed the--he's observed the--the actions that she had, and he's--he's gonna be able to tie that to just his personal knowledge of her background and kind of what she experienced.

And that--and the reason why that's relevant and necessary, Your Honor, is because the government has already kind of laid out there that what Petty Officer Rich is--is gonna be talking about is pretty much the episodes.

And so I know you--you want to push back on that and, you know, defense using that word "episodes," you know, in regards to what Petty Officer Rich is even gonna be talking about, but--but--but what he says is, yeah, she was frantic, she did all this, and he's gonna say, well, you know, based on his personal knowledge, part of the reason that causes these panic attacks or episodes, whichever word you want to throw out there, is potential sexual advances on her.

And when we're talking about personal knowledge of other people about these same supposed attacks or episodes--again, whatever you want to call it--he provides a complete opposite description of--of things that cause these panic attacks, if you want to call it that.

And--and it--it does not deal with--

MJ: So--so you're saying he would testify about his observations of what Resendiz is going through and then her reaction to that--her reaction to that.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

And then on top of that, he's also gonna be testifying about the interactions that he had with Resendiz about having to closely monitor her use of medication when it comes to potentially overdosing because of--because of her background and the issues that she's had with mental health.

Like, he specifically says that he had to take her medication and closely monitor her to--in order to avoid her overdosing. He can speak about that.

It doesn't take an expert to be able to talk about the actions that you have to take in order to keep a friend--one of your best friends, from overdosing, Your Honor. The reason why he had to do that is because of the potential--well, the mental health issues she was facing and the potential risk of suicide. I mean, that is--that is--that's it right there.

And, you know, preventing these witnesses and the government preventing us from calling these witnesses is gonna--is--is preventing the defense from putting forth a theory, and--and that's not--that's not--that's not right; that's not where we need to be in this situation. That's gonna--that's--that's gonna detrimentally--detrimentally harm the defense's case. And these witnesses are directly relevant and necessary.

And that, coupled with Brian Teelez Mendez's message that he received from Resendiz direct--

MJ: Is he--is he essentially a foundational witness to get in that text--that--that Instagram message; is that all?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): He's--he is the only witness that can get in that--

MJ: But that's--that's the only thing he would testify to. He would--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: He would testify that this came from--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct.

MJ: --Resendiz.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): And then we're--we're gonna introduce that--that statement itself in--in photo form.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): How he received it.

MJ: Now talk about Dr. Rodic.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Okay. Doc--so doctor--

MJ: If you have--do you have anything else for Dr. Rodic beyond what's in your motion?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes. And--and the--the only thing that I'd like to add is the government has kind of thrown out there that these--the--the notes from the recorded call or something like that--that's actually, from what we know, is appended to the report.

You know, they're saying that was laced with a bunch of errors or--or whatever. There's nothing from Dr. Rodic saying any specific thing in that is--is--is of error. That Dr. Rodic has not said or provided any--any written statements or anything saying, yeah, these--this statement is erroneous, this statement is erroneous, this statement is erroneous.

All we know is that, hey, Dr. Rodict, who did an autopsy on Resendiz when there's only two that's been done is--is saying that there was no evidence of foul play and no evidence of strangulation. And that's in the report itself based on what we have. And so that's why that person's relevant and necessary.

MJ: Okay. Let me hear from the government. I'll let you pick which one you want to start with.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

I have really nothing further to say on Seaman Miguel or Mr. Teelez. I--I will say--I guess I stand by that it's still inadmissible hearsay for Mr. Teelez and also, it's irrelevant.

MJ: Why is he--why--why for Teelez? I'm having a harder time--it doesn't sound like that evidence is offered for its truth. I mean, I think the statement says--

TC: I think it says my command is toxic.

MJ: Okay. But--but that's not--I think--I mean, I--okay. So--but I can give a limiting instruction and say that--that it's not--it's non-hearsay. It's not offered for its truth.

Is it really going to show that her command is toxic, because that almost doesn't matter. What matters is how she feels. So, her command could objectively be not toxic, and she could feel it is toxic, but that goes to her state of mind which the defense is trying to explore as a possible alternative to a murder.

TC: Yes, Your Honor. I mean, I--I suppose you could say the--the--the car is red without it, like, affecting how I feel about the car. You know, that she's--you know, to the extent that she's making an observation about her command--

MJ: What if I--what if she said I think the car is red? Almost doesn't matter what color the car is; what matters is what she thinks. I think this is closer to I think the car is red than it is--because toxic is not objective, right?

I mean, because literally, if we want to get literally, the command is not toxic. It is not radiation. It is not nuclear spillage. It is not literally toxic.

So, it's necessarily subjective. So, it's necessarily point of view. So, it--it's non-hearsay.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

Then I'll--I mean, the--the--

MJ: Okay.

TC: --the second part of my argument is that's just wholly irrelevant. There is--there is no--nothing--there is nothing--

MJ: That's--

TC: --there's no probative value--

MJ: Let--let's explore that for a second.

TC: --whatsoever.

MJ: Why is that--why is it not relevant?

TC: That her feelings about her command as it makes what fact of consequence more or less likely.

Defense--I mean, we'd be seeing--I mean, I--I--from what defense is arguing now is quite a sea change from this morning about, you know, the--you know, how Seaman Resendiz--or how Petty Officer Resendiz died so now we're advancing a--a theory of suicide despite all the arguments this morning about agents not having to suspect or, you know, have--you know, wanting to or needing to apprize petty officer--or excuse me, Seaman Copeland of murder this morning regardless.

MJ: The--and obviously defense can explore all the options.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

But a--a flippant comment on Instagram and that--that is it. That is all this--that's all this witness is able to testify to. There's no context about what was said before, what was said after. But--but in a vacuum, what--how does that help the members whatsoever regarding whether or not Seaman Copeland murdered Petty Officer Resendiz on 29 May 2025?

MJ: Okay. I understand.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: What about Seaman Miguel? So, I--if he's going to testify about his interactions with Resendiz in the days or weeks leading up to her disappearance and her episodes, to the extent the defense is arguing or advancing a theory of something besides murder, why is that not relevant?

TC: Well, to the extent we're asking another junior sailor to opine on the mental health of another junior sailor--

MJ: Well, maybe not opine and--and maybe that's where it would be restricted, but to the extent her behavior that he observes can be described, is that not relevant?

TC: Well, also--I think we're also getting a little--I think maybe defense maybe was a little bit liberal with the interpretation of the facts. I'm not quite--first, where--the evidence submitted to this court was the summary of NCIS's interview.

The idea that--for--there's no temporal proximity to my knowledge of, you know, days before she went missing. I mean, this is--you know, the government is only aware of some, you know--you know, some issues that--that she had in the past, you know, months earlier. You know, they're--they're referenced in our motion to suppress.

We're--the government was aware and witnesses were aware that at some point in the past that she had had these mental health issues, but I don't think that Seaman Miguel can, you know, say, you know, a day before she went missing, this is what I observed or a week before.

So, I think to the extent, you know, his--he is relevant, there should be some sort of temporal proximity to the events in question.

But, again, it's still incredibly prejudicial. The--the type of testimony that we're asking of him I--I can't--I'm trying to think of a way that defense would ask these questions in a way that would not elicit him opining on--you know, as a--as a armchair mental health expert. You know, this--this is what I saw. This is the medication she was taking. It just--it's well outside the bounds of a layperson's opinion.

MJ: How would he know what medications she's taking?

TC: Exactly, Your Honor. So, the--

MJ: Unless she told him, which is hearsay.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Dr. Rodic.

TC: Dr. Rodic. Your Honor, I don't--I don't want to suppose, but I get the sense that defense may have not spoken to Dr. Rodic, and I would--the government, on several occasions, has spoken with Dr. Rodic, disclosed those conversations to defense.

The--the crux of--or the--what has happen--Dr. Rodic did a secondary autopsy of Petty Officer Resendiz 18 days after the Norfolk Medical Examiner conducted theirs.

There was significant degradation to the body over those 18 days. There was embalmment took place. A lot of factors which would make the second autopsy less reliable, and Dr. Rodic says that.

But at the--at the core of his determination about the cause of death it is consistent with Dr. Lameira; in that, you know, they're able to rule out certain mechanisms of death. One that can't be ruled out is asphyxiation/strangulation, what the government is--is moving forward--our theory of the case.

So there--there is--to the extent that, you know, Dr. Rodic's autopsy provides any additional probative value, it is cumulative with Dr. Lameira, who--you know, who--who did the closer in time autopsy and has a more full accounting of--of that examination.

I'll proffer to the court that that voice to text memo or the--the--the text that--that was, you know, provided to defense with the autopsy that Dr. Rodic concluded did not come with the autopsy. It was provided by--by the victim's family. It's my understanding it was an attempt to record, poorly, the conversation that the victim's mother had with Dr. Rodic after the autopsy.

But we've asked Dr. Rodic about his--his findings and, again, they are consistent with Dr. Lameira.

MJ: And so, to the extent they are consistent, you believe they're cumulative.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

I mean, I--I--the thing the government's arguing is they're less probative because of the amount of time that elapsed between the two autopsies, but they are generally consistent.

MJ: Okay.

Defense, you bear the burden so I'm gonna give you the last word. In particular, I would like to discuss the--the--and I'll let you talk about whatever you want to, but I--I'd like to hear your thoughts on Dr. Rodic and whether or not he's cumulative.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Okay. I'll address that first because that's the court's concern.

Dr. Rodic is not cumulative. One manner, cause of death, undetermined; the other one's deferred. You know, specifically when it talks about what Dr. Rodic--

MJ: Well, what does "deferred" mean?

I think he explains in there what "deferred" means. It means I don't know.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: And pending further examination which can't be done.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. Okay.

MJ: So, is that--is that functionally the equivalent of unknown?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): I--I agree, Your Honor. He--he doesn't know what caused the death, you know, and--and to the government's point that he's cumulative, he does not opine the exact same thing as--as the first--

MJ: Okay. I'm gonna--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, sir. And the reason--

MJ: I'm gonna--I'm gonna grant Dr. Rodic. The rule, to the extent it's cumulative, it's needless presentation of cumulative evidence in 403. I don't think it's needless. I don't think two doctors opining even similar things is necessarily cumulative.

I think the fact that one medical examiner even comes up with significant similar findings to another one makes a fact of consequence more or less probable. So, I--I think he's relevant. I don't think it's needlessly cumulative. Three or four medical examiners, maybe; but a second one I don't think is.

And I think he examined the body 18 days later. That's all explainable. So, to the extent the defense wants to explore things he might say that are slightly different or slightly--well, slightly different from what Dr. Lameira, I think it--the defense has the opportunity to do that. So, I'm gonna grant Dr. Rodic.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Thank you, Your Honor.

MJ: Go ahead. You--you can proceed with any other additional comments you have on Seaman Miguel and Mr. Teelez.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): All right. Absolutely.

I'll--I'll start by making this point because government brought this up. This isn't a guilty plea here, okay? There is no direct evidence of murder in this case, period.

The--the defense making an argument earlier that the government had enough evidence to--

MJ: I--I--I understand--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): --read him of his rights--

MJ: I understand the argument. I fully expect--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right. I just want to make it clear--

MJ: No--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): --for the record.

MJ: Well, and--and the court's certainly clear; that you are making arguments that--it's--it's not lost on the court that at this stage of the proceedings you make arguments that the government's evidence is overwhelming, and they should have warned him about things that they didn't warn him about.

I don't expect those are the arguments you make--you will make at trial; that the government's evidence is overwhelming. So, it is--it is part of the trial process and--and so the defense has the full range of opportunities to explore a lot of different theories. And so, what you may argue at this stage of the proceedings doesn't bind you, doesn't bind the court, and certainly wouldn't go in front of the members about how you're gonna present your case.

So, you don't have to convince the court of that.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Okay. One of the questions the court asked the government was how--how would Miguel be able to know the medications but for her telling him. Well, there are other ways, Your Honor, and that's because he saw them. He specifically-- MJ: So, is that in evidence somewhere?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes. He specifically said I had to--and let me--let me--let me just pull it because it's Enclosure (E). It states he confirmed that the medications have to be closely monitored in order to avoid her from overdosing. He knows what--what she takes. He can see it. He has it.

MJ: But he didn't--well, so--I don't have that in front of me. It says--you know, I--and does it--is it relevant what medications she's taking?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): It's--it's not necessarily relevant. So, what medications she's taking does not matter. The issue is the fact that he's saying that that action must be taken in order to keep her from overdosing. Overdosing is a direct act of suicide.

And when you couple that with the--the fact that he's saying that, you know, she has these mental health panic attacks or--or episodes or whatever--again, whatever you want to call it, mixed in with the fact that she sent Teelez Mendez a message on Instagram--the same month she went missing and ended up dead--that she had a toxic command culture and now--how it was impacting her; and that she felt, you know, like it was very toxic.

That coupled together is relevant and necessary why--why both of them need to be compelled here to speak.

I do want to make one more point, Your Honor, on that. Give me a second.

If--if--if--if the court does not compel Miguel to show that this episodes or panic attacks are caused by other things, the government should be prohibited from being able to bring in any testimony that this potential episode could have been caused by sexual misconduct through Rich because he specifically states that one of the things that, you know, could have potentially caused this episode or panic attack is--is acts of sexual misconduct or sexual advances.

MJ: Let me--let me ask the government.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): And that's--

MJ: Is that part of the government's case? I'm not sure how it could be.

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: I'm not sure how that would be admissible.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): It's in the 404(b).

TC: It's not in the 404(b), Your Honor.

MJ: Well, to the extent it's in the 404(b), the government has given me their answer.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Okay.

MJ: So, I mean, I will tell you that I'm not sure how that would be admissible evidence. I'm not sure how ET3 Rich's belief that her panic attacks are caused by unwanted sexual advances is--I don't know how he's competent to testify to that. And I don't know, to the extent he is, how it would be relevant to anything.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Okay.

MJ: I mean, government, do you agree?

TC: I agree, Your Honor.

And--and to the--well, I'll--if I may, to the--to the point about overdosing and--and things of that nature, I just want to draw the court's attention to Exhibit 52 of our 404(b) motion where the medical examiner, you know, had run a toxicology test and there were no--there's no signs of an overdose.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): And--and, Your Honor, there doesn't have to be a sign of an overdose just to say that there are other ways that suicide could have been committed.

MJ: I understand.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): You know, we're not saying that she took pills. I mean, I don't think the--

MJ: Your--your point is that--that Miguel would testify that he--that based off her behavior he was worried about her committing suicide.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Correct. Coupled with--

MJ: Okay. But how is that not a lay opinion? How is that not a lay opinion that he was worried she would commit suicide? And--and how is he--how is he competent to testify about something like that?

Again, he can--he might be able to testify about what he observed.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): And that's the thing, Your Honor. The--the defense does not have to get to the opinion, Your Honor. It's just the act that she had to be observed to prevent overdosing. I mean, overdosing is pretty clear what that insinuates.

We don't have to say, okay, well--you know, well, what is your opinion about her ability to commit suicide based on whatever--whatever mental illness you think she may have. We're not trying to get that from Miguel. I don't think he can testify to it either.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): But what he can testify to is the fact that she had to be closely watched by him to prevent overdosing.

MJ: I understand.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): A potential act of suicide.

MJ: Okay. I understand both parties' arguments. I'm gonna take Teelez and Miguel under consideration and I will get you a ruling in due course. I have to--you've given me a lot to think about and I'm gonna go back and reread the evidence presented along with your motions and--and I'll come out with a ruling in due course.

You want to take a break? We've got a few more to go. We've gone about two hours now. You want to take a health and comfort?

Let's take a health comfort. Let's come back at five after, so let's come back at 1605.

Court's in recess.

[The Article 39(a) session recessed at 1556, 10 December 2025.]

[The Article 39(a) session was called to order at 1611, 10 December 2025.]

MJ: This court-martial's once again called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

Okay. I think the next motion we'll take up is the defense motion to sever, which is Appellate Exhibit XXXVI.

Defense, you've got the--the burden. Any evidence to present on this motion?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor. If I may approach?

MJ: You may approach.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): What I have has been marked previously as Appellate Exhibit XXXVII(a). It's an e-mail. The court reporter has a redacted version of this.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): And I'll--I'll touch on that in just a moment, Your Honor, but the motion to sever is based on the manifest injustice that'll occur if these offenses are tried together.

The defense recognizes the joinder of offenses is--is--is favored in the military system; however, in this case, we have a--we have a charging scheme which has taken offenses that were over a year old which were out of sight and out of mind, and we've now, in the--in the world of allegations of premeditated murder with Petty Officer Resendiz, we're now finding those--those allegations finding their way back onto the charge sheet.

Those allegations are supported by very little to no evidence, but what they are brought into and what they are charged in this court-martial for is for the government to be able to say things happened in these cases which weren't being prosecuted or being adjudicated in any way; so therefore, Petty Officer Resendiz was strangled as a result of a premeditated murder in this case.

MJ: So, if that is--if that assertion is true, then this severance motion hinges on my ruling of the 404(b) motion. Because if--if--well, it doesn't hinge on that, but one of the factors in determining whether or not to sever a case is whether or not evidence of--of some of the offenses are admissible for evidence of--for the other offenses.

And so, if--if indeed the government has charged these other offenses so that they can use them--I guess my point is, why would the government need to charge these offenses if they can just admit them under 404(b)?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Defense position is that they--they--these offenses have been charged so that they can discuss and they can point to a--an escalation of force like Lieutenant Commander Dempsey mentioned earlier this morning.

MJ: But they could do that if I ruled on their 404(b) and severed the charges. If I ruled in the government's favor on their 404(b) motion--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: --you know, in each and every instance where they do, they've requested 404(b), then all of that evidence--whether it comes in at this trial substantively for the offenses charged or comes in as 404(b) would still be admissible.

So, I guess--back to my question--does--does your argument for severance hinge on whether or not I grant the 404(b) motion?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): No, I would--I would say that it does not, Your Honor. The--these--

MJ: Well then let me--let me take you to task on that.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Okay.

MJ: So, if I--if I do rule in favor--if I rule in--in the government's favor and admit evidence for 404(b), then this evidence that--and I rule to sever the charges, then all the evidence of the other crimes--or at least the evidence I found admissible under 404(b)--would still be admissible in this court.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): You would be in a situation like the case--like the case cited by the government in Curtis, where at that point the--the lesser offenses in that case were admissible as evidence of premeditation. So, you would be in a different--you would be--it would look different, Your Honor. Yes, I would agree with that assertion.

However, I don't think that anything that would be admissible in the alleged murder trial would then be de facto admissible to the alleged sex assault case.

MJ: Well, so--well, let me say this: If I were to grant your motion to sever the offenses, you--you would ask me to sever the non-premeditated murder case, correct?

You would--you--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That's--that's correct. That's correct.

MJ: Okay. So--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Sever--sever the charges--

MJ: So, whether--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --unrelated to A.R.

MJ: So--so whether or not the evidence of--related to premeditated murder can be used in a subsequent trial is some other judge's problem in that case, so--so it doesn't matter to me. But--but you--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I understand.

MJ: So--so I guess I--it still turns on the 404(b) issue.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I--I understand what the court's asking, Your Honor, and, yes, I think the 404(b) issue is--is a major issue in the case.

I--I don't think the government is going to get to a place where motive, intent, common scheme, plan is going to beget an instruction from the court. They're going to be allowed to introduce evidence admissible for each of the alleged offenses.

But what they have made very clear is, is that they are tying the--the alleged murder of Petty Officer Resendiz to things that happened in those cases. Those witnesses are gonna have to testify, and they're gonna have to necessarily draw inferences to get to a place--whereas we've pointed out, there's no direct evidence of what they want the court to find.

And that's--that's what we're saying requires severance. You're taking three--you're taking three allegations of sexual assault, standing by themselves they have very little support and were not being adjudicated and were not being--nothing was happening with those cases until--you can see from our supplement exhibit--June 5th when OSTC reached out and said, hey, I need information about these past cases.

To the defense's knowledge, that is the first time those allegations found their way into this case when there was--there--there was this alleged disappearance that happened. Everybody wants to say that they didn't believe that Seaman Copeland was involved, but it seems very clear that Seaman Copeland has only been--he's been the only suspect throughout all of this.

So, to that extent, those charges are now being brought onto this charge sheet to bolster the premeditated murder. The government is going to attempt to inextricably intertwine them in order to make the argument that they are--about this escalation of force and this pattern of conduct.

MJ: Well, so--so to the extent they're intertwined--or to the extent the government attempts to intertwine them, it'll be because the court let's them. It'll be because the court has granted some portion of their motion for 404(b) and said that evidence of X, Y, and Z may be used to show motive, intent--whatever--for other offenses.

So--but to the extent the court doesn't grant that, then there's still the preference for all charges to be at the same court-martial. So, why can't a--why can't other measures short of severance cure that? Spillover instruction, compartmentalizing the government's case.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor. And I--and I think that that is--that is certainly a--that is certainly a viable option short of severance. But what Seaman Copeland is entitled to is the presumption of innocence for each of the alleged offenses.

And when the government gets into trying to tie them together, that is when that gets into a murky world of having to provide an instruction separating witness testimony on one offense and another offense. You get into a world where the court is then trying to parse things for the members, where severance eliminates that problem. I put that--I put that to the court first.

The second option that would be available to the court would to be--to bifurcate the presentation of that evidence, right? These are the offenses, these are the witnesses, these are the alleged sex assaults, this is the offenses related to Petty Officer Resendiz, this is the evidence related to Petty Officer Resendiz. You must use them and you must follow the military judge's instruction to not allow these to spill in over to that because Petty Officer--or excuse me, because Seaman Copeland is entitled the presumption of innocence on each and every charge and not to be blended together and convicted on a general criminal disposition, Your Honor.

So, to the extent the court feels a remedy short of severance would be more appropriate, then, yes, defense would--would concur that bifurcation would make a good alternate remedy for our--for our motion.

MJ: Okay. Thank you.

Government counsel, do you want to be heard on this?

ATC: I think our arg--argument as it's laid out in our--in our motion, Your Honor. We believe that there's no indication that the members will not be able to follow the military judge's limiting instruction should you grant the 404(b) motion in full or in part.

MJ: If I deny the 404(b) motion and I say none of it can--there's no--there's no mixture at all, all of the evidence of each crime is independent and I don't find any--any 404(b) at all, should I still--should I sever then?

ATC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Why not?

ATC: There's still a preference for joinder of all the offenses. And these offenses are not so far apart or so far afield that they shouldn't be tried together.

In fact, many of the same witnesses, while we may be able to bifurcate their testimony, would still need to be present for those hearings. It would just be for judicial economy that--to try them together.

MJ: And so, to the extent--you mentioned bifurcation and certainly I brought it up. I--I don't anticipate you know how you're gonna present your evidence at this point, but it seems to the court a logical--I mean, it--it doesn't seem--it seems very disjointed to have witnesses who did the search of, for instance, the barracks room or interviewed Seaman Copeland followed up by evidence of the sexual assault of S.S., for instance. I mean, it--it seems a logical way to do it would be to present all the evidence for each victim at a time.

ATC: Um-hmm.

MJ: What are your thoughts on that?

ATC: One moment, Your Honor.

MJ: That is the way the court's simply seen it done. I--you know, I'm not at a point at this stage--because I haven't ruled on the severance, I'm not at a point that--where I would order that, but I--I'm interested on the government's thoughts on whether that's what you're gonna do anyway, if you know at this stage.

ATC: Yes, your Honor. I think that was--that's generally our intent. I'll admit it is a little bit early. Certain--

MJ: Sure.

ATC: Certain specific witnesses like Special Agent Duffy who testified today, who was kind of a part of almost every charge on the charge sheet--

MJ: But she could--she could come back and forth, right?

ATC: She could--she could if--if the court ordered it, yes.

MJ: She--she could come and testify about her interactions for an allegation involving sexual assault, be cross-examined on it, go back and sit down.

ATC: Mm-hmm.

MJ: And then to the extent she has evidence on the murder, she can come back up and testify again on that.

ATC: Correct. Absolutely, yes, Your Honor.

MJ: So that's a--that's a remedy short of severance that would--

ATC: And--and I--

MJ: --at least allay some of the defense's fears.

ATC: Yes, Your Honor. And our intent is to present the case at least generally in that manner regardless, so, yeah.

MJ: Okay.

ATC: Whether it needs to be explicitly bifurcated, as you say, that is our general intent, yes.

MJ: I understand.

I--same question I asked the defense counsel: If--if I do rule at least in some regards that that evidence is admissible--again, much of the evidence you seek to admit under 404(b) is admissible against--you know, for it's--for--for charged offenses.

ATC: Mm-hmm.

MJ: To the extent I admit that evidence for another purpose--for instance, under 404(b) to show motive or intent or common plan or scheme--does that sort of decide the severance issue then?

ATC: I don't think it's necessary to decide the severance issue, Your Honor, but I think it certainly helps, especially under that first Southworth prong, yes, Your Honor.

MJ: And the other two prongs are looking--

ATC: They're--

MJ: --looking reversed.

ATC: --kind of retroactive, right. Yeah.

MJ: That it's what the appellate court looks at.

ATC: Right.

MJ: The only prong in front of me is how the evidence is presented in the court, correct?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

And as we outlined in our motion, you know, I'm not sure exactly why the defense admitted this exhibit just now but just to touch on it, these are both witnesses that were on the Truman that just got back from deployment just prior to this e-mail being sent. This is trial counsel seeking contact information for the two victims in cases that we were still investigating.

MJ: It may or may not have anything to do with--it may be simply a timing because they just got back from deployment on June 1st.

ATC: Yeah.

MJ: It may or may not have anything to do with the fact that Copeland was involved.

ATC: And frankly--frankly, I'm not sure, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

ATC: Bottom line though, the--even if these cases were tried independently, they're strong cases, but the overlap of the evidence is--is significant and especially with the 404(b), Your Honor. That's--that's why we think that--

MJ: I understand.

ATC: --they should be joined.

MJ: Commander, I'll give you the last word.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): A preference for joinder and a preference for judicial economy should not trump the constitutional right of the accused to have a fundamentally fair trial, Your Honor.

MJ: Understand. Thank you. And it certainly won't here.

I will take all of this under consideration and I'll issue a ruling in due course.

Next, Appellate Exhibit XXXVIII is a motion for failure to state an offense.

Commander Serfess, you're standing. I take it you're taking this for the defense?

DC: Yes, sir.

MJ: You have the burden?

DC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Do you have any additional evidence to present on this motion?

DC: No, sir.

MJ: Government, you don't have any evidence on this motion, do you?

ATC: No evidence, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you want to be heard?

DC: Just briefly to address some of the--the argument in the government's motion. So just a couple of things:

First, we--we know that a bill of particulars cannot fix a flawed specification. So, to--to the extent that the government asserts that that fixes it, it does not.

MJ: Well, tell me why it's flawed. Why is the specification flawed?

DC: Because it doesn't allege the act.

MJ: Why does it have to?

ADC: Be--why does it have to?

MJ: Why does it have to?

DC: I think that Richard stands for that. And I understand that in that case we're talking about, you know, an evaluation of a specification later because somebody was convicted of a lesser included offense to say that that act.

But in--but when you actually read the opinion, all of the words that they use, they're talking about the fact that the--the model specification and all the things that are required.

MJ: But--but it--I'll just point out in Richard they--they allege--they don't allege an act at all. They don't allege anything. They allege--I forget what the word is.

DC: Asphyxiation.

MJ: Asphyxiation. Which is a not an action at all. It is a lack of breathing for better term. It would be like--it would be as if you charged the person with bleeding to death. There's no causation there. So that--that was the issue I read in Richard.

But I'll--I'll be even more fundamental than that. Great respect I have for the United States Coast Guard Court of Criminal Appeals and certainly the judge who wrote that opinion, a former Chief Judge of the Navy-Marine Corps Court of Criminal Appeals.

But I think they go too far in saying--they don't go too far to--to advise trial counsel to follow the sample specifications and to follow the presidentially appointed or presidentially directed elements is--is always a good practice.

But the law doesn't require that. The law requires that the accused be put on notice and every element of the offense be alleged.

So which element of the offense has not been alleged in this specification?

DC: The act.

MJ: Where is the act an element of the offense?

What--where is--how is that an element of the offense?

DC: It has to be an act of the accused.

MJ: No, it doesn't. I mean, it does--I mean, you are citing the presidentially approved elements. That's not the law. The law is Article 118 of the UCMJ, and it doesn't specify in an Article 118 in the UCMJ says any person subject to this chapter who, without justification or excuse, unlawfully kills a human being when he has premeditated design to kill, period.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Where does the specification fail to allege those offenses--fail to allege those elements?

DC: I--I think there's a necessary implication that if someone kills somebody, they do it by an act. And--and just hear me out, Your Honor.

MJ: No, I--I--

DC: Yes.

MJ: I think you're making the government's argument. There's a necessary implication when somebody unlawfully kills someone, they do it by an act. Well, they have alleged that he unlawfully killed someone, so the act is necessarily implied which is all--all the--all the specification is required.

DC: And I disagree and I think that the court in Richard tells you why I disagree. I disagree for the same reasons that they do.

And just to address Ray because the--because the government sort of tries to use Ray to say that's not true. In Ray, also--I mean, it's an Article 92 violation--but even there, they--they alleged an act.

The problem that we have right now, Your Honor, is that the government is--is trying to have their cake and eat it too, which is we don't--we don't have to say the act. We can just get to court and be like we don't know, you know, what he did but we know that he did--that he did something.

But we're gonna provide you this bill of particulars that we don't have to stick to and--and we don't have to prove beyond a reasonable doubt about strangulation; and yet, we're gonna use that to shoehorn 404(b) evidence but really under the guise of propensity evidence, which is that there's allegations of strangulation in the past.

The--the person who conducted the autopsy can't rule out strangulation. Okay. He strangled him, but we don't have to prove that beyond a reasonable doubt. So, you--you can believe that he did this or, you know, anything else. And that's--that's the problem.

MJ: Well, let me ask this: Do the members--are the members required to find that Seaman Copeland strangled Seaman Resendiz to find him guilty of this specification?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Then doesn't that answer whether or not this fails to state an offense or not?

DC: Because if they still have to find that it was an act of the accused and we need to be on notice of what that act was and we are not on notices of that.

MJ: I think you need to be on notice--well, one, I think you need to be on notice that he's alleged to have unlawfully killed someone; unlawfully killed Petty Officer Resendiz.

Now the President breaks that down and says an act; but to the extent that's required, then you're notice that he--he is required to have committed an act. In other words, couldn't be an accident. It couldn't have been--it couldn't have been something he didn't do.

But, you know, what--what about the Elmore case? Is it Elmore? Is that the--the Navy case?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Binding precedent?

DC: Yes, it's binding precedent. It doesn't say anything about the--the failure to state an offense. What it--it's not even talking about failure to state an offense. And in that, they allege more than the government did here because there they say an act of force or violence.

Also, on that very same charge sheet, he's charged with attempted murder where they are very specific about the act of what he did; stabbing her and throwing her over the--the side of a cliff.

So, to the--to the extent that Elmore says anything--and I don't think it does. I mean, if--there's--there's nothing in that opinion about the offense or whether or not it was sufficient. I mean, we can--we're like--

MJ: I think--I think--

DC: --all just assuming--

MJ: I think what the government's pointing out is that this is a no body offense. In Elmore they never found the body. They had no idea what the act that caused the death was, only that the circumstantial evidence led to the accused being the one to cause her death.

And so, I think the--the--the argument--and I'll let the government talk here in a second--I think that the proposition is that's all the accused has to be on notice for; that an act that he committed--any of them--caused the death of Resendiz. To the extent the bill of particulars gives you more than that I don't know that it's required.

DC: Well, I don't think the bill of particulars really gives us anything except for that they're going to try and shoehorn 404(b) evidence in as propensity evidence, because it doesn't fix the charge and they're--they say in there that this is like our theory but we will explore all the other options as well.

And so, for--again, all the--all the reasons in Richard, we--we disagree and we do not think that this states an offense.

MJ: I understand.

Government, you want to be heard?

ATC: Just briefly, Your Honor. But we concur with--with your last statement there that, you know, we don't believe we need to be as narrow as we have even been here.

You know, even under the President's directive we could have said "act or omission." We specifically chose the language "act," and we provided a bill of particulars to a specific act.

This is very unlike Richard where the involuntary manslaughter charge that the accused was ultimately convicted of could have been on such a wide variation of possibilities with this.

It was an infant that was asphyxiated in their crib. It could have been from neglect. It could have been from pressing her into the crib. It could have been from, you know, some other act and then placing her in the crib.

There was--and the government in that case was unwilling to allow the military judge to restrict them from--from saying that it could be any one of these things.

And I think the Coast Guard--their--their opinion is--is frankly just because they were unable to do a factual or legal sufficiency review effectively is how they felt because they did not know how the members reached the verdict that they did because there was just so many possible ways that the--that the death could have occurred.

Here that is just completely not the case. It is--it is so much more like Ray where there might be a couple or a variety of different acts that resulted in CS3 A.R.'s death, but they are all an act of the accused. They are all an intentional act of the accused, and they are most likely strangulation which we intend to argue at trial.

The defense--we--we have stated an offense under the law and the defense is on proper notice to meet that offense, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Defense, I'll give you the last word.

DC: No, Your Honor, except for there is a wide variety of ways in which Petty Officer Resendiz could have died that don't involve an act of the accused. But I understand they have to--

MJ: Well and that--I mean, that's--

DC: --prove that it was an act of the accused.

MJ: I mean, that's certainly a defense.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: That's--that's certainly a defense.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. I understand.

Again, I will take this under advisement. I will issue a written ruling in due course. Thank you for the very cogent arguments.

Okay. Are we left with 412; is that it? Is that the only one we're still tracking?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Is there anything else we want to take up before we go into closed session?

TC: Not from the government, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So just--just for the parties' awareness, what I intend to do now is to go into closed session to hear the M.R.E. 412. We'll excuse the gallery and all persons not required to be in the courtroom for 412 will be asked to leave. I will ask the bailiff to post outside the courtroom and secure the courtroom while we conduct a 412 hearing.

And then once we open the court back up, we will, you know, recess for the evening. And I--I don't think there's anything else to take up, so that's why I want to make sure there's nothing to take up now before we--we kick everybody out, go into 412, and then we open back up only to recess.

So, nothing else to take up now? And if we need to have an 802 at the close of business today, we can do that; but otherwise, that's my intention going forward.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Mr. Bailiff, at this time I'm gonna close the court. Please escort all personnel outside and have them exit the courtroom and post up outside and make sure no one enters until such time as we tell you to come back in.

BAILIFF: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: So, at this time all personnel who are--all--all members of the gallery and all other personnel exit the courtroom.

So--so supervisory counsel and--and the support staff for the counsel may remain; but otherwise, all--all other folks have to leave.

BAILIFF: Yes, Your Honor.

[The courtroom was closed pursuant to M.R.E. 412 at 1637, 10 December 2025.]

[The following pages, pages 299 to 307, are sealed pursuant to M.R.E. 412.]

[END OF PAGE]

[The courtroom reopened at 1646, 10 December 2025.]

MJ: Okay. Let the record reflect the bailiff and other members of the gallery have returned into the courtroom, and this court is once again in open session.

Okay. Counsel, is there anything else we need take up before we recess for the day?

I will note that I--you know, I've only ruled on a few of these motions so I have several answers to get to you, and I will endeavor to do that--I keep saying "in due course." I don't know what that means, but it means as soon as I can because I know that helps you in preparation.

Anything else we need to take up before the court recesses?

ATC: Not from the government, Your Honor.

DC: Not from the defense.

MJ: Very well.

Court's in recess.

[The Article 39(a) session recessed at 1646, 10 December 2025.]

[END OF PAGE]

[The Article 39(a) session was called to order at 1015, 5 March 2026.]

MJ: This Article 39(a) session's called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

Ms. Cheek has returned as the duty court reporter--as the court reporter and she has been previously sworn.

So, since the last session of court we had one R.C.M. 802 conference by way of a pretrial status conference on the 29th of January, 2026.

We discussed--we discussed the government provided pathologist. The defense indicated that they're not sure that the--that pathologist was available and that's something, actually, we'll take up this morning. I asked counsel to stay on top of that and then, you know, to--to find another pathologist if that guy didn't work.

The--we also discussed the trial dates and--and that with the many moving parts we'd like to make sure we maintain those trial dates so to raise issues early if they come up.

We talked about the next motions filing which, again, we're here today to discuss.

Do the parties agree with my summation of our pretrial status conference on the 29th of January 2026; anything to add?

TC: The government concurs; nothing to add.

DC: Defense concurs and has nothing to add.

MJ: Very well.

Also, since the last session of court there's been several appellate filings that I'll just append to the record at this point.

So Appellate Exhibit LXII is a sealing order I signed.

Appellate Exhibit LXIII was the defense notice of forum.

Appellate Exhibit LXIV was this court's ruling on the motion to compel production of expert consultants.

LXV was a ruling on the defense motion to compel witness production.

LXVI is a ruling on the defense motion to dismiss for failure to state an offense.

LXVII was my ruling on the defense motion to exclude evidence pursuant to M.R.E. 413.

Appellate Exhibit LXVIII was a ruling on defense motion to dismiss with prejudice for lack of speedy trial.

Appellate Exhibit LXIX is a ruling on the defense motion to suppress the search and seizure of the phone, the 3 and 6 January statements, and the search of the barracks room.

Appellate Exhibit LXX was a ruling on the defense motion in limine to exclude evidence pursuant to M.R.E. 404(b).

Appellate Exhibit LXXI is a ruling on the defense motion for appropriate relief to sever the charges.

Appellate Exhibit LXXII is a defense motion for appropriate relief to merge some unreasonably multiplied charges.

Appellate Exhibit LXXIII--appellate--I'm sorry. Appellate Exhibit LXXII is a defense motion for appropriate relief to merge multiple--unreasonably multiplied charges. We'll take that up this morning.

Appellate Exhibit LXXIII is a defense motion in limine regarding 412 evidence. We'll take that up this morning.

Appellate Exhibit LXXIV is the defense motion to reconsider the--an expert consultant in forensic pathology.

LXXV are some enclosures to that motion.

LXXV(a) are supplemental enclosures.

LXXVI, a defense motion to suppress the search of Seaman Copeland's cell phone. We'll take that up this morning.

And Appellate Exhibit LXXVII are enclosures to that.

Appellate Exhibit LXXVIII is the government's response to the defense motion to dismiss.

Appellate Exhibit LXXIX is the government response to the defense motion in limine for 412.

Appellate Exhibit LXXX is the VLC response to the defense motion in limine regarding M.R.E. 412.

Appellate Exhibit LXXXI is the government response to the defense motion to suppress.

Appellate Exhibit LXXXII is the government response to the defense motion to compel the pathologist.

And Appellate Exhibit LXXXIII, the enclosures to that response.

Those are all now appended to the record. I'll just note that Appellate Exhibits LXXIII, LXXIX, and LXXX I will sign a sealing order and have those--have those appellate exhibits sealed since they deal with Military Rule of Evidence 412 matters.

Do the parties agree with my summation of the--the appellate exhibits that have been submitted since the last court entered--last session of court and is there anything I'm missing?

TC: Government concurs, Your Honor; nothing to add.

DC: Defense concurs and has nothing to add.

MJ: Okay. So, first, let's take up the motion to suppress evidence derived from the search of the--the accused's cell phone. I have read your motion. I've read the government's response.

Defense counsel, who's--who's taking this for the defense?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): I am, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, couple questions.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: I see how the motion's styled, but what is it you're asking the court to do?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): We're asking the court to rule on the--on the CASS, basically. Solely on the CASS. So, I want to make clear this is not the PASS. This isn't anything to deal with what we talked about previously. This-- MJ: Well, let me--okay. So, let me back up for a second. Is--is this a motion to reconsider?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No.

MJ: So--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Because the--the court--

MJ: Then let me ask this: In your motion--so--so the court has already--you filed a motion back in December, we had a motions hearing, and I made a ruling and--and you moved to suppress the evidence obtained from the search of the accused's cell phone. And now you are seeking the court, again, to suppress that evidence. And I--I think what your argument is, is that you're asking it for a different reason.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): That is correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): And I think case law makes it perfectly clear that the--the specific manner and style or the purpose in which the--the defense has to object to the specific manner in which the evidence was collected, that's exactly what we're doing.

MJ: Are you filing this motion simply to preserve your objection?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Well, let me ask this: Even if I agree with you, do you get the relief you seek?

I mean, you're--you're--the relief you seek is suppression of the evidence obtained, but this court ruled that--that the evidence obtained from the cell phone was based on the accused's consent to search. So, if the search authorization was invalid, does it even matter because I've already ruled that the accused consented to the search?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, for the purposes of--of preserving his rights, Your Honor, because we're not gonna waive the right that the CASS was invalid. And so, for that--for that purpose alone--

MJ: Well, we'll get to that.

Let me ask you first: Why did you include a section of good cause in your motion?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): For the sole purpose that the--the--the argument wasn't raised at the initial motions hearing.

MJ: So, I mean, this court--and the government points this out--this court did rule on--on the--the search authorization. The court, in sort of a belt-and-suspenders approach, found that--that the accused consented to the search of his phone.

But even if he didn't consent to the search of the phone, the search was conducted pursuant to a valid CASS. That was the court's ruling, so--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, the court--

MJ: So, are you--are you seeking to have the court reconsider that portion of the ruling?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, in--specifically, Your Honor, in your ruling, you said that the defense does not contest the validity of the CASS and that--that was correct.

MJ: But--but--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): But now we are.

MJ: Okay. But I--I guess that begs the question: Why didn't you--I mean, is it defense's contention that we're gonna piecemeal this? You--you--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No.

MJ: You've asked--you've asked the court to rule on a motion. You didn't like the answer, so you asked us to rule again--you asked the court to rule again for a different reason.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): It's not that we didn't like the answer, Your Honor. I think it made perfectly clear in the good cause section of the motion is that we just didn't have the time to adequately prepare for that section of--

MJ: Well, but--but--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): --the issue.

MJ: So, you--you noted the issue in your--in your motion. You--you--you pointed out that--and you called it "late discovery." You called it "late discovery."

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): And it was.

MJ: And it was. And so, it was only five days before the motions deadline, correct?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): That's when we got it, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, when was the motions deadline for this hearing?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): The 18th of February.

MJ: So, could you not have just not filed your motion then and decided to file your motion to suppress for all the known reasons you might want to suppress his cell phone search and filed it on February 18th? Or--or even more, might even have filed it at this motions hearing but filed it at the next motions hearing we have scheduled in this case?

I guess my question is: If you knew this was out there and you weren't prepared to argue why the CASS--the search authorization was invalid, why file your motion at all and not just delay the motion to suppress the cell phone search until such time as you had time to prepare for it?

The--the motions deadline five days after you received the--the search authorization discovery was not the only motions deadline in this case. You had one in February. You have another one in April.

So--so by failing to--but by deciding, making the choice to file a motion, haven't you foregone the other--the other arguments you might have for why the--the suppression--why the fruits of that--that search should be suppressed?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, absolutely not, Your Honor.

MJ: Well, tell me why.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, because of the fact of late discovery. I mean, that--that is the situation.

MJ: But it was--it's not late discovery. It's--it's--it's three months before the next motions deadline. It's five months before the following deadline.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): To your point, Your Honor, it--if we had waited, we'd be back here asking about the same thing here today. And the reason why is because the TMO specifically states that the parties must file all known issues at the time and that's exactly what we did.

MJ: But you're arguing today in this court that it's not a known issue.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): It--

MJ: I mean, your argument today is we didn't have enough time to prepare five days ahead--we--we got this information five days ahead of the motions deadline and so we didn't have enough time to formulate an argument against suppression of the--the--the fruits of the cell phone. We didn't have enough--so we put together--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Related to the CASS, Your Honor.

Be--because I want to make perfectly clear we had the pass, we had the interviews, we had everything that we argued initially during the first motions hearing. Everything we had, we had prior to that in ample time to be able to prepare and make an argument.

MJ: So--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): For this CASS, we did not.

MJ: But now you put yourself in this position where--what if I agree with you? What's the remedy you seek? What--what--what if the court says, you know what, I believe everything you're saying about the search authorization, it's invalid, there was no probable cause, or the arguments--even if that's true, what remedy can this court grant without overturning its prior decision, which you have not asked the court to do? What remedy do you get?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): I mean, the court can make its own decision when it comes to--

MJ: No, I'm--I'm asking specifically--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: --what remedy do you get if I agree with you?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, if you agree with us, Your Honor, I mean, on the invalid--validity of the CASS, if it's invalid, it's invalid.

MJ: Okay. So--so what--okay. That--that's a--that's a ruling.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Right.

MJ: Now what's the remedy for that improper constitutional violation?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, if--if--if the court feels that it's invalid and based on the other arguments that the defense has made, if it wants to reconsider its own ruling then it can.

MJ: The court does not want to reconsider its own ruling because you haven't asked me to and I--I think it's right.

So--so I guess my point is you--you've raised sort of a nonjusticiable issue. You've pointed--you're arguing for the--you're asking the court to make a declaratory judgment that this CASS is invalid, but it doesn't get you any relief even if that's true. The court's already ruled that an exception to the CASS exists; that the accused consented. And a second exception to the exclusionary rule exists; in that, the evidence would have been inevitably discovered.

So even if the CASS is invalid, you've got the consent of the accused, which is an exception to a search authorization requirement, and you've got this court's ruling that the evidence would have been inevitably discovered, which, again, is an exception to the exclusionary rule which would otherwise provide that evidence obtained in--through an invalid search warrant would be--would be admissible.

So where do you get--where do you get a remedy out of this?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Well, Your Honor, the--the main remedy in all of this is that the defense is not gonna waive a known right and that is arguing that the validity of the CASS is invalid.

And--and so, I mean, specifically in the good cause, Blackburn requires a particularized objection when it comes to Fourth Amendment issues, and that's exactly what we're doing by raising this issue with the validity of the CASS.

MJ: Okay. Government, do you want to be heard?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, to the extent this is a motion to reconsider, it's denied. To the extent it's a motion to suppress the evidence obtained from the search of the accused's cell phone, that motion is denied.

The court finds that, one, to the extent it's a motion to reconsider, Navy-Marine Corps Trial Judiciary Uniform Rules of Practice require a motion to be--motion to reconsider to be filed within 14 days of the issuance of this ruling and your motion was not filed within that time frame.

But more than that, for a motion to be re--for a motion to reconsider, it must be based on either an intervening change in controlling law, which you have not cited, the availability of new evidence, or the need to correct clear error and prevent manifest injustice.

So, you--you've argued that it's the availability of new evidence; that the discovery of the command authorize--authorization for search and seizure was only discovered to you five days before the relevant deadline; and therefore, you didn't have time to formulate an argument.

But the court notes that you didn't need to file the motion at that point anyway. Instead, you chose to do this piecemeal litigation and file a motion and make several attacks on the evidence derived from the search of the accused's cell phone and forego an attack on the command authorization for search and seizure.

You could have filed your motion at this motions deadline and made a more fulsome argument based on all of the arguments you would make. You could have even waited until the next motions deadline. There's nothing inherently necessary to--or timeliness to file this motion even before the eve of trial.

So--so I don't find that the availability of new evidence requires this court to reconsider that.

And then finally, the need to correct clear error or prevent manifest injustice, I don't find that there is any; chiefly, because even if the court were to agree and find that the CASS was invalid--which the court does not, and the court did not in its previous ruling--there's--you would not get the relief you're seeking anyway because the court found that the accused consented to the search of his phone; that he did not revoke that consent; and that instead, the--the search was--was based on consent.

And then even if it wasn't based on consent and even if there was illegality in the search authorization, the court found, in Appellate Exhibit LXIX, that the doctrine of inevitable discovery applied. Specifically, that the court ruled--and I'll--I'll read from Appellate Exhibit LXIX--even if the accused's iPhone had never been seized and independent of the accused's 3 or 6 June 2025 NCIS interrogations, NCIS were taking investigatory steps that would have ultimately led to seizure and then search of the accused's iPhone 15 Pro Max.

On 4 June 2025, NCIS--NCIS obtained an order pursuant to 18 U.S.C. Section 2703(d) for T-Mobile records pertaining to both CS3 A.R. and the accused's cell phone accounts. Those records would have provided device locations and revealed that the accused contacted CS3 A.R. a total of five times between 1902 and 1904 on 1 June 2025, after she had been missing for over two days.

Also on 4 June 2025, license plate reader queries on two vehicles that the accused had been known to borrow revealed that one of those vehicles belonging to Airman Calisse, was captured on Hampton Boulevard in Norfolk in the early morning hours of 2 June 2025.

Airman Calisse told investigators that the accused borrowed his car on the night of 1 June but did not return it to base until 2 June, making AR Calisse late for work.

This evidence suggests at least that the accused contacted or attempted to contact CS3 A.R. via his cell phone after he--after she had been reported missing and more than two days after anyone had seen her; and mere hours later, had driven off base in a borrowed car to an unknown location.

This evidence alone, regardless of any statements the accused made during his 3 or 6 June interviews, regardless of any information found in--subsequent would have made the accused's cell phone extremely relevant and given NCIS probable cause to seek a search authorization.

NCIS also conducted an examination in the hallway and stairwell closest to the accused's barracks room in the X-2 barracks on 4 June. Multiple areas of reddish-brown staining were observed in the stairwell. Subsequent DNA testing revealed that the reddish-brown substance matched CS3 A.R.'s DNA.

These forensic findings coupled with the knowledge that the accused and CS3 A.R. were texting back and forth on 28 May 2025 at the very least, which he indicated in his 1 June interview with NCIS, would have given NCIS probable cause to search the accused's phone since it was capable of storing communications between him and CS3 A.R. as well as photographs and geolocation data related to her disappearance.

So, because the court finds that the accused consented to the search of his cell phone and that the information on his cell phone would have been inevitably discovered regardless of any illegality of a search authorization, there is no clear injustice or manifest need to reconsider my ruling on the search authorization. So, the defense motion is denied.

Any questions about that ruling?

TC: Not from the government, Your Honor.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Okay. Let's take up the next motion, which is a motion for unreasonable multiplication of charges.

Defense, I believe you have the burden?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

The only thing that we have to add is just in response to the government's response, where they say just merge for sentencing, but I think the case of Porath, which is a new NMCCA case and is the reason that I filed the--the--the motion in the first place, it seems pretty clear that that's what the court did in this case. And NMCCA said that was an abuse of discretion and they should have been merged for findings.

So, any concern about the difference in the sentencing for, you know, strangulation versus a push could be taken care of with a variance instruction, Your Honor.

MJ: Give me--what were the factual scenario in Porath?

DC: Almost exactly the same. It was a chokehold, strangulation, and pushing. And then if you read the--the specification as merged in the--the case, it even very much says--I think it says chokehold and pushing in the--in the thing; commit a violent offense against Ms. A.R.E. by unlawfully placing A.R.E. in a chokehold and unlawfully pushing A.R.E.

So, it's--it's very similar into almost the exact same kinds of assaults and a merging for findings that--exactly like the defense is requesting in this case.

MJ: What was Porath charged with?

DC: A chokehold, strangulation, and pushing. Assault con--it was a 120b--128b.

MJ: Okay. Government?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

We stated in our motion that strangulation and a violent assault, as we've charged in this case, are separate and distinct acts; specifically, as they played out here, where the accused pushed the victim onto a couch and then proceeded to strangle her.

We believe that they should be separated for merits but then merged for sentencing, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you want to comment on the Porath case?

TC: I believe, Your Honor, that the chokehold that they're referencing there was not a strangulation as we have here. A chokehold would be a form of a violent assault. So, they're separate and distinct criminal acts.

MJ: Defense, I'll give you the last word. The government points out or argues that--that this is not, you know, the blow-by-blow that we typically see charged as a single offense but these are two distinct criminal acts; in fact, two distinct ways of committing a violation of Article 128b with two different sentencing schemes. The President has given a different sentencing schemes for--for each of those two different types of 128b offenses.

So how does that square with your--

DC: Again, it--again, I think it's directly on point with the Porath case. And, again, a variance instruction will--it is a blow-by-blow. It is--it is the same assault. And just like it--just like the court says in Porath, someone should not be convicted for two offenses for the same fight with the same person in the same interaction, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have this--if--if I missed it--okay.

DC: Yes, Your Honor. I believe I cited it in my motion.

MJ: I've got it, yeah.

DC: Okay.

MJ: Okay. The court will take this into consideration, and I'll issue a ruling in due course.

TC: Thank you, Your Honor.

DC: Thanks, Your Honor.

MJ: All right. The next motion is the motion to reconsider the expert pathologist. So, I get--I get to hear from each of you.

Okay. Defense counsel--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: --you have the burden.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Good morning.

MJ: Good morning.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I can address the timeliness piece first because I think the court probably wants to hear that. Now this is premised on the availability of new evidence and to prevent a manifest injustice.

MJ: The court--court agrees. It looks like you did not know that the--the substitute that the defense had provided was not available until well after the filing deadline for a motion to reconsider my ruling on your expert consultant.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor. The defense found out on February 8th that Dr. Lew was now being assigned and that was--if we consider that the date, then within the 14 days--

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --to file this motion.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): So that leaves us in a place now where we're--where we're dealing with an issue of fundamental fairness and the--and the perception thereof. And I know that we've argued about this before, but I want to just talk about where we are at now.

The government took steps to procure an adequate substitute in this case. No dispute that they tried to consult for a military expert; no dispute that they--that they went out and got a list.

At the last hearing I characterized that as a "Google list." That was incorrect. That list was provided by Dr. Lindsey Thomas to the government. We asked for that information in discovery. We didn't get it there, but we got it in response in this filing, so we have that now. So, it was not a Google list, but a list nonetheless from somebody else that was not the government.

And now we have a situation where Dr. Matshes, the one that the court said is the--is the answer to this problem, is not available for trial. That--that--that is where we are at on the government side of things.

Now, how we got to Dr. Lew, who is now being offered as the adequate substitute, I would point the court towards Enclosure (I) at page 14. In there, the same firm that Dr. Matshes owns, informed the government counsel, we are going to assign Dr. Lew. And as far as I know, they're not the person that does that, right?

MJ: Well, but the convening authority did too.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Understand--

MJ: So, do I--let me ask this--and maybe you'll--maybe the question will answer itself: Do I care about how the sausage is made? I mean, do I care how the expert was found?

The question for the court is whether or not the expert is an adequate substitute. The expert, Dr. Lew, has been assigned by the convening authority, which is--which is within his authority to do. If--if he picked her name out of hat, if he pulled it from a Google search, if he got it because the firm that he--that employs the person he otherwise picked said this is a good substitute, does that matter to me?

Because the convening authority's picked this person, so it seems to me the only question I care about is whether or not it's an adequate substitute.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I think it is--it's an essential piece of why we end up with this person, right? Because we're--we're in a place where initially this adequate substitute only came into the picture when trial counsel said, hey, this person is nec--a person is necessary for this; however, this one is too expensive. And that--that came from trial counsel. That never came from the convening authority.

The rule dictates that the convening authority is the one that says, hey, go see if you can find an expert. In that case, the prosecutors are the one that said, hey, you should find a different person.

So that's step one; we have the prosecutors deciding this person doesn't fit. Now we have--we've gone through motions litigation on this, we've come to a person that--that the trial counsel has found that says, okay, this--this is a good fit. It's not--they said, convening authority, this is a good fit.

We have no discovery. We have no anything about what was considered. We have no comparison. We have no idea if the convening authority ever even considered whether or not it's an adequate substitute. We--we have the--we have--

MJ: Except for his--except for his letter detailing her.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Correct, Your Honor, yes. He--

MJ: I mean, do I--do I need to get in mind--get in the mind of the convening authority and make sure he thought about all the things he needs to think about, or--or can I--can I presume some regularity there and assume that--that he's talking to his--his--his staff judge advocate, he's talking to trial counsel, and he is following recommendations base--and, you know, he--you know, do--should I presume that the convening authority is not--not following the rule and following the law?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I understand that that presumption is available to the court. I would caution against that in this situation. We have trial counsel who are selecting the people that the defense is going to work with in this case.

The defense has put out a person. That--that person, as we have gone through the list that the government counsel has provided us, our requested expert is a recommendation from one of their people. It's not like she's some out-of-the-box, crazy person.

MJ: Well, and I don't think the government's saying that. I think the government's saying she's twice as expensive. And--and so is that not something the government can consider?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Then we can consider the issued resolved, Your Honor, because Dr. Banerjee is going to--the government has endorsed 30 house of pretrial consultation at $600 an hour. Our contention is, is that Dr. Lew's not an adequate substitute. I have an expert, Dr. Banerjee, who will do 30 hours of pretrial consultation--

MJ: But--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --at $600 an hour.

MJ: But her--her in-court fee is twice as much.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): The government hasn't endorsed that. We haven't asked for it yet. We--

MJ: Well, you--well, you have asked for it and this court ordered it. And just to be clear so that--I mean, the motion you filed in this court last time was for an expert pathologist for pretrial consultation--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes.

MJ: --and trial.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes.

MJ: And the court granted that motion without any equivocation. So--so the court has granted in-person trial expertise in the form of a pathologist. So--so the court--the court--and I understand the logistics behind paying and--and only, you know, paying her in piecemeal and only--only paying the expert for the pretrial consultation now, but--but I will require the government to pay for travel and expenses for in-court because that's what I ruled.

So--so I think the government can consider how much it's gonna cost in court because I've ruled that that person's gotta be here for it.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): And I--and I believe the convening authority is the correct person to make that assessment, not the people that are prosecuting.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): So, essentially--

MJ: Who's got the burden in this case?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): We have the burden, Your Honor.

MJ: What evidence do you have that the convening authority did not consider those things?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): There is no--there's nothing that's been provided to us in discovery despite our request for what kind of communications have transpired; that request has been denied. That's why I note that we didn't get this information--

MJ: So, you--well you--you--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --until--

MJ: I did see in discovery--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --we filed this motion.

MJ: I did see in the discovery there was a--there was an endorsement from the trial counsel--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): We have that.

MJ: --to the convening authority.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): We have that, Your Honor.

MJ: So that sounds like communications between the trial counsel and the convening authority.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Understood.

MJ: If the convening authority's answer was simply yes, it sounds good, what--what response would you expect from him other than a signature saying appoint this person?

Would you expect e-mails back and discussion, a dialogue? I mean, maybe that didn't happen because he was perfectly satisfied with the letter, they sent saying Dr. Lew is an adequate substitute.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): If the--

MJ: And with the CV attached which the--I mean, again, you're--you're asking the court to find facts that aren't there. You're asking the court to find some nefarious part on the part of the trial counsel or the convening authority in not doing their homework and researching that Dr. Lew is inadequate.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor. I understand that. We--and we've asked for communications. We've asked for those things, so presumably they don't exist, right? And I can't provide the court obviously what--what we don't have.

My--my--my contention is, is that the rule permits the convening authority to say--to direct the trial counsel to go find an adequate substitute. The rule does not presume that the special trial counsel is gonna say, hey, we need one but this one's too expensive.

And that--that's our contention there; is that the--the direction to find an adequate substitute--which they did. They found--they went to the military, they made a list, they got Dr. Matshes and none of that has worked out.

So now we're at the place where now we've--now we're assigning the--the firm that Dr. Matshes works for is now assigning a different person to this, who has made no--there is no presumption of regularity that they are considering whether it's an adequate substitute or not. They're saying you can't have Dr. Matshes, but you can have this person.

MJ: So--so is she not an adequate substitute? Kind of--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): And that would--

MJ: --meat--meat of the--the question here--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): And that would be--

MJ: --is why is she not an adequate substitute?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That would be where we turn on next, Your Honor. This--this person's CV--I understand that she's been doing this for a very long time. A cursory search of the internet shows that there was conflict when she was in the Miami-Dade office. The exact quote was, she took a Michelin star restaurant and ran it like a broke-down McDonald's or words to that effect.

The only time that I've been able to find where she's testified on behalf of the defense or in a defense setting is for a corrections officer who was on trial for a prisoner injury of being scalded in the shower, and she found that that was just an accident.

So, the only--the only things that we can find on this person are these controversial things that surround her. CV aside, I understand that, but what I--where we are in this case is that the government is gonna show up with Dr. Lameira. Dr. Lameira from the Norfolk Medical Examiner's Office. Go ahead and do all the research you want. There is nothing out there. She is not--she is above reproach.

The defense is simply asking for somebody who does not have the same sort of shadows over their--over their career. Dr. Banerjee does not have those shadows.

Now, the government can go through all these hoops and they can say, yep, you can work with Dr. Lew. The government is then in a position where they can come in here and--and impeach that person. I'm not saying that they would--

MJ: Why--why--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I'm not saying that they would--

MJ: Why do you think this court would allow that?

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

Arrange and bind the record of trial with allied papers in the sequence indicated below. The court reporter is responsible for certifying the record of trial prior to transmittal for appellate review, in accordance with R.C.M. 1112 and JAG/CNLSCINST 5813.1G.

1. Pages 1 (Cover page) and 2 (Chronology Sheet) of DD Form 490 (enclosure 7).

2. Court reporter certification of Record of Trial (enclosure 8).

3. Military Judge verification of Record of Trial (enclosure 8).

4. DD Form 490 (pages 3-6 and any continuation pages if needed) (enclosure 7).

5. Completed Post-Trial Checklist from JAG/CNLSCINST 5814.1G (enclosure 2).

6. Completed Convening Authority's Action Checklist (enclosure 4).

7. Post-Trial Documents.

a. Certificates/Proof of Service of the Certified Record of Trial to the accused and victim, if applicable (enclosure 7).

b. Convening Authority's Action and Entry of Judgment (enclosure 6).

c. Any requests for copies of the court-martial record pursuant to R.C.M. 1106 or 1106A (attach written requests, and any certificates/proof of service, but do not attach the victim's post-trial rights advisement or DD Form 2704).

d. Matters submitted by the accused and/or victim under R.C.M. 1106 or 1106A, or any written waiver of the right to submit such matters. Include all responses to requests here as well.

e. Any deferment request and the action on it (including any request to waive automatic forfeitures under Article 58b).

f. Conditions of suspension and proof of service on probationer under R.C.M. 1107, if any.

g. All clemency recommendations by members or military judge, if any.

h. Statement of Trial Results (enclosure 1).

i. Crime Reporting Information.

j. Accused's request for appellate defense counsel, or waiver/withdrawal of appellate review under R.C.M. 1115, if applicable.

k. All transfer orders, confinement orders, and excess leave orders.

l. Briefs of counsel submitted after trial, if any.

8. Preliminary Hearing.

a. DD Form 457, Preliminary Hearing Officer's Report, pursuant to Article 32, if such hearing was conducted, followed by any other allied papers that accompanied the charges when referred for trial (including any matters submitted under R.C.M. 405(l), unless included elsewhere in the record of trial).*

b. Waiver of Article 32 Hearing (if applicable).

9. Pre-Trial Allied Papers.

a. Convening Order and all amending convening orders.

b. DD Form 458, Charge Sheet (unless included at the point of arraignment in the transcript).

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

c. Congressional inquiries and replies, if any.

d. Advice of staff judge advocate, when prepared pursuant to Article 34 or otherwise.

10. Record of Proceedings.

a. Substantially verbatim recording of court-martial proceedings. Segregate open and closed sessions of the court-martial in accordance with R.C.M. 1113 and the following guidance:*

b. Ensure that each closed session of the court-martial is recorded on a separate DVD marked CLOSED SESSION, placed in its own envelope marked CLOSED SESSION, and sealed.

c. Label all DVD(s) and envelopes with the information on page 1 of this template.

d. Mark all DVDs and envelopes with "1 of X." as necessary (for example, the second DVD of six DVDs and its envelope should be marked, 2 of 6). All DVDs of open sessions may be in one envelope.

e. Mark all DVDs with their beginning and ending timestamps. The timestamps for closed sessions should match those shown on the Index.

f. Verbatim transcript or summarized report prepared in accordance with JAGINST 5814.1G. Include the following:

I. A certificate of correction, if any (including any supplemental certification for additional proceedings).

II. Court reporter and transcriptionist certification of verbatim transcript.

g. Records of former proceedings (Article 30a) and/or trials, (e.g., electronic/digital record of former proceeding, including audio recording and any scanned documentation/transcripts, CD/DVD format).*

11. Prosecution exhibits admitted in evidence.

12. Defense Exhibits admitted in evidence.

13. Appellate Exhibits including but not limited to, proposed instructions, written offers of proof or preliminary evidence (real or documentary), briefs of counsel submitted at trial, request to be tried by military judge alone (if any), the accused election of members under R.C.M. 903 (if any), any statement by convening authority required under R.C.M. 503(a)(2), and the election for sentencing by members in lieu of sentencing by military judge under R.C.M. 1002(b).*

14. Redaction. The following information shall be redacted in accordance with JAGMAN 1059 from the record of trial prior to releasing it to any accused or victim (including any transcript made pursuant to R.C.M. 1114 and attached to the record of trial) unless the information establishes an element of an offense, or is otherwise required:

a. Any recordings of closed sessions, any transcripts of closed sessions, and any sealed exhibits.

b. Names of minor victims, and names of minor witnesses. If an identifier is used, use only the initials.

c. Social Security Numbers.

d. Financial account information.

e. Home addresses.

f. Telephone numbers.

g. Personal e-mail addresses.

h. Dates of birth.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

i. Any other information that could be used to identify a specific person other than the accused.

*If the report of preliminary hearing or record of trial contains exhibits, proceedings, or other materials ordered sealed by the preliminary hearing officer or military judge, counsel for the Government, the court reporter, or trial counsel shall cause such materials to be sealed to prevent unauthorized examination or disclosure, pursuant to R.C.M. 1113. Sealed material shall be properly marked, individually placed in separate envelopes with a copy of the preliminary hearing officer or military judge sealing order affixed to it, and inserted at the appropriate place in the record of trial. Do not duplicate sealed material to include it in any copy of the record of trial. Instead, insert a copy of the sealing order in lieu of any sealed material, in any copies of the record of trial.

DIVIDERS ARE NOT NECESSARY TO SEPARATE EACH SECTION. IF USED, THEY CAN BE PAPER RATHER THAN CARD STOCK. IF A PARTICULAR COMPONENT IS NOT APPLICABLE IN THE RECORD OF TRIAL, SUCH AS AN ARTICLE 32 HEARING, EXHIBITS NOT ADMITTED, POST-TRIAL PROCEEDINGS AND VACATION HEARINGS, DO NOT INSERT A DIVIDER OR PLACEHOLDER.

FRONT AND BACK COVER MUST BE ON BLUE CARDS STOCK AND LABELED WITH GUM LABELS.

Binding. Each volume of a record of trial should be no more than 1.5 inches thick and bound at the top with metal or plastic fasteners. DO NOT interlace or "piggy-back" prong fasteners to create an oversized volume. DO NOT place hole punches where it covers up the evidence or language in the transcript. When it becomes necessary to assemble the record of trial in more than one volume, the volumes will be numbered consecutively, on the front cover, as illustrated below:

Volume 1 of 4 (Pages 1-250)
Volume 2 of 4 (Pages 251-400)
Volume 3 of 4 (Pages 401-652)
Volume 4 of 4 (Pages 653-901 and Exhibits)

Make the first volume of a multi-volume record an inch thick or smaller to allow for inclusion of post-trial documents. Limit subsequent volumes to 1.5 inches, unless dividing them requires assembling an additional volume smaller than a half inch.

Label the upper right-hand corner or the Preparation and Certification of Record of Trial Form (enclosure (8)) to reflect which copy it is, i.e., "ORIGINAL," "ACCUSED," "REVIEW" etc.

RECORD OF PROCEEDINGS

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I'm not saying that they would, Your Honor. I'm just saying that it's--

MJ: I mean, do--do you think that I would allow the government to--to provide an expert for your use and then use anything--I mean, certainly, they can--they can cross-examine the government--your expert about her findings and about her research and about the things that their expert may disagree with.

But this court wouldn't allow them to attack her credentials because they provided her to you.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I understand that Your Honor, and that--and counsel doesn't ever presume to know exactly what the court would do. My job is to be here representing--

MJ: Oh, I understand.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --Seaman Copeland.

So, we have that out there and then as I--as I point to in our motion, presumption of regularity. All it takes is a Google search for one of these names to show up and for these things to--these things to be available on somebody's phone; anybody who's sitting here in the courtroom.

What the defense is merely asking is that we've been through the hoops of the adequate substitute. We are still at a place where the person the government is providing is not comparable to the expert that they have, Dr. Lameira--who is above reproach.

There's nothing out there. I cannot find anything bad about Dr. Lameira.

We are simply asking for an expert who--even within the government's provided materials, is coming recommended by the same people that they're trying to put in our case.

Seaman Copeland is on trial for essentially his life at this point, and he deserves to have the same level of experts that the government is going to bring to trial against him. And that's what we're asking for.

MJ: How long has Dr. Lameira been a forensic psychologist for the City of Norfolk?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I--I've requested her CV, and I--I have not gotten it from her yet--an updated CV.

MJ: Government, how long has--how long has Dr. Lameira been a pathologist?

TC: I'd say like--Your Honor, I'm guesstimating, but I want to say between 10 and 15 years.

MJ: Okay. Anything further? I'm gonna--I'll give you the last word, but I want to hear from the government.

And--and let me start with, how long has Dr. Lew been a pathologist?

TC: I think 36 years if I did my math correctly, sir.

MJ: What was her last job?

TC: She was the Chief Medical Examiner for Miami-Dade County.

MJ: Is Miami-Dade County bigger than Norfolk?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: So--okay. I'll let you be heard.

TC: Pending your questions, Your Honor.

MJ: I'd like to hear why you believe she's an adequate substitute.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

Despite--I think defense's last comment was--I think they concede--CV aside, I think we all acknowledge that her--her CV is more than adequate for her to meet the needs of defense. And we cite in our motion, you know--you know, CAAF's direction in these circumstances; are the defense receives the basic tools.

And the government submits in this case, based on her CV, which apparently nobody contests, defense has been provided more than the basic tools to meet their need.

I think what we're arguing about here is not adequate. We're talking--or adequacy but preference. Defense clearly prefers one pathologist, and they have the mechanisms by which to--to obtain that pathologist.

But what the government's burden is and what this court has ordered is for us to find an adequate substitute. And Dr. Lew, through not only her education but her professional experience, is more than adequate to serve defense's needs in this case.

Yeah. Your Honor, again, you know, she--the pathologist for a major U.S. city. And to the extent the court, you know, clicked on any of the links defense provided in their--their motion, it appears that the--first off, the--you know, members are not--we shouldn't presume members are going to disregard the court's instructions not to do their own research; but to the extent that they do, they would find a human resources matter from a couple years ago. There's nothing in that specific article that attacks her credentials or--or ability to perform her duties, Your Honor.

MJ: You wouldn't seek to--even with the court's admonition you wouldn't seek to undermine her credibility by pointing out her human resources failures?

TC: Sir, I'm not even sure I'd know how, but, no, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

Defense, I'll give you the last word.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): We--we--just so we're clear, we're not gonna concede the CV. The CV's written by the individual. So, for--to the extent that that matters, we're--we're not conceding that point, Your Honor.

What we're asking for is simply an expert on par with what the government's going to bring to trial. If we can find it in five minutes, the cases--the case we have--we're gonna have members; obviously, there's media attention on the case; these things can be brought quickly to attention. They can be out and in--they can be out in no time.

What we're asking for is to protect Seaman Copeland's rights and provide him an expert who is above reproach to the same extent that the government has an expert who is above reproach.

MJ: Okay. I've heard the arguments of the parties. I will issue a ruling in--I'll take it under consideration. I'll issue a ruling in due course.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Understood, Your Honor. Thank you.

MJ: Okay.

All right. At this point, is there anything else we need to take up in open court before we close for the M.R.E. 412 hearing?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: And is victim's legal counsel present? Is that Commander Kim?

VLC (LCDR KIM): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. At this time, I'm going to order the court closed to spectators, and I'm gonna ask the bailiff to escort everyone out and post up outside so only court staff and supervisory counsel shall remain.

This hearing's closed in accordance with M.R.--Military Rule of Evidence 412.

[The courtroom was closed pursuant to M.R.E. 412 at 1051, 5 March 2026.]

[The following pages, pages 343 to 351, are sealed pursuant to M.R.E. 412.]

[END OF PAGE]

[The courtroom reopened at 1101, 5 March 2026.]

MJ: Bailiff, you can let everyone back in.

BAILIFF: There is nobody else.

MJ: Return to your position.

BAILIFF: Yes, sir.

MJ: The bailiff and any spectators that remain have returned to the courtroom, and this court is now once again open session--in open session.

Counsel, I've heard all motions. I--I owe you rulings on I think three of them, and I will get those to you in due course.

Do the parties have any other additional matters to take up before we recess?

TC: Not from the government, Your Honor.

DC: Not from the defense, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Let me just--before we recess, let me just make sure I'm--I want to see what's next.

DC: And--and I may have lied. We're--we're waiting on a response from the government about another issue; and if it doesn't go our way, we will be filing a motion and it--it may be out of turn because it's something that we need to take up sooner rather than later.

MJ: Do you want to give the court a preview on what that is?

DC: Yes. We're--we're having an issue--another issue with the brig. I--I don't know if you remember, but there was a 30a where we talked about some situations at the brig. That was resolved outside of the court because the--the commanding officer of the brig gave us an exception to policy where we could have contact visits with our client.

Since then, there have been some, like, disciplinary stuff about, like, disrespect, so nothing violent or nothing like that. But, in turn, the OIC of the--the local brig has removed Seaman Copeland's privilege to have in-person contact meetings with his defense team.

And this is becoming an issue right now because we have experts that need to evaluate our client. They cannot do it in the--the glass room.

So, we are trying to resolve the issue outside of the court by having him brought to A-50 and just conducting those evaluations here in this building, but we just--we haven't gotten a response from the convening authority. And so, you know, if the convening authority says, no, we can't do that, we are going to file with the--with the court.

And I'm gonna--I will file it soon but--hopefully, very soon, and that way we can resolve it, you know, maybe out of turn with the motions hearings or something.

MJ: Okay.

Government, I assume you're working this closely?

TC: Yes, we are, Your Honor.

MJ: I'm not gonna rule because no one's asked me to, but it seems very reasonable what the defense is asking for.

TC: Yes, Your Honor. I appreciate that.

MJ: I'm sure the brig OIC would hate to testify in person at this court.

TC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Neither would the convening authority.

TC: Okay. Understood. Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

Okay. Next, we have a pretrial status conference on 2 April, and then next set of motions are due on 8 April, with responses on the 15th of the April. And then we have another Article 39(a) session on 23 April.

Everything--does that sound right to everybody? Everybody tracking?

And, again, if you need to file a motion out of turn because of a expedited matter, we can do so.

Okay. Commander Kim?

VLC (LCDR KIM): Your Honor, just one note: I will be TDY for the next motions hearing, so I may request to be present telephonically or through VTC.

MJ: Understand.

Okay. If there's nothing else to take up, the court's in recess.

[The Article 39(a) session recessed at 1105, 5 March 2026.]

[END OF PAGE]

[The Article 39(a) session was called to order at 1011, 30 April 2026.]

MJ: This Article 39(a) session is called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

We are here this morning to go over some motions filed by the parties which we'll get to in just a second. But I just want to sum up the pretrial status conference we had back on April 2nd. There was an R.C.M. 802 conference held in chambers. The parties--both government counsel were present. I don't believe all defense counsel were present. I think that's--I think Commander Morgan and Commander Mihill were present. I think Commander Serfess was not there.

Is that correct?

DC: That's correct. I was in another trial.

MJ: That's what I thought.

At that--at that pretrial status conference, we just discussed the venue and building--Building A-50 is--is--for the record, a rainstorm caused some catastrophic flooding in courtroom one, which is the only courtroom in this building that--that can house a general court-martial, so there was some concern that it would not be ready by the time of trial.

So, the government was--indicated that they're exploring other options. We discussed that. I said I didn't think that was necessary because I thought courtroom one would--would be ready. I was proven correct. There's a courtroom going--we are presently in courtroom two for the record. There is a court-martial going on in courtroom one, and they've done significant renovations to it so it will be ready for trial, I think.

Lieutenant Commander Kim, also present at the 802 conference, discussed his client CSSN S.S. and her desire to testify remotely or via VTC because of a recent medical issue. He's not making a motion, but he just wanted to put on the record. Obviously, in-person testimony is required absent some extraordinary circumstances.

But the government also indicated at that, that their toxicology expert was unavailable for trial so they're working on getting a new one. And then, again, we went over the TMO dates and deadlines and that everyone was tracking.

Everyone agree with my summation of the R.C.M. 802 conference?

TC: Your Honor, I believe the government also mentioned that we would be giving four--additional 404(b) notice.

MJ: That is correct.

TC: But nothing else to add, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. And I think we're gonna take that up this morning, correct?

TC: That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

DC: The defense concurs and has nothing to add, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, with that, let me just update the appellate record since we last came on the record.

So Appellate Exhibit LXXXIV is a--this court's ruling on the defense motion to reconsider a motion to compel an expert pathologist. That's appended to the record.

LXXXV was a ruling on a defense motion for appropriate relief regarding merging unreasonably multiplied charges.

Appellate Exhibit LXXXVI was a ruling on the defense motion in limine for admissibility of evidence pursuant to M.R.E. 412. That was placed under--that's appended to the record and placed under seal.

Appellate Exhibit LXXXVII is that sealing order.

Appellate Exhibit LXXXVIII is a defense motion for appropriate relief, interference with rights to counsel.

Enclosure--LXXXIX are--are enclosures to that.

Appellate Exhibit XC is the government's response to that motion.

Appellate Exhibit XCI are the enclosures to that motion.

Appellate Exhibit XCII is my ruling with regards to the defense motion for appropriate relief regarding a private meeting with defense team. Those are all appended to the record.

Appellate Exhibit XC--Exhibit XCIII is a defense motion to amend the trial management order.

Appellate Exhibit XCIV is a government motion in limine.

Appellate Exhibit XCV are Enclosures (1) through (22) of that government motion in limine.

Appellate Exhibit XCVI is a defense motion in limine to exclude evidence pursuant to 404(b).

Appellate Exhibit XCVII is the enclosures to that.

Appellate Exhibit XCVIII is a defense motion for appropriate relief to compel mental health discovery under M.R.E. 513.

Appellate Exhibit XCIX are the enclosures to that.

Appellate Exhibit XCIX(a) are supplemental enclosures to that.

Appellate Exhibit C is the government response to the motion in limine for 404(b).

And CI is the enclosures to that.

Appellate Exhibit CII is a defense response to the government motion on preliminary ruling on admissibility of evidence.

Appellate Exhibit CIII are the enclosures to that defense response.

Appellate Exhibit CIV is a government response to the defense motion for--to compel mental health discovery.

Enclosure (1) to that is Appellate Exhibit CV.

And then also appended to the record is Appellate Exhibit CV(a) which is a government response--which is a supplement that was sent in an e-mail this morning--a supplemental response from the government on that--their defense motion for appropriate relief on mental health discovery.

Those are all appended to the record.

So, we're gonna take up Appellate Exhibits XCIV and on this morning.

Government?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

I--I believe it was yesterday afternoon I think the government submitted an additional enclosure for the motion in--in limine.

MJ: I did see that. I did not--and the court will consider that. I'm not gonna have that remarked as that was already an enclosure to a previous appellate exhibit. I think it's Appellate Exhibit LXII.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: So, the court will consider that. But, for the record, that's I think Enclosure (61) to Appellate Exhibit LXII; was you submitted that matter as part of your--your response to one of the motions we're talking about today, correct?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Okay. That said, I think what I want to do is just start with the first one in order, which is the government's motion in limine to preadmit--not to preadmit--for a preliminary ruling on admissibility.

So, government, I think you have the burden here; is that correct?

TC: That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any additional evidence you wish to present?

TC: Your Honor, aside from what was mentioned in the e-mail yesterday, no, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, we're not--we're not--we're not calling witnesses and doing anything like that?

TC: No, sir.

MJ: Okay.

Okay. Defense, let me ask you this: Do you oppose each one of these--it doesn't look like you oppose each one of these. You just want foundation laid and subject to cross-examination.

DC: That's correct at least for some of them. I mean, obviously, we will--we will object to the alleged excited utterances from C.R. and the--the excited utterances from S.R. But as far as the Y.J. statements and then the text messages from PSSN GordilloCruz, as long as the foundation, like, you know, laid for those, we understand the exception they're getting to, but we absolutely object to the forfeiture by wrongdoing.

MJ: Okay. Well let--we'll--let's take those each in turn then.

So, government, let's talk about the text messages from ABHAN C.R. sent to CSSN Cuestabravo immediately after she was assaulted by the accused and while under the stress of the event.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay.

ATC: So, she alleges she was assaulted at approximately 02.

MJ: Well, let me ask, what--is it the text messages in--was it Appellate Exhibit XCV that you intend to introduce?

ATC: Yes, sir, that's correct. I--I--at least testimony as to what the content of those messages--yeah--

MJ: Okay.

ATC: --can make.

MJ: So--and so--so you seek to admit that evidence. Why is it relevant?

ATC: It's relevant, Your Honor, to establish that this event did happen. Essentially, she's the only witness to this misconduct other than of course the accused, so it corroborates her story--you know, her--her report, Your Honor, and just helps establish also the timeline.

MJ: Okay. So, defense, what's--your objection is hearsay?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, let me ask this: Which of those statements are offered as an assertion of a fact that is either true or not? So I guess what I'm asking is, which of these are actually even hearsay statements?

DC: I mean, I really had--

MJ: You've jumped up very quickly, Commander Serfess.

DC: Well, yes, Your Honor, because I--because I'm the one making the objection.

MJ: Fair enough.

DC: And I have to tell you something that happened to me, it's that. So, the fact that something bad happened to her is being used for the truth of the matter asserted and, therefore, hearsay.

MJ: So--so perhaps--okay. I really have to tell you something that happened to me sounds like her intent to do something which sounds a lot like a then existing mental state. So maybe it's hearsay, but it seems like there's an exception for that.

DC: That's correct on the first--but the first sentence injunction with "it's bad" implies that something bad happened to me.

MJ: I agree "it's bad" is a--offered for its truth, so you would need an exception for that and--I guess what I'm saying is, you--you want to admit this under excited utterance.

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: There may be other exceptions. But without the witness on the stand to--to express how excited she was, the--the stress of the event, I--I can't tell you my ruling on this. I mean, I think this is--this is one of those that you will play out in trial, and I can tell you, look, some--some of this is clearly exception. The "I really have to tell you something that happened to me" sounds like her then existing mental state. It's not offered for--I mean, it's offered for its truth that she really does have to tell you something, but that's not--that's--that's her intent. That's then existing mental state.

So, as you go through the rest of the--the rest of her text, I--I think you almost have to take it line by line. And so I--I'm not ready to say I'm gonna admit all of this today. I think you got to present that at trial in front of the members.

And then to the extent government--defense, you have specific objections to specific lines, specific--I mean, it's each statement is gonna come in or not.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: So, it can't just be the whole thing. Does that make sense?

ATC: No, I'm tracking, sir.

MJ: Okay.

ATC: I understand that.

MJ: Okay. Let's--let's move on to the next series of statements, and those are statements made by S.R. in the presence of Taylor and Monaghan.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay. Again, I guess the issue I have is I don't have her testimony telling me how excited she was.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: So, without that here, I'm not ready to rule on admissibility.

ATC: Okay.

MJ: It's not ripe until she's subject to cross-examination, perhaps voir dire. I mean, we may do that outside the presence of the members. Because if--if the argument is excited utterance--and I don't know exactly what the statement is you're trying to get in. It sounds like it's something like you strangled me.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: So that--that would certainly be offered for its truth to prove that in fact he did strangle her, so--so it's hearsay and--

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: --you would have to find an exception for it. And without her testifying--you're--you're asserting that it's excited utterance but without her to--to lay the foundation for that here, I can't rule on its admissibility. So, we'll just have to do that at trial.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay. And I'm just going off the--the numerals here, so (c) is Y.J.'s request for accused to stop.

And, defense, you're just asserting that that's--you just need her subject to cross-examination and--

DC: That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: --and foundation.

Okay. I would just note I--you know, commands aren't generally hearsay, because it's not offered for its truth. It's not a--it's just--it's not an asserted fact; a propositional fact but--okay. So, we can do that at trial.

The text messages that he arrived back at his barracks. Again, presence sense impression--

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: --but I think you gotta lay the foundation for that in front of the members. It doesn't sound like the defense has a real objection to that. But if you do at trial, you can make one.

Okay. Let's talk about the statements by CS3 A.R.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: In Subparagraph (e) of Appellate Exhibit XC--is that 1(e)? 2(e)? In Subparagraph 1(e) of Appellate Exhibit XCIV, you seek to admit various statements of CS3 A.R. I--so I don't know what those statements are.

TC: Yes, sir. So, it's in Paragraph 8 of our fact section I layout just three sets of statements, sir. So, there's a text message, "fuck you," to ET3--I'm sorry--AT3 Gillespie. There's a call for help to AT3 Rich at 2:14 in the morning.

MJ: Well, that's in Paragraph 1(f), right?

ATC: In that--separately we're seeking them, but that is an excited utterance, sir.

MJ: Okay.

ATC: But also, just as a--as forfeiture by wrongdoing, maybe under a broader umbrella.

MJ: Okay. And what was the third category?

ATC: And the third is she exchanged some text messages with a friend of hers that she had spent the day with. So, 28 May she went shopping at Target.

MJ: So, you want--again, every single line of those text messages?

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay. So why are they relevant?

ATC: They're relevant to show her state of mind that day, sir, and her intention in meeting with Copeland that evening.

MJ: Okay. So, I--I've looked through some of those text messages. Some of them clearly aren't being offered for the truth. There's one text message that says she really had to go to the bathroom.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: I--I can't imagine you're offering to show that she really did have to go to the bathroom.

ATC: Yes, sir. So, I'll--maybe I'll scale it back. Not every single text message that day we intend to admit but the text messages in line of what I said, sir, as far as establishing what she had done that day and that she was meeting with Copeland that evening. As well as while she's with Copeland, she's sending messages about cooking tacos.

MJ: So, let me ask this: Does it matter if any of that stuff is true?

I--except for the intention stuff.

ATC: I think it--it does matter if it's true, sir, just to establish what happened that day.

And--and to be clear, sir, a declarant witness's prior statement that we're offering as forfeiture by wrongdoing is--is an exception from the rule against hearsay. So, we're not-- MJ: Yeah, I'll be honest. I don't think you have that.

ATC: Okay.

MJ: And I'll let you convince me otherwise and I'll certainly hear from the defense, but I--forfeiture by wrongdoing requires evidence that the person whom it's offered against caused the--the person to be unable to testify in order not to have them testify.

Now, the government certainly has evidence--and it'll be for the trier of fact to determine whether it's beyond a reasonable doubt; but certainly, the government certainly can put forward evidence that--that the accused may have been responsible for A.R.'s death, but I don't see any evidence that--that relates--that that death was caused in order so that she would not testify against him.

I mean, you could argue he did it because he was angry with her, he was mad at her, he didn't like her--I don't know. But I don't see--I--at least from the court's perspective, I don't see any evidence that--that there's an indication that he--he caused her absence--in this case death--so that she wouldn't testify against him. I just don't see that evidence. So--so point that out for me.

ATC: Yes, sir. So, I--I think the exhibit I provided yesterday, sir, shows that his Google search history in the--in just merely days prior to this event.

So, obviously, he had the two pending reported investigations against him. We have the situation with Y.J. where he's pulled off of her by his two friends. That day--later that day, after he I'm sure sleeps at some period of time, he's Googling what can NCIS get off of my phone, what does an NCIS investigation look like, can NCIS recover deleted voice app messages.

MJ: When--when did those--when did the time stamps of those occur?

ATC: That afternoon at--approximately 1300 that afternoon, sir.

MJ: What day?

ATC: The 25th of May.

MJ: Okay. That's--that's before he met with--

ATC: Yes, sir. So--

MJ: --with A.R.

ATC: --when he meets with A.R. and there's some event that occurs, he knows what--that NCIS is already possibly investigating him for three offenses, it's fresh on his mind, it's just a few days prior that NCIS can get evidence. He knows--he's not gonna let someone intervene this time like they did with Y.J.

MJ: I'm just saying that's--that's a big leap. I mean, it--it--it--I mean, there are a host of other reasons--again, assuming you got the evidence to show that--that--that Seaman Copeland's responsible for this death at all, there's a big leap to say the death was caused so that she won't testify against me.

ATC: Well--well, can I ask you, sir, why else would he have killed her?

MJ: Well, I--I mean--

ATC: If not to prevent her from reporting something, why would he have done it?

MJ: I mean, that--so I'm not gonna get into speculation, but--but murders happen all the time that don't revolve around witness intimidation.

ATC: But not murders where there's a call for help ten minutes prior.

MJ: I don't find the exception is met here.

ATC: Understood, Your Honor.

MJ: Now that said, I'm not sure much of what you're seeking is hearsay to begin with.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: So, I--I guess I'm--I'm confused about why the government's going down a route--a very difficult route to prove forfeiture by wrongdoing when much of the testimony that you--much of the statements you seek to elicit are not hearsay at all.

ATC: Yes, sir, I understand.

MJ: I mean, I--I don't--again, we don't have ET3 Rich here to testify, so I don't know what he would say he heard on that phone call. But the proffer from the government is something like come get me.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Or I need your help or--

ATC: Yes, sir. It's--it's an approximately two-minute call where all she can repeat is I need you to pick me up as soon as possible. And he says I'll be there in ten minutes when Copeland or another male picks up the phone.

She then only says one other thing which is "I love you" before hanging up.

MJ: Okay.

ATC: She's never heard from again.

MJ: So, I--I think you gotta put Petty Officer Rich on the stand and--and we can do that outside the presence of the members to see, but it--it--at this point, based on the evidence I have, I don't--I don't see a forfeiture by wrongdoing.

ATC: Yes, sir. Understood.

MJ: I'm not saying it's not admissible otherwise. It might be. I--but--

ATC: And I--I appreciate--

MJ: And the defense can certainly articulate any objections they have when we do that.

ATC: Yes, sir. And I appreciate exploring other avenues for the text messages to Garcia-Barrera as well.

MJ: And the same--it's the same with the text messages.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Because, again, I'm not sure a lot of what's being offered there is offered for truth. I'm not sure a lot of it is--a lot of it may be--a lot of it may be 803--I think it's 803(2). I just don't see forfeiture by wrongdoing.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay.

ATC: I think the next set was Rich's--the phone call as an excited utterance which I think you addressed, sir.

MJ: Yeah. I--again, I think we need to--if you want to--and, again, I don't know if it's an excited utterance because I don't know what he can describe on--I don't know how--you haven't laid the foundation for it.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: So, at this point, I'm not ready to rule on the admissibility of really any of this stuff.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Does that make sense?

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay. Defense, anything to add?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: I--I--I'm just gonna--I guess what I'm doing is I am reserving my ruling on this motion until we actually have the witnesses at trial.

Again, it doesn't sound like defense is objecting or--or has a real objection to Subparagraph (c) and (d), which are Y.J.'s "stop" and the text messages between GordilloCruz and his--and somebody from back home.

ATC: Yes, Your Honor. And I'll just say for the record for this call for ET3 Rich, if we're not able to admit it as exception to hearsay, we do at least intend to admit it as its effect on ET3 Rich.

MJ: Understand. And--

ATC: Yeah.

MJ: --the--okay.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: We'll take that up in due course during the trial and the defense can make any objections they have at that time.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay. So--so I'm gonna reserve ruling on--on the motion. Well, I'm not gonna rule on any admissibility at this point because I just don't have the evidence.

ATC: Okay.

MJ: But I've given you some thoughts.

ATC: There is one last piece, sir, about the mental health evidence that the defense was seeking to admit, sir.

MJ: Well, that's a different motion, right?

ATC: Okay. Yes, sir. Well, it's--

DC: No, no, no. It's the last paragraph of this motion because the government--

MJ: Yeah. Yes, you're right. Different mental health.

DC: Yes.

ATC: Oh, yes, sir.

MJ: We'll take--there's a 513 motion that you've also filed. That's what I was thinking when you said mental health. But you're talking about the suicidal ideations or whatever you want to call them that--that you seek to get into. I think--

DC: Yes.

MJ: --the government's--the defense's response is that's not ripe yet, and I think that's right. I don't know what the defense is gonna present. I would just remind everybody about Military Rule of Evidence 404(a)--not just bravo, alpha. There's certain ways to present evidence of character or pertinent traits and you've got to follow those rules.

ATC: Yes, sir. I mean, so what we're concerned with is that in opening statements they're gonna get up and make a statement that she was suicidal that day. And once that bell is rung, it's gonna be very difficult to un-ring.

And they have, in our opinion, no verifiable evidence to support that claim. No admissible evidence to support that claim. So that's what we struggle with is we want to get ahead of that bell being rung, sir.

MJ: Defense, you want to be heard?

DC: The defense--we accept that risk. So, if we say something in opening statement that doesn't come out--we have a reasonable belief that it will come out. If we say that, I mean, the--the government doesn't know what we're gonna say in opening statement. And if we say something and that evidence doesn't come out, then the government will be free in closing to be like that never happened.

MJ: Government, I'll give you the last word.

TC: Yes, sir. And just one moment, sir.

Yes, sir. I think what our--again, our concern is the same but maybe, perhaps, prior to openings we could raise this objection again, give the defense maybe more time to develop that evidence, but we'd like a good faith proffer of what that evidence will be before they utter those statements in open court.

MJ: Defense, go ahead.

DC: No, Your Honor. I mean, the defense doesn't have to proffer what their evidence will be before we--

MJ: If any, right?

DC: --before opening--exactly.

MJ: Defense has no obligation to put on any evidence. And I think Commander Serfess's point is well taken; that if--if they promise something in opening that they cannot deliver because either the court excludes it or because the evidence just isn't there, then--then that is grounds for closing argument.

TC: Understand the court's position, sir.

But I believe that is all we have in our motion, sir. The--the only thing I would ask and flag for the court is we may file a motion to reconsider the production of at least one witness, Mr. Miguel, who is going to testify to her--A.R.'s episodes and personal observations of how she behaves during an episode as not relevant.

For context, Mr. Miguel is currently incarcerated so his production for trial has become a little bit more complicated.

MJ: And as we talk about--I just remind the parties the rules of evidence still apply.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: So, to the extent the defense seeks to get into any past behavior or traits or character of--of A.R., M.R.E. 404 applies. The rules against hearsay apply with all the exception.

So, because I don't know what that evidence is and I don't know what the defense seeks to admit, it's hard for me to categorically exclude entire defense. And as the defense points out, you know, suicide--to the extent they have evidence that could lead the trier of fact to believe that A.R. committed suicide and to the extent it's admissible under the rules of evidence, it is a complete defense to the charge of murder.

So, I'm not gonna forestall that without knowing what that evidence is, and--and I don't know what that evidence is because nobody's presented it to me yet.

ATC: Yes, sir. And I would caveat that the complete defense case law provided by the defense is a--you know, obviously, a constitutional right to complete defense and could overcome evidentiary rule.

MJ: All I'm saying is, if the--if, under the rules of evidence, the defense can--can put forward evidence that--that A.R.'s death occurred some other way besides being murdered by the accused, which is what you've charged him with, then that's a defense to murder.

ATC: Um-hmm.

MJ: So, I'm not gonna forestall that without knowing what evidence it is they seek to admit and they don't have to seek to--they don't have to tell me ahead of time.

ATC: Understood, Your Honor. And it just comes back to our main concern about an opening statement, sir.

MJ: Okay. Commander Mayo, it sounds like you have something to say.

TC: I'm sorry, sir. And I--and I don't--I don't mean to--

MJ: No, I understand.

TC: I think the--the purpose of this motion is defense has highlighted certain--it is not that the government is trying to foreclose the option of a defense and--and that avenue for them, but they have highlighted certain pieces of evidence that they seek to use to establish that defense, and they've noticed that through their request to produce certain witnesses.

And so, it's the government's position that through those witnesses there is no admissible evidence. We're not saying that defense has to tell us the entirety of--of how they intend to present that--that defense, but these pieces that they've given us notice of, there is no path to success for them on those pieces and they should not be allowed to say in opening that this--you know, that this defense when the underpinnings of that defense are inadmissible. That's not a good faith basis to be able to say that in opening.

MJ: It--it--I understand the--but--but I don't know all the defense's case and neither do you and--and maybe there is an angle that you haven't thought of or that the court is not aware of that--that they're going to look at. And so, if they stand up in opening and promise something to the members that they can't deliver, then that's grounds for closing.

TC: Yes, Your Honor. I mean, that--but in--in this--in this specific case it goes beyond that. It's not just it's a--it's a whoopsie in front of the members. This is something so incredibly prejudicial to--to the government's case and--and inadmissible--the factual underpinnings of which--that's why we filed this motion; to have defense at least articulate if we intend to call these witnesses, which is the only evidence that is in--that would form the basis for this defense, to at least say this is how--this is our good faith basis that we're gonna get in this evidence.

MJ: Do you want the court to require the defense to tell you what witnesses they're gonna call and what their defense is gonna be?

TC: As it pertains to the folks that they have requested the government produce, and they've given this court notice that they--their intention of calling these witnesses. They're--the basis for which that they requested these folks be produced at trial signals an intention to this court that they intend to call them and elicit evidence from them.

MJ: So--so I'm not--I'm not gonna--without a request, I'm not gonna revisit my decision to produce witnesses. But I can tell you the court made that decision based on the proffer from the--the evidence produced. And--and so I ruled that their production was required. So, I'm not gonna reconsider that unless I get a formal request to do that.

TC: Yes, Your Honor. And I believe that your--your--your ruling though was that we will touch the admissibility of that at a later date.

MJ: Well, I--I--the witnesses I approved for the defense, there was some portion of their testimony that the court found would be admissible. Whether it's the portion that the defense really wants, I don't know; and whether it's the portion that you're so concerned about, I don't know.

So, I'm gonna--the--the--your motion to exclude the evidence that the defense wants to present or might present is just not ripe yet, because I don't know what it is and we'll take it up at trial.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

Okay. So that does it for Appellate Exhibit XCIV.

Next was a--was a defense motion in limine to exclude evidence pursuant to 404(b). Any particular--this was--well, who's arguing this for the defense? Is it Commander Serfess?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. What is it you're seeking to exclude?

DC: Well, it--it appears, based on the government's response, that they are not--we haven't got--so we never got a 404(b) notice after the 802 conference where the government said they were gonna provide us 404(b) notice.

MJ: Okay.

DC: And so as to prevent doing a lot of things on the 2nd of June, I filed the motion. And then it seems like that the government is saying, no, they're not gonna elicit this testimony unless the defense puts on character for peacefulness. And so, I suspect that we can take that up whenever--if that does happen.

MJ: Okay.

DC: And if there is any other 404(b) evidence, that the defense is not on notice of it at this time.

MJ: So, government, you do--you did not notice the 404(b); you do not intend to offer this evidence in your case in chief but you--

ATC: That's correct.

MJ: --reserve the right to--to--should--my understanding of your response is that should the defense offer character for peacefulness evidence; you would want to rebut that. Okay.

ATC: Yes, sir. And we made the decision that instead of going down the 404(b) route--

MJ: Again, I would just remind you to look at 404(a) and the manner of proving reputation or character evidence under 405.

ATC: Um-hmm.

MJ: I'm not sure specific instances of conduct are--would be admissible.

ATC: Okay. Yes, sir. Thank you.

MJ: But if you think I'm wrong or want to articulate why that is, you can. But I don't need to decide anything right now but it sounds like there's no--this has been mooted because the government did not provide 404(b) notice and should--should you desire to put this in in rebuttal, we'll take it up at that point.

ATC: Yeah, I appreciate that, sir. I think that's appropriate.

MJ: Okay. So--so Appellate Exhibit XCVI is mooted then.

Okay. I think the only--the only motion we have left is Appellate Exhibit XCVIII, which is the defense's motion for appropriate relief to compel mental health discovery.

Is that correct? Do we have anything else left?

ATC: No, that's it, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Because we're getting into mental health discovery, pursuant to Military Rule of Evidence 513, it requires a closed session hearing.

Do the parties agree?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Mr. Bailiff, at this time, I'm gonna close the courtroom. I ask all spectators to leave the courtroom.

And, bailiff, you--if you would stand outside the court. Don't let anyone in until we come get you and tell you that this court is open again.

BAILIFF: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay. Everyone please leave.

ATC: Your Honor, does VLC stay if it's not his client?

MJ: He's gotta go too.

And so, Commander Kim is also exiting since he is not the VLC for Y.J.

ATC: Yes, sir.

[The courtroom was closed pursuant to M.R.E. 513 at 1042, 30 April 2026.]

[The following pages, pages 385 to 396, are sealed pursuant to M.R.E. 513.]

[END OF PAGE]

[The courtroom reopened at 1055, 30 April 2026.]

MJ: The bailiff and the spectators are reentering the court.

This court is once again in open session.

Okay. Counsel, is there anything to take up before we recess?

TC: Not from the government, Your Honor.

DC: Not from the defense, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. As we discussed, the court's in recess until 1000 Monday morning, May 4th, where we will take up the 513 issue.

Court's in recess.

[The Article 39(a) session recessed at 1056, 30 April 2026.]

[END OF PAGE]

[The Article 39(a) session was called to order at 0904, 5 June 2026.]

MJ: This Article 39(a) session is called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

So, we're here this morning to take up the business of an Article 13 motion filed by the defense. And just by--by way of background, to clean up the record here, the defense initially filed an Article 13 motion back in November--26 November. That was appended to the record at Appellate Exhibit VI.

The government responded on 5 December in Appellate Exhibit XLVIII.

And we initially took up this matter in a 39(a) session on 10 December 2025. I reserved or deferred ruling on that motion until it was ripe and said--you know, the defense is asking for relief from illegal pretrial confinement and that relief is only granted if we get to sentencing. So, I deferred ruling until such time as it was ripe.

Since that time, the court has been made aware that the--the parties have entered into a plea agreement; whereby, the accused has agreed to plead guilty to some of the offenses on the charge sheet. That plea agreement has been marked as Appellate Exhibit CVII, and that's now appended to the record.

So, we're not gonna take up the accused's pleas today or the--or discuss the plea agreement today. We'll do that on Monday at our regularly scheduled session of court. But in anticipation of the accused's guilty plea and then sentencing, the defense has filed a supplement to their Article 13 motion to sort of update the court on the conditions of confinement since that initial filing in November until today.

So that supplement to the defense's motion is at Appellate Exhibit VI(a) and that was filed on 21 May of this year. That's now appended to the record.

Appellate Exhibit VII(a) are enclosures to that motion.

The government responded on the 29th of May with Appellate Exhibit XLVIII, and they attached additional enclosures at Appellate Exhibit XLIX(a) and those are all appended to the record.

So, with that said, defense counsel, I believe you have the burden.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, we do, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any additional evidence to present on the motion beyond what was submitted in your two lengthy enclosures?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Nothing additional, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. One second.

Government, I understand you may have additional evidence to present on the motion?

ATC: Yes, sir. We'd like to--it would be Enclosure (15) to Appellate Exhibit XLIX.

MJ: Okay. Or to Appellate Exhibit XLIX(a)?

ATC: I think--no, I think it would be probably XLIX(c), sir, because there's-- MJ: Okay. So--so if you'll approach the court reporter with that document and we'll have that marked as the next appellate exhibit in the XLIX series.

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Thank you.

And I--and the court's received a copy as well.

Okay. Commander Mihill, are you arguing this motion for the defense?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I am, Your Honor.

MJ: All right. You may proceed.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Permission to enter the well?

MJ: You may.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Thank you, Your Honor.

Let me just start out by thanking the court for giving us the opportunity to be heard this morning. It's much appreciated by the defense.

I also do want to point out that given the procedural posture of the case and the fact that the intention is for Seaman Copeland to plead guilty next week, we would like just the court to focus on the circumstances of his confinement and not the circumstances surrounding the case. Those are two separate things, and the illegal pretrial punishment that we're talking about here is separate and aside from the merits of the case.

MJ: Let me just make sure I understand--and I'll let you talk, but I want to make sure I understand the relief you're asking for.

So, parties agree and it's black letter law the accused gets day-for-day for the time he's been in pretrial confinement, and I think that count is about 365 by Monday.

Is that right?

ATC: Yes, sir. We did put in our motion 366, but I believe it's 365, sir.

MJ: I--I guess it depends on when trial ends; whether it ends on Monday or Tuesday.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Correct, Your Honor.

MJ: And you're asking for three-for-one credit. Is--is--is that three-for-one in addition to the Allen credit, or is it a total of three-for-one?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): In addition to the Allen credit, Your Honor.

MJ: So--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): So, the 366 is--is going to happen.

MJ: So, 366 and then--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): 1,000--

MJ: --a thousand and something.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): 1,098, yes, Your Honor.

MJ: So--okay. So essentially four years.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): And the rationale behind that is--is purely the facts--

MJ: And let me--let me.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yeah.

MJ: Three years of illegal pretrial confinement credit to go on top of the one year or so--

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Correct.

MJ: --of--of Allen credit he'll receive.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Correct, Your Honor.

MJ: I understand.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): And we're not here--we're not arguing intent to punish. In the--in the government's motion--and I'll talk about that a little bit--they--the crux of this argument is that the totality of circumstances here suggests conditions of confinement which are entirely too restrictive to ensure the accused's participation at trial, which is the intent of pretrial confinement.

Now the court has already heard from Commander Flanagan down at the brig that when--now CS3 Copeland entered the brig he was never going to be able to find a way out of maximum custody status.

That is--that is clear, that's within the record, and we--we don't need to--we don't need to talk about that any further.

But the problem that we have here is that it's not just--as the government cites to Mosby in their--in their motion--it's not just a confinement at a maximum custody status, which, by all the evidence in front of the court, is solitary confinement.

What it is, is this is--this is a motion that is supported by evidence. This is a motion that's supported by--by instances where CS3 Copeland now has--has had impacts on his ability to work on his defense. He's had impacts on his mental health. Each of these things. He's had his liberty restricted to the point of being in his cell 22 hours a day.

MJ: Let me ask you a question there and I'm getting ahead of myself here, but--but part of my colloquy with the accused on Monday will reflect--will ask questions; have you had enough time and opportunity to discuss this case with your defense counsel.

You--you're not arguing this Article 13 motion that that's not true, correct?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That's correct, Your Honor. And I was gonna get to that in a little bit, but we also understand the court's ruling regarding the Sixth Amendment and the interference with the right to counsel.

Respectfully, having conducted--conducted the defense in this case, perhaps it has--just hasn't risen to the interference that the court believes is there, but I will tell you that it is--it has been to the detriment of the ability to prepare a defense, right?

We're talking about time that has been spent filing motions, time that's been spent asking for discovery, time that's been spent--all of these things where the intent of pretrial confinement is to ensure that somebody who's a flight risk doesn't go somewhere and they show up for trial.

MJ: Certainly, if the accused was--if an accused was not in pretrial confinement, his access to defense counsel's easier.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Correct, Your Honor.

So--and that's where we are with the--with the Sixth Amendment piece of this. The--we understand the court's ruling. Respectfully, there has been a detriment to it there.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That is something different than what was alleged in Mosby. In Mosby, it was just, Your Honor, he's--he's been in maximum custody so that is illegal pretrial--pretrial punishment. That's not what we have here, all right? We have--we have impact here.

What else do we have? Now--now we initially filed this in November seeking relief then, and I will note that the court says that the issue wasn't ripe at that point. I understand the court's position with that, but Seaman--excuse me--CS3 Copeland has now been living in the same conditions since that period of time. He's been in maximum custody that entire time.

So, to the extent that the issue we believed was ripe then, we believed it--relief was available then, and we've just continued down this path of maximum custody for maximum custody's sake.

Now, the government did provide, for the first time, in their response to our supplement--we've--we've had a standing discovery request out for all brig things since we filed this motion in November, and we got these override documents--excuse me--reclassification documents only in response to our supplement that we filed in this case.

And I'll point to the fact that January 2026 of this year, Commander Flanagan is overriding the point system. He's keeping CS3 Copeland in maximum custody, solitary confinement still.

In February, there is a disciplinary review--

MJ: Is he--is he acting--is he acting ultra vires-ly when he does that? I mean, is he acting without authority when he does that, or does he have—

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): He--

MJ: --the authority--does the SECNAV manual give him authority to override the point system?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): The--the--

MJ: Does he have the discretion to do that in other words?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I think that "discretion" is a--is a challenging word there, Your Honor, because what he made clear in his testimony back in November--December, excuse me, was that nothing that could happen would ever allow Seaman Copeland--CS3 Copeland to come out of maximum custody based on the charges on the charge sheet. That's not an exercise of discretion. That's an arbitrary application of a policy--and we're gonna talk about it in a few minutes--that other courts in this circuit, Coast Guard circuit, have found to be--

MJ: Yeah. So--I'm--I don't want to--I may be misremembering this, but my understanding of his quote was something like--and as I think about this, I'll go back and pull up the audio--but my understanding is he--he said I--I can't imagine or I don't think. It was a reflection of his own authority and that--that--his own opinion, which is what I'm asking is, is does the SECNAV manual give him the discretion to--I mean, the--you're not alleging that he acted outside of his authority in overriding the point system. In other words, the point system is all that matters and the CO or the OIC of the brig has no authority to--to change that.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That is not what we're arguing.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): We're arguing that he's not--he's--

MJ: So, he had the authority to do it, but you think he's inflexible.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That is correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): He's--he's not exercising discretion. He's exercising an arbitrary application of policy based on a charge sheet written by somebody else, where he is just taking it in. He's not privy to discovery. He's not privy to any other information other than this is why this person is confined; this is what they are suspected of.

Now, Commander Flanagan clearly believes that everybody who comes into his brig is a safety risk. And--and while I understand that his--his duty is the safety and security of a facility, CS3 Copeland hasn't demonstrated any threat at all during this entire time to the safety or security of that facility or any other inmate while he's been there.

Now, the government has provided reclassification documents for March and for April. I will point out that in March there was a disciplinary report. There's been a couple disciplinary reports now. Those disciplinary reports that are before the court clearly state on them that these disciplinary reports demonstrates CS3 Copeland's frustration and that he has demonstrated no aggression. That is what the documents say.

Now, based on those disciplinary reports, his point system goes up and he doesn't have to--you know, then the--then the brig CO doesn't have to override it. So be it. I will point out that there's still no threat to safety. There's no threat to safety of an inmate, no threat to safety of a guard.

Seaman Copeland--he punched a wall. He may have hurt himself. I--it's unclear to me how--perhaps prevention of injury, some other sort of handling would have been appropriate.

But you'll see too that in those enclosures in March, while there was enough points, Commander Flanagan still went ahead and checked the override box. Now I'm sure the government will say that's just an oversight. To me that says Commander Flanagan does not care what the points say. He is exercising an arbitrary application of policy. There is no individualized determination as to why that custody classification is still required. There is no--there is no leeway. There is no wiggle room. There is not discretion. He's not exercising discretion. He's just saying this is the way I'm doing it.

MJ: You used the term though "individualized determination." Where does that come from?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That comes from King. It's a CAAF case from 2005, Your Honor. It's cited in our initial--in our initial brief and that--

MJ: And in King, the issue was a sailor or a Marine I think was in max custody and he had a roommate. And then when the roommate was convicted and went into posttrial, they could no longer keep him in to this--in the same room, so they just moved him for convenience to a six-by-six windowless cell, harsh conditions, and the court found all the max custody fine except for that. And it seems to me that the court's ruling was based on the fact that--that they did--that the brig did that for convenience without looking at King at all.

I think what the government would argue in this case is they're absolutely looking at Copeland. They're looking at the charge sheet, which is--which is, under Mosby, a permissible thing to look at.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Agreed; to a certain extent, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): When--when--when the brig OIC says that I get charge sheets that have UCMJ violations on them and then I take that person based on that UCMJ alleged violation--to which the accused remains presumed innocent until he gets to trial--and he says they go to maximum custody. That--that--while I understand that is--that is just a--that is his--his own strict policy that he's instituted.

What King says is that at some point we have to look at the reason why behind it, and there is no why for Commander Flanagan. The why is I read the charge sheet, I watched the news--he did testify to that. He says that I'm scared for CS3 Copeland's safety. There's no evidence of any threat to his safety. He says that he's--he's worried that some other inmates might want to help--might want to hurt him. There's no evidence to suggest that.

What you have is an OIC operating on gut speculation and an arbitrary policy applied to CS3 Copeland and anybody else that comes into the brig that has a serious charge on the charge sheet.

The purpose behind pretrial confinement, the existence, essentially, of Naval Consolidated Brig Chesapeake is to hold pretrial confinees. They--they are not there to be punished before trial. CS3 Copeland has been in solitary confinement for 300 and what will be 66 days on Tuesday.

I want to turn to the first supplement now that--that they--that the government provided to you, which was four pages of Commander Flanagan responded to the defense motion.

Now, he--I mean, he's been a merits witness on this issue, and it's kind of unclear to me why he would need to be a party to all the filings other than the court's rulings; but, because he put that out there and because the--it's before the court now, I think it's--it's insightful and to the mindset behind this individual, right?

He--he talks in there about the exceptions to policy that he's gone ahead and made. Well, he--he seems to misapprehend the fact that the court ordered those things to happen. The court ordered for face-to-face meetings to happen. That's not something that--that he--he goes in there to say that we are welcome that he facilitated that.

He--he's exhibited a disdain for the defense; not just in this case but in other cases, and it's in the supplement that you have. He is--he's--he goes on to say in there that he's not sure about the judge's authority to do things.

Now, all of these things offer some insight into the person who is supposed to be exercising discretion. This is a person who says, in his supplement, that this other attorney lied to my staff three times. So that attorney's lying. He says the brig guards don't try to overhear things, which means two paralegals and Seaman--

MJ: Just--I want to be clear for the record here, he's not accusing any of these attorneys of lying. That's a separate case.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): That is a separate case, that's correct, Your Honor.

But what he does go on to make is assertions throughout his response to our motion that we have got it wrong; that we are making false claims; and, de facto, he's--he's insinuating through trial counsel and now in front of the court in this supplement, that we are doing something inappropriate. And that's simply not the case.

We are exercising--attempting to exercise CS3 Copeland's constitutional rights to be treated like a human being before he gets to trial.

MJ: Well, I--for the record, I--the court doesn't find anything inappropriate at all in what you're doing.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I understand, Your Honor.

MJ: I understand you're filing motions and--and you're representing your client. So, I--I have read that supplement and I--I take it for what it's worth.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I understand, Your Honor.

But what it does demonstrate is it demonstrates a commanding officer down at that Naval Consolidated Brig Chesapeake, who thinks that everyone is wrong but him.

I don't know what more we can provide the court as insight into Commander Flanagan's thought process. I understand that he--he hinges much of what he does on--on the SECNAV, but that SECNAV is just to back up his gut because that's all it is.

There's no evidence of a threat to safety. There's no evidence of a threat to brig staff. None of that. There's--there's simply no evidence to suggest that solitary confinement for over a year is an appropriate course of action here.

Now, he also goes on to talk about in there the court cases. He--he spends four pages talking about the defense motion and all the research he put into that, but we know--everybody in this courtroom knows about two other court cases that have talked about the arbitrary application of this brig's policy. And that policy didn't change. It's been highlighted three times.

He hasn't--he has never taken any steps to change, to amend, to seek guidance on that policy. Nothing has changed. We brought this to the court's attention and to his attention back in November and December, nothing changed.

What changed was we start to enforce little things. Now--now we're disrespectful. Now we got a reason to keep you in maximum custody status. Instead of fixing the problem, instead of taking an arbitrary policy and make it comport with the spirit of the law, we just found ways to justify our actions. And that is simply not the way that this is supposed to work, Your Honor.

The--the--this brig OIC, he--he talks about how in one of the cases he thinks the prosecutors botched it up. In the other case, which he doesn't even know the name of, the inmate was still there when he was the OIC of the brig.

The policy is exactly the same. Nothing has changed. Two different brig COs have done the exact same thing and they're getting the exact same result.

You have CS3 Copeland who--sure, he's frustrated after that amount of time. I get it. I understand it. But what we have here is a totality of circumstances that suggest that these conditions are unduly harsh. That is the Contreras and Hancock line of cases that followed--they're NMCCA cases from 2011. Conditions that are unduly harsh, they--they constitute illegal pretrial punishment, right?

Here we have--we have--well maybe not rising to the level of interference with his Sixth Amendment right, we certainly have a detriment to his Sixth Amendment right to consult with counsel to prepare a defense.

We have--we have legal documents that were confiscated out of his cell because they weren't stored correctly. We have--we have a chilling effect on the accused from speaking to his counsel, whether it be in the brig, whether it be in the PTC room. This table--this spot right here is where--where CS3 Copeland feels comfortable talking and being completely open with us.

We have instances of brig guards telling people that they need to overhear what's going on in privileged conversations. We have all of these things that suggest that there's not much of a presumption of innocence left for CS3 Copeland.

I get it. He's gonna plead guilty. That doesn't let us go back and say, see, we were right all along. That's not how this works. He does not forfeit the presumption of innocence until he comes in here, until this court comes to a resolution on this case.

There is a policy in place that puts CS3 Copeland in solitary confinement for the last 366 days, Your Honor. There is no evidence to suggest that he's a threat to anybody else. There's nothing at all to suggest that he needs to be locked down in his cell 22 hours a day.

Now, I mean, after next week, CS3 Copeland's gonna go to Leavenworth and probably within, you know--referring to the SECNAV manual that the--that the OIC so happily hangs his hat on--probably within about a week or so after being at Leavenworth, CS3 Copeland will end up being medium classification, general population inmate.

We're--we're here, Your Honor--we're here to talk about treating somebody like a human. That's what we're here to talk about. That's what we're asking for. He has not been treated like a human. He's been subject to an arbitrary and inflexible policy at the hands of a brig who doesn't presume anybody innocent. They just read what's on the charge sheet.

That constitutes illegal pretrial punishment. All of the facts and circumstances surrounding it constitute illegal pretrial punishment. And that is why we request the relief of 1,098 days, three-for-one credit for his time served, Your Honor.

Barring--barring any questions.

MJ: Thank you.

Government, would you like to be heard?

ATC: Good morning, Your Honor.

Just to address a few points the defense made, sir.

MJ: Want to take the podium or are you comfortable there?

ATC: I'm comfortable here, but I'm happy to go to the podium, sir.

MJ: Go ahead.

ATC: It appears that the defense is requesting a general blanket policy for all pretrial confinements. No matter what the allegation's coming in, no matter what your behavior in the brig. If the CNA board finds that you should be reduced from max custody classification, you should be reduced from max custody classification. And that's not what the SECNAV instruction says, and that's not what the law says. And to say that that is the case is a dangerous policy.

We have a violent offender here, sir, and 11-month ramp up with multiple allegations of strangulation that ended in an alleged murder, the accused found himself in pretrial confinement.

Commander Flanagan is charged with keeping the brig safe, and he has done everything in his power to continue to balance that consideration with the individual rights of the accused. He has been as flexible as possible.

He allows him out of the brig as much as he can while in max custody classification. He's allowed contact visits with his counsel at least early on. Although that--although, that was later rescinded only due to the conduct of the accused.

And while it is true that he overrode the CNA board's classification for a period of time, several months, ultimately, the disciplinary behavior of the accused resulted in that override being unnecessary.

Frankly, I believe that that proves that Commander Flanagan's institution of keeping him in max custody was appropriate and correct.

Moreover, Your Honor, Enclosure (15), which I provided with you this morning, provides an objective insight that--that affirms that Commander Flanagan's read on the accused has been correct. In Enclosure (15), page 6, Copeland has weaknesses in the area of attention, inhibitory control and impulsivity, and an awareness of the impact of his behavior on others and on outcomes.

The SECNAV instruction, Your Honor, says that the--that the--one of the criteria that the--that Commander Flanagan can consider in overriding the CNA board's classification is a low tolerance of frustration. That's exactly what that describes.

Not only did he see that himself, but he is--that has objectively been demonstrated through this--the clinical observation of the accused.

But there are other facts as well. Assaultive behavior--he's been punching the wall. He's been injuring himself. Disruptive behavior--there's at least two disciplinary reports of him being insubordinate with brig staff. And then, of course, the serious military criminal record, whether it's convicted or alleged.

And last, emotional or mental instability. I think that's also been demonstrated in the material that we've provided to you, sir, in addition to this clinical evaluation.

All five of those factors, sir, give Commander Flanagan a basis to override the CNA board's classification, and he's done so.

I would like to correct one point I made in our motion, Your Honor, which is I said, you know, United States versus Mosby is binding law. It's not particularly binding, right? It's just a--but it's extremely persuasive.

In United States versus Mosby, while the record is fairly thin, the only fact considered by the CAAF, essentially, was that the accused had demonstrated a high level of frustration in murdering his five-year-old daughter.

That was enough for solitary confinement. Conditions of that solitary confinement, I don't know, right, because the records do not demonstrate that. But I can't imagine it's any worse than what we see here with--with Copeland. In fact, I think Copeland's situation is probably more flexible.

But unlike Mosby, this is several victims that have--he has demonstrated violent impulsive behavior--several adult victims.

With that in mind, Your Honor, we just ask that you find just one-for-one credit under Allen.

Pending any questions, sir.

MJ: Defense, you got the burden, so I'll give you the last word.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor. If I may?

MJ: You may.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): The--the other document that the--that the government is referencing is a sentencing exhibit that was--that was provided to the court. That sentencing exhibit, just so we're clear on what that does, that is a--that was an analysis done by a professional irrespective of the allegations in the case. It was done and conducted not about the charges. It was conducted not about anything but the cognitive ability and the executive functioning of the accused.

Now, sure, maybe this would have been instructive to--to Commander Flanagan; however, we provided this document to the government yesterday. So, this doesn't support anything that's within this motion. Commander Flanagan didn't rely on this document. Commander Flanagan's not a mental health provider.

The--the extent that we're using this to supplement a policy that's been in place for however long now--

MJ: Let me--let me ask a question: You started off your argument by--so illegal pretrial confinement article--Article 13 is really kind of two prongs; intent to punish or unduly harsh conditions.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes.

MJ: You started off your argument by--by acknowledging that--that you do not find and then you haven't--you haven't alleged an intent to punish.

Is that correct?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): The conditions themselves taken in totality suggest an intent to punish. We are not--and that is where we are hanging our--our argument, Your Honor.

MJ: So, the conditions--I guess my question is, if you don't think it's an intents to punish, does the intent of Commander Flanagan in carrying out--carrying out his actions or imposing the punish--imposing the conditions of confinement that he has, does that matter or should the court look only at the conditions of confinement and not--do I care about the reasons behind them?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): It is--it is certainly possible to punish without an intent to punish. The facts and the circumstances that surround the--the pretrial incarceration here--

MJ: Well let me ask--let me stop you there. Does that violate Article 13?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: I mean, to the extent that punishment is happening without the intent to happen, does that--does that matter?

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Yes, Your Honor. That--that is--that is Hancock and Contreras; those--

MJ: Okay.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): --those two cases. The--the--in those instances, the--the circumstances surrounding the incarceration were such that--while there may not have been a specific thought formulated about I'm going to punish this person, the circumstances surrounding it certainly made it a punishment before we ever got to trial.

So, this document, Your Honor, doesn't--doesn't support Commander Flanagan. He doesn't know about it. He probably doesn't even know it exists. If he did, he would probably write a supplement and send it in so he can tell us how the defense got it wrong.

But for those reasons, Your Honor, we would ask that you--you consider and grant our request for relief.

MJ: Okay. Thank you.

I appreciate the--the well-written and thought-out briefs from both parties. So, I will take this under consideration, and I will issue a ruling in due course, certainly prior to announcing sentencing should we get there on Monday.

Anything else to take up before the court recesses?

ATC: Not from the government, Your Honor; although, we would request an 802 at some point today.

MJ: Let's--

DC: That's what I was gonna say too.

MJ: Let's do that right after this in--in chambers with the--

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: --with the counsel.

Okay. You submitted the--the specification for the LIO. I'll just--I'll just put that on the record on Monday, but I've got that.

DC: Yes, Your Honor. I--yes. And she--and the court reporter already marked it as the next appellate exhibit.

MJ: I did see that. We'll just--we'll just take that up on Monday.

Okay. So, court's in recess until Monday at 0900.

[The Article 39(a) session recessed at 0934, 5 June 2026.]

[END OF PAGE]

[The Article 39(a) session was called to order at 0922, 8 June 2026.]

MJ: This Article 39(a) session is called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

The business of the court-martial today is to take up a plea agreement reached by the government and Petty Officer Copeland. That plea agreement is marked as Appellate Exhibit CVII and--and has been appended to the record.

Prior to coming on the record today and--and following Friday's Article 39(a) hearing, we had a brief R.C.M. 802 conference in my chambers with all counsel present--the accused was not present--where we just discussed the logistics for today's hearing and discussed in general terms the--the evidence the parties intended to present in presentencing.

Do both parties concur with my summation of the R.C.M. 802 hearing or have anything to add?

TC: Concur, Your Honor; nothing to add.

DC: Your Honor, just to add that the defense also discussed that we objected to the--the broadcast of this hearing.

MJ: Thank you for reminding me.

So, I did order, based on the--the public's right to a public trial and the accused's right to a public trial and the expected attendance of today's hearing, I found courtroom one, here in Building A50, was not large enough to hold a reasonable number of spectators we might have so I did authorize placement of a remote viewing room that is being closed-circuit television fed to that room where there are additional spectators watching.

And the government--the defense, did object to that, but I found it appropriate under R.C.M. 806.

Any questions about my ruling there?

TC: Not from the government, Your Honor.

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Thank you.

Okay. Good morning, Petty Officer Copeland.

And I do appreciate the military courtesy, but you can remain seated during this unless I ask you to stand.

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Back at your arraignment in October, I advised you of your forum rights and you elected to defer selection of forum.

Do you remember that?

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: At your arraignment, I explained that the choices of forum you have for this general court-martial; that you could be tried by a court composed of eight members and after empanelment the number could be reduced to no fewer than six members; and that you could request that those members be officer members or at least one-third enlisted members.

Do you remember that discussion?

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: I also informed you that you could be tried by military judge alone.

Do you need me to go over those choices again or discuss that with you any more?

ACC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Do you understand the difference between a trial before members and a trial before military judge alone?

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand the choices that you have?

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: By what type of court do you wish to be tried?

ACC: Military judge, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Beyond the plea agreement, is there a written request for military judge alone?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Does the accused have a copy of Appellate Exhibit CVII in front of him?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: So, Petty Officer Copeland, Appellate Exhibit CVII is your plea agreement with the government. We're gonna go over that plea agreement in much greater detail here in a little bit; but for now, I want you to take a look at page 16 of that agreement.

Is that your signature on page 16?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Now take a look at Paragraph 8(b) on page 11. In that paragraph you agree to request trial by military judge alone.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: And to waive a trial by members, including enlisted members?

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. At the time you signed this agreement, did you know that I would be the military judge in your case?

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Is your request a voluntary one? By that, I mean are you making this request of your own free will?

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: If I approve your request for trial by me alone, you give up the right to be tried by a court composed of members.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you still wish to be tried by me alone?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well. Your request is approved. This court is assembled.

Okay. Petty Officer Copeland, in a few moments I will ask your defense counsel to enter your plea. Certain motions--I advise you that certain motions must be made before your plea is entered or else you waive the right to make them. Therefore, motions to dismiss or to grant other appropriate relief should be made at this time.

As you know, your counsel has filed several motions in this case, and we have litigated those motions over three separate motions hearings. And I have ruled on many of those motions, and those rulings are appended to this record.

And there's still one motion that's outstanding, so pending before the court, and that is the motion pursuant to Article 13 for relief of pretrial confinement. And your--your counsel has preserved that motion, and I will rule on that motion at the appropriate time.

But that said, defense counsel, do you have any more motions to file before entry of plea?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Accused and defense counsel, please rise.

[The accused and his counsel did as directed.]

MJ: CS3 Jermiah T. Copeland, your defense counsel will speak for you.

How do you plead?

DC: To Charge I and all Specifications thereunder: Not Guilty;

To Charge II and the Sole Specification: Guilty;

To Charge III, Specification 1: Guilty;
To Specification 2: Not Guilty;
To Charge III: Guilty;

To Charge IV, Specification 1: Guilty;
To Specification 2: Guilty;
To Specification 3: Not Guilty;
To Charge IV: Guilty;

To Charge V and all specifications thereunder: Not Guilty;

To Charge VI, Specification 1: Guilty;
To Specification 2: Not Guilty;
To Charge VI: Guilty;

To Charge VII and the Sole Specification: Not Guilty, but guilty to the lesser included offense of unpremeditated murder.

MJ: And to Charge VII, did you say?

DC: To Charge VII: Guilty.

MJ: Very well. You may be seated. Thank you. I understand your pleas.

[The accused and his counsel did as directed.]

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, your counsel has entered a plea of guilty for you to the Sole Specification of Charge II, alleging aggravated assault in violation of Article 128 of the UCMJ.

Specification 1 of Charge III, alleging indecent recording in violation of Article 120c of the UCMJ.

To Specifications 1 and 2 of Charge IV, alleging obstruction of justice in violation of Article 131b of the UCMJ.

To Specification 1 of Charge VI, alleging false official statement in violation of Article 107 of the UCMJ.

And to the lesser included offense of the Sole Specification of Charge VII, alleging unpremeditated or intentional murder in violation of Article 118(a)(2) of the UCMJ.

Your counsel has also submitted, pursuant to Rule for Court-Martial 910, the specification of the lesser included offense for Charge VII, a violation of Article 118(a)(2) of the UCMJ, and that specification is appended to the record at Appellate Exhibit CX.

Trial counsel, you agree that the specification in Appellate Exhibit CX is the correct specification for the LIO of Charge VII that the accused is pleading guilty to?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Petty Officer Copeland, I cannot accept your plea of guilty unless you understand its meaning and effect. I'm gonna discuss your plea of guilty with you. You may consult with your defense counsel prior to answering my questions. You may ask me questions at any time.

A plea of guilty is equivalent to a conviction and is the strongest form of proof known to the law. On your plea alone and without receiving any evidence, this court can find you guilty of the offenses to which you've pled guilty.

Your plea will not be accepted unless you realize that by your plea you admit every act or omission and element of the offense to which you have pled guilty and that you are pleading guilty because you are--you actually are guilty.

If you do not believe you're guilty, then you should not plead guilty for any reason.

Do you understand what I've said so far?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: By your plea of guilty you have three important rights, but you have these rights solely with respect to the offenses to which you're pleading guilty.

First, you give up the right against self-incrimination. That is, the right to say nothing at all.

Second, you give up the right to a trial of the facts by this court. That is, your right to have this court-martial decide whether or not you are guilty based on evidence the prosecution would have to present and on any evidence that you may introduce.

Third, you give up the right to be confronted by and to cross-examine any witnesses called against you.

Do you have any questions about these rights?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand that by pleading guilty you no longer have these rights with respect to the offenses you're pleading guilty to?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: If you continues with your guilty plea, you will be placed under oath and I will place--and I will question you to determine whether you are guilty. Anything you tell me may be used against you in presentencing--in the presentencing portion of this trial.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: If you tell me anything that's untrue, your statements may be used against you later for charges of perjury or making false statements.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Your plea of guilty to a lesser included offense may also be used to establish certain elements of the charged offense if the government decides to proceed on the charged offense.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Trial counsel, please place the accused under oath.

ATC: Yes, sir.

[The accused was sworn.]

MJ: Is there a stipulation of fact?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Commander Serfess, does the accused have a copy of the stipulation of fact?

DC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, I have here Prosecution Exhibit 1 for identification, a stipulation of fact.

Did you sign this document?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Did you read it thoroughly before you signed it?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Counsel for both sides, did you also sign the stipulation, and you agree to its terms?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, a stipulation of fact is an agreement among the trial counsel--the prosecutors--your defense counsel, and you that the contents of the stipulation are true and, if entered into evidence, are uncontradicted in this case--or uncontradicted facts in this case.

No one can be forced to enter into a stipulation, so you should do so only if you truly want to do so.

Do you understand this?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Are you voluntarily entering into this stipulation because you believe it's in your best interest to do so?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: If I admit the stipulation into evidence, it'll be used in two ways:

First, I will use it to determine if you're guilty of the offenses to which you're pleading guilty; and second, I will use it to determine an appropriate sentence for you.

Do counsel also agree to these uses?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: And, Petty Officer Copeland, do you agree to these uses?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. A stipulation of fact ordinarily can't be contradicted. If it should be contradicted after I've accepted your guilty plea, I will reopen this inquiry. You should, therefore, let me know if there's anything you disagree with or feel is untrue.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, again, have you read that stipulation of fact?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: And you've thoroughly discussed it with your defense counsel?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Is everything in the stipulation true?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Is there anything in the stipulation that you do not wish to admit is true?

ACC: No, sir.

MJ: Do you agree under oath that the matters contained in the stipulation are true and correct to the best of your knowledge and belief?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Defense counsel, any objection to Prosecution Exhibit 1 for identification?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Prosecution Exhibit 1 for identification is admitted into evidence subject to my acceptance of the accused's guilty plea.

Okay. Petty Officer Copeland, at this time, I'm gonna explain to you the elements of the offenses to which you've pled guilty. By "elements," I mean those facts which the prosecution would have to prove beyond a reasonable doubt before you could be found guilty if you had pled not guilty.

When I state each element, ask yourself two things: First, is the element true; and second, do you wish to admit that it's true.

After I list the elements for each offense, be prepared to talk to me about the facts regarding that offense.

Does the accused have a copy of the charge sheet and the stipulation of fact in front of him?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So first, Petty Officer Copeland, just some preliminary questions:

Are you currently on active duty in the United States Navy?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: On 24 July 2024, were you a member of the U.S. Navy on active duty?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Have you been discharged or released from active duty since that date--since the 24th of July 2024?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, in each specification on the charge sheet, is your name, rank, rate, unit, and branch of service correctly stated and spelled?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

Okay. So, for the sake of clarity and continuity, rather than go in the order that the charges are listed on the charge sheet, we're gonna group the charges you're pleading guilty to by victim. So, we'll begin with the Sole Specification of Charge VII. So please take a look at the Sole Specification of Charge VII.

Okay. There in Charge VII, you have pled guilty to a lesser included offense of unpremeditated murder, in violation of Article 118(a)(2) of the UCMJ.

The offense charged, which was premeditated murder, and the lesser included offense of unpremeditated murder differ in that the offense charged requires an element that you murdered CS3 A.R. with premeditation; where as, the lesser offense of unpremeditated murder does not include such an element.

The specification you are pleading guilty to is reflected in Appellate Exhibit CX that we just discussed.

The elements of the lesser included offense to which you're pleading guilty are as follows:

One, that CS3 A.R., United States Navy, is dead.

Two, that her death resulted from the intentional act of you on or about 29 May 2025, at or near Norfolk, Virginia.

Three, that the killing of CS3 A.R., USN, by you was unlawful.

And four, that at the time of the killing, you had the intent to kill or inflict great bodily harm upon CS3 A.R.

I'm gonna give you some definitions that apply to this specification.

The killing of a human being is unlawful when done without legal justification or excuse.

"Great bodily harm" means serious injury. Great bodily harm does not mean minor injuries, such as a black eye or bloody nose, but it does mean fractured or dislocated bones, deep cuts, torn members of the body, serious damage to internal organs, and other serious bodily injuries.

The intent to kill or inflict great bodily harm does not have to exist for any measurable or particular time before the act which causes the death. All that is required is that it exists at the time of the act which caused the death.

Although you may have had the intent to kill her in great--inflict great bodily harm, voluntary intoxication by itself is not a defense to unpremeditated murder. Voluntary intoxication standing alone will not reduce unpremeditated murder to a lesser degree of unlawful killing.

Do you understand the elements and definitions as I've read them to you?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any questions about them?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand that your plea of guilty admits that these elements accurately describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you believe and admit that the elements and definitions taken together correctly describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, I want you to tell me in your own words why you're guilty of this offense.

ACC: I killed CS3 A.R. by strangling her on 29 May 2025.

MJ: Okay. I'm gonna ask you a few questions about that.

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: So, you--you believe and admit that A.R. is dead?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And was A.R.'s death caused by an act that you committed?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And what was that act?

ACC: By strangling her with my hands, Your Honor.

MJ: Did you use both hands?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Describe for me how that happened.

ACC: CS3 A.R. came to my barracks to hang out. While we were hanging out, we started drinking alcohol. CS3 A.R. and I were hanging out in my barracks room on the couch. While we were having--while we were on the couch, we started kissing each other, and there was a bright flash on my cell phone. CS3 A.R. became very upset and she saw the flash and started freaking out.

She started making a lot of noise, and I wanted her to be quiet and calm down. I was concerned that my roommates would wake up and assume something had went wrong.

To try to--to try and make her be quiet I put my hands over CS3 A.R.'s mouth which was unsuccessful at keep--at keeping her quiet. She continued to make lots of noise. While I was attempting to put my hands over her mouth, she tripped and fell onto the floor.

While she was on the floor, I got on top of her and strangled her with two of my hands. I had both hands around her neck strangling her until she stopped moving and making noise. I knew she had died when she stopped moving and became unresponsive.

MJ: When you placed your hands around her neck while you're on top of her, you--she--she was laying on the floor, and you were on top of her; is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And you had both hands around her neck?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: What were you intending to do when you were strangling her?

Let me ask you this: Did you intend to at least inflict great bodily harm?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And that was to--to make her stop talking, to calm her down, to stop her from moving?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You agree that placing your hands around her neck and strangling her, you intended to inflict great bodily harm when you were doing that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Was it a freely made decision on your part to strangle CS3 A.R.?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Did anybody force or coerce you into--into killing her?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you believe you were acting in self-defense or defending another?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you believe at the time that you killed her you had any legal justification or authorization for killing her?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Could you have avoided killing her if you'd wanted to?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And how could you have done that?

ACC: By not doing what I did.

MJ: When did you form the intent to inflict great bodily harm?

ACC: I intended to inflict harm on her to get her to be quiet.

MJ: So, at some point between your unsuccessful attempts to cover her mouth and her falling onto the floor, intent formed in your mind that you've got to put your hands around her neck and inflict great bodily harm to make her stop?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And you were able to carry out this plan?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And so, you did actually--you did actually kill A.R. when you intended to inflict great bodily harm; is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And finally, do you believe you had any legal justification or excuse for your actions?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do counsel for either side believe further inquiry is required?

Hold on. There is.

Where did this occur?

ACC: In my barracks room.

MJ: And where is your barracks room? Is it in Norfolk, Virginia?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: And did this occur on--what date did this occur on?

ACC: The 29th.

MJ: On 29 May 2025?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Very well.

Counsel agree--do counsel require--believe any further inquiry is required on this specification?

ATC: Sir, maybe just ask if he could define strangulation and ask if this meets the standard for that.

I guess the government has concerns about why strangulation might lead to grievous bodily harm or great bodily harm, sir.

MJ: I want to read for you the--the definition of strangulation.

Strangulation means intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly impeding the normal breathing or circulation of blood of a person by applying pressure to the throat or neck regardless of whether that conduct results in any visible injury or whether there is any intent to kill or protractive--or protractively injure the alleged victim.

So, I just gave you the definition of strangulation. Is that what you did to CS3 A.R.?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: By placing both hands around her neck, you're--you impeded her normal breathing or circulation of blood flow; is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And when you did that, again, you did that with the intent to inflict great bodily harm; is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: In my definition that I gave you of strangulation, it indicates that great bodily harm could flow from that.

Do you agree?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Government, any further questions you think the court needs to ask?

ATC: No, Your Honor. I appreciate that. Thank you.

MJ: Defense counsel, any--any further questions--

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: --for this inquiry?

Very well.

Let's now move on to Specification 1 of Charge VI.

So, in Specification 1 of Charge VI, you're pleading guilty to false official statement, a violation of Article 107 of the UCMJ. The elements of that offense are that:

One, on or about 1 June 2025, at or near Norfolk, Virginia, you made to Special Agent Jessica Gokey, Naval Criminal Investigative Service, a certain official statement; that is, that you had returned CS3 A.R., United States Navy, back to her barracks room on the morning of 29 May 2025 or words to that effect.

Two, that such statement was totally false.

Three, that you knew it to be false at the time you made it.

And four, that the false statement was made with the intent to deceive.

I'm gonna give you some definitions that apply to this specification.

A statement may be made orally, in writing, or both and include records, returns, regulations, orders or other documents.

A statement is official when the maker is either acting in the line of duty or the statement bears a clear and direct relationship to the maker's official duties or where the receiver is either a military member carrying out a military duty when the statement is made or a civilian necessarily performing a military function when the statement is made.

The rank or status of the person intended to be deceived is immaterial. The government may be the victim of this offense.

Intent to deceive simply means to purposely mislead, to treat, to trick another, or to cause another to believe as true that which is false.

It is not necessary that the false statement be material to the issue at inquiry. The expectation of material gain is not an expectation--not an element of this offense.

Petty Officer Copeland, do you understand the elements and definitions as I've read them to you?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any questions about any of them?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand that your plea of guilty, again, admits that these elements correctly describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you believe and admit that the elements and definitions taken together correctly describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, again, tell me in your own words why you're guilty of this offense.

ACC: On--on 1 June 2025, Special Agent Gokey came to my barracks room and asked me where CS3 A.R. was. I told her that I took CS3 A.R. back to my room--or back to her room.

When I told Special Agent Gokey that, I knew it was false because I did not take CS3 A.R. back to her room--back to her barracks room. I knew CS3 A.R.--I knew where CS3 A.R. was and told Special Agent Gokey something that was false.

MJ: Okay. So, your--your statement then pertained to an investigation into the location of CS3 A.R.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And this was done by an NCIS--the question was posed to you by an NCIS special agent?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Did she show you her badge or her credentials?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, you knew she was acting in an official capacity?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And you would agree that the--her investigation was into--an official Navy investigation, correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: When she came to talk to you, you--you--you were a sailor, correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You were acting in your official capacity in answering questions posed by a law enforcement officer; is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you believe and admit that your statement was made to a person who, in receiving it--in this case Special Agent Gokey--was discharging the functions of her particular office?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And so, was she conducting an investigation into the disappearance of CS3 A.R. at this time?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Were you advised of any rights under Article 31 during this questioning?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. What about your statement was untruthful?

ACC: I told Special Agent Gokey I took CS3 R. back to her barracks room the morning of 29 May of 2025, but I did not do that.

MJ: You did not do that. What did you do instead?

Or how--why is that a false statement?

ACC: I knew I did not take CS3 A.R. back to her barracks room when I said I did.

MJ: Okay. But I--I guess I'm asking what--what is false about that statement?

ACC: I never took her to her barracks room.

MJ: Okay. You did not take her to her barracks room.

ACC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: What did you do instead?

ACC: I--I told her I--I took her back to her barracks room to NCIS.

MJ: I understand.

Did you intend to deceive Special Agent Gokey when you made that statement?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Did you make the false statement voluntarily?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: No one coerced you to make that false statement?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any legal justification or excuse for making the false statement?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Anyone coerce you into making this statement?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Could you have made a truthful statement if you'd wanted to?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You could have--you could have told the truth, correct?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Do counsel believe any further inquiry is required for this offense?

ATC: No further inquiry, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Court agrees.

Okay. Now let's take a look at--and I know I'm jumping around here on the charge sheet--Specification 2 of Charge IV.

In Specification 2 of Charge IV, you--you have pleaded guilty to obstruction of justice by wrongfully concealing the dead body of CS3 A.R., United States Navy, with the intent to impede the due administration of justice, which is a violation of Article 131(b) of the UCMJ. The elements of that offense are:

That one, on or about 2 June 2025, at or nor--at or near Norfolk, Virginia--I'm gonna go back to this previous specification just for a second.

Again, I'm--I'm gonna direct your attention to the false official statement you just--we just talked about.

Where were you at when you made that false statement?

ACC: In my barracks, Your Honor.

MJ: And is that in Norfolk, Virginia?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And you told me at the beginning you made that false statement on 1 June 2025, correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well. Thank you.

ACC: Thank you.

MJ: All right. Let's turn back to Specification 2--Specification 2 under Charge IV. The elements of that offense are:

That on or about 2 June 2025, at or near Norfolk, Virginia, you wrongfully did a certain act; that is, conceal the dead body of CS3 A.R., United States Navy.

Two, that you did so in the case of United States versus CS3 Jermiah T. Copeland, you, against whom you had reason to believe there were or would be criminal or disciplinary proceedings pending.

Three, that the act was done with the intent to influence, impede, or otherwise obstruct the due administration of justice.

I'm gonna give you some definitions that apply to this offense.

"Wrongfully" means without legal justification or excuse. You must have had the specific intent to impede the due administration of justice, but there need not have been an actual obstruction of justice.

The term "criminal proceedings" includes lawful searches, criminal investigations conducted by the police or command authorities, Article 15 nonjudicial punishment proceedings, Article 32 investigations, courts-martial, state or federal criminal trials.

It's not necessary that charges be pending or even that an investigation be underway. You need not have known that charges have been brought, or proceedings begun; however, you must have had reason to believe there were or would be criminal proceedings against you or that some law enforcement official or the military would be investigating the case of CS3 Copeland.

Asking that one not reveal a report that an offense occurred is not an obstruction of justice unless you knew or had reason to believe that there were or would be criminal proceedings pending and your acts were done with the intent to obstruct justice.

If you advised a potential witness of his legal right to remain silent, merely informed the witness about possible self-incrimination that would not amount to a specific intent to impede the due administration of justice.

However, if this advice was given for a corrupt purpose; such as, the desire to protect yourself or others from prospective witnesses' possible damaging statements, you had a corrupt motive and you had a specific intent to impede the due administration of justice.

So, some questions about this offense:

Do you understand the elements and definitions as I've read them to you, Petty Officer Copeland?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any questions about any of them?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand your plea of guilty, again, admits the elements accurately describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you believe and admit that the elements and definitions taken together correctly describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, again, tell me in your own words why you're guilty of this offense.

ACC: On the 2nd of June 2025, I hid CS3 A.R.'s body. I did so because I needed to move her body from my barracks room. I have roommates and suite mates, and the police had already come to my room asking about CS3 A.R.

And I knew people were looking for her and if I--if she was found in my closet, I would be in trouble. I knew there would be criminal proceedings pending. I was UA, and I knew I was getting NJP'd. I knew people were looking for CS3 A.R. I hid her body to impede the administration of justice and prevent myself from getting charges.

MJ: Okay. So, you--you previously--we talked about killing CS3 A.R. You previously admitted to murdering CS3 A.R.

So sometime after that murder you hid her body in your barracks room?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And then on the 2nd of June, you're saying that you then moved her body to a different location. Where did you move her to?

ACC: At the Broad Creek Neighborhood in Norfolk.

MJ: And when you did this, you indicated it was because you believed people were investigating where she was and--and your involvement in perhaps her disappearance.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, you had reason to believe that there was an investigation pending against you?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And in fact, you--you mentioned you were already UA at the time, so you knew that--that there was--there were criminal proceedings pending against you.

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any legal justification or excuse for concealing CS3 A.R.'s body?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Were you authorized by anyone to conceal her body?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Could you have avoided concealing her dead body if you'd wanted to?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you believe concealing the dead body of CS3 A.R. on 2 June 2025 in Norfolk, Virginia, was wrongful?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, at the time, did you believe that you were the subject of a criminal investigation or proceeding?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And why is that?

ACC: People had come to my room to talk to me about CS3 A.R.

MJ: It says in your stipulation of fact you had--this is Paragraph 32 of your stipulation of fact. You had reason to believe there would be criminal proceedings pending because you were aware that CS3 A.R. was declared missing and law enforcement was looking for her. And then because you thought criminal proceedings would be pending, you concealed her body.

Is that all true?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Paragraph 33 of your stipulation of fact says that because you believed there would be criminal proceedings, you--you hid her body because you thought criminal proceedings would be pending against you because you knew you had murdered CS3 A.R. and her deceased body was in your barracks room.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: It goes on to say that you hid her body in a suitcase and put the suitcase inside your closet. And then on 2 June, you transported that suitcase, as you've mentioned here, from your barracks room to a wooded area near Cary Avenue in Norfolk, Virginia.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And your purpose in concealing the body was to impede justice?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Because you--you thought criminal proceedings would be pending against you.

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Did you specifically intend to impede or obstruct the due administration of justice?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And that's by hiding evidence?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: In fact, the evidence in this case was CS3 A.R.'s body?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do counsel believe any further inquiry is required?

TC: No, Your Honor.

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Okay. Let's turn to the Sole Specification of Charge II. In--in the Sole Specification of Charge II, Petty Officer Copeland, you pleaded guilty to aggravated assault, strangulation, upon ABHAN C.R., United States Navy, by committing assault upon her by unlawfully strangling her with your hand, in violation of Article 128 of the UCMJ. The elements of that offense are:

That, one, on or about 24 July 2024, on board USS Harry Truman, CVN-75, you committed an assault against ABHAN C.R., United States Navy.

Two, that you did so by strangling her with your hand.

And three, that the strangulation was done with unlawful force or violence.

I'm gonna give you some definitions that apply.

An assault in which bodily harm is inflicted is called "a battery."

A battery is an unlawful infliction of bodily harm to another made with force or violence by an intentional act or omission.

"Bodily harm" means an offensive touching of another, however slight.

An infliction of bodily harm is unlawful if done without legal justification or excuse and without the lawful consent of the victim.

The term "strangulation" means intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly impeding the normal breathing or circulation of the blood of a person by applying pressure to the throat or neck regardless of whether that conduct results in any visible injury or whether there is intent to kill or protractedly injure the victim.

So, with regards to this specification, do you understand the elements and definitions as I've read them to you, Petty Officer Copeland?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you--do you have any questions about any of them?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand your plea of guilty admits that these elements accurately describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you believe and admit the elements and definitions taken together correctly describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, again, tell me in your own words why you're guilty of this offense.

ACC: ABHAN C.R. and I were talking on the fantail. I put my hands around her neck and squeezed, cutting off the circulation and breathing. She did not consent.

MJ: So--ask a few questions about that: On 24 July 2024, on Harry Truman, did you--did you commit an assault upon a--ABHAN C.R.?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And you just told me that you did this by strangling her?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Did you strangle her with your hands?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Both hands? One hand?

ACC: Both hands, Your Honor.

MJ: So, you placed both hands around her neck?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: I gave you the definition of strangling--or strangulation. Did what you do with your hands meet that definition?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And by that, I mean you--did you--was this accidental? Reckless? Was it intentional?

ACC: Intentional, Your Honor.

MJ: So, you--you agree that on the 24th of July 2024, on board Harry Truman, you intentionally placed your hands around her neck to impede her normal breathing or--or circulation of blood?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You applied enough pressure to the throat or neck to do that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You told me that she did not consent to this; is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any legal justification or authorization to do this?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: How much pressure did you apply to her neck?

ACC: Enough to impede her circulation.

MJ: How do you know that?

ACC: Because she stopped breathing for a second.

MJ: Okay. And you--you watched her stop breathing?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Were you acting in self-defense when you did this bodily harm to ABHAN C.R.?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And any legal--any legal justification or excuse for strangling her?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You told me this was intentional, correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Anybody force you or coerce you into committing the strangulation?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Could you have avoided committing the strangulation if you'd wanted to?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You simply could have just not done it, correct?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: And you admit your--your actions were unlawful?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: And do you believe you committed the strangulation with unlawful force or violence?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: And how so?

ACC: Because I used enough force to stop her from breathing. She did not consent.

MJ: And you--you agree that's force or violence, correct?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Do counsel believe any further inquiry is required for this offense?

ATC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense counsel?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Let's move to the sole--or I'm sorry--Specification 1 of Charge III.

There you have, Petty Officer Copeland, pleaded guilty to recording the private area of CSSSN--CSSN S.S., United States Navy, a violation of Article 120c of the UCMJ. The elements of that offense are:

That, one, that you did, on or about 4 November 2024, on board USS Harry Truman, CVN-75, without legal justification or lawful--lawful authorization, knowingly record the private area of CSS -- CSSN S.S.

DC: It wasn't on board.

MJ: Thank you very much. No, you're correct. I'm looking at the wrong element.

That you did on board--that you did, on or about 4 November 2024, at or near Oslo, Norway, without legal justification or lawful authorization, knowingly record the private area of CSS--CSSN S.S., USN.

That said recording was without CSSN's consent.

And that the recording was made under the circumstances in which CSSN S.S. had a reasonable expectation of privacy.

And that your conduct was wrongful.

I'll give you some definitions that apply to this offense.

"Wrongful" means without legal justification or lawful authorization.

An act is done knowingly when it is done intentionally and on purpose.

An act is--an act done as a result of mistake or action is not done knowingly.

"Private area" means the naked or underwear clad genitalia, anus, buttocks, or female areola or nipple.

Under circumstances in which that other person has a reasonable expectation of privacy or reasonable expectation of privacy means, (a), circumstances in which a reasonable person would believe that he or she could disrobe in privacy without being concerned that an image of a private area of the person was being captured; or (b), circumstances in which a reasonable person would believe that a private area of the person would not be visible to the public.

Do you understand the elements and definitions as I've read them to you, Petty Officer Copeland?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any questions about them?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand that your plea of guilty admits that these elements accurately describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you believe and admit that the elements and definitions taken together correctly describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, again, tell me in your own words why you're guilty of this offense.

ACC: On the 4th of November 2024, I was at a bar with CSSN S.S. We went to the bathroom to have sex. We had sex. Her pants were down. She had an expect--expectation of privacy. I recorded her with my phone from behind. She did not know I was recording her.

MJ: You guys said you were at a bar. Where was this bar?

ACC: In Oslo.

MJ: Oslo, Norway?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: And so, you were both assigned to Harry Truman and Harry Truman pulled in for a port visit or something in Oslo, Norway?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: How did you accomplish this--so you told me that you were having sex in the bathroom and you recorded her. Was this a video recording?

ACC: Yes, sir, with my phone.

MJ: So, you accomplished this with a--with a--like a cell phone camera?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So where exactly--when you say in a bathroom, this was a private stall or a private bathroom?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: I--I don't need you to be too graphic, but what was visible during this recording?

ACC: Her butt.

MJ: Her--her--her buttocks. Was it naked or underwear clad?

ACC: Naked.

MJ: Okay. So, you agree--I gave you the term of private area. You would agree that her naked buttocks is the private area as I've defined that term for you?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And you told me you did this recording intentionally; is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Did she know she was being recorded?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, she didn't consent to it then?

ACC: No, sir.

MJ: How do you know this?

ACC: She didn't know I was recording while we were having sex.

MJ: Would you agree that--that CSS--SN was in a place where she could disrobe in private where she wouldn't be concerned that her private area would be seen?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And why do you believe that?

ACC: Because we were in a--because we were in the bathroom and we were having sex and she did not know I was recording. She had no reason to believe that she would be recorded or seen by anyone else in the bathroom.

MJ: Because that's not--you typically don't film in the bathroom, correct?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: You don't record people in the bathroom.

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Do you believe a reasonable person knowing all the facts and circumstances would agree that a person could disrobe in private without being concerned that someone would see their private area in this bathroom in Oslo, Norway?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Do you have any legal justification or excuse for your actions?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Could you have avoided recording CSSN S.S.'s private area if you wanted to do so?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You simply could have kept your phone away, correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do counsel believe any further inquiry is necessary?

TC: Your Honor, just one discrepancy with this specification and we noticed a discrepancy with the last specification as well. With this one, just that the plea agreement references on board Harry S. Truman, but this--the actual charge itself does say Oslo, Norway. So, we can pen and ink that. I just want to make sure it's not a misunderstanding by the parties.

MJ: No. I--I think--I think everyone understands that this was Oslo, Norway. We will--if we need to pen and ink the plea agreement when we get there, we can do that.

ATC: Okay. Yes, sir.

MJ: Defense counsel, any concern with that?

DC: No, Your Honor. It was not on board the ship. It was in Norway.

MJ: Right. It was in a bar in Oslo.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Understand.

ATC: And then with respect to the last specification, sir, this--the charge, the stipulation of fact, and the plea agreement all say it was strangulation with one hand, but I believe he said two hands. I'm not sure if that discrepancy should be noted for the record as well.

MJ: And that was--okay.

I mean, any further questions about this specification?

ATC: Not about this specification, sir. Sorry, I just want to bring that up.

MJ: Okay.

DC: Not about this specification.

MJ: Okay. Petty Officer Copeland, I want to draw your attention back to the specification we talked about a minute ago where you admitted to strangling ABHAN C.R.

Do you--do you recall that discussion we just had a second ago?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: What the trial counsel is telling me is that your stipulation of fact and the charges indicate that you're charged with pleading with--strangling her with one hand, but you told me it was two hands.

You strangled her with at least one hand, correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Government, you satisfied?

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Okay.

Okay. At this point, I want to move to--back to Charge IV and Specification 1 of Charge IV.

Petty Officer Copeland, there you--you pleaded guilty to obstruction of justice by wrongfully hiding your cellular phone with the intent to impede the due administration of justice in the case of U.S. v. CS3 Jermiah Copeland, which is a violation of Article 131b. The elements of that offense are:

That on or about 5 November 2024, at or near Oslo, Norway, you wrongfully did a certain act; that is, hide your cellular phone.

Two, that you did so in the case of yourself against whom you had reason to believe there were or would be criminal or disciplinary proceedings pending.

Three, that the act was done with the intent to influence, impede, or otherwise obstruct the due administration of justice.

So, a few minutes--moments ago when we talked about the previous obstruction of justice charges, I gave you a bunch of definitions that apply to obstruction of justice.

Do you need me to go over those definitions again? They're the same ones that I talked about before.

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, do those elements that I just read to you and the definitions that I read to you earlier about obstruction of justice, do you have any questions about them?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand those elements and definitions?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand that your plea of guilty admits that the elements accurately describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you believe and admit that the elements and definitions taken together correctly describe what you did?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, tell me why, in your own words, you're guilty of this offense.

ACC: On the 5th of November 2024, CSSN S.S. confronted me about--about us having sex when she was drunk the night before.

CSSN S.S. was upset and angry because other people had seen a video of us having sex. Given how she responded, I thought there would be criminal proceedings pending against me. Because I thought my phone contained potential evidence against me, I hid my cellular device by smashing it and throwing it in the streets in Oslo.

I hid my phone because I believed that there would be criminal proceedings against me because of CSSN S.S.'s accusations. I hid the phone with an intent to impede the investigations against me to prevent NCIS from obtaining potential evidence against me.

MJ: Okay. Did you have any legal justification or excuse for hiding your cell phone?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Were you authorized by anyone to hide your cell phone?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Could you have avoided hiding your cell phone if you wanted to?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And do you believe that hiding your cell phone on 5 November 2024 was wrongful?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, you just told me that you--you believed there--that you might be the subject of a criminal investigation or proceeding.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And that's because--it sounds like CSSSN--CSSN S.S. discovered that you had recorded a video of her the day before.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And she was unhappy about that.

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And you thought that that might turn into a criminal investigation because she was upset that you had recorded her without her consent.

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: What did you think might happen as a result of any investigation?

ACC: That--I thought I'd be in trouble or go to NJP or worse.

MJ: But at least some sort of criminal--you'd be charged with some sort of criminal misconduct or some sort of--something bad would happen to you.

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Some sort of administrative proceeding or criminal proceeding would ensue; is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: What was your purpose in hiding your cell phone?

ACC: To prevent NCIS from finding video of CSSN S.S. that she did not consent to me making, Your Honor.

MJ: So, when you hid your cell phone and you told me you--you smashed it and then threw it in the streets, did you specifically intend to impede or obstruct the administration of justice?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And you did that--that way if you got rid of your cell phone, NCIS or the MAs on board--the master-at-arms on board or any other law enforcement organization couldn't find it.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And it couldn't be used as evidence against--evidence against you?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Counsel believe any further inquiry is required for this offense?

ATC: No, Your Honor.

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Do counsel believe any further inquiry is required for any of the offenses we've gone over this morning?

ATC: No, Your Honor.

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Trial counsel, without regards to the terms of the plea agreement, what is the maximum punishment authorized by law in this case based solely on the accused's guilty plea?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

The maximum punishment authorized in this case based solely--or based on the accused's plea, without taking into account the terms of the plea agreement, is to be reduced to the grade of E-1, total forfeiture of pay, to be confined--confined for life without the possibility of parole plus 25 years, and to be discharged from the service with a dishonorable discharge.

MJ: Defense counsel, do you agree?

DC: Yes, Your Honor, with the exception of the "plus 25 years."

MJ: The court agrees.

Petty Officer Copeland, the maximum authorized by law--authorized punishment by law in this case based solely on your guilty plea, without taking into account your plea agreement, is:

To be reduced to the pay grade of E-1, to forfeit all pay and allowances, to be confined for life without the possibility of parole, and to be dishonorably discharged from the Naval service.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: I also find that a fine is not appropriate.

Do the parties agree?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Trial counsel, please account for the applicable sentencing parameters by announcing the offense category and confinement range for the offenses to which the accused has pled guilty.

ATC: The parameters are as follows, Your Honor:

To the specification of Charge II, this is a Category 2 offense; as such, the parameter confinement range is 1 to 36 months.

To Specification 1 of Charge III, it's a Category 2 offense; as such, the parameter confinement range is 1 to 36 months.

Specifications 1 and 2 of Charge IV are Category 2 offenses; as such, the parameter of confinement range is 1 to 36 months for each specification.

The specification of charge--the--the--Specification 1 of Charge VI is a Category 2 offense; as such, the parameter of confinement range is 1 to 36 months.

And the Sole Specification of Charge VII is a Category 5 offense; as such, the parameter confinement range is 240 to 480 months.

Thank you, Your Honor.

MJ: And I'll--I'll just note with regards to Charge VII is the lesser included offense of the Sole Specification, correct?

ATC: Yes. Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense counsel, do you agree?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, did your defense counsel explain the applicable sentencing parameters to you?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: When an offense is subject to a sentence parameter, I must sentence you for that offense within the applicable parameter unless I find specific facts that warrant a sentence outside the parameter.

If I impose a sentence that is higher or lower than a parameter, I must include a written statement and factual basis for the sentence.

If, however, I accept your plea agreement, then I must sentence you in accordance with the limits of the plea agreement. If the plea agreement proposes a sentence that is outside of the sentence parameter, I may reject the plea agreement that proposes a sentence that is outside the sentence parameter if I determine that the proposed sentence is plainly unreasonable.

Do you understand this?

Do you understand? Do I need to read that again?

ACC: Oh, no, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. You understand the sentencing parameters?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. All that said, do you have any questions about the maximum punishment authorized by law as a result of your guilty plea?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Trial counsel, is there a plea agreement in this case?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense counsel, does the accused have a copy of the plea agreement?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: We've been going about an hour. Do we--do we need to take a break, or we want to keep going in the plea agreement?

ATC: If we can take a brief recess, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: How long do you want? Ten minutes?

ATC: Ten minutes is sufficient, yes, sir.

MJ: Okay. It is--it is 1012. Let's come back--

DC: Sir, maybe 15 minutes because Seaman--because Petty Officer Copeland needs to use the head as well.

MJ: Let's come back at 1030.

Court's in recess till 1030.

[The court-martial recessed at 1012, 8 June 2026.]

[The court-martial was called to order at 1032, 8 June 2026.]

MJ: This court-martial is once again called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

Okay. We're now gonna discuss the plea agreement. Does the accused have a copy of the plea agreement in front of him?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Petty Officer Copeland, we're now gonna discuss this agreement. I have Appellate Exhibit CVII, which is your agreement. We talked about this at the beginning of the trial when you elected military judge--trial by military judge alone, but did you sign this document?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: That's your signature on page 16?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Did you thoroughly read it before you signed it?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand the contents of your plea agreement?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Did anyone force you or coerce you to enter into this agreement?

ACC: No, sir.

MJ: Does this agreement between you and the government--the--Appellate Exhibit CVII--does it contain all the understandings or agreements that you have in this case?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Has anyone made any promises to you that are not written into this agreement in an attempt to get you to plead guilty?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Counsel, do you agree that Appellate Exhibit CVII is the full and complete agreement in this case and there are--and you're satisfied there are no other agreements?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Petty Officer Copeland, the law requires that I discuss the conditions of your agreement with you, so we're just gonna go through the terms of the agreement and I'm gonna talk to you about them. And you just let me know if you have any questions.

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: So, Paragraph 1 just indicates that you're the accused in this court-martial now pending, and you agree in exchange for good consideration and thorough consultation with your defense counsel to enter into the agreement.

You agree to enter the pleas as you did below, and you assert that you are in fact guilty of the offenses to which you're pleading guilty.

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And that your--you're entering this agreement freely and voluntarily; is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Paragraph 2 just reiterates what we just talked about; that this agreement--this plea agreement is the full agreement between you and the government.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Paragraph 3 says that you are satisfied with your defense counsel--Lieutenant Commander Serfess, Lieutenant Commander Morgan, and Lieutenant Commander Mihill--in all respects and you consider them qualified to represent you at this court-martial.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Is that still true?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Paragraph 4 says that you understand that you can withdraw from this agreement for any reason prior to acceptance of the plea agreement by the military judge. And I have not done so yet.

And you understand that you may also request to withdraw from the plea agreement after its acceptance but before the sentence is announced in this case if good cause is shown.

Do you understand the ways you can withdraw from this agreement?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Paragraph 5 discusses the ways in which the special trial counsel, the government, can withdraw from this agreement.

Do you have any questions about Paragraph 5?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Paragraph 6 talks about future misconduct. Paragraph 6 just discusses, you know, what would happen if you committed misconduct between the time, you signed this agreement and today.

I'm assuming that has not happened; otherwise, we might not be here.

Paragraph 6(b) and 6(c) talk about any future misconduct you might effect--you might commit and how it would affect this plea agreement.

Any questions about Paragraph 6 at all?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Paragraph 7 says that you understand if either side withdraws from this agreement, then your offer to plead guilty and enter into this agreement cannot be used against you in any way to prove whether or not you're guilty or not of the charges alleged against you in this court-martial or in determining an appropriate sentence except as outlined in Paragraph 8(i) below.

And we'll talk about Paragraph 8(i) in a few minutes.

But essentially, what this means is if for some reason I don't accept your plea agreement or you decide to reject the plea agreement or change your plea, then the fact that you had this colloquy with me this morning and admitted to a lot of the facts surrounding what you're pleading guilty to can't be used against you in a later contested court.

Does that make sense?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Except as we're gonna talk in Paragraph 8(i) below.

Paragraph 8 is titled "Agreements by the accused." And Paragraph 8(a) is just several pages of a chart that show how you're going to plead to each of the specifications alleged on the charge sheet. You have entered those pleas in accordance with Paragraph 8(a), so you have satisfied that. You entered the pleas as you indicated you would this morning.

And if you flip through to page 11, Paragraph 8(b) is--we talked about this earlier--you agreed to elect trial by military judge and to waive a trial with members, including enlisted members.

Do you remember we talked about that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And--and you've complied with that provision of the plea agreement?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Paragraph 8(c) says that you intend to request in presentencing, at government expense, the presence of your mother as a witness; and provided that the special trial counsel agrees to provide this witness, you wouldn't request production of any additional witnesses at government expense.

Government, has that happened?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So--so that provision has--the government has complied, so you've agreed not to then request any additional witnesses in sentencing.

Typically, at a court-martial, the defense can require the government to produce witnesses at government expense, even in sentencing. And you are agreeing to waive that provision here except for your mother, who is present.

And you agree that--that this provision does not interfere with your ability to present a case in extenuation and mitigation; and that if you have further material to present, you intend to use alternative means.

And the government and you agree not to object to the court receiving telephonic testimony in lieu of live testimony, and that this provision doesn't preclude objections based on the content of that testimony.

But, in other words, normally--normally in sentencing cases or in courts-martial, witnesses have to be present and live and--but you're agreeing that you--that I'm allowed to accept telephonic testimony or non-live testimony, and you're not--this provision of the plea agreement does not inhibit your ability to put on a case in sentencing and mitigation.

Does that--does that sound right?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You agree with that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Paragraph 8(d) is a--sort of an evidentiary paragraph. It says you and the government agree not to object to relevant service record documents, autopsy reports, command investigation materials, NCIS evidentiary materials, other statements offered in either extenuation and mitigation by you or offered by the government in aggravation, including written, audio or videotaped statements, or telephonic testimony of any crime victims or relevant witnesses offered by either party.

And you won't object to any of this evidence on the basis of foundation, hearsay, or lack of--lack of confrontation or authenticity. Those are evidentiary rules. And oftentimes, documentary evidence has to go through a level of procedure to be admitted into court.

You and the government are agreeing to not object on any of those bases. It doesn't affect your ability to object based on the contents of the documents, but only on their authenticity, lack of hearsay--lack of confrontation and hearsay.

Does that--did your counsel explain that to you?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And, again, you agree this doesn't inhibit your ability to put on a case in mitigation and extenuation.

Is that correct?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Paragraph 8(e) says you agree and are fully prepared to go to trial no later than 8 June 2026. Today is the 8th of June 2026, and we are here so you've complied with that.

Paragraph 8(f) says you agree to waive your--any administrative discharge board that might ensue based on your--your pleas here today.

Have you talked to your counsel about Paragraph 8(f); you have any questions about that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You do have questions about it?

ACC: Oh, no, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. You understand those provisions?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Paragraph 8(g) indicates that you understand by pleading guilty you waive all motions except those that are nonwaivable pursuant to Rule for Court-Martial 705(c)(1)(b) and those previously filed pursuant to Article 13, UCMJ, and R.C.M. 305(l). And you agree that the waiver is effective at the time the plea agreement is signed.

So, as I mentioned earlier, prior--prior to taking your plea, your counsel has filed several motions in this case. We've had three separate motions hearings where they've vigorously argued those motions. They submitted well-crafted arguments seeking relief for a whole host of things.

Your entry into this plea agreement waives all those motions. Now, even the ones I ruled against you on could still have been reviewed by an appellate court, but your waiver here prevents this court or any future court from granting relief that you might have received based on those motions.

Does that understand?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you understand that?

With--with the exception of any--any motions that are non-waivable and the Article 13 motion that you filed and that we argued in this court on Friday.

Do you remember that one?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: I will--that is still pending, and I will issue a ruling in that--on that motion prior to announcing sentence in this case.

Do you understand?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense counsel, is that your understanding of it? Is that--

DC: That is correct.

MJ: Okay.

Paragraph 8(h) says you--you and the government agree to enter into a stipulation of fact. You have done that, and I have admitted it into evidence as Prosecution Exhibit 1.

You--I've admitted Prosecution Exhibit 1 into evidence, so you--you have agreed to enter into a stipulation of fact.

Paragraph 8(i). This is the paragraph we talked about before. Paragraph 8(i) says if this agreement becomes void due to your actions, then you agree to the following waiver of your rights under M.R.E. 410.

And that is, the government may use the signed stipulation of fact as well as any information directly or indirectly delivered--derived from the signed stipulation of fact, one, in cross-examination if you were to testify in an administrative or criminal proceeding; and two, to rebut, directly or indirectly, any evidence or arguments, statements, or representations offered or elicited by you at a trial, sentencing, or any other criminal or administrative proceeding.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Normally, the protections of M.R.E. 410 prevent any of the evidence introduced here today, including evidence in the stipulation of fact, from being used against you should you not go forward with the plea--plea agreement.

But here you're indicating that should this plea agreement become null and void based on your actions, then that--this stipulation of fact you entered into may be used for those limited purposes that I just discussed.

Does that make sense?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Any questions about that?

ACC: No, sir.

MJ: Okay. Do both parties agree with my interpretation of that paragraph?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Paragraph 8(j). This says that you agree to meet with Ms. Esmerelda Castle, who is the Article 6b representative and the mother of CS3 A.R., after you're found guilty but before the presentencing begins.

So, the meeting will occur in Building A50 in Norfolk, so the building we're in. The only people that will be in attendance in this meeting will be the required brig staff, one of your attorneys, and Ms. Castle.

One member of the special trial counsel team may also be present, so either--either one of the counsel here.

The media will not be present.

Ms. Castle's attorney, Mr. Marshall Griffin, will not be present.

And you understand that you'll not be required to make any statement, comment, declaration nor answer any questions during this meeting.

So, do you understand that provision?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: So, what will happen is, once we get to the point where I accept your guilty plea and I--I enter findings, we'll take a break, and then you'll have the opportunity--or to fulfill Paragraph 8(j) of this agreement.

And then once that is completed--we'll probably break for lunch as well--and then we'll come back on the record and begin the presentencing procedures.

So, you understand and agree to this term?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You under--you understand and agree you don't have to make any statement, comment, declaration; you don't have to answer any questions during the meeting.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

Both parties agree with my summation--my interpretation of Paragraph 8(i)?

ATC: Yes, sir.

MJ: I'm sorry, 8(j).

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

Paragraph 9 are agreements by the special trial counsel. So, in exchange for the agreements that--that you have made, Petty Officer Copeland, special trial counsel or the government and the convening authority agree to do the following:

The special--Paragraph 9(a) says the special trial counsel agrees to withdraw the language, charges, and specifications to which you have pleaded not guilty in return for your pleas of guilty and following the military judge's acceptance of your pleas set forth above.

Special trial counsel then agrees that after the announcement of the sentence, the mil--the military judge will--will--the withdrawn charges and specifications will be dismissed without prejudice, to ripen into prejudice upon completion of appellate review in which the findings and sentence have been upheld.

So, what that means is you pled guilty to--to several offenses this morning. You pled not guilty to several other offenses.

Once I accept your plea, the government will withdraw the charges to which you pled not guilty for. Those charges will no longer be before the court. And then after I announce sentence in this case, those withdrawn charges that are no longer before the court, will be dismissed by the government.

Now that dismissal is without prejudice, which means if--if for some reason the--the--the plea falls apart, they can still--or if an appellate court were to overturn this plea agreement and overturn your sentence, then the government would be free to--to charge you with all the charges again.

Once the findings--if the findings are upheld on appeal and the sentence is upheld on appeal, then those charges that you pled not guilty to would be dismissed with prejudice; meaning, they're gone forever and the United States can never prosecute you for those.

Do you understand that term of your agreement?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you agree to that term?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

And, again, both parties agree with my interpretation of Paragraph 9(a)?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: All right. Paragraph 10 deals with sentence limitations.

So, the parties agree that the military judge may only sentence you as follows:

Paragraph 10(a) says a punitive discharge. It says a dishonorable discharge shall be adjudged, so I--so I will--if I accept your plea and after we get through sentencing, I will award you a dishonorable discharge.

Paragraph 10(b) says confinement shall be adjudged as set forth in the table below, Table A. We'll talk about that in a second.

Paragraph 10(c) says forfeitures; total forfeitures shall be adjudged. I'm required to adjudge total forfeitures.

Paragraph (d) says no fine shall be adjudged.

Paragraph 10(e) says reduction to E-1 shall be adjudged, so I will reduce you to the lowest enlisted pay grade.

And then Paragraph 10(f) says no other lawful punishments will be adjudged.

Table A is--is below and it--it deals with the confinement that this court must adjudge based on each specification to which you're pleading guilty to.

So, for the Sole Specification of Charge II, this court is required to sentence you to a minimum of 6 months and to a maximum of 36 months. That sentence is to run concurrent with all the other sentence--all the other periods of confinement that I must adjudge.

For the specification under Charge III, I'm required to sentence you to a minimum of 1 month confinement and a maximum of 3 months confinement. And, again, that confinement is to be served concurrently with all the other confinement to be adjudged.

Specification 1 of Charge IV, I must sentence you to 1 month confinement--at least 1 month confinement but no more than 36 months confinement. And, again, that specification--the confinement for that specification must be run concurrent with all the other--all the other confinement.

For Specification 2 of Charge IV, I must sentence you between 1 month and 36 months. And the confinement for this sentence will run consecutively with the confinement for Specification 1 of Charge VI and the lesser included offense of the Sole Specification of Charge VII.

Specification 1 of Charge VI requires that I sentence you to 1 month confinement--between 1 month confinement and 36 months confinement, and it too will run consecutively with--with the LIO of Charge VII and with Specification 2 of Charge IV.

And then finally, for the LIO of the Sole Specification of--and when I say "LIO," I'm saying--I'm meaning lesser included offense of the Sole Specification of Charge VII. I am required to sentence you to 480 months confinement. The minimum is 480 months; the maximum is 480 months. So, I must sentence you and I will sentence you to 480 months confinement for that specification.

That--that period of confinement is to run consecutively with the two I just mentioned, which are Specification 1 of Charge VI and Specification 2 of Charge IV.

So that the total confinement this court may award is between 482 months and 552 months.

Do you understand the provisions of the sentencing limitations?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And do you agree to those sentencing--sentencing limitations?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Finally, in Paragraph 11 are just some notifications that you've been made aware of.

Paragraph 11(a) says your defense counsel advised you that your pleas of guilty to the charges and specifications preclude you from ownership, receipt, and transport of firearms and ammunition transported in interstate commerce under 18 U.S.C. Section 922(g).

Does that make sense? Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Paragraph 10(b)[sic] says your defense counsel's advised you if a punitive discharge is adjudged--and, again, I am required to award you a dishonorable discharge which is a punitive discharge.

If ultimately approved in your case, that dishonorable discharge would severely affect your ability to receive veterans benefits or other benefits that may accrue as a result of military service.

Do you understand and agree to that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Paragraph 11(c) says that--that you may be placed on appellate leave under the provision of 10 U.S.C. 876 if the sentence as approved includes an unsuspended punitive discharge.

Do you understand Paragraph 11(c)? Any questions about that?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. No questions.

Okay. Paragraph 11(c)--I'm sorry--11(d) discusses the punitive effect that you may receive if you were to receive an administrative discharge.

Again, this court's required to approve a dishonorable discharge; but if for some reason that is not approved and you are administratively separated from the Navy, you understand that there are some adverse consequences to that as well?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And that's in paragraph--any questions about Paragraph 11(d).

ACC: No, sir.

MJ: And finally, Paragraph 11(e) says your defense counsel's advised you that as a result of your pleas, you may be required to register as a sex offender in any state in which you're domiciled.

You've reviewed DoD Instruction 1325.07 with your counsel, and you understand entering a plea of guilty to an offense requiring sex offender registration processing within the meaning of Appendix IV to that--in Enclosure (2) of that instruction.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And your counsel's further advised you that in accordance with 42 U.S.C. 1407--14071(d), that information on the offender registry is accessible to the public.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You agree to that term?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. If I accept your plea agreement, the court and the parties, to include you, will be bound by the terms of the agreement to include imposing a sentence that complies with the limitations contained in the agreement.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Have you had enough time to discuss this agreement with your defense counsel?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You have had enough time to discuss this with your defense counsel?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Are you satisfied with your defense counsel's advice concerning this plea agreement?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Did you enter the agreement of your own free will?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Has anyone tried to force you or threatened to make this--or threatened you to make this plea agreement?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any questions about your plea agreement?

ACC: No, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you fully understand all the terms of the plea agreement and how they affect your case?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Are you pleading guilty not only because you hope to receive the benefit of your plea agreement--not only because you hope to receive the benefit of your plea agreement but also because you are convinced that you are in fact guilty of the offenses to which you pled guilty?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do counsel for both sides agree with the court's interpretation of the plea agreement?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: The plea agreement is accepted.

Defense counsel, have you had enough time and opportunity to discuss this case with Petty Officer Copeland?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, have you had enough time and opportunity to discuss this case with your defense counsel?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Have you consulted fully with your defense counsel and received the full benefit of your counsel's advice?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Are you satisfied with your defense counsel's advice--are you satisfied that your defense counsel's advice is in your best interest?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Are you satisfied with your defense counsel?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Are you pleading guilty voluntarily and of your own free will?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Has anyone made any threat or tried in any way to force you to plead guilty?

ACC: No, sir.

MJ: Do you have any questions as to the meaning and effect of your plea of guilty?

ACC: No, sir.

MJ: Do you fully understand the meaning and effect of your guilty plea?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Do you understand that even though you believe you are guilty, you have the legal right to plead not guilty and to place upon the government the burden of proving your guilt beyond a reasonable doubt?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Defense counsel, you did advise the accused about sex offender reporting and registration?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Is that--any separate document documenting that or is that just the plea agreement?

DC: Just the plea agreement, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

And the same is true of--

DC: Firearms?

MJ: --firearms and ammunition restrictions?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Just documented in the plea agreement.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, are you a citizen of the United States?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Petty Officer Copeland, I want you to take a moment now and consult with your defense counsel and tell me whether you still want to plead guilty.

[The accused did as directed.]

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: You still want to plead guilty?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, I find your plea of guilty is made voluntarily and with full knowledge of its meaning and effect.

Further, I find that you have knowingly, intelligently, and consciously waived your rights against self-incrimination, to a trial of the facts by a court-martial, and to be confronted by the witnesses against you.

Accordingly, your plea of guilty is provident and is accepted. However, I advise you that may--you may request to withdraw your plea of guilty at any time before the sentence is announced; and if you have good reason for your request, I will grant it.

Trial counsel, what's the government's intention with regards to the offenses to which the accused has pleaded not guilty?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

To the offenses to which the accused has pleaded not guilty, special trial counsel will withdraw those charges and specifications, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Accused and defense counsel, please rise.

[The accused and his counsel did as directed.]

MJ: CS3 Jermiah T. Copeland, in accordance with your pleas of guilty, this court finds you:

| | |
|---|---|
| Of Specification 1 of Charge II and of Charge II: | Guilty; |
| Of Specification 1 of Charge III and of Charge III: | Guilty; |
| Of Specifications 1 and 2 of Charge IV and of Charge IV: | Guilty; |
| Of Specification 1 of Charge VI and of Charge VI: | Guilty; |
| And to the LIO of the Sole Specification--to the lesser included offense of the Sole Specification of Charge VII and to Charge VII: | Guilty. |

You may be seated.

[The accused and his counsel did as directed.]

MJ: Okay. At this time, before we enter into presentencing hearing, the court's gonna recess and give time to comply with the term of the plea agreement allowing Ms. Castle an opportunity to speak with Petty Officer Copeland.

And to do that, once I recess, I'm gonna ask the courtroom to be vacated and the bailiff is gonna post outside of the courtroom. We're gonna turn off the--the feed in here so the camera's blocked off.

So, this is probably also a good time to make sure the accused gets lunch. So, parties--so, counsel, how much time do we want?

TC: 1230, Your Honor?

MJ: Defense counsel?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, with that, court's in recess until 1230.

[The court-martial recessed at 1055, 8 June 2026.]

[The court-martial was called to order at 1242, 8 June 2026.]

MJ: This court-martial's once again called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

Petty Officer Copeland, we now enter the sentencing phase of the trial, where you have the right to present matters in extenuation and mitigation; that is, matters about yourself or the offenses which you want me to consider in deciding your sentence.

In addition to testimony of witnesses and the offering of documentary evidence, you may testify under oath as to these matters or you may remain silent; in which case, I will not draw any adverse inference from your silence.

On the other hand, if you desire, you may make an unsworn statement. Because the statement is unsworn, you cannot be cross-examined on it; however, the government may offer evidence to rebut any statement of fact contained in an unsworn statement.

An unsworn statement may be made orally, in writing, or both. It may be made by you, by your counsel on your behalf, or by both.

Do you understand these rights?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Counsel, is the personal data on the front page of the charge sheet correct?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay.

Defense counsel, as we have discussed, you have alleged that the accused has been punished in a way that would constitute illegal pretrial punishment under Article 13, and this court will rule on that motion prior to announcing sentence.

Counsel, based on the information on the charge sheet, the accused will receive 364 days of confinement credit if we--if I announce sentence today; is that correct?

TC: That's correct, Your Honor.

MJ: Obviously, if we extend into tomorrow, it will be 365 days confinement credit, agree?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Any crime victim who is present at this presentencing proceeding has the right to be reasonably heard, including the right to make a sworn statement, unsworn statement, or both. A crime victim may exercise this right following the government's opportunity to present evidence.

Trial counsel, do you have any other evidence to present at this time?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

The government offers PE Exhibits 1 through 41 for identification and request the words "for identification" be stricken and be admitted into evidence.

MJ: Very well.

And the trial counsel's previously provided those to the court.

Defense counsel, any objection to Prosecution Exhibits 1 through--I'm sorry, 2 through 41?

TC: Two through--yes, Your Honor.

MJ: 2 through 41 for identification?

DC: Yes, Your Honor, just PE-6.

MJ: PE-6. And what is the objection?

DC: The objection is, is that in PE-6, it's a statement from CSSN S.S. and there are things in the statement that are not related to the offenses for which Seaman Copeland--or CS3 Copeland has been convicted.

MJ: Trial counsel, do you want to--

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

To the extent that that prosecution exhibit does reference something the--that the accused has pled not guilty to we ask that you just disregard.

MJ: Okay. So, what I will do is I will sustain that objection. But rather than have you redact the document or remark it, I will exclude, from my consideration, anything in that statement that does not have to do with the offense to which the accused has pled guilty.

Do the parties understand my ruling?

So, the objection's sustained, and I'll just not consider that information that doesn't pertain to the offense charged--the offense that he pled guilty to.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Any further objections, defense counsel?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Prosecution Exhibits 2 through 41, with the exception of that language in Prosecution Exhibit 6 we just talked about, are admitted into evidence, and the words "for ID" are stricken.

Trial counsel, anything further?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

The--the government has several witnesses that we'd like to call. We'd first like to call CS3 Gladis Garcia-Barrera.

MJ: Very well.

CULINARY SPECIALIST PETTY OFFICER THIRD CLASS GLADIS GARCIA-BARRERA, U.S. Navy, was called as a witness by the government, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the trial counsel:

Q. CS3, can you please state your full name for the record and spell your last name?

A. My name is Gladis Garcia-Barrera.

Q. And can you spell your last name for me?

A. G-A-R-C-I-A-B-A-R-R-E-R-A.

Q. And what is your current duty station?

A. James E. Williams.

Q. And how long have you been on the James E. Williams?

A. I've been on the James E. Williams since July of 2023.

Q. And what do you do on the James E. Williams?

A. I'm a CS. Right now, my job consists of being the GOD

Q. Okay. And tell us a little more about that--that position.

A. I'm in a dry storeroom, organizing both the dry--the dry and reefer.

Q. Okay. And did you know CS3 Angelina Resendiz?

A. I did.

Q. Okay. And--and tell the court how you knew her.

A. We both worked on the same team. I don't know where to start.

Q. Okay. Well tell us a little bit about working on that team with Petty Officer Resendiz.

A. We always got things done. We were always ahead of the game. She always offered to help me if I needed help.

Q. And how--how long did you know her?

A. When I got back from being TAD, I room--we talked most just like--probably like--like four or five months.

Q. Okay. And you mentioned a little bit about her as--as a coworker; she was always willing to help out. Tell--tell us more about that.

A. She's really friendly. She loves to make friends. If she sees something that's wrong, she would ask what's wrong.

Q. Okay. And was--did she contribute at all to the work center? Can you tell us a little bit about that if she did?

A. She did. At the time we were both cook on watch. I'm not sure what--what to say.

Q. Okay. Were there any--any qualities about her that--that you can remember that you think would be important for the judge to know about her?

A. Work related or--

Q. Let's start with work related.

A. Hard working. She never missed a day. She always--she was always at work on time.

Q. And what about her as a friend?

A. Really kind. She like--I don't know how to explain it, but she--I'm just nervous.

Q. I understand. It's okay.

Was there anything--let me--let me--let's draw your attention someplace else then. So, let's talk a little bit about May 28th of 2025. Do you remember that day?

A. I do remember that day. We were both off-going. We took an Uber to go to Target. We shopped around, did some grocery shopping. We bought mats, a water bottle. We were both starting to work out together; motivating each other to do better.

After that, we both went home. She went to her PPV. I went to mine. We still communicated. I made sure she got home safe.

Q. Okay. I'm gonna step back. So, what was--what was Petty Officer Resendiz's mood like when you-all went to Target?

A. She was really happy. She was excited.

Q. How did you know she was happy?

A. We took pictures. She was smiling.

Q. And did she have any plans for that day?

A. She did. So, at work, she--they made--she made plans to go to a friend's house to make tacos. And that friend, he's here.

Q. Okay. And before we talk about going to the friend's house to make tacos, you said she made a lot of purchases at Target.

A. Um-hmm.

Q. What were some of those purchases?

A. A mat, dumbbells, food, like tomatoes, cilantro, ground beef, milk.

Q. Do you know what she was gonna do with that mat and those dumbbells?

A. We were both going to work out.

Q. Why were you guys interested in working out?

A. We just liked having a healthy lifestyle. We helped each other.

Q. Okay. So, after you all left Target, you said that she was going to a friend's house to make tacos. Do you know whose house that was?

A. Copeland's barracks.

Q. And when she went to Copeland's barracks, did the two of you stay in communication--you and--

A. We did.

Q. --Petty Officer Resendiz?

And did you--how--how did you keep in communication?

A. Through Instagram and through messages.

Q. Okay.

A. Text messages.

Q. And did you provide those messages and text messages to--to the government--to me?

A. I did.

Q. Okay. And did you have an opportunity to review Prosecution Exhibit 17 prior to testifying?

A. I did.

Q. And were those the text messages that we're talking about?

A. Mhmm.

Q. Okay. So, at some point that conversation between you and Petty Officer Resendiz, it--it stopped; is that correct?

A. [No audible response].

Q. Do you remember about what time that was?

A. The last text message she sent me--I do not remember the time, but she sent me a TikTok and on Instagram we stopped talking around 9-ish.

Q. And was that the last time you heard from her?

A. I did.

Q. Okay. Now, at some point you became aware that folks weren't able to get in touch with Petty Officer Resendiz; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Tell me a little bit about that.

A. That was the next morning. After I had woken up, I got three separate calls and messages asking where she was at. At the time I was--my brain was a little foggy because I couldn't remember, but then--oh, then she probably went to sleep. And they're like, it's not like her to just go to sleep and not answer her phone messages. That's when it clicked, she was at her friend's house.

Q. Okay. And how did that make you feel that you weren't able to get in touch with your friend?

A. It made me feel sad. They didn't have any answers. It's not like her to answer none of us.

Q. And did that feeling continue over the next ten days or so?

A. It did.

Q. Okay. Tell me about that.

A. We were worried some. We just didn't know what happened. At the time we were both worried both of them because they were both missing and it was--it's not like her to miss work. And I just had a lot of questions--unanswered questions. There was a lot of talking.

Q. Did it make you feel anxious at all?

A. It did.

Q. Were you--were you sad?

A. I was very sad.

Q. Did it have any effect on your work center that Petty Officer Resendiz was missing?

A. Yeah, it did.

Q. Can you explain how?

A. I was pretty uneasy. I couldn't focus. I was--I just wanted her there.

Q. At--at some point did you become aware that her body had been recovered?

A. I did. I was looking at the news outlets and they popped up; no name or nothing, but it--it must have been her.

Q. Can you describe how you were feeling when you heard the news that her body had been discovered?

A. I couldn't sleep. I stayed up all night just talking to my mom, looking for answers.

Q. Do you still feel the effects of the loss of your friend?

A. I do.

Q. How so?

A. It's--it's a reminder that she's not here. Every time I go into work, I always sense something's missing and it's her.

Q. Has it affected your thoughts about staying in the Navy, if at all?

A. It has.

Q. How so?

A. It makes me realize that none of us are safe. A lot of things are swept under the rug.

Q. Has it affected your ability to trust your shipmates in any way?

A. It has.

Q. How so?

A. I don't want to meet new people. I just want to keep my circle small.

Q. Is there anything else that you'd like the military judge to know about your friend Petty Officer Resendiz?

A. I can't think of anything right now. Sorry.

TC: It's all right. Thank you.

Your Honor, I have no further questions.

But you can still stay there.

MJ: Defense counsel, any questions--any cross-examination?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Subject to recall?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Thank you very much for your testimony. You're permanently excused.

[The witness was excused and withdrew from the witness stand.]

MJ: Trial counsel?

TC: Your Honor, the government calls Mr. Daniel Rich.

MJ: Very well.

DANIEL RICH, a civilian, was called as a witness by the government, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant trial counsel:

Q. Mr. Rich, can you state your name for the record and spell your last name?

A. First name Daniel; last name Rich. Last--last name is R-I-C-H.

Q. And are--are you currently on active duty?

A. No, sir.

Q. Where do you currently reside?

A. I currently reside in Long Island, New York.

Q. And what is your current occupation?

A. I'm currently searching for an occupation.

Q. Okay. You mentioned that you are currently searching for an occupation. Were you previously active duty?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long ago did you get out?

A. The 2nd of this month was the final day according to my DD 214.

Q. Okay. How long were you in the Navy?

A. Three years, ten months.

Q. And what did you do while you were in the Navy?

A. I was an electronics technician.

Q. Where were you stationed?

A. So, my--I was stationed on DDG-95, the James E. Williams. I was then sent TAD to ESB-4, and then ultimately sent LIMDU to the Norfolk Naval Shipyard.

Q. Thank you.

In your time on the James E. Williams and here in Norfolk, did you know CS3 A.R.?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you meet her?

A. So, upon returning from deployment--sorry.

Q. Take your time.

A. Deployment with ESB-4, my division had sent me cranking and that's where I was set on the team with--with A.R.

Q. What were your first impressions of her?

A. She's like a pocket full of sunshine. The--we were in the yards, period, so we were--we'd sleep on the barge. The kitchen--the--the galley was on the barge. It was so gloomy. And then you walk--you walk--just you see her and everything lights up.

Q. What--what time period was that when you met her? I know you said you were in the yards. When was that?

A. I want to say September, I believe, '24.

Q. Okay. So, starting September '24, how did things progress between you and her after that?

A. It was really good. It was--Angie's the person that you'll meet and right away--it doesn't matter who you are, what you do, where you're from, like that. Best friends.

Q. What kinds of things, you know, would you do with Angie?

A. So, I would--so while--while cranking specifically, I would often go to the deep sink. She would help me out there. At one point--at one point--sorry--they put me in charge of dealing with the--the officer's mess, and she would help me over there as well.

Q. Did you guys ever hang out outside of work?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what capacity was that; what'd you guys do?

A. So, she didn't have a vehicle and that's--that's how we really started talking. We would go to--we would go to cafes; cafe hop is the--the term. We'd go on cruises. She loved exploring different places. Distance didn't matter. If she wanted to go, we were going.

Q. Okay. Did you guys ever become romantically involved?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did that happen?

A. I forget the--about--about two months into me cranking.

Q. Okay. So, end of 2024. How long did you guys date?

A. About a year.

Q. Okay. I want to talk about your relationship in May of 2025. What was going on then?

A. May of 2025. Earlier in the week or mid--sorry--midmonth we had got into an argument. We decided to slow down, become friends--sorry--become friends, and try and potentially rebuild and get to--get back to the fun.

And--I'm sorry. Yes, that--that was it.

Q. Okay. So, were you in a relationship with her on May 29th, 2025?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Can you talk to me a little bit about that day? What--what happened that morning?

A. So, I woke up. I woke up at 2:14 in the morning to Angie calling me. I didn't notice at the time, but a lot of other people had reached out to me too. I believe Garcia, Gillespie--a bunch of people and--and I took it as a sign from God that I woke up to Angie's call.

Angie called me. She was freaking out; crying, yelling, and she was begging for me to pick her up, begging for me to pick her up.

The phone was then passed to someone, a male. I--I don't know who. I couldn't identify the voice. They asked how far I was, where I was coming from, and how long I would take. I told him--I told him 14 minutes. I'm 14 minutes away. I'm going now. And I got to base in about ten.

Q. Okay. What was going through your mind when you got that call?

A. Why is Angie screaming and crying at 2:14 in the morning? Like, this--this isn't--this isn't normal for her. It's not normal for anyone.

Q. How did you know where she was?

A. I had her location on the Find My iPhone app.

Q. Okay. So, what did you do after you hung up the phone call?

A. I changed; I literally actually left in--I--I--sorry. I changed. I jumped in my car. I got there. I got through the gate. I went to her location, which was I believe X72 building. It's the building that's right across the street from here.

Her location was pinging outside the building. On call, I told her to relax and to go outside, so I didn't think anything of it. I didn't see her. I didn't see anyone outside.

And then I went into the building. I spoke to the people at the front desk; asked if they've seen a little--a little Hispanic girl. I showed them photos, and they said--they said they didn't see her.

Q. What was going through your mind at that point?

A. Where is Angie?

Q. How were you feeling?

A. Stressed. I was--I had a million thoughts going through my head.

Q. How long were you at the barracks looking for her?

A. Until I believe 9:00, 9:30 that morning.

Q. What happened at that point?

A. I was called back in by my CSO.

Q. And when you were looking for her, what kinds of things were you doing?

A. So, well for--so--. So, I spoke to the front desk. I then--the front desk recommended I talk to the base precinct, the police. I got in contact with them. I wrote a character--I wrote a witness statement, and MAs followed me back to the barracks. We couldn't find her; couldn't find anything.

And then driving back and forth between the building, her barracks, checking random--random sideroads, trails because she likes to walk, and we--we couldn't find her.

Q. Were you trying to call her still and text her?

A. Yes. Yes, sir.

Q. What was happening with that?

A. It just--no one was answering. It would ring and then go to voice mail.

Q. And this whole time where was her location showing?

A. It was still pinging outside the front of the building, sir.

Q. Okay. So, you got called back into work. What happened after that?

A. Well, I was worrying the whole day. I was stressing out. And then--just--just stressing out that whole day. And left work--my chief let me leave a little early as well.

I went home. On my way home, while driving, in my peripherals, I--I swear I see her. I swear I see her and--and obviously--obviously, it wasn't her. But just--just stressed out looking for her.

Got home. I would--I drove the--the oceanfront from Ocean View to all the way down the boardwalk in Virginia Beach looking for her. The--the random cafes that I mentioned earlier; going there and that--I'm sorry.

Q. What kinds of things were you doing in the--driving around. Were you--were you searching for her in other places?

A. Yes. Different parks or playgrounds she would go to, especially to--to--yeah, she would--she would--she liked--like I said, she enjoyed walking and those are the places--those were like the little landmarks she'd stop at.

Q. What were you thinking had happened at that time?

A. I--I honestly had no idea. I thought it could have been just that someone--someone took her. It was--it was said earlier that she was dropped off home, so I figured maybe someone--someone on base picked her up and just we couldn't find her.

Q. And as time went on, how--how are you starting to feel about things?

A. I started getting more and more depressed. I mentioned it to my sister, because my sister and Angie were also very close. And she was also as--equally as worried.

Q. How did it feel the day that Angie's body was recovered?

A. The day that she was recovered, I believe that's the day that the chaplain came to the ship while we're on the barge while we were there. It was a all-hands call. No heads-up, no warning. It got quiet. The chaplain walked in. I don't--I don't think I've seen so many people cry for one person.

Q. What--how did you feel at that time?

A. I felt like I failed. I felt like I--I should have been faster. I should have--ultimately, I felt horrible, but...

Q. Yeah.

It's now been about a year since her remains were found. How are you doing?

A. I'm still--I'm still struggling with the loss of Angie. I've always been--I've always been sad about Memorial Day. It's always been a holiday that I understand, military members, we honor the--them for their sacrifice. This was the first one that I really had a close connection with someone that was taken from us.

Q. How did that feel?

A. It hurt.

Q. And you said earlier, you know, that you had departed the Navy. Did this situation have anything to do with that decision?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How so?

A. I was medically--medically retired due to the symptoms and conditions that happened or just the--I--I ended up receiving from what happened.

Q. What do you miss the most about Angie?

A. Angie--Angie was so loveable. But when you got really close to her, she'd give you little bits of attitude. I miss her little--her little spark-ups.

Q. And, you know, before I--I go take another seat, is there anything you'd like the judge to know about your friend?

A. No, sir.

TC: Okay. Thank you, ET3. The defense and the military judge may have some questions for you.

MJ: Hold on one second.

Any questions?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, questions, Your Honor.

MJ: All right. Mr. Rich, thank you very much for your testimony. You're permanently excused from--subject to recall, counsel?

ATC: No, sir.

MJ: You're permanently excused. Please don't discuss your testimony with anyone else, but you can return to the galley. Thank you very much.

WIT: Thank you, Your Honor.

[The witness was warned, excused, and withdrew from the witness stand.]

ATC: Sir, the government calls HT3 Michal Gillespie.

MJ: Very well.

HULL MAINTENANCE TECHNICIAN PETTY OFFICER THIRD CLASS MICHAL GILLESPIE, U.S. Navy, was called as a witness by the government, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant trial counsel:

Q. Could you state and spell your last name for the record?

A. My name is HT3 Michal Gillespie. Last name is G--excuse me. G-I-L-L-E-S-P-I-E.

Q. And what is your rank and military service?

A. I'm an E-4, petty officer third class.

What was the--

Q. What service are you in?

A. I'm in the United States Navy.

TC: I appreciate that.

MJ: Petty Officer Gillespie, can you just move the mic a little closer to you?

Thank you.

Questions by the assistant trial counsel:

Q. And where are you currently stationed?

A. I'm stationed on the DDG-95, the James E. Williams.

Q. And what do you do on the James E. Williams?

A. I'm a hull technician; primarily dealing with pipefitting and metal fabricating, welding, and brazing--things of that sort.

Q. And when did you start there?

A. I've been in for about five years now; got into the boat around May of '23.

Q. Okay. And you've been on that boat pretty much the whole time?

A. [No audible response].

Q. Okay. Did you know CS3 Angelina Resendiz?

A. I did.

Q. How did you--how did you know her?

A. We started off as friends for a little while. We were romantically engaged for about six months starting--I want to say the beginning of the year in '25--somewhere around there.

Q. Okay.

A. It's a lot of--a lot of stuff in my head at the moment.

Q. That's okay.

What were your first impressions of Angie when you met her?

A. Honestly, she was a little scary but in like that friendly type way, if that makes sense.

Once I actually, like, started talking to her and everything like that, we got to know each other. I found out--like, our journey started through anime. Like, I saw her sitting on the mess decks watching something, and it was a show that I had watched previously. And I just asked her what her take was on it, and she had told me that she was kind of new to the scene. So, I gave her a little list of things, and then that's kind of how we just started keeping in touch.

Then it got to the point to where we would go out to the movies every weekend. I would--she had lived on board at the time and didn't have a car, so I would come and pick her up. We would go out to the movies on the weekend or just have some sort of, you know, day out.

Q. What was she like as a person?

A. Honestly, it's, like, beyond description for me. I've never met anyone with the caring attitude that she had. It could be a paper cut, and she will bandage you up like a nurse, like, instantly. She wouldn't give you--she--she doesn't want to hear, oh, it's fine, I just need a band--no. Like, she's--she's gonna put everything you need on it; disinfectant--everything. Like, nobody could care as much as she could.

Q. What was your relationship like with her in May of 2025?

A. It was--it was--I mean, it--it was--it was almost the same as it was from the beginning. I mean, we had our quarrels here and there. I mean, after we had parted ways, we were still friends. We were still seeing each other every day. We still talked. We still hung out outside of work. Like, nothing had changed other than the title.

Q. Um-hmm.

A. And--obvious. But other than that, it was literally nothing.

Q. Did you--sorry about that. I didn't mean to cut you off.

A. You're good.

Q. Did you talk to her at all on May 28th, 2025?

A. That morning at work, we had a little disagreement about a motorcycle helmet. I was just asking for the helmet back so I could take care of it the way it's supposed to be, cleaning it and all.

She kind of didn't want to give it back so I just kind of dropped it at that. We had our exchange of words, but I dropped it after that, and it was fine.

In fact, the same day, once she got back from Target, she had called me and we had a great conversation. She was excited to tell me about everything she bought, her plans to work out like with the yoga mat and everything. She had a video of everything that she had took in her room; how she had it set up and everything like that. Like, it's--we were on good terms as always. Nothing ever came between us.

We would have maybe a ten-minute disagreement and it wouldn't even get to the point of us yelling. It would literally be like, no, I kind of want this and, no, I want that. And then we would just agree and it'd be that.

Q. Did you guys talk again later that day?

A. After she had called me and told me about her trip to Target and everything, we didn't have any contact until later on because I was on watch on the ship. I didn't have phone service.

During my watch, I'd say at around 1:30-ish is when I got the text message and then that's when everything immediately just lit up into my head.

Q. What was that text message?

A. She had text me "fuck you"--excuse my language--but that's just something that never at all has been said between the two of us especially with no context--like, context behind it.

Like, yeah, we'll jokingly play around and call each other like M-F and stuff like that. You know, just playing around. But nothing--nothing with no context out of nowhere at like one-something in the morning. Like, that's never, never been a thing.

Q. How did it make you feel when you got that text?

A. At first, I was a little confused and I--like, in a way, I was like maybe she's drinking because, like, I know her. She--she says things sometimes. She'll just go off, you know? Not nothing crazy, not nothing like that.

But, at first, I was like, maybe, you know, she was drinking and she's probably thinking about the conversation we had about the helmet and everything and maybe she was upset about that. But once I sent like that third message and I called like the fourth time, I--like, it didn't matter how mad she was at you. You call twice, she might ignore the first one but she's gonna pick up the second one.

And it--I called more than I could count. I text more than I can imagine. There was nothing. And this was in the span of maybe 30 minutes I'm, like, continuously texting and calling. I'm supposed to be on watch at the time, but I'm, like, genuinely concerned. And, like, I'm not getting any sort of, I'm okay, I'll talk to you later or just nothing. Just literally nothing. And then--excuse me.

Q. It's okay.

A. Once I got off watch, I had still got no reply. And at this time, it was maybe around like 3:30-ish. And at the time I'm, like, maybe 20 minutes away from where her location is pinging at, which was the same with--that was mentioned earlier.

Yeah. So, once I got off watch and I had no reply, I just chopped it up and got in my car and went straight to where her last location was showing, which was across the street--the building across the street.

Like he had mentioned before, it was pinging outside. When I first got there, I was looking around just to see if I could see her standing there, anything like that. I didn't see her.

So, I went inside and I asked the same people, and they were like, oh, somebody just came asking about the same thing. And then that's kind of when I put two and two together, and I reached out to Rich, and we had started looking together.

Steady calling, steady looking through the parking lot. I've looked in everyone's car. Like, shining flashlights through the window, seeing if maybe she's sitting in there. Just anything. There was nothing.

Yeah. I mean, all through the night, we were just looking all through base, off of base. I was on my bike going through the back roads, literally looking through, like, playgrounds and stuff that were nearby just seeing if I could just catch a glimpse of her walking somewhere or just sitting on a bench or something.

Q. How long were you looking for her?

A. From the moment I left--from the moment I got there all the way up until the next day, probably around nine--because around 8:30 I had a dental appointment. So, I went to my dental appointment and immediately after that, went right back to looking.

I looked until I was forced to come back to the ship. I was called in. And even after that, once I got off work, I went right back to it. I probably searched by myself for about two-and-a-half days. And--yeah.

Q. How did that feel after two-and-a-half days of searching?

A. I didn't really know what to think. It's like part of me kind of--kind of knew, but then again, it was just denial in it and just hoping not. Yeah.

Q. So, in--in those 12 days between when you got that text and her body was recovered, what was going through your mind?

A. Well, I was confused at the fact that, you know, going to work, she's still not there. And then he'd been missing along with her. At that point, especially like the next day, once I find out that he wasn't there as well and that both of them were missing--it was about three days that both of them were gone.

And then once he showed up and she wasn't there, that's when I kind of started putting things together. And I'm not one to assume or accuse, but I kind of asked like, hey, you know, is--is there any idea, like, of what happened that night or anything like that. I was told that, you know, he dropped her off. I was like okay.

I was still very confused, and I was also told that she was seen the day after. After my appointment, I was told that she was seen and okay. So, I kind of calmed down a little bit, but I'm still noticing that she's not at work. So, I'm still very confused, stressed, concerned. It was--it was a lot.

Q. Did you--so fast-forward then to the--to the 9th of June when her body was found--her remains were found, sorry, how--how did that feel?

A. Devastating. I didn't know what to think, what to do. Honestly, I just--I didn't want to be at work and I just--I don't know. It was--it was a lot. A lot.

Q. And it's been about a year now, obviously, since then. How are you doing?

A. A little better than before but not much has changed as far as the impact and just how I feel is very--it's very unbelievable. It's--like, my mind's in a state of, like, disbelief although I know it to be true, and it's like a constant battle. Like every now and then, like, I'll hear my phone go off sometimes and I'll still kind of check it and hope to see it's her. And it's just--it's just a habit. After you develop a routine with someone, it's just hard to forget that.

Q. Um-hmm.

A. You know?

Q. Yeah.

Has this impacted your career aspirations at all?

A. 100 percent.

Q. How so?

A. I'm--I don't plan on reenlisting. I--I really don't.

Q. Yeah.

A. There's been--along with this and a few other things unrelated, it's just made up my mind that I--I just--it's not worth it. Not for me.

Q. Yeah.

How has her loss impacted you the most, do you think?

A. It's been--it's definitely been like a--a huge mental fall on me because she was really--she was more than just a friend to me, more than just a lover, more than--like, it was genuinely something that like--it was somebody I've never seen before. It was a feeling that I've never felt before. It was a genuine person that I know that if I needed anything she would be there.

Q. Yeah.

A. And it's really hard to know that I've lost that.

Q. Yes.

A. And it's kind of hard to upset--like, upset--accept. Sorry.

Q. And just one moment, Your Honor.

Is there anything else before I sit down that you'd like the judge to know about your friend?

A. Not that I've--not that I've already said.

TC: Okay. Thank you, HT3. Just like everyone else said, the defense or the military judge may have additional questions for you. Thank you.

MJ: Defense counsel, cross-examination?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Is Petty Officer Gillespie subject to recall?

TC: No, sir.

MJ: All right. Petty Officer Gillespie, thank you for your testimony. You are permanently excused from participation in this court-martial. While the court-martial continues, please don't discuss your testimony with anyone except for the counsel involved, but you may return to the gallery. Thank you very much.

WIT: Thank you, Your Honor.

[The witness was warned, excused, and withdrew from the witness stand.]

ATC: Your Honor, the government calls Special Agent Danielle Ortiz.

MJ: Very well.

SUPERVISORY SPECIAL AGENT DANIELLE ORTIZ, NAVAL CRIMINAL INVESTIGATIVE SERVICE, was called as a witness by the government, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant trial counsel:

Q. Can you please state your name and spell your last name for the record?

A. Sure. My name is Danielle Ortiz, O-R-T-I-Z.

Q. And are you on active duty?

A. No, I'm a civilian.

Q. Where do you--what is your occupation?

A. I'm a supervisory special agent with NCIS.

Q. And where do you reside?

A. I'm currently at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, right now. I conducted a PCS about a month ago.

Q. Okay. So, you mentioned you're a supervisory special agent with NCIS.

A. Um-hmm.

Q. How long have you been with NCIS?

A. Since 2011.

Q. Can you talk a little bit about your career history?

A. Sure. In 2011 I started as professional staff in Quantico, Virginia, at our headquarters. I transition to a special agent in 2014. Then I went through our--our basic academy training in Georgia, and then I started in Pensacola, Florida; was my first duty station.

I had a large interest in forensics, so I became a forensics associate at the beginning of my career. And then working different kinds of crimes and things like that. I went on to started an NCRT team. I did an internship with Pensacola Police Department with our crime scene unit; seven-week course, became certified as a CSI.

From there, I have--I've been a forensic consultant overseas in Okinawa. I was a special agent in Okinawa, then I came here to Norfolk for five years and then Camp Lejeune.

Q. Okay. And what'd you do when you were in Norfolk?

A. I came here from Okinawa, so I was just--I was a gen crime agent. And then I went afloat with the Gorge Herbert Walker Bush for a year, and then I promoted as a supervisory special agent in 2023.

Q. Okay. And when you were here in Norfolk, were you aware of the investigation into the disappearance of CS3 A.R.?

A. Yes.

Q. How so?

A. Well, it was a big case for us, so it was all hands on deck; everyone was working it. We had gotten notification early on and assembled a team. special Agent Gokey kind of broke everyone down to work different elements of the case. She knew my background and asked me to be the forensics team lead.

Q. Okay. And so, I kind of want to jump to June 9th, 2025.

A. Okay.

Q. What happened that day?

A. Well, we've been working the case for--around the clock ever since we got the notification. On that day, Special Agent Gokey and some of the other team members were in a different trailer kind of working; had notified me that they had discovered a screenshot with a ping on it.

For context, we had been doing a lot of footwork, a lot of canvassing on a lot of different pings that we had gotten. So Special Agent Gokey said we're gonna go out and we're gonna do this ping. We had--it wasn't the first one that we had done. And so, we all kind of hopped in our cars and assembled to the area of where that ping was.

Q. And what did you find when you arrived? Or, I guess, could you describe the area?

A. Sure. Wooded area. There was a school there. There was a housing development there, some townhomes that were there. We had split. There was a large group of us. There was a creek that was kind of running in the back.

So, the ping, obviously, they're never really exact so it was a couple hundred meters off. So, I took the side of the creek and like some train tracks, and then we had another team on the other side actually right behind the house.

Q. Um-hmm.

A. So that was kind of how we started.

Q. And can you describe kind of your steps in that area, what--you know, how--you know, your investigation?

A. We were--we were looking for anything we could find. We were still, you know, trying to find anything. We still hadn't captured her personal belongings, so we were still had, you know, looking for backpack or clothing or something that was indicative that, you know, there could have possibly been people there or an area that was disturbed.

I remember on that day we were up against the clock because I think we went out late. It was about 16, 1700 and there was a thunderstorm coming, so we were working hard to try and beat the weather.

Like I said, I was on the other side on the train tracks with a smaller group, and then the larger group was on the other side. And then my phone rang and--actually, I could hear them screaming, to be honest. They were yelling for me on the other side. So, I got in the car and drove around to meet them on the side by the house.

Q. What were they yelling about?

A. That they thought they had found something.

Q. What did they find?

A. Well, one of the individuals had said that they had discovered a black bag but--not to be graphic, but the smell of the area is what came first.

Q. How far away from the bag do you think you could smell?

A. I would say maybe we--we were really close. Maybe 20, 25 feet.

Q. And how--you mentioned the area there's a school and, you know, homes. How far away from the school and the homes was this bag?

A. Very close. As in, there was a--if you were standing in the back of the townhome, you could see the path that actually went to the open area where the bag had been dumped.

I believe later on a tenant that lived there said that that path had been made. It was used by the kids to like--they would play in that area or go down to the creek, things like that. It was very close.

Q. And without going into too much detail--

A. Um-hmm.

Q. --about what was in that bag, what happened with what was in that bag?

A. So, everything kind of stopped and we all just regrouped, came together. Based off of my experience, I knew by the smell that we had something. I didn't know what. It could have been an animal. It could have been anything.

But we started to group together. We started to document. We, you know, dropped GPS, started doing photography--all of just the standard scene documentation that we do.

There was an individual who--for this case, we had a lot of people that traveled from different places. We had people from Hawaii, from D.C., from North Carolina that had come up to help with this investigation.

So, one of the individuals that's no longer with our agency had discovered the bag, stayed by the bag and sort of guided us over. Walked to the bag, saw it, and made the call right then and there. We called Norfolk Police Department right away, full stop, until they arrived.

Q. Okay. And when they arrived, what happened?

A. So, it was fast, as in the home was so close to the scene that people saw us, right? Our vehicles are there. We're walking around in marked jackets, so we had sort of a crowd control issue which is another reason why we called NPD.

They came out, we secured the bag, we ended up having to put a tarp over the bag because of the rain. We did a small unzip of the bag and saw that it was human remains. So, we stood by, called the medical examiner. Sarah came over and when she opened it, we knew right then and there. So, we decided to just document as it was. We did not fully open the bag on scene, and then we continued documentation of the area.

Q. Did--did the--did those remains undergo an autopsy?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. The following day.

Q. Were you present for that?

A. I was.

Q. What kind of things took place at the autopsy?

A. So, like I said, we had only unzipped about a corner of the bag. So, the autopsy started with--I'll call it a little bit of a huddle, right, on how we were gonna open the bag and remove the remains. That was how it started.

I sat with the ME, kind of gave her the background of everything that we'd done, provided her some photos, and so they decided to open the bag and bring out the remains onto a gurney.

Q. How were the remains identified?

A. She was ultimately identified--we were able to retrieve a set of fingerprints. For me, initially, Special Agent Gokey had done a fantastic job in documenting who she was in life.

So, we had pictures of her jewelry. We had pictures of her tattoos. We knew that she had recently gotten a red cross tattoo on her back. And when she was in the posterior position, the tattoo was visible.

ATC: Okay. One moment, Your Honor.

Thank you, Supervisory Special Agent Danielle Ortiz.

No further questions from the government, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense counsel, cross-examination?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Is Special Agent Ortiz subject to recall?

ATC: No, sir.

MJ: Special Agent Ortiz, thank you for your testimony.

WIT: Okay, Your Honor. Thank you.

MJ: You're permanently excused. You may return to the gallery.

[The witness was excused and withdrew from the witness stand.]

MJ: Trial counsel.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

The government next calls CSSN Eddysson Jean Jacques.

CS3. My apologies.

CULINARY SPECIALIST PETTY OFFICER THIRD CLASS EDDYSON JEAN JACQUES, U.S. Navy, was called as a witness by the government, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the trial counsel:

Q. Can you please state your full name for the record?

A. First name, Eddysson; last name Jean Jacques, J-E-A-N-J-A-C-Q-U-E-S.

Q. What is your current rank, rate, and duty station?

A. CS3. I'm a third-class petty officer, and I'm on the James E. Williams, DDG-95.

Q. Okay. And are you in the United States Navy?

A. Yes.

Q. How long have you been on the James E. Williams?

A. I got on the James E. Williams on December 1st, 2024.

Q. Okay. And what do you do on the James E. Williams?

A. I'm a CS. I'm a cook.

Q. And do you hold any special positions in that--in that work center?

A. I am currently cooking in the wardroom, serving officers and the COs and XOs and stuff.

Q. Okay. Now in May of 2025, did you have the opportunity to work with Petty Officer Angelina Resendiz?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And can you tell us a little bit about her as a--let's start with first as a coworker.

A. It's so much things that you could say about Angie. It's not somebody you get to meet twice. It's once in a life time, to be honest. She's--she's someone that's always checking on people. It don't matter if you're older, younger.

She is so caring and I would say passionate about everything that she does, even if--sometimes all of us don't like what we do, and she's always there to cheer you and let you know that it's gonna get better. So, working with her is like some kind of privilege that I'm never gonna get again.

Q. Can you tell us a little bit more about that and--and how she impacted the morale of your work center?

A. In my opinion, so I know everybody that's in the Navy knows that CS's are there to--especially, like, boost the morale of the ship. And I would say for us, Angie was the one boosting our morale whenever we don't feel like being in the ship, we don't feel like doing anything.

So, I would--if we don't have Angie in the wardroom--in the galley, it's like everybody's moving around sad, depressed, don't want to work, don't want to do anything. But the moment that she comes, it's like the sun started to shine on us in there.

Q. You know, outside of--of her as a--as a coworker, were you also friends?

A. Yes.

Q. And so, tell us about that.

A. So, Angie's someone that if she goes out somewhere, she would always text me. And if I text back, she would FaceTime me and show me where she at, who she's around. And I could remember that one time she went out with Gill, and she called me on FaceTime showing me that she's having a good time and she is also safe.

And the night that I would say she went missing, she text me at 9:12 and all she said is baby girl. And I was already sleeping. I didn't get a chance to text back. That's what makes me feel a little guilty because I didn't--I feel like I wasn't there for her. Because if I would have text back that night, she would FaceTime me and let me know that she's having a great time.

So, I woke up, my phone was ringing, and when I look over, HT3 Gillespie called me and said, hey, I know you sleeping but we have been trying to get in touch with Angie. All of us keep calling but she's mad at me right now so she's not picking up for me. I know for a fact that if you call, she's gonna pick up for you.

So, I tried to call. I called probably like three to four times, and I couldn't get ahold of her. And I called him back. I said, no, she's not picking up, but I will call again in the morning before I go to work so that way we know that she's safe.

So, at that time I didn't think anything. I was just thinking that, okay, she probably tired of what we do. You know, CS's life, it's not--it's not easy. So, some of us like it, some of us don't. But I didn't think anything around that time. I was just thinking that she probably somewhere not willing to talk to anyone, so she will come back around.

Q. Okay. And in the days that followed, you still weren't able to get in touch with her, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And--and how--how did that impact you personally?

A. I was still being hopeful that she would come back until I think I spoke to someone on the ship. And that person said--I can't remember exactly who--and that person said, well, most likely, it's been--it's been five days so cases like that, you know, you never get that person back really. But me being hopeful, I think that, okay, yeah, five days but things don't work out for everybody the same way so she's probably gonna come back.

But as days go by, I remember I was off that day and one of the shipmate called me and started crying over the phone. And I was thinking that it's something personal like that that was about her. And she was telling me that Angie has been found, and I dropped the phone.

I could not--I didn't know what to say. I wasn't crying, but it's like I--I started shaking and stuff like that because now I'm really thinking that she's gone. The moment that I received that call it's like, okay, so what's the next step going to be since they know for a fact that she's no longer with us.

Q. Did--what was it like in your--in your work center when the news came?

A. So, when the news came, I wasn't on the ship that day. We were--I think we was on the barge and I--someone said to me there was going to be a hands--an all-hands call, so I wasn't there I didn't know what they said.

But the next day when I went to work, it was everybody was sad. You could see it in everybody's face. Even people that wasn't that close to her, now they--you know, before that it was like normal activity. But once they found out that she was really gone, so everybody was--you could see the sadness. Some of them were depressed and, you know.

Q. Okay. Were--we're nearly a year after her remains were recovered. Has that feeling persisted among those that you work with?

A. For those who were close to her, yes. And I don't think that--I mean, from--I'm speaking for myself, it will never go away. I will always replay these memories in my head. I will always think of her. She will--she will always be in my head.

Q. When the two of you had the opportunity to--you know, to talk and to be friends, did you ever share your--your goals and your--your aspirations for your life and your life in the Navy?

A. We talked about that, but she would actually tell me more about what she wants to do. Like, she's always wanted to be--she likes to cook and she was always telling me how she wants a big house. She wants to be married.

And around that time she was dating HT3 Gillespie, and she was telling Gillespie, hey, you're debt. You gotta get me a big house so I can get my kitchen and JJ gonna tell me what to put in that kitchen.

So, she's--she actually talked about owning her own restaurant, but she said that she wasn't gonna be cooking. She would pay people to--you know, she would hire people to cook because she always thinking that she was going to be one of the biggest boss--that was her words. So that was her best aspiration.

Q. Okay. Remembering your friend and looking back over this past year, how--how has this incident affected you as a person?

A. It gets better with time, but I definitely have days where when I come to the galley, when I come across her picture that's on the pole, it kind of hit me and I wish that she was there. And that picture don't need to be on the pole for me to feel that way. Sometimes, like on a day where you don't want to be there, then you need Angie to make you feel like you belong here.

Q. You say a picture on a pole. Do you keep her picture in the galley?

A. We keep a picture in the galley, and I'm pretty sure all of us--like me, myself, I have probably three of those in my house.

Q. Is there anything else that you'd like the military judge to know about your friend?

A. Well, I would say if Angie was here today, she would probably promise the judge that she would make the best dish he would ever have in his entire life. Because she--she was very outspoken. She don't--she wasn't scared, right? She would speak her mind everywhere she goes. That--that's her.

TC: Great. Thank you.

The government has no further questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense, cross-examination?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor. We don't have anything.

MJ: Not subject to recall?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: All right. Thank you very much for your testimony. You may return to the gallery.

WIT: Thank you, sir.

[The witness was excused and withdrew from the witness stand.]

TC: Your Honor, the government has two more witnesses. Would you like to take a break? We've been going for about an hour.

MJ: Let's do that. We have been going for about an hour. It is 1345. Is 15 minutes enough time or do we need more time for that?

DC: Fifteen minutes--fifteen minutes was enough time last time.

MJ: Okay. Let's come back at 1400.

Court's in recess till 1400.

[The court-martial recessed at 1345, 8 June 2026.]

[The court-martial was called to order at 1405, 8 June 2026.]

MJ: This court-martial's called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

Leagalman Petty Officer First Class Justin Pond has taken over duties as court reporter, and he's been previously sworn.

Trial counsel, you ready to call your next witness?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

The government next calls CS2 Joshua Bryant.

MJ: Very well.

CULINARY SPECIALIST PETTY OFFICER SECOND CLASS JOSHUA BRYANT, U.S. Navy, was called as a witness by the government, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the trial counsel:

Q. Can you please state your full name for the record?

A. Joshua Bryant.

Q. And can you spell your last name?

A. B-R-Y-A-N-T.

Q. And what is your current rank, rate, and duty station?

A. I'm an E-5 in the Navy. My current duty station is CVN-79, John F. Kennedy.

Q. Okay. And you are a CS?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Okay. I want to--were you ever stationed on the James E. Williams?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And when were you stationed on the James E. Williams?

A. From 2022 to 2026.

Q. Okay. And while you were on the James E. Williams, did you come to know Petty Officer Angelina Resendiz?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And how did you know her?

A. I was her direct supervisor and her mentor.

Q. Okay. I'm gonna take those in turn. So as her direct supervisor, what was she like as someone you supervised?

A. She was bubbly. She took a lot of initiative on her own. She made my job very easy as far as training and developing. She was passionate about her job. She loved being a CS. She was passionate about being in the Navy. She actually looked forward to going out to sea and embracing just ship life, so...

Q. Okay. I'm gonna go back. You said she made your job easier. How did she do that?

A. So straight out of A-School she kind of hit the ground running, so within like the first 90 days of receiving--you know, of getting into the--to the receiving, being gained to our command, we had already made a decision to make her like the active watch captain under supervision, under me, because what it did is to relieve me to be able to be the galley supe because, at that time, James E. Williams was extremely undermanned.

So, I had CSSN--or CS3, at the time, Garcia was TAD on deployment. She was always my next go-to; but because she was gone, I was stretched extremely thin to make sure the everyday operations were still being met.

So, when Resendiz or A.R. came, excuse me, she just kind of lit that fire, that torch under everybody else. She took initiative. She enjoyed it. She was bubbly. She would come to work happy to be at work. She didn't really come with a whole lot of attitude. She was firey in her own regard, but it wasn't anything disrespectful.

And when she did have, like, some type of bad day, she would always pull me aside and be like, CS2, I need to vent. And she would vent. She'll talk to me. She'll curse, she'll yell, she'll--she'll complain, cry; and then when we're done, we'll go back to the galley and then she would just--in her normal resilient fashion, kind of turn to and get back to what we were supposed to be doing.

Q. You also mentioned she had goals and aspirations for her career in the Navy.

A. Um-hmm.

Q. Can you tell us about that?

A. She was a bit all over the place. She knew she wanted to go as far as she could. So sometimes we discussed being a chief, sometimes we discussed being an FSO. She just liked being a CS and food service operations.

She was type of person who would come to me after quarters and say, you know, CS2, I seen this on TikTok; can you help me cook it, or how can we do this in the galley, or how can we implement that. And so, she definitely enjoyed doing what she did.

Q. Okay. And you mentioned that when the two of you worked together, you were on the barge; is that correct?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And then at some point you were to move to the--go out to sea and go onto the ship, correct? Or go out to sea.

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Tell us a little bit about whether or not she looked forward to that; to being off the barge.

A. She looked--she looked forward to it. She was excited about it. So, she would definitely make it known to myself and my counterparts and further up the chain of command like, I can't wait till we get off this barge so I can go on a ship. I want to really see what it's like. I want to go out to sea.

While other sailors would kind of shy away from it, she would always kind of embrace it. Like, I want to get seasick. I want to see the dolphins. I want to be out there for months at a time. So, she--she looked forward to it.

Q. And did she ever get that opportunity?

A. No, ma'am.

Q. Okay. So, I want to draw your attention to the morning of May 29th of 2025. Did you become aware that other sailors on the ship were unable to reach Petty Officer Resendiz?

A. Yes. So, I--myself, I had just came back from leave, so I kind of came back to work walking into the situation. I kind of got debriefed from my counterparts, the other CS2s and CS1s, and they were looking for me to reach out to her because they knew that if she seen my name pop on her phone that she'd be more inclined to respond.

So, when I was made aware, I--I called a couple times, text a couple times. The initial approach was, hey, you know, you're UA. I need you to get back to the ship.

Shortly thereafter, the conversation kind of--well not conversation, the message changed; like, is everything okay, get back to me when you can.

Q. Okay. How--how--from what you knew of her and your experiences with her prior to this, were you concerned about her?

A. Very.

Q. Why?

A. She had a great deal of respect for me. She looked up to me from a CS, from a Navy, so not a week went by that she didn't pick my brain a couple times about what it means to be a CS, how to be a CS, how to be a sailor. Whether it's damage control, whether it's maintenances, she was always picking my brain.

So, I say all that to say that she had a great deal of respect for me, so whenever I spoke or I texted her or reached out she was the one person out of my group of guys and girls that I know she would roger up and acknowledge whatever I'm saying or respond to my messages.

Q. So, when she didn't respond, you were worried?

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. Okay. As the days continued with no word from her, how did that affect folks that you worked with and people in that--in that work center?

A. Everyone became distracted. Everybody began to slow down. It was--you can sense the tension; people were getting antsy, angry, if you will, because, like the other witness had stated, we was told that she was seen. So, we kind of had that relief, but then as days to come, again, we still didn't see her.

So now there was questions. Even myself, I had questions and people were asking me questions that I couldn't answer. So, it--it definitely affected the galley and its operations in a negative way.

Q. As a leader, how did it make you feel when you couldn't provide those answers?

A. It was frustrating because the follow-up statements and comments that was made after the questions that weren't answered--so to give context, when a junior person is saying, CS2, what the heck, I thought you said that they saw her, why isn't she here--I don't have nothing for that. And that's the frustrating part to not to be able to stick that pin in that coffin or to put them at ease because even by myself I can't answer that question.

Q. At some point you became aware that she had been found.

A. Yes, ma'am.

Q. And what was that like?

A. A bit of mixed emotions. It was a long 10 to 12 days, so I had an inkling or gut feeling that something wasn't right, so I feel like it was preparing me for when things were confirmed.

The morning of the all-hands call when we found out, based off of the body language of the CO and the chaps, I knew what they were getting ready to tell us. So, in that moment, instantly I kind of shift gears because I knew what was getting ready to happen.

So, I--I kind of took on the nurturing role to make sure my other guys were squared, because I knew it wasn't gonna be good. Even my CS1, he wasn't good. So, I kind of focused on them first and then took my time later at home.

So, when I found out, I had a lot of unanswered questions and a lot of resentment; many towards my chain of command because I felt like things could have and should have been handled differently.

Q. Has this--this ordeal, has it affected your desire to remain in the Navy?

A. Yes.

Q. How so?

A. Not the way that you would expect or think. Before this situation, I was getting out. I was right at that 9, 10-year mark where I had to make the decision because staying in past that and then getting out just doesn't make any sense because you're already past the halfway mark.

But I'm--I'm gonna stay in just because of--like I said, I don't like the way my chain of command handled that, and I just feel like the Navy needs more khakis to be able to step in and handle things like that the right way. So, one day I'll be a khaki.

Q. If you--if Petty Officer Resendiz were here today, what would you want the military judge to know about her?

A. I would want people to know that she's a damn good CS. She's--she's quick. She--like, she's somebody who if I had to choose--if you put me on a deployment or put me out to sea, I can be with just her and one other person and we'll turn and burn and make it happen. So, I would say she--she's all right with me.

TC: Thank you.

Government has no further questions.

MJ: Cross-examination?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): We have no questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Is Petty Officer Bryant subject to recall?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Bryant, thank you very much for your testimony.

WIT: Thank you.

MJ: You're excused and you can return to the gallery.

[The witness was excused and withdrew from the witness stand.]

MJ: Government.

TC: The government next calls Ms. Esmerelda Castle.

MJ: Very well.

ESMERELDA CASTLE, a civilian, was called as a witness by the government, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the trial counsel:

Q. Ma'am, could you please state your full name and spell your last name for the record?

A. Esmerelda Castle, C-A-S-T-L-E.

Q. And what is your current city and state of residence?

A. Harlingen, Texas.

Q. Okay. Are you Angelina Resendiz's mother?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell the military judge a little bit about--let's start with your daughter; what she was like as a child?

A. Hyper. You know, like, she--she just jump up on beds, right? Her and her little sister would get to the top of her bunk bed and they'd jump off onto her sister's bunk bed and--and parkour, right? That--that was--that was Angie, right?

That little shipper, you know? I was just thinking about how we had friends that were adoptive foster parents and they would, you know, ask me if Angie could come over because Angie made friends with all the foster kids that they would--you know, that they had. And--and she'd invite them to church and they had friend--they had a friend at church, right, with Angie.

And so--so then I had a household of foster kids sometimes, because they would--you know, they'd come over just to play with her, you know? And I was looking at videos the other day where they were at the top of the stairs and on cardboards and--and sleeping bags and just, doop, doop, doop, all the way down the stairs.

And one of the little girls said in the video that one day we're gonna grow up and we're gonna look it back--we're gonna look at this, who--we're gonna be like, we're so--you know, we're so crazy and--and that made me cry because, you know, I was like--that's who she was. Like, she made--she made lifelong friends.

Like, all her friends--you know, the friends that she made that were her friends in elementary are still her friends and--and they still call and ask and talk about Angie. And--and, you know, everything that I've been hearing, right? A little ball of sunshine. That--that--that's how she--that's--that's just how--that's who--that's who she was. I'm like, who made her that way? Like, that's how she came.

Q. Sounds like she was a friend to a lot of people and also kept you busy; is that fair?

A. Um-hmm, yes.

Q. Okay. And what sort of things was she involved in in high school?

A. High school--softball, art--art was a passion; something that she started to--she entered in competitions and--and things like that. Choir.

And--and, you know, the military, right? She was in high school--maybe her last year or the year before--like the last two years of high school is when she--she met the Navy. They came to her school and she decided that she wanted to join the Navy, and so she spent a lot of time preparing.

Q. Did she talk to you about that decision or her thoughts about joining the Navy?

A. The words I remember her saying--and I can still hear her say it--she's like, it's a--mom, it's a calling. Like, it's calling me. Like, you know, we have military family and I--I have siblings that are in the military. My--my late husband was in the military and her father was in the military. So, it's--it's--it's--it was natural.

Q. So, it sounds like you were--you were proud of her that she made that decision. Did you have any other emotions about your daughter joining the military?

A. I was scared. I--I--I did question her. I tried to, you know, bribe her. Yeah. I offered her a car and an apartment if--if she would, you know, go to school; like, graduate and--and go to college and I would help her to get her a car and--and, you know, get her a place and, like, what does she want to do, right? I was thinking art. Like, that--but she--she wanted to join the military. Like, she had her mind set.

Q. Yeah. What were you scared was gonna happen?

A. She's small. She's--she says she's 5-foot, but she's almost, right? She's like 4-foot-8, 4-foot-9.

And, like, honestly, right, women get hurt in the military. Like the first thing I thought of was-was the woman from Fort Hood. And--and I--I mentioned that to her and she said she'd be okay. She's like, I'm gonna be okay.

And I--you can't force her. I couldn't force her or make her or--you know, I just supported her. I took her to the recruiter when it was time for her to--to get to--to go and so...

Q. And did you--you know, when she went to boot camp and she graduated, what was that like for you?

A. I was looking at her letters, right; letters that she was writing me and--and we would write each other and just encouragement--encouraging her. I know she got hurt while she was in boot camp, and--and she didn't give up and--and she didn't graduate with her original colleagues when they all entered together, but she'd stayed until she finished and--and went to A-School.

And so, when I went to her graduation, she was the chorister. Like, she tried out and competed against a few other individuals and--and she got it. And that's who she was. She had a--I guess it's a squad, right? She had a team of people following her and she was leading them. And I was so--it was so impressive, right, to see her, like, command, you know, and--and confidence and--and sass and just like, that's--that's my kid right there.

Q. And at--at some point she received her first duty station here in Norfolk, Virginia.

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us a little bit about what her feelings were about that?

A. She was excited. She was excited. And if she was excited, I was excited. She's like, I'm--I'm here. She did say that the boat was being renovated, right, so she didn't get to deploy. A lot of her friends were deploying, and that was something that she really wanted to do was to travel.

But she got to work. One of the first things that--that she was sharing with me that she was very excited about was the--there's a team, right? There's--there's a culinary--a team, and they compete.

And they are, like, to the level of--you know, they cook for world leaders, right? Like--and so I remember her telling me, mom, I want to cook for the President someday. And I was like, the--the what? And--and when I thought about it and, like, yeah. Like, why not? Like, you have to be, you know, someone at a level to even walk into a place where you're going to be serving food to world leaders. Like, you know, the leader of our country, leaders of the world, and that's what she--like, she saw that and--and so I was like, all right. Yes.

One of the--like within her first year, she got a coin from an admiral who came to her ship and of all the--you know, of all her shipmates it was her and--and another sailor that were presented to this admiral and he gave her his coin. And so--so now I carry that with me. Like, she's very, very proud of it.

Q. Did she discuss with you what her goals were in the Navy; like how far she would go?

A. We--we talked about some of those things. Sometimes she would tell me that she was looking to advance, right? Maybe there was opportunity there for her to, like, take--you know, like--like getting a new job if she wanted to.

Like--like--and just--like, I--I just remember all the things that she was doing. She was just so busy and talking to me about like, I gotta get a signature for this, I gotta get a signature for that.

And then it wasn't until, you know, when getting out her documents or I'm looking at all her--all the work that she's done, like, she was--like what she was telling me, I didn't understand it till I saw it on paper. Like, she was developing herself. She was becoming a leader. She was growing.

Q. Is it fair to say that she was proud of her service?

A. Yes.

Q. And were you also proud of her service?

A. I was happy. I was happy for her.

Q. All right. I'd like to draw your attention to May 29th of 2025. At some point during that day or the next, did you become aware that her friends were unable to reach her?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And kind of from a mother's perspective, can you tell the court what that felt like?

A. What it felt like? Well, at first, Danny called me and I knew who Danny was, right? Angie's talked--talks to him and when she would come visit, right, she was--she would talk to him.

So, when he called--when he called and he said that, like, they hadn't seen Angie all day. Like, she called and--and, you know, it sounded like she was in trouble and that he couldn't find her.

Like, he went to the place where she was and he couldn't find her; and that I needed to call the quarterdeck and I--I did. I did and I talked to an Anderson--Petty Chief Anderson and he said that they found her; that she was okay. That the report of her missing was--was overexaggerated; more exaggerated than necessary.

And--and--you know, and I'm like, okay, well, you know, like, what does she say, you know? And all he could tell me was that she's supposed to report to work the next day, because she wasn't supposed to work that day.

And--and I called Danny back. I was like, Danny, they found her, right? They--they told me that she was in another sailor's barracks and--and, you know, they told her to--to make sure she shows up the next day and who she was with to--to make sure she got home safe. And--and I believed him.

And I was like, she's fine, Danny. You should go--go check on her. And we started calling her, but she wasn't answering. Not unusual, right? But then the next day when she didn't show up to work and I was calling the quarterdeck to find out if she was--did she show up, and she didn't show up.

And the first thing that the chief said to me--I think Peterson--was that maybe she's just AWOL. And I didn't understand what he meant. And he's like, well, maybe she just needed a break; maybe she just needed a few days. Like, maybe she's having a hard time. And I'm like, well, no, no. My kid--my kid don't miss work. She's scared to miss work. Like, she--she would--no, she wouldn't do that. Like--like, she's--she's missing.

And so that's when I called--you know, I called Danny and--and they had already called the police and--and started the--you know, they reported her missing.

Q. Okay.

A. And so, the next day that's--NCIS--I don't even think it was the next day. It was--it was the Thursday night, Friday. By Sunday, NCIS is calling me and it's already been three days.

And I'm calling her and we're, you know, calling her friends and--and, you know, hoping, like, maybe she did--like maybe she is having something--maybe something is wrong and, you know, like--like--like the gentleman was saying, like sending her message like where are you. And then so like, look, babe, whatever's going on just--it's okay, right? Just let us know. We'll--we'll take care of you. And she never responded.

And so, when NCIS calls me and--and, like, we're calling about a missing person and they're talking to me like I didn't know, you know? It's like what--what--like, they're telling me for the first time that she's missing. I'm like, I know she's missing. It's been days already. Like, where--what are--what are you talking about. Like, what--like, what you're asking me makes no sense. It's been days already.

After that--after that conversation, it's like someone--like a punch in the gut. It's like--it breaks--it brought me to my knees, like, ending that phone call and just like this is happening. Like, my kid's missing. And no one's telling me anything. Like, they're not telling me anything.

Q. During the--that--that week where you didn't know where she was, were--were you getting different, like, pieces of information? And what--what--and if so, what did that feel like?

A. I didn't get any information. Once NCIS asked me to--and it was by--by Monday, NCIS--Monday or Tuesday--gave me their missing--her picture missing, right? The missing alert.

There was no more communication, right? I--her friends couldn't talk to me. No one from--from her ship talked to me. NCIS only asked me questions. They didn't answer any of my questions. They would--you know, and--and so--you know? So, like, we went to--we went to the media, and we--we talked to the media and asking for help. Like, we can't--we don't know where she's at.

They would not tell me if she was on the base. They would not tell me if she was off the base. Like, you know, if--if they had her phone or if they didn't have her phone. I knew nothing, and I was working from nothing.

And--and, you know, that--that--that's--that's kind of a--you just don't know, right? The days just blur and you're just like what day is it now. And I--I--by Wednesday, I was in Virginia, like, because no one would talk to me.

And so, I came back--I came to Virginia and--and went to NCIS, and they did a bunch of DNA swabs and still wouldn't answer, like, any of my questions. So, I--I just wanted to go to her room and--and--and that's where--you know, the next day they took me to her--her barracks, and--and I saw things that she bought. You know, like she--she was gonna come back. And that--walking in her room is when I knew, like, no, she's not coming back.

Q. Tomorrow is the one-year anniversary of her remains being found. As a mother, can you describe to the military judge what it was like to hear that they had found your daughter?

A. It gave me--honestly, I was a little relieved that they found her. I know she wasn't alive anymore, but we found her and I didn't have to live that life, not ever knowing, like, what happened to her.

And--and--and, you know, the police came to my house. They knocked on my door and told me to call NCIS, and so I called NCIS. And they said they found remains and they don't--they think it's Angie. They don't know, and--and they'll let me know. So, it was three days before we knew for sure that--that it was Angie.

So, you know, a little bit of like maybe it's not Angie, right? Like, who else could it be? And--and just taking it from there. Like, just really feeling that she was--I want to say betrayed. She was betrayed, right? By the people who she trusted.

Reaching out to her leadership, they--I mean, he--they said that--that she was okay, right? And in talking to her commanding officer, he's like, well, you know, NCIS has this, right? Like, our hands are--are tied. And listening to everything, like, they could have found her that day if they wanted to, you know? It's like--

Q. Yeah.

Is there--is there anything--let's see--if your daughter was here today, what would you want the military judge--what impression would you want the military judge to leave with?

A. If she was here today?

Q. If she was here and he was meeting her for the first time.

A. He's never gonna forget her. And--and you would not forget Angie. Like, once you meet her and once you talk to her and once you get her going and she starts to be herself, you--that's a friend. That's your friend. And you're like, here, meet my--meet my daughters, right? Meet--meet my family so that you-all could be friends and maybe they can be like you.

Like, that's usually what happens when people meet Angie, right? She is an influence or she was--you know, yes, she was sunshine but that was an influence to help people find their own, you know, happiness and--and that is a person you don't forget.

TC: Thank you.

The government has no further questions.

MJ: Defense.

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Ms. Castle not subject to recall?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Ms. Castle, thank you very much for your testimony.

WIT: Thank you.

MJ: You can step down.

[The witness was excused and withdrew from the witness stand.]

MJ: Trial counsel?

TC: The government rests, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Is there a crime--is there a crime victim present who desires to be heard?

VLC (MR. GRIFFIN): Yes, Your Honor. Ms. Esmerelda Castle and her brother, Mr. Juan Resendiz.

MJ: Okay. And just for the record, that is Mr. Marshall Griffin speaking from the gallery.

Mr. Griffin, I don't think you've been on the record. Do you want to put your credentials on the record?

VLC (MR. GRIFFIN): I can, Your Honor. I believe I've submitted notice, but--

MJ: And that has been marked as an appellate exhibit. Appellate Exhibit V is your notice of appearance.

VLC (MR. GRIFFIN): Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: If you're not gonna do any of the talking, then I don't need you on the record.

VLC (MR. GRIFFIN): I'm not, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, Ms. Castle, would you like to come forward?

And, defense counsel, I understand that Appellate Exhibit CXII has been marked, and that is the victim impact statement from Ms. Castle and Mr. Resendiz.

Any objection to Ms. Castle's victim impact statement?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. You may proceed.

VICTIM IMPACT STATEMENT

VICTIM E.C.: Who was Angie, right? When I think of Angie, I didn't think of courtrooms, investigations, or headlines. Like, I think of my daughter. And Angie was one of those kids who loved to be sandwiched between couch cushions. She and her sister would--would turn ordinary moments into adventures; jumping off couches into piles of cushions and leaping from tops of bunks into their sister's bed laughing the entire time. And she was playful, affectionate, and full of life.

Like, one of my favorite memories of Angie is--you know, she was little. She was elementary. The--she comes up, you know, this high. She's up to my chest. And she was trying to chest bump me and tell me that she was determined to get my attention. And so, I remember her chest bumping me and saying you're gonna get this love. I'm gonna give it to you. And it--it--it was a simple moment, but I've never forgotten it.

As she grew older, she remained deeply connected to the people she loved while growing into her own person. And she answered the call to serve her country and was building a future for herself. She was finding her way in the world, discovering who she wanted to become and growing into a remarkable young woman.

In the months before she died, our relationship was changing and growing. She would always be my daughter, but we were developing a friendship as two adults. And we talked more openly, shared more of our lives with each other, and I was getting to know the woman she was becoming. We were building something special together, and I treasured that.

Angie's death left a wound that reaches far beyond words. The hurt runs deep. There will always be an ache in my heart. And while I continue to move forward each day, like, her absence is something I feel every day, and it will remain with me for the rest of my life.

No sentence handed down today can bring Angie back and nothing can restore the conversations we would have had, the memories we would have continued to make, or the future she was building for herself.

What this court can do is recognize that Angie mattered. She was loved. She was valued. And she was a daughter, a sister, a friend, a sailor, and a human being whose life had meaning. That's who Angie was, and that is how I hope that she will be remembered.

Today, this court will determine an appropriate sentence and I respect that process. Accountability matters. Angie mattered. The value of her life deserves to be recognized. And the harm that was done cannot be ignored.

At the same time, this tragedy should not be defined by anger or bitterness or hatred. Those things cannot heal what has been broken nor do they honor Angie. And while nothing can undo what has been done, I believe every human life still has value.

And Mr. Copeland will spend decades in prison, and it is my hope that he uses that time to accept responsibility for his actions, to understand the harm they have caused, and to do something meaningful with the life he has been given. And I hope he comes to fully understand the weight of what was taken from Angie, from our family, and from all those who loved her.

I seek accountability but not only for the actions that brought us here, but for the decisions and the failures that allowed this tragedy to unfold. Accountability is not about punishment alone. It is about truth, leadership, integrity, transparency, and the courage to accept responsibility and do better. Angie deserves those things and so do all who serve.

The best way to honor Angie is not only to remember her life, but to learn from what happened and be better and better protect those who serve in the future.

I also extend love and compassion to everyone affected by this tragedy, including those who love Copeland. As a mother, I recognize that there is another mother who is hurting today. And while our circumstances are very different, I would--I would not wish this suffering on any parent.

I choose mercy and I choose compassion. I choose forgiveness; not because what happened to Angie was acceptable and not because accountability is unnecessary, but because I refuse to allow this tragedy to diminish my capacity to love.

My faith teaches me that justice and mercy can exist together, and I believe every person is more than the worst thing they have ever done. And I believe in the possibility of redemption, and I hope that healing will come to all those effected by this tragedy. And that, in time, something good may emerge from so much pain.

Thank you.

MJ: Thank you, Ms. Castle.

I understand, Mr.--Mr. Resendiz?

VLC (MR. GRIFFIN): Yes, Your Honor. He'll be testifying telephonically. If I could retrieve his phone number from my phone?

MJ: You may.

Defense counsel, have you seen Mr. Resendiz's statement?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Any objections?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

VLC (MR. GRIFFIN): I believe the court reporter has that--that phone number.

MJ: Okay. We're gonna dial him in.

[A telephonic connection was established.]

MR. RESENDIZ: Hello? Hello?

ATC: Hello?

MR. RESENDIZ: Hello?

MJ: Hello? Mr. Resendiz, can you hear me?

MR. RESENDIZ: Yes, I can hear you.

MJ: Mr. Resendiz, this is Captain Hutchison. I'm the military judge. I understand we are at trial in U.S. v. Copeland, and you have been called to give a victim impact statement.

Are you prepared to proceed?

MR. RESENDIZ: Yes, sir, I am prepared.

MJ: Okay. You have the floor.

MR. RESENDIZ: You want me to start right now?

MJ: Yes, please; please go ahead. Take your time.

MR. RESENDIZ: Okay. Let me find somewhere where it's a little bit more audible, quiet. There you go.

All right. I'm gonna start right now.

MJ: Okay.

VICTIM IMPACT STATEMENT

VICTIM J.R. : As Angelina's older brother, I want to speak from the heart. Angelina was everything to us; bright, kind and full of dreams. Losing her has left a hole in our lives that will never fully heal, but we are determined to honor her memory and keep on fighting for justice. I know we'll never stop sharing her stories, so others are protected and her light is never forgotten.

MJ: Okay.

MR. J.R.: That's all I have.

MJ: Thank you very--thank you very much, Mr. Resendiz. You can go ahead and drop off the phone call now. I appreciate it.

MR. J.R.: All right. Thank you. Bye.

MJ: Let the record reflect that Mr. Resendiz has hung up the phone.

Is there any other crime victims who wish to be heard?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Defense counsel, do you have any evidence to present at this time?

I note that it's almost 1500. Do you want to start your case this afternoon?

DC: Yes, Your Honor. We'd like to admit the documentary evidence and then come back tomorrow to do the witness evidence if that would be okay with the court. It would give the court an opportunity to review both the prosecution and the defense exhibits over the overnight recess.

MJ: Okay. Let me ask this: How much time do you think you need in the morning for witnesses?

DC: Probably only an hour.

MJ: And I'm only asking to--to gauge start time.

Okay. So, let's do that. If you have documentary evidence to present, let's do that now.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

The defense moves Defense Exhibits A through F into evidence and ask that the words "for identification" be stricken.

And permission to approach the court reporter?

MJ: You may approach.

Government, any objection to Defense Exhibits A through F?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well. Defense Exhibits A through F are admitted into evidence. The words "for ID" are stricken. The court will consider these.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

And there's a--there's a CD--or I should say there's an audio. I don't think we've gotten it quite on the CD yet, but it's in NCORS so the court can actually hear Defense Exhibit F. But there's a transcript in there for you.

MJ: Okay. With that, I propose that we recess for the evening, and we'll come back tomorrow morning at 0900 to finish the defense's case, and then I'll go into deliberations.

Any--any concern with that way forward, government?

TC: No, Your Honor.

DC: No, Your Honor. That was my idea, so...

MJ: Very well.

Court's in recess till 0900 tomorrow.

[The court-martial recessed at 1448, 8 June 2026.]

[END OF PAGE]

[The court-martial was called to order at 0917, 9 June 2026.]

MJ: This court-martial is once again called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

Ms. Cheek has resumed duties as court reporter, and she has been previously sworn.

Last night after we recessed, I had a quick R.C.M. 802 conference with the counsel in my chambers just to bring to their attention something I noticed, and I'll bring it now in open court.

As I was inventorying the defense exhibits that defense presented yesterday, I noticed in Defense Exhibit A, which are character letters, was a character letter from Mr. Vincent Quidachay, who is an NJROTC, I think, instructor for the accused.

Mr. Quidachay used to be Lieutenant Quidachay. He was my department head on my first ship 30 years ago. I worked for him; had a very positive experience with him. I brought that attention to the parties. It will not impact my ability to be fair in this--fair and impartial. I have not talked to Mr. Quidachay in 30 years, but to the extent we're such a small Navy that 30 years later I'm getting a letter from him, I want to make the parties aware.

Any concerns, government?

TC: Not from the government, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense counsel?

DC: No questions or challenge from the defense.

MJ: Very well.

Next thing I'll note is just to correct the record as--as I was going through some things yesterday, I--I think I inadvertently, in announcing findings, announced findings to Specification 1 of Charge II, of the accused being guilty. Of course, there's only a Sole Specification for Charge II.

So just to correct that verbal scrivener's error, the accused was guilty of the Sole Specification of Charge II and of Charge II.

Any concerns with that; any questions about that?

TC: No, Your Honor.

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. That said, defense counsel, are you ready to continue your case?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: You may proceed.

DC: Your Honor, the defense calls Ms. Rochell Brown.

MJ: Very well.

[END OF PAGE]

ROCHELL BROWN, a civilian, was called as a witness by the defense, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant trial counsel:

Q. Could you state your name and spell your last name for the record?

A. Rochell Brown and B-R-O-W-N.

Q. And are you active duty military?

A. No.

Q. Where--where do you currently reside?

A. I'm on Whidbey Naval Air Station in Whidbey, Oak Harbor, Washington.

Q. And what is your current occupation?

A. I work for the hospital in Oak Harbor.

Q. Okay. Thank you so much.

A. Um-hmm. Thank you.

Questions by the defense counsel:

Q. So, Ms. Brown, can you please tell the court how you know Jermiah Copeland?

A. Jermiah is my second born son out of my six children.

Q. And can you tell the court where he grew up?

A. He--he was born in North Carolina, Durham, and we moved--transitioned--excuse me--transitioned to Oak Harbor, Washington. After I lost eyesight, my family came and got me and moved me and my children back to Whidbey to be closer to family to help raise the children.

Q. And what was he like growing up? What were--what were his, like, sports and hobbies that he was interested in?

A. Jermiah was a very active child. He loved sports. We kept him active in sports, because that was his whole world; just to burn his energy. He was a boy, boy.

He was so very good in football. He was in track, basketball. Yeah, he just loved the--to burn his energy. He was a ball of energy all the time, so, yeah.

Q. And you mentioned that he has siblings that--how many siblings does he have and you can tell us a little bit about them?

A. So, for my children, he has an older brother. He's 22. Him and Isaiah--it's Isaiah, he's very close with his brother. Jermiah always thought he was the big brother, so everybody thought he was the parent--second parent in our household.

They grew up with their stepdad, but, like I said, Jermiah was the parent to siblings, and everybody knew it. So, they were like, Jerry, you're not the oldest. You're the second oldest.

And he--he just--his siblings love him. They love him. They look up to him. They're all hurting in this moment, but they're all standing with him.

Q. Does he have sisters as well?

A. He has three little sisters, and they think the absolute world of him. His oldest--youngest sister is 17, and a 10-year-old and a 4-year-old, and that's his best friend, the 4-year-old.

Q. And tell us a little bit about like his larger family. Like, does he have a big support system with--with his--with his aunts and uncles?

A. We have an amazing family. He has about nine aunts, grandma, grandpa--both sides. Jermiah's loved beyond measure. We're here standing together with him. Not okay in anything, but we're here in love and support for him.

Q. And what was it like when Jermiah told you that he was going to enlist in the Navy?

A. We were very excited for him. He started the JROTC program at Whidbey when he was in ninth grade. He did phenomenal in the program. He was a cadet--sophomore cadet of the year. His sophomore year he was in the extracurricular JROTC program. He did very well under his commander and chief.

So, we were very proud and excited for him for the new journey. We were very scared because he was so young, so we didn't know what--he would have been our first immediate family member to go into the service. We had extended family member to go into the service, but he was our first.

So, we were excited but, yet, nervous. Very, very scared as a mom to release him to something unknown.

Q. And after he joined the Navy, how often were you able to talk to Jermiah?

A. We talked to him through boot camp as much as possible, as much as they allowed him to call. We wrote him frequently. And then in A-School, we went and visited him--our family, of course, strength in numbers, so we're very supportive. So, whoever was able to make it, we flew from Washington, some from North Carolina, and we all came up to Virginia to visit him.

Q. And how often would you say you were able to--to visit him and see him after he joined the Navy?

A. So, it was a very quick transition from the boot camp, A-School to his first deployment. So, he was able to come home maybe once or twice, and we came here as well to see him maybe three times.

Q. And so, before you came here to--yesterday for the hearing, when was the last time that you were able to see Jermiah?

A. Physically was a year ago today, I believe, when I visited him at the brig.

Q. And that was when he was in the brig?

A. Correct.

Q. And so, you weren't able to spend Christmas with him this year?

A. No.

Q. And he recently had his 21st birthday. You weren't able to spend his 21st birthday with him?

A. No.

Q. Can you tell the court what that was like to not have Jermiah there?

A. It was--it was horrible. It--Jermiah's a big pillar in our family. He's--every holiday, every birthday, he's the life of the party.

So, on his 21st birthday, we were all at my house to celebrate him, just to know that he was loved and--and that his family's here for him. In spite of this situation, it's not gonna define my boy.

So, we're here with him in love and support, and we were all standing together; had his barbecue--his favorite food, the music that he liked, and we just celebrated him and his memory. So, he knew we were celebrating him on his big day.

Q. Can you tell the military judge a little bit about Jermiah's son and his relationship with his son?

A. He had him at a pretty young age. He's four years old now. So, he talks to his dad as much as possible. We are very active in his life. He loves his dad. He--he loves him beyond measure. He knows that he's gonna be well-taken care of. His grandma and his uncles and his grandma--everybody's got his back. So, him and Jermiah has a very good relationship.

Q. And do you help out with his son?

A. Oh, yes. We're--as soon as I leave here, I'm going to get him, so he knows and he's excited to come and knows--he's got all his dad's racecars and football jerseys and things that he gets to inherit. So, he knows that his dad loves him.

Q. And when Jermiah stops getting paid, is that gonna impact his son?

A. Oh, of course. His--his dad's been taking care of him thus far, so we'll do our best and take care of him the way that a mom knows how, a grandma knows how. So, he has a big support system. We'll do our best to make sure he has the best life possible.

Q. So, you know that Jermiah's gonna go to the brig for at least 40 years. Can you explain to the--the military judge the kind of impact that that's gonna have on your family?

A. Words can't even ex--words can't even explain how much it's gonna impact our family. Jermiah's such a special boy, and I know this situation's not gonna be my baby's end story.

As bad as it hurts--and I know he knows accountability. We taught him accountability. So, we know he has to sit down and take this, but we're gonna be here with him all the way. This is something that we're gonna be holding his hand along the way, and we're not gonna let him ride it out on his own.

But he knows that we taught him accountability, and this is not gonna be his end story.

Q. And will you be able to visit Jermiah while he's in the brig wherever that may be?

A. Wherever God places him, wherever the government places him, we will be there, and he knows that. He's not gonna walk this journey alone. We're a family of strength and unity, so we'll be here with him along the way. He knows that.

DC: I'd like to go over some photos with you.

Permission to approach the witness with Defense Exhibit B?

MJ: You may.

DC: And you have a copy already, Your Honor.

MJ: I do.

DC: Handing the witness Defense Exhibit B.

WIT: Thank you.

Questions by the defense counsel:

Q. So, take a look there at--at page 1. Can you just tell us what's happening in that photo?

A. Yes. This is the day Jermiah graduated from the Great Lakes in Chicago. Me and his aunt and his stepfather and baby sister came and we celebrated that. We were very proud of him that day graduating boot camp.

Q. And can you turn to--to page 9?

A. Nine?

Yes.

Q. And can you tell us who--who is in those photos on page 9?

A. That's his little sister, 10-year-old sister, and his son. His baby sister--she's four years old and his son. And that was on his birthday. He was very excited for his new outfit his dad bought him. And his excitement, his cake, his celebration, his gifts that his dad purchased him. So, he was very excited.

Q. And his son and his baby sister are the same age?

A. Yes. They're four years old and their best friends and they are each other's besties.

Q. Can you turn to--to the next page, to page 10?

A. Yes.

Q. And that's also his little sister. And what's that--what does she have there?

A. Well, she thinks the world of her brother. She--I mean, you couldn't tell her anything wrong about him. She had to write him a letter because she knows in a--in a baby form of what's going on. She knows she can't access him or see him, so she wrote him a letter. I love you, my-my. I care for you. Love, Haddy. And she's just--was so excited to make sure that letter made it to her brother. So, she loves you, Jerry.

Q. And just one last picture on--on page 2. Is this Jermiah in the yellow suit?

A. That's him.

Q. And what--and what's going on that day?

A. They were so excited. It was Easter Sunday and their grandfather bought them Easter suits. So, he thought he would look like a million bucks heading to Easter Sunday service. So that was a very fun day for them, so, yeah.

Q. Thank you so much.

A. Thank you.

DC: Permission to retriever Defense Exhibit B?

MJ: You may.

DC: I'm retrieving the exhibit.

MJ: Have a seat, ma'am.

WIT: Oh, sorry.

Questions by the defense counsel:

Q. And I hate to make you answer this question on the record--

A. Oh, you're fine.

Q. --but can you tell the judge how old you are?

A. Forty-three years old.

Q. Is there anything else that I haven't asked you that you would like to tell the military judge about Jermiah?

A. All I can say is that my son is loved beyond measure. He is a man that this situation will not define him. This situation won't be his end. This situation is horrible, but with the support, love, and God and his accountability, he is going to be a different man at the end of this journey.

He knows what he was taught, he know he was grounded in love, and this is going to not be your end story, son. And we love you. And we're here for you, and we're here for the ride, whatever it may look like, so...

Q. Thank you so much. I don't have any other questions, but the trial counsel and the judge might have questions.

A. Okay.

MJ: Trial counsel.

ATC: No questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Commander Serfess, not subject to recall?

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Thank you very much, ma'am. You can step down and return to the gallery.

WIT: Thank you.

[The witness was excused and withdrew from the witness stand.]

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): Defense calls Ms. Kathleen Brown, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

KATHLEEN BROWN, a civilian, was called as a witness by the defense, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant trial counsel:

Q. When you get a chance, just state your name for the record.

A. My name is Kathleen Brown, B-R-O-W-N.

Q. And where do you live, Ms. Brown?

A. I live also on Whidbey Island in Washington.

Q. Okay. Thank you.

And what is your current occupation?

A. I'm fortunate to be able to be retired.

ATC: Thank you so much.

Questions by the assistant defense counsel (LCDR MIHILL):

Q. Good morning, Ms. Brown.

A. Good morning.

Q. You're retired, ma'am. How--how old--how old are you?

A. I am 65 years old.

Q. Okay. And who are you--who are you in this family, ma'am?

A. I am Jermiah's grandmother, and I am the matron. I'm the oldest one that's alive in my family. I have one sister, but she's--her husband's retired military, so they live in Mississippi. Yeah. So, I'm the matron and I'm the grandma.

Q. Okay. And these folks that have joined us today, is this the rest of the family?

A. Well, that's some of them. I have nine daughters. One in Maryland. I have two that lives in North Carolina. Everybody else lives in Washington, but those are my daughters that came out from Seattle and two of my grandsons.

Q. Thank you, ma'am.

As the head of this family, do you condone the actions that brought us here?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. Can you tell me a little bit about that?

A. Unlike his mother, we--it's--it's a majority of women in our family, and we have always made our children, my grandchildren be accountable. You have to be accountable. This isn't good, and I've already had the conversation with Jermiah.

You're gonna forever be loved by your family. That's a given. But this is not a very good situation for Ms. Castle, for our family; but regardless, we're going to love him and we're going to see him through this. And as he go through his journey, he's going to be accountable.

Q. Yes, ma'am.

And now, yesterday, I noticed that--that you had a chance to speak with Ms. Castle. Is there anything that you would like Ms. Castle or anybody that's effected by Jermiah's actions? Is there anything that you would like them to know?

A. I would love to. And I don't know if I can stand up, because I want to see her face as a mother.

Is that possible, sir?

MJ: Go ahead.

WIT: I don't know where she is.

MJ: Stay right here so the microphone can pick you up.

WIT: Okay. I'm sorry.

To Ms. Castle, we had our conversation yesterday, and we want you to know, as a mother, as a grandmother, we feel you. We don't condone what has happened to your daughter just because that's my grandson. I lost a daughter five years ago. That pain never goes anywhere. But because of how it was done, we want you to know that we don't okay that.

But we want you to know that we are so sorry. And there's my family there. And we talked about you all night long because we want you to know that we are absolutely so sorry for you and your family.

And like we were sharing together, as bad as this is--and we agreed to this--that one day, we're gonna make a very positive outcome in this world. You, me, and Rochell and we've talked about it.

So, we love you. We are here for you, and our heart goes out to you and your family. And we will forever pray for you.

I love you.

ADC (LCDR MIHILL): I have no further questions, Your Honor.

Just one moment--one moment.

WIT: Oh, I'm sorry.

MJ: Trial counsel.

ATC: No--no questions, sir.

MJ: Ms. Brown, thank you very much. You can step down.

WIT: Thank you, sir.

[The witness was excused and withdrew from the witness stand.]

DC: We just need a recess in place or maybe we'll want to take a break because it's gonna take a minute to get the VTC set up.

MJ: Let's do this: Let's take--let's just take 10 minutes. Let's come back at 9:50.

Court's in recess till 0950.

[The court-martial recessed at 0937, 9 June 2026.]

[The court-martial was called to order at 0951, 9 June 2026.]

MJ: This court-martial's called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

Defense counsel, you may call your next witness.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Yes, Your Honor.

At this time, defense would like to call Dr. Jamie Dickson, who's appearing virtually via VTC.

MJ: Very well.

And let the record reflect the hub is pointing towards the gallery and I can see Dr. Dickson on the screen there.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Hey, Dr. Dickson. This is Lieutenant Commander Morgan. Can you hear me?

WIT: Yes, I can hear you.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Is she good to go?

At this time, the trial counsel is gonna swear you in, okay?

DR. JAMIE DICKSON, Psy.D., a civilian, was called as a witness by the defense, was sworn, and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant trial counsel:

Q. Could you please state your name and spell your last name for the record? And you can sit.

A. Yes. My name--thank you.

My name is Dr. Jamie Dickson, and my last name is spelled D-I-C-K-S-O-N.

Q. And Dr. Dickson, what is your occupation?

A. I am a licensed psychologist.

Q. And you're not on active duty, are you?

A. No, sir.

TC: Thank you.

Questions by the assistant defense counsel (LCDR MORGAN):

Q. Dr. Dickson, can you just please describe your educational background, please?

A. Sure. So, I have a bachelor's degree in psychology from Middle Tennessee State University. I completed that in December 1998. I went on from there to complete a master of arts degree in psychology in 2005, and then a Doctor of Psychology degree in 2008. And both of those degrees were from the Georgia School of Professional Psychology.

Q. And what is your current occupation and professional role?

A. I'm currently a licensed psychologist.

Q. And how long have you worked as a psychologist?

A. I have been licensed since September 2009.

Q. Okay. And can--

A. So almost 17 years.

Q. Okay. And can you please describe your areas of specialization?

A. Yes. My areas of specialization are forensic psychology, child and adolescent psychology, and trauma.

Q. And have you ever received any specialized training in psychological testing?

A. Yes. I took courses during graduate school in psychological testing. There were actual four full semesters devoted to psychological assessment.

In addition to that, you know, continued to complete--like, continuing education, to read new test manuals as new testing materials became available. So, I've had extensive training in testing and psychological assessment.

Q. Okay. And, do you--do you maintain continuing education in these areas?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, what experience do you have conducting forensic psychological evaluations?

A. So, I began conducting forensic psychological evaluations during my first practicum training during graduate school, which was 2004 to '5, if I recall correctly. During that time, I was working in an adult forensic inpatient unit at a psychiatric hospital, conducting psychological assessment and risk assessments.

I completed my predoctoral internship at Florida State Hospital. During that year, I was doing forensic psychological evaluations, assessing competence to stand trial, and issues such as malingering.

Since I went into private practice in December of 2013--so just about 13 years ago--I have focused almost exclusively on forensic psychological evaluations to assess competence to stand trial, criminal responsibility, risk assessment--just a variety of different psych and legal issues.

Q. Okay. And have you ever previously testified as an expert witness?

A. Yes.

Q. Has that been in the field of forensic psychology?

A. Yes.

Q. How many times?

A. So, I've testified in total somewhere between 140 and 150 times.

Q. And have you--have you ever had any issues ever qualifying as an expert in that field?

A. No.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Your Honor, at this time, we'd like to qualify Dr. Dickson as an expert in the field of forensic psychology.

MJ: Any objections, trial counsel?

TC: No objection, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well. Dr. Dickson is qualified as an expert--

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Thank you.

MJ: --will be recognized as an expert in the field of forensic psychology.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Thank you, Your Honor.

Questions by the assistant defense counsel (LCDR MORGAN):

Q. Did you conduct any psychological tests in this case?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Without going into your findings right now, can you explain what those tests were?

A. Yes. So, I conducted testing--one of the tests that I administered is called the test of memory malingering or the TOMM, and the Validity Indicator Profile, the VIP. Both of those are measures to assess for effort during testing of cognitive function during the psychological evaluation.

In addition to those, I administered the Repeatable Battery for the Assessment of Neuropsychological Status or the RBANS. And the Delis-Kaplan Executive Function System or the D-KEFS. And lastly, the Behavior Rating Inventory of Executive Functions, second edition adult version, also called the BRIEF.

Q. And you conducted all those tests on Petty Officer Copeland, correct?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. Now were those tests conducted in person or virtually?

A. In person.

Q. Roughly how long or how much time would you say you spent conducting those tests with Petty Officer Copeland?

A. So, in total, I spent about 4 hours and 45 minutes with him.

Q. Okay. Now let's kind of break those tests down. You mentioned that you administered two tests that focused on malingering and good effort. Can you explain the relevancy of those tests?

A. Sure. So, when conducting a psychological evaluation, particularly when assessing someone's cognitive functioning, the--the results of the cognitive test are not going to be valid and informative if a person doesn't put forth their best effort.

So, we have testing in psychology--specifically in this case, I used the TOMM and the VIP. We have testing that helps us to assess whether an individual is putting forth full effort during a test or if they are perhaps attempting to look more impaired than they are.

Q. And that's essentially to distinguish between genuine accountability and just kind of telling you what they want you to hear, correct?

A. Sure. So, it's to make sure that they're not, you know, attempting to look like they're impaired or that they have cognitive issues that they don't have.

Q. And--and the test that you did of Petty Officer Copeland involving malingering, what were the findings of those tests?

A. So, on the test of memory malingering, the TOMM, he had perfect scores on both the first and second trial of that test. So, what that means is it did not appear that he was attempting to malinger memory issues and that he was putting forth his best effort.

The results of the Validity Indicator Profile or the VIP, also suggested that he was putting forth his best effort and his responding was in the valid range on that test.

Q. Okay. Now you mentioned several other tests that you conducted. Can you just explain--just go through them and explain the relevancy of those tests?

A. Sure. So, I'll start with the RBANS. So, the RBANS is a screener for various neuropsychological cognitive issues. It evaluates attention, short term--or, excuse me, immediate memory and delayed memory, language, and visual spacial construction skills.

So, it just helps to get an understanding of those cognitive functions in the individual being assessed.

Q. And can you explain to the judge what your findings of those tests were?

A. Yes. So Petty Officer Copeland scored in the average range with regard to the visual spacial area. His scores regarding the immediate and delayed memory were below average.

The areas of concern that were identified for him were language. His score there fell in the borderline range. And then attention, his score in that area was in the impaired range.

Q. Okay. And those areas that you've kind of identified as deficiencies or, you know, where it fell below average, average or--would you--is that essentially you comparing him to a spectrum of people of his general age group?

A. Yes, correct.

Q. Now did your evaluation process stop at just conducting those tests of Petty Officer Copeland or did you go deeper?

A. No and yeah. In addition to that, I also did the D-KEFS test, the Delis-Kaplan Executive Function System test. On that measure, the results indicated that he has relative personal weaknesses in the areas of language. So, maintaining verbally fluent responses. And also, his verbal--verbal abstraction skills were weaknesses for him.

And then in addition to that, with the behavior rating inventory that I had him complete, there were indications of impairment with regard to inhibitory control and impulsivity and his ability to self-monitor; so, to monitor his own behaviors and the impact that those have.

Q. Did you do any collateral interviews or--or look at additional things during your evaluation process?

A. Yes. So, in addition to doing the testing when I met with Petty Officer Copeland, I also interviewed him to gather relevant history. Following the evaluation, I conducted collateral telephone interviews with his grandmother, his mother, his brother, and his former girlfriend.

And in addition to that, I also was able to review his school records as well as his records from the Naval Brig.

Q. And why do you find looking into those collateral areas as important to your evaluation process?

A. So, corroboration is very important. Collateral data is very important in particularly the area for forensic psychology. You know, clearly the stakes are often high, so it's important to the extent possible to try to corroborate what an individual tells you about their history. And also, just to get a more in-depth understanding of the individual from the perspective of other people or perhaps treatment providers and things of that nature.

Q. Okay. Now, would you say that the collateral information that you discovered was that consistent with the test that you conducted and your findings of your--the psychological tests that you conducted of Petty Officer Copeland?

A. So, in some areas it was. So, his school records, when I reviewed those, there were clear indications of difficulties with impulsivity, with inattentiveness, hyperactivity, which is consistent with the test results that I obtained. Specifically, the deficits that I talked about in attention, the deficits in inhibitory control, and, you know, being able to monitor one's own behavior. So, I think that those records were--were consistent with the test results that I obtained.

I would also say that with regard to some of his reported history, I was able to corroborate aspects of that through different collateral contacts.

Q. And anything about the school records particularly jumped out at you when you're talking about or looking at his attention--attention skills?

A. I apologize. Can you repeats that, please?

Q. I said did anything specifically jump out to you when you reviewed his school records in regards to his attention span?

A. Just that, you know, there were a lot of disruptive behaviors, primarily elementary school and middle school. But, you know, clearly there were some issues in school. He had difficulties, you know, staying seated, staying still, not being impulsive and disruptive.

It struck me that there was no intervention noted in the record. There was not any Individualized Education Program or 504 plan or anything else to--you know, to try to correct or ameliorate those issues.

Q. And you said that the--the lack of intervention kind of stood out to you. Why--why was that important?

A. So generally, in, you know, my experience in working with children and adolescents with, you know, issues in school--whether that's academic or behavioral--when a child has, you know, repeated behaviors, particularly that young--elementary, middle school--typically, there would be some sort of referral for, you know, services; whether that's a behavior intervention plan to help, you know, with positive reinforcement for appropriate behavior; whether it's a learning plan if the child needs like additional time on tests.

But it was, again, surprising that he was never referred for any sort of evaluation to assess the--the root of the problems and the issues that he was exhibiting in school.

Q. Um-hmm. And--and also, in addition to looking at the school records, you also didn't find any record or history of intervention also speaking to the family members and friends either, did you?

A. Correct.

Q. If there had been intervention early on, based on the deficiencies you were able to identify, would you say that could have changed his prognosis for the better?

A. Yes, absolutely.

Q. Now, Dr. Dickson, I want to dig a little bit deeper into his past. So, in your evaluation into Petty Officer Copeland and your interviews with his family, did you discover any trauma that he experienced as a child or adolescent?

A. Yes. Yes. I became aware through my interview with him and different collateral contacts that he experienced sexual abuse from two different perpetrators during his childhood into early adolescence.

There was at least one incident preschool age that was corroborated by his mother. There was also additional sexual abuse from a different perpetrator from the time he was approximately second or third grade, so probably about seven or eight, until early middle school.

And then also there was physical abuse that he experienced up until approximately middle school.

Q. And were you able to corroborate those trauma experiences that he talked about?

A. I was able to corroborate some. So, in speaking to his mother, she reported the incident or multi--could have been more than one incident. We're not sure. But at least one incident in preschool of him being sexually abused. His mother actually took him to the doctor because of the--the reports that she was given.

I was not able to corroborate with family the other abuse incidents; however, I am aware that--that Petty Officer Copeland also reported the same incidents to Ms. LaValva during his interviews with her. And I was able to corroborate that whooping was a fairly common occurrence for him.

Q. And when you say "whooping" there, you're talking--referring to corporal punishment?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, you mentioned that the family didn't know about the--the second sexual assault that happened that he reported to you and both Ms. LaValva. Is that unusual to you?

A. No. It's not at all uncommon for children who experience sexual abuse to delay disclosure into adulthood; some people never tell. So, in my experience it's not uncommon for other people, even people who are close to a child, to not be aware of that experience.

Q. Now, would you agree that these traumas that he experienced could have exacerbated some of the deficiencies that you identified in your executive functioning in impulsivity control and the other tests that you conducted?

A. Yes. I think that, you know, it's possible that there were preexisting issues for him, such as, you know, some Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder symptoms. And the--you know, the complex trauma would obviously exacerbate those difficulties.

You know, it's also possible that the difficulties that, you know, were observed in the records and even with some of the testing could actually even be a function of complex trauma.

Q. Now we--we talked a little bit about, when we were referring to the school records, that there was lack of intervention for that. Did you also identify a lack of intervention related to these trauma experiences that he faced?

A. Yes. He has not had any therapy to address the--the trauma issues. There hasn't been any therapy to address the--you know, the inattentiveness, the hyperactivity. No medication management.

So there really hasn't been any intervention for the--the issues that have been identified.

Q. Okay. Now, Dr. Dickson, I want to be clear with you. You're not trying to say or testify here today that any of these deficiencies or traumas compelled him to commit the offenses such that he essentially lacked mental responsibility for committing anything, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you also didn't conduct any tests associated with that?

A. Correct. That was not the focus of my evaluation.

Q. Okay. I just--just want to be clear for the court.

Are you familiar with the--the treatment and resources available at Fort Leavenworth for prisoners?

A. Yes.

Q. How so?

A. I had a telephone interview with Ms. Rachel Jeter, who is one of the senior treatment providers at Leavenworth. I had a phone conversation with her and Lieutenant Colonel Chard just a little over a year ago to talk to her and learn about the treatment options that are provided at Leavenworth.

Q. Gotcha. So that conversation wasn't so attenuated in time that those same things she talked about wouldn't be in existence today.

A. Correct.

Q. And based on your knowledge of these programs and treatment opportunities that are available at Leavenworth, would you say that those could be beneficial for Petty Officer Copeland?

A. Yes.

Q. How so?

A. So, Leavenworth offers a really wide variety of treatments, very in-depth treatment. They have group therapy for individuals who have been convicted of sexual offenses. They also have group therapy for individuals convicted of nonsexual violent offenses. The sex offender treatment lasts about six months, and the assaultive offender treatment is about seven months.

In addition to the group therapies that are, you know, specifically focused on the type of crime that was committed, they also have licensed individual therapists who are trained in trauma treatment, such as cognitive processing therapy.

They also have individual therapists who are trained to work with individuals who inhibit their sex offenses to provide additional therapy in an individual setting.

In addition to those things, they have behavioral techs who provide group training for skills such as anger management, coping with anxiety, parenting skills.

They also offer job training in a variety of areas. There are educational opportunities up through earning a master's degree.

When I spoke with Ms. Jeter, they were beginning an animal assisted therapy program. They also have a pastoral counseling program, groups like AA and NA. So, they really have a very, very wide variety of--of interventions that are available there.

Q. Okay. And based on your interactions with Petty Officer Copeland, has he presented any signs that he would be unable or unwilling to participate in any type of treatment that they--that they provide to him?

A. There was nothing from my interactions with him that would suggest that, no.

Q. Have you actually seen things that would show that he has actually done treatment so far?

A. Yes. His records from the Naval Brig show that he has been participating in the programming that's offered there. They have--it looks like groups that are primarily focused on life skills, everything from resumé building to other types of coping skills for negative emotions. But he has been participating in those as well.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Thank you, Your Honor. Nothing further.

Trial counsel or the judge may have questions for you.

MJ: Trial counsel, cross-examination?

ATC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: You may proceed.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

Questions by the assistant trial counsel:

Q. Hey, good morning, Dr. Dickson.

A. Good morning.

Q. So, I kind of want to go back to the beginning of your testimony when you spoke about the--the BRIEF2A test that you conducted. Is that one of the tests that you conducted in this case?

A. That's one of the tests I conducted, yes.

Q. And in that test, you measured things like his inhibition and self-monitoring?

A. Correct.

Q. And in those categories, a score of 50 is considered average?

A. Yes, that would be an average T-score.

Q. And an average--a score of a 64 and below would be considered normal?

A. Yes. So below 60 is normal--60 to 64 potentially problematic, but it doesn't rise to the level of a significant elevation.

Q. Okay. But anywhere from zero to 64 accounts for 93 percent of all Americans, give or take.

Is that about right?

A. That's about right, correct.

Q. Okay. And Copeland scored a 65 on inhibition?

A. Yes, correct.

Q. So nearly in that--that 50 to--or, sorry, that up to 64 range?

A. Yes. Yeah. His--his score was in the mildly elevated range, correct.

Q. Okay. And he scored a 67 on self-monitoring?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. Also mildly elevated?

A. Yes. They were both in the mildly elevated range.

Q. And you're familiar with the concept of test-retest, reliability?

A. Yes.

Q. That means the likelihood that if he was retested, his score could change?

A. Correct.

Q. And the retest reliability for this test is about .7?

A. That sounds about accurate.

Q. Okay. And with a .7 there--around there, that means his score could actually fall within the normal range if he's retested?

A. It's possible, sure.

Q. It could even be average?

A. It's possible.

Q. And as part of your examination, you reviewed the case file and did research on Copeland's personal history like you just discussed?

A. Correct.

Q. He played sports?

A. Yes.

Q. He was a good teammate?

A. As far as I know he was a good teammate. I am aware he played a lot of sports.

Q. Okay. I guess my--my ultimate question is you didn't see any evidence of him failing to listen or follow his coaches or follow the rules?

A. Not in the sports area, correct.

Q. Right, right.

What about in JROTC? He--did you see that he was a member of that?

A. Yes.

Q. In fact, he followed the rules there too?

A. Yes, my understanding is he did.

Q. And he's obviously, you know, been in the Navy. Any evidence that he didn't show up to work on time?

A. I believe there were maybe a couple of instances. I don't have an exact count; but overall, I don't think there were major issues with that.

Q. Okay. Any other major issues with, you know, disrespect to leadership; anything like that?

A. I didn't see anything outside of the current case.

Q. And you mentioned that you spoke with a prior girlfriend of his?

A. Yes.

Q. And they had dated, you know, for a period of time and, you know, they broke up and they got back together a few times?

A. Yes. It sounds like it was kind of a typical high school relationship; off and on.

Q. Did they argue?

A. Yes. There was--she did indicate that they would argue about little things.

Q. But Copeland was never violent with her?

A. That's correct.

Q. In other words, Copeland can control himself when he wants to; is that correct?

A. I think there are probably some situations where he does better than others, sure.

Q. So, sports, JROTC, and the Navy?

A. Yes.

Q. And in prepping to testify here, you spoke with some family members?

A. Correct.

Q. You testified that collateral data is in fact very important, right?

A. Yes.

Q. But in reaching your conclusions, you did not speak with his JROTC mentor and coach, Mr. Quidachay?

A. I did not. I was able to review a statement from him. I didn't speak with him personally.

Q. Okay. Did you speak with his extended family?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. And you were not asked to conduct a recidivism analysis in this case, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. And you mentioned this on direct but in your report, you conclude that Copeland has weaknesses in the area of attention, inhibitory control and impulsivity, and awareness of the impact of his behavior on others and on outcomes.

Is that correct?

A. Yes, correct.

Q. Are those findings consistent with a diagnosis for antisocial personality disorder?

A. The impulsivity certainly could be. So, yeah, I would say the impulsivity could be associated with that, correct.

Q. What is antisocial personality disorder?

A. So, a personality disorder basically is a way that a person is. It's--it's basically their personality; who the individual is.

With antisocial personality disorder, generally you're dealing with an individual who has repeated violations of societal norms. That's one of the behavioral indicators. Other, you know, behavioral indicators can be irresponsibility; so, kind of, you know, relying on others as opposed to working. Impulsivity certainly is one of the things. You know, disregarding your own safety or the safety of others.

So those are some of the--the things that you might see with antisocial personality disorder.

Q. And is antisocial personality disorder difficult to treat?

A. It can be, yes.

Q. Why is that?

A. Again, because, you know, when we're dealing with personality disorders, it's less an issue of, you know, a person experiencing symptoms that don't feel good to them, that are ego-dystonic as opposed to an individual just being this is how the person is, this is who they are, and so they may not see a need for a treatment.

Q. Okay. And on direct, you said that there were treatment options available at Leavenworth, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. But you did not provide an opinion on if you believed Copeland would be successful in treatment; is that correct?

A. I apologize. Can you repeat that question?

Q. Yes, ma'am. I'm sorry.

You did not provide an opinion on if Copeland--in whether Petty Officer Copeland would be successful with treatment?

A. I did not provide that opinion, correct.

ATC: No further questions, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense counsel, redirect?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): One moment, Your Honor.

MJ: Take your time.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No questions, Your Honor.

MJ: All right. Is Dr. Dickson subject to recall?

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): No, Your Honor.

MJ: Dr. Dickson, I don't know if you can see me. This is the military judge. But thank you very much for your testimony. You're excused from further participation in this court-martial. While the court-martial continues, please don't discuss your testimony with anyone except for the counsel involved.

But thank you very much, and you can drop off the call and have good day.

WIT: Thank you, Your Honor.

ADC (LCDR MORGAN): Your Honor, permission to turn off the VTC?

MJ: You may.

[The VTC connection with the witness was terminated.]

MJ: Defense counsel.

DC: At this time, Petty Officer Copeland would like to make an unsworn statement for the court.

MJ: Very well. You may proceed.

UNSWORN STATEMENT

ACC: Good morning, Your Honor.

I understand that my choices and decisions are what bring us all into this courtroom today. There is no excuse for what I did, and I know that no amount of words can fix the damage that I've caused. I want to apologize and say I'm truly sorry for my actions.

First, I would like to apologize to the Navy and all my shipmates for how my actions reflect upon the Navy as a whole. I was trusted to wear this uniform, and I betrayed that trust.

Second, I would like to apologize to my family standing behind me. To my mother, I'm sorry you have to be there for this. To my three sisters, I love you very much. And to my son, I know you won't understand this now, but I'll spend the rest of my life trying to take--trying to make--trying--making my life--like, my life out of his. I hope you all can forgive me and thank you for being here supporting me today.

Lastly, I want to apologize to the Resendiz family and to Ms. Castle. I took my life out of your--I took the life of your daughter, a young woman with her whole life ahead of her. She was a ship--she was my shipmate, someone who deserved to be safe around me, someone who should have been able to trust me; instead, I commit--I committed the worst betrayal possible.

I'm also ashamed of how I acted afterwards. The way I treated her and the lies I've told. I was so afraid of facing the truth that I've--I've made everything worse. I know the pain that you've had to endure.

Nothing I--I can say will change or fix. And I never expect that you would have forgiven me, but I want you to know that I'm sorry for the pain that I've caused and my actions, and I will live with my actions for every minute of every day.

My hope is that being honest and account for my actions and expressing my sincere remorse that I can family with your--I can provide your family with some decent closure.

I have a long time ahead of me in prison and I know that doesn't compare to what I've taken from you, but I--I will do my best to become better. I plan to use counseling and therapy to continue my effort to rise above my thoughtless and tragedy actions. I will spend the rest of my life trying to be a positive force in the world and not a negative one.

Once again, I'm truly sorry.

MJ: Thank you.

ACC: Thank you, Your Honor.

MJ: Defense counsel.

DC: Defense rests, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Trial counsel, do you have any rebuttal evidence to offer?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Trial counsel, are you ready to present argument?

TC: Yes, Your Honor. May we take a brief recess? We need to bring some things into the courtroom.

MJ: Okay. Is--how much time do you need?

TC: I think 15 minutes.

MJ: Okay. Let's come back at--okay. Let's come back at 1045.

Court's in recess till 1045.

[The court-martial recessed at 1026, 9 June 2026.]

[The court-martial was called to order at 1046, 9 June 2026.]

MJ: This court-martial's called to order. All parties present when the court last recessed are once again present.

Trial counsel, you may present argument.

TC: Thank you, Your Honor.

One year ago today, in a lightly wooded area just beyond the curb of a small Norfolk residential neighborhood, down a path where children would run to get close to the creek and adjacent to an elementary school, lay this bag. Concealed behind overgrown bushes and leaning haphazardly against a tree, missing a wheel, lay this black nylon bag.

Until that day there was nothing special about this bag; a simple black bag used to get uniforms and PT gear from boot camp to Norfolk, from point A to point B. But on that day, 9 June 2025, it held so much more than that. This bag carried what remained of a daughter, of a sister, of a friend, of a United States Navy sailor.

The story of this bag though does not begin, nor does it end on 9 June of 2025, and it is a story fraught with two common themes: Deception and manipulation. These two themes describe the conduct of this bag's owner, CS3 Jermiah Copeland, who lies to obfuscate and to avoid responsibility. And he manipulates the trust implicit in being a shipmate for his own benefit.

The sailor before you is not one who deserves relief because of youth or immaturity. His actions do not show a lack of impulse control; but instead, calculated and deliberate actions to harm others and frustrate attempts to hold him accountable for that harm. He is someone who has been given multiple chances to course correct.

Instead, he has chosen this path; the path that leads to only one appropriate sentence in this case: The maximum under the plea agreement. 480 months of confinement for the murder of Petty Officer Angelina Resendiz. 36 months for the obstruction of justice in concealing her body for days. 36 months for the false official statement to investigators about her disappearance. 36 months for the strangulation of C.R. 3 months for the indecent recording of S.S. 36 months for the obstruction of justice as it relates to S.S. Reduction to E-1, and a dishonorable discharge.

The path that Petty Officer Copeland chose and mapped to this courtroom begins in July of 2024 on board the USS Harry S. Truman, where Petty Officer Copeland manipulated the trust of a junior sailor, ABHAN C.R.; luring her into a secluded area on the ship under false pretenses of showing concern for the relationship with her boyfriend.

When she did not submit to what he wanted her to do, he forced her; grabbed her by the throat so hard she could hardly breathe. His fingers pressed so tightly around her neck, he left bruises. When confronted by investigators, he manipulates.

What you will see throughout his crimes, even in his lies, he leaves a kernel of truth. He focuses on facts that will come out anyway because it serves him. He gets ahead of it and spins them in his favor.

This is not impulsive behavior. This is calculated. It is thoughtful; designed to gain the trust of the interviewer just enough so they believe it's plausible that maybe he's telling the truth.

In this case, though, he can't avoid the bruises. So, with no remorse, he lies and tells investigators he places his hand around her neck in a playful manner.

This story continues though, Your Honor, and less than four months later and still while under investigation for the strangulation of C.R., he comes upon another sailor, S.S., while deployed at a port call. They're at a bar, she's drunk, and she asks for help to get to the bathroom.

While in the bathroom, he films himself penetrating her. This video was never recovered, but the contents were retold by several sailors. The video depicts him smiling.

Arguably, he knows people went into the--that people saw him go into the bathroom with her, so he emerges from the bathroom with video in hand to show everyone.

S.S. reported she had no memory of what took place and had to be told by multiple coworkers about what the recording depicted.

When confronted by S.S., he again showed no remorse and lied. He told her they didn't even have sex; told her no video existed and quickly ensured the video and his phone would never be recovered. He lied to law enforcement and said he gave it to another shipmate and told others that it was in the ocean.

S.S. described the impact of this crime on her and her work center. She described herself as depressed. She was uncomfortable with him at work and had to leave the work center during turnover just to avoid him. She described the work center as being angry with him and wanting to fight him.

Merely six months later and still under investigation for C.R. and S.S., CS3 Copeland finds himself in a new setting, a new ship, a new set of shipmates who will implicitly trust him because they must. That is the foundation of the Navy.

And there he meets a young, motivated CS. And until 28 May 2025, CS3--CS3 Angelina Resendiz had the brightest of futures. She was by all accounts a hard worker, a dedicated teammate, a person committed to making her life better. And as you heard yesterday from her friends and her coworkers, the Navy was lucky to have had her, and the Navy feels her loss.

Petty Officer Copeland though did not see another sailor in Petty Officer Resendiz. He saw an opportunity. She was recently single. And in CS3 Copeland's mind, he invited her over to make dinner in a barracks room located just across the street from where we are sitting today; in a room that Petty Officer Resendiz shouldn't have to worry about going to alone because he was her shipmate.

You saw the text messages between Petty Officer Garcia and Petty Officer Resendiz in Prosecution Exhibit 17; the tone of that evening. Petty Officer Resendiz was just going over to teach Petty Officer Copeland how to cook.

But at some point, that evening took a turn. And because CS3 Copeland again wanted to escape accountability, he murdered her.

Prosecution Exhibit 27, the digital forensic expert report, shows that around the time Petty Officer Copeland accessed his chat--his Snapchat account in the early morning hours, which corroborates his stipulation and his allocution yesterday.

Petty Officer Resendiz became distraught. As prosecution exhibits show, distraught call--she made a distraught call--distraught call to Mr. Rich; and a--in that pleading call, asking him to come and get her.

Petty Officer Copeland calmly takes the phone and simply asks how long till Mr. Rich gets there. And in that time before help can arrive, Petty Officer Copeland places his hand over Petty Officer Resendiz's mouth to keep her from making noise, to avoid any accusation that what he had done to upset her had been something nefarious. He then places his hands around her neck applying pressure until he ends her life.

This is not impulsive. This is realizing that he's going to catch yet another case and take steps to avoid accountability. Your Honor, he ended a human life and for that he must receive the maximum punishment under the guidelines.

But what comes next is why the government is asking that you find his obstruction to be the most severe under the guidelines;

the concealment of her body. His actions are deliberate, calculated, thoughtful. Not the impact, not the impulsive actions of a--of a youth as Defense Exhibit C seems to suggest. Take a look at those actions.

Petty Officer Copeland first hides her body in plain sight. In the immediate aftermath of his--of the murder he is startled by the arrival of his suite mate who returns home from leave.

When the suite mate enters the barracks room and sees a woman slumped over in Petty Officer Copeland's arm, Petty Officer Copeland barks at him to go back to his room. His suite mate trusted Petty Officer Copeland and assumed that whomever he was with maybe just was very drunk.

Petty Officer Copeland, unable to move the body into his bedroom because his roommate was in there asleep, he removes Petty Officer Resendiz's clothing and his clothing and positions their bodies in a way that gives the appearance the two of them had engaged in some sort of sexual activity in the common area. Then despite the horror that had just occurred, Petty Officer Copeland is able to fall asleep.

The next morning, his staging tactic worked and all three roommates avert their eyes as they leave for work, stealing only momentary glances at the two mostly naked bodies splayed in the common area. Impulsivity would have been to put that body behind the couch or cover it in a blanket. He went further.

Once his roommates leave, he then moves the body of Petty Officer Resendiz into his bedroom where he laid next to--next to her--in the bed next to that body. Showing no remorse, he flips on his phone and watches pornography for hours, interrupted only by the knock at the door of--which is his chief. He lies to his chief and benefits from that chief's dereliction.

After his chief leaves, he goes to his closet and removes this black bag. And as you can see through Prosecution Exhibit 36, the X-ray that was taken of this bag by the medical examiner, Petty Officer Copeland pushed Petty Officer Resendiz's body into this bag face first, pulling her legs behind her head. And as the medical examiner theorizes, likely applied enough pressure to break several of her ribs in the process.

He then places that bag in his closet where he leaves it for four days, sleeping every night in that room mere feet from her contorted body.

On 1 June, he is questioned by law enforcement. Law enforcement recognize him as the person with the most important information; the person who steers the investigation in its most crucial hours. He tells law enforcement he dropped her off at her barracks; effectively telling them, trust me and look over there.

And then he has the audacity to send two text messages to Petty Officer Resendiz's phone, which is page 3 of Prosecution Exhibit 18. Yo, are you okay; they marked us both UA.

He sends these messages as if she's in some far away place avoiding her friends and family and not facedown in a bag in his closet. These are not the actions of an impulsive youth.

Mere hours after he told law enforcement that he had dropped her off at her barracks and under the cover of night and in the early morning hours of 2 June, he wheels this suitcase out of his closet, clunking it down two flights of stairs as if it was still full of uniforms and not a human being. The bag leaking as it makes its final trip.

He places this bag in a jeep that he had also obtained through manipulation; manipulating the trust of him roommate whom he borrowed it from. And with that jeep, he drives Petty Officer Resendiz's body all around the Norfolk Area, searching for places to leave her, searching woods and trails.

And when he finds his spot, he turns his phone into airplane mode to avoid detention. He wheels this bag through the brush, behind the overgrown bushes, and leans it haphazardly against a tree. He leaves her in the woods alone.

It is the hope that kills you. For 12 days Ms. Castle, Mr. Rich, Petty Officer Gillespie, Petty Officer Garcia, Petty Officer Jean Jacques, Petty Officer Bryant, every NCIS agent who worked on this case hoped above all hope they could find Petty Officer Resendiz alive. And they believed that because of the false narrative that Petty Officer Copeland provided to investigators; that the last time he saw her she was alive at her barracks room. It is the hope that kills you.

And for days, each person tried desperately to recount their last interaction with her, hoping they'd see her, sometimes believing they saw her; giving investigators every last piece of information they could find and in some cases physically searching for her for days.

For nearly 12 days, law enforcement--NCIS leading the charge brought every resource they had to bear in this investigation. 4,926 manhours over a ten-day period; flying agents in from all parts of the world; enlisting planes, drones, and conducting countless interviews.

But most importantly, Ms. Castle explained the agony of not knowing where her child was for 12 days; holding out all hope that maybe, just maybe, she had really left Petty Officer Copeland's room and would return back to her friends and family.

But in the end, the worse became real for her family and friends, and Ms. Castle's fear of when her daughter joined the Navy became reality.

The final insult, the final consequence of--to his crime was that because of how he concealed her body and how long his lies were successful, he robbed Ms. Castle and her family of one final opportunity to see her daughter's face.

Your Honor, I'd like to end with that this sailor has been given every opportunity for a fresh start. Ms. LaValva in Defense Exhibit C detailed that Petty Officer Copeland thrives with structure. He excelled in sports. He listened to coaches. He followed the rules, listened to his JROTC instructor.

Petty Officer Copeland knows how to follow the rules when he wants to, when it serves him. He knows how to control his actions. And when he wants to, he does it.

And he grew up with a family, with a mother, and many aunts who clearly care deeply about him. But Petty Officer Copeland didn't listen to those coaches or to his family, but he will listen to you today with your sentence.

The story of this small black bag didn't end on 9 June 2025, and it won't end today. But through your sentence, you recognize the horrendous nature of these crimes and the impact Petty Officer Copeland had on his victims, their families, and the Navy.

You recognize the impact of the loss of the life of Petty Officer Angelina Resendiz. You specifically send a message to Petty Officer Copeland that he can no longer lie and manipulate his way out of accountability; the accountability his family taught him. Remind him of that lesson today, Your Honor, with your sentence. True accountability begins today.

Thank you.

MJ: Defense counsel, are you prepared to argue?

DC: No. We would like the prosecution to move Prosecution Exhibit 40 from--

MJ: And--trial counsel.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: If you could remove Prosecution Exhibit 40.

DC: They can go out this door. They don't need to parade it down the courtroom either.

MJ: In fact, let's do that because I'll--I'll need to take that into deliberations. Let's move it out here into the witness--in the deliberation room.

BAILIFF: Yes, Your Honor.

TC: Do you want the table too, Your Honor?

MJ: Does it roll?

TC: I can--

MJ: No.

TC: --pick it up, Your Honor.

MJ: That'll work, yeah.

You can just stage it in the--in the deliberation room, Mr. Bailiff.

[The bailiff did as requested.]

MJ: Let the record reflect that Prosecution Exhibit 40 has been removed to the deliberation room and the bailiff has returned to the courtroom.

Defense counsel, you may present argument.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

Jermiah Copeland is a young man. He's already a father. He's a son, a brother, a nephew. He's a member of a close family. He is a person who made some terrible choices, but he has a family who loves him and misses him. And he did some awful things. There's no question about that.

The government has done a very good job in presenting a dearth of aggravating evidence for Charge VII. There's no question. His actions will have a lasting and devastating impact for a lot of people and the Navy.

But he has taken a big step towards real change. He came to this court, and he took responsibility; agreed to a sentence that includes the maximum confinement under the guidelines for murder. And this court will award him 40 years of confinement for Charge VII.

But there is some room for leniency in this case. Pursuant to R.C.M. 1002(c), this court must not only consider the nature and the circumstances of the offenses, but also the history and the characteristics of CS3 Copeland.

You heard from Dr. Dickson, and you read Ms. LaValva's report in Defense Exhibit C. CS3 Copeland did have some obstacles in his child. Raised by a single mother who was trying her best. There's no question that CS3 Copeland was a handful and subjected to abuse; minimized his discipline and he was the victim of sexual abuse, first by a friend and then by his own cousin.

He kept some of those things bottled up, but he acted out. His misbehavior was documented and likely led to more abuse. He acted out, either because he was suffering from Attention Deficit Disorder or as a response to trauma and maybe from a personality disorder as the trial counsel suggested.

Either way, while it was documented, it was ignored. The underlying cause went untreated. No intervention, no medication, and untreated issues rarely improve on their own and it certainly did not here.

CS3 Copeland tried to improve his situation. He participated in sports, in ROTC. He graduated from high school and joined the Navy, but he continued to act out. And, again, it was ignored; nothing to indicate that CS3 Copeland received any treatment, medication, or interventions until he was confined. Multiple chances. It seems like there was really no chance without proper interventions.

You heard from Dr. Dickson maybe if someone had intervened, got him the help he needed, the prognosis could have been different.

There's no blame to anyone else for what CS3 Copeland did. He accepts full responsibility for his actions. But he was very young. He is still very young. He's a charismatic and social person with a whole family of people who love him. And it's hard not to wonder and wish if things could have been different for the victims, for C.R. and S.S., and certainly for CS3 A.R., but also for CS3 Copeland and his family.

You heard from his family. He was the life of the party, a born leader, and fun-loving. So much opportunity.

In Defense Exhibit F, you heard the audio of a recorded call between CS3 Copeland and his son. That's how CS3 Copeland will be a part of his son's life. That's how he will be a parent for the next 40 years. A child that he has only met once, a child who will no longer have CS3 Copeland's income to assist him.

You also heard that CS3's mother is 43. His grandmother is 65. When CS3 Copeland is released over 40 years from now, his son will no longer be a child. His mother will be over 80. And today is likely the last time that his grandmother will see him out of prison. And those are the consequences.

And, yes, at least his family will be able to talk to CS3 Copeland, something that CS3 A.R.'s mother will never be able to do.

I simply ask that you consider how great the consequences are, not just for CS3 Copeland but for the people who love and rely on him. CS3 Copeland has already spent over a year in harsh confinement conditions; at least 22 hours a day in a cell alone.

But CS3 Copeland did his best; engaged in courses and treatment, the ones you see in Defense Exhibit E. He wants to get better. He is trying to improve.

So that brings us to Specification 1 of Charge VI, and this is where leniency is appropriate. This court must give a segmented sentence and must award only what is sufficient and no more than necessary.

A false official statement to Special Agent Gokey and, Your Honor, there is no greater mitigation for a lie than the truth.

R.C.M. 1001(g) states that a plea of guilty is a mitigating factor; that CS3 Copeland did more than just plead guilty. He came to this courtroom and provided the truth--an important truth. Deception is mitigated by accountability and truth.

The truth that the government could not have got from anywhere else. The truth that would not have come from a contested trial. The truth that hopefully brings Ms. Castle and all of CS3 A.R.'s friends and family some closure. The truth that saved the government thousands of dollars and hundreds of manhours.

The truth that saved witnesses and victims from coming to court. The truth that saved jury members from photos and evidence. The truth that ensured good order and discipline.

He agreed to face this court and the public with the truth. He agreed to a private meeting with CS3 A.R.'s mother. Like Ms. Castle said yesterday, accountability is about truth.

CS3 Copeland lied. I ask that you pay extra attention to Paragraphs 95 through 98, Defense Exhibit C, to put some perspective on that false statement. It's clear: CS3 Copeland was scared, he was selfish, he was wrong.

But he came to this court and told the truth in front of a very large audience. He was brave. He faced the public, his victim's mother, and his family. And that is fitting of mercy. That sends a message that if you do the right thing, even after you've done a terrible thing, if you come and face the truth, it will matter and you will receive mercy.

Your Honor, the sufficient punishment for Specification 1 of Charge VI is no more than 90 days of confinement. And for all the other specifications, this court should award confinement consistent with the law and the plea agreement.

MJ: Thank you.

Before I close to deliberate on sentence, defense counsel, have you advised the accused orally and in writing of the accused's post-trial and appellate rights, including but not limited to the rights contained for rule--in Rule for Court-Martial 1010?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Does the accused have a copy of those post-trial and appellate rights?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, I have Appellate Exhibit CXII. Is that the right--that's the right number, right?

DC: I don't remember.

CXI, Your Honor.

MJ: Correct. CXI.

Petty Officer Copeland, I have Appellate Exhibit CXI, which is the appellate rights advice form.

Is that your signature on the form?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: And, defense counsel, is that your signature also on Appellate Exhibit CXI?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, did your defense counsel explain to you your post-trial and appellate rights?

ACC: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

MJ: Do you have any questions about those post-trial and appellate rights?

ACC: No, sir.

MJ: Commander Serfess, are you gonna be responsible for the post-trial and appellate?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

This court is closed for deliberations.

[The court-martial closed for deliberations at 1113, 9 June 2026.]

[The court-martial was called to order at 1235, 9 June 2026.]

MJ: This court-martial's called to order. All parties present when the court closed for deliberations are once again present.

Prior to announcing sentence, I have considered the defense's motion for appropriate relief for illegal pretrial confinement and deny the motion.

My findings of fact and conclusions of law will be appended to the record at Appellate Exhibit CXIII.

Accused and defense counsel, please rise.

[The accused and his counsel did as directed.]

MJ: Petty Officer Copeland, this court-martial sentences you:

To be reduced to the pay grade of E-1,
To forfeit all pay and allowances,
To be dishonorably discharged from the Naval service,
And to be confined as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| For the Sole Specification of Charge II: | 18 months; |
| For Specification 1 of Charge III: | 3 months; |
| For Specification 1 of Charge IV: | 6 months; |
| For Specification 2 of Charge IV: | 36 months; |
| For Specification 1 of Charge VI: | 12 months; |
| And for the LIO of the Sole Specification of Charge VII: | 480 months. |

The periods of confinement adjudged for the Sole Specification of Charge II, Specification 1 of Charge III, and Specification 1 of Charge IV shall be served concurrently with all other adjudged confinement.

The period of confinement for Specification 2 of Charge IV shall be served consecutively with the periods of confinement adjudged for Specification 1 of Charge VI and the LIO of the Sole Specification of Charge VII.

The period of confinement for Specification 1 of Charge VI shall be served consecutively with the periods of confinement adjudged for Specification 2 of Charge IV and the LIO of the Sole Specification of Charge VII.

The period of confinement for the LIO of the Sole Specification of Charge VII shall be served consecutively with the periods of confinement adjudged for Specification 2 of Charge IV and Specification 1 of Charge VI.

For a total period of confinement of 528 months confinement.

You may be seated.

[The accused and his counsel did as directed.]

MJ: Do counsel agree that the adjudged--adjudged sentence complies with the terms of the plea agreement and the law?

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: The accused will receive 365 days of confinement credit against the accused's term of confinement.

Are there any other matters to take up before the court adjourns?

TC: Not from the government, Your Honor.

DC: Not from the defense, Your Honor.

MJ: This court is adjourned.

[The court-martial adjourned at 1237, 9 June 26.]

ARTICLE 30a
PRELIMINARY HEARING

US v CSSN COPELAND
30a Audio Recording

[The Article 30a session was called to order at 1304, 15 September 2025.]

MJ: This Article 30a session is called to order. This prereferral proceeding is authorized by Article 30a, Uniform Code of Military Justice, and Rule for Court-Martial 309(b)(6) in the matter of a motion to review the propriety of pretrial confinement of Culinary Specialist Seaman Jermiah Copeland, United States Navy, USS James E. Williams, DDG-95.

Government counsel, please announce your detailing and qualifications and identify the court--court reporter, excuse me.

TC: Yes, Your Honor.

I'm Commander Lauren Mayo, JAG Corps, United States Navy. Both Lieutenant Christopher Dempsey and I have been detailed to this Article 30a hearing by myself as the Chief Special Trial Counsel, Office of Special Trial Counsel, Detachment Norfolk, under a grant of authority from the Lead Special Trial Counsel, Office of Special Trial Counsel, and pursuant to a memorandum of understanding with the Region Legal Service Office MIDLANT.

We are qualified and certified under Article 27(b) and sworn under Article 42(a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice. I am also qualified and certified under Article 24a. We have not acted--we have not acted in any disqualifying manner.

MJ: Thank you.

Good afternoon, Seaman Copeland.

And I do appreciate the courtesy. You can remain seated.

ACC: Thank you, sir.

MJ: Seaman Copeland, you have the right to be represented at this prereferral Article 30a hearing by Lieutenant Commander Serfess and Lieutenant Commander Morgan, your detailed military--military defense counsel.

They are lawyers certified by the Judge Advocate General of the Navy as qualified to act as your defense counsel, and they are members of the Navy's Defense Service Organization. Their services are provided to you at no expense.

You also have the right to be represented by a military counsel of your own selection provided that the counsel you request is reasonably available.

If you were represented by a military counsel of your own selection, then your detailed defense counsel would normally be excused; however, you could request that your detailed counsel continue to represent you, but your request would not have to be granted.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: In addition to your military defense counsel, you have the right to be represented by civilian counsel at no expense to the government. Civilian counsel may represent you along with your military defense counsel, or you could excuse your military counsel and be represented only by your civilian counsel.

Do you understand that?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Do you have any questions about your rights to counsel at this Article 30a prereferral proceeding?

ACC: No, sir.

MJ: By whom do you wish to be represented at this Article 30a proceeding?

ACC: Lieutenant--Lieutenant Commander Morgan and Lieutenant Commander Serfess.

MJ: And by them alone?

ACC: Yes, sir.

MJ: Very well.

Defense counsel, please announce your detailing and qualifications.

DC: Yes, sir.

All detailed members of the defense have been detailed to this court-martial by Commander Brian Barletto, Executive Officer, Defense Service Office Southeast, by the authority delegated to him by the Commanding Officer of the same command.

All detailed members have been certified under Article 27(b) and sworn under Article 42(a) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice. And no member of the defense has acted in any manner that might tend to disqualify us from this hearing.

MJ: Very well. Thank you.

I have been properly certified and sworn, and I detailed myself to this court-martial. I'm sorry--to this proceeding. I'm not aware of any matter that might be grounds to challenge against me.

Does either side wish to question or challenge the military judge?

TC: No, Your Honor.

DC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Counsel for both sides appear to have the requisite qualifications, and all personnel required to have been sworn have been sworn.

So just some procedural history:

On 26 August 2025, counsel for Seaman Copeland filed a prereferral motion to review the propriety of his pretrial confinement. That motion's been marked as Enclosure (1) to this proceeding. And evidence supporting that motion has been marked as Enclosure (2).

On the 27th of August 2025, I detailed myself--as Circuit Military Judge, I detailed myself as military judge for this Article 30a proceeding.

On 8 September 2025, counsel for the government filed a response to the defense motion. That response has been attached to this proceeding as Enclosure (3) and evidence provided in support of that response has been marked as Enclosure (4).

And then yesterday, on 14 September 2025, counsel for Seaman Copeland provided additional supplemental evidence in support of the prereferral motion, and that's been marked as Enclosure (2a).

So, counsel, with all that said, I have read all the filings and their enclosures.

And defense counsel--well, let me ask this: Who has the burden here?

DC: The defense does, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. So, in this case, you have specifically made allegations about the conditions of Seaman Copeland's confinement that make it more difficult for you to communicate with him; and therefore, you're seeking an order from this court directing the government to permit defense counsel to meet with Seaman Copeland privately in the same room without any glass barriers, things like that.

Is that correct? Have I summarized what your prayer for relief is?

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: Okay. Or in the alternative, you seek his release from pretrial confinement; is that correct?

DC: That's correct, if they can't--if they--if they're unable to not interfere with his representation.

MJ: Okay. I understand.

So, again, I've read your filings but before we get into any of the facts surrounding the conditions of Seaman Copeland's confinement, what--what authority do I have in this prereferral proceeding to grant the equitable relief you're seeking? What authority do I have as a prereferral military judge under Article 30a to order the brig or the government to do anything?

DC: Your Honor, the defense stands on its filings when it comes to that. We're not--so we're not asking the court to order the brig to do anything. We're asking the government to stop interfering with--with his rights to counsel and our ability to confer with our counsel, however they might execute your order. And--

MJ: Well, let me--let stop you there. You're--you--I've seen your filings. You have asked the government to do that, but you're not asking the government to do that now. You're asking the military judge, in a prereferral proceeding under Article 30a, to order the government to do something.

So, my--my question is pretty precise: Where do I get the authority to do that?

Because I don't see it in 30a, and I don't see it in R.C.M. 309. So, if you can point me to some authority that provides the military judge the ability to do that, then we can talk about the conditions of confinement.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

The defense's position is just like we say in our written filing; is that 30a and R.C.M. 309 do allow the judge to do that, because it--

MJ: Okay. So--so point to me where in 30a or R.C.M. 309 it says I can order the government to do something, because I don't see that in the writing of R.C.M. 309 or in Article 30a.

DC: R.C.M. 309(a)(1) says that the--that you can order remedies as necessary to further the purpose of the proceedings.

MJ: Does it say the word "remedies"?

That's what your--that's what your motion says, but that's not what the rule says.

DC: Well now you have me doubting myself, Your Honor.

MJ: And I'm pulling it up too.

DC: It says may issue such rulings and orders as necessary to further the purpose of the hearing.

MJ: Okay.

DC: So, it doesn't say "remedies" but "orders," and that's what we're asking. Our remedy is an order so--excuse me.

MJ: Hold on. Hold on.

That's in the general section under 30a.

DC: Yes.

MJ: Under R.C.M. 309(a).

DC: That's correct.

MJ: And then under R.C.M. 309(b), it says the different types of proceedings that may be handled under R.C.M. 309 in--under Article 30a.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: So, Article 30a is the--legislation that authorizes a military judge to handle things prereferral.

Because, again, courts-martial are not standing courts. In this case there's been no convened court. There's been no charges referred to a court, so there aren't the general judicial powers you have at a court-martial.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: So, I am limited by 30a under what we can do in these prereferral proceedings.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: So R.C.M. 309(b) is the President's regulations that tell those different types of proceedings, and it's about investigative subpoenas and warrants. It's--it's enforcing victims rights under Article 6b, it's handling material that's sent back from an appellate court; and under R.C.M. 309(b)(6), it's pretrial confinement of the accused.

So, I look at the language in--in (a) when it says I can order rulings and orders as necessary in furtherance of these proceedings. To me, that sounds like I can order you to appear at this hearing. I can set rules for this procedure. But it--but it doesn't talk about the remedies that I can provide.

But if I go back to 30a, it says the President shall prescribe the limited relief permitted under these proceedings and he does that in (b)(6). He gives me one relief.

DC: So, it--so I don't agree with you, Your Honor. I know you do not like it when I say that you're--that you're wrong, but we are--we are--we are reading this differently.

So first of all, I do think that R.C.M. 309(a)(1) is applicable to all of the things under 309; otherwise, it really has no purpose whatsoever. And then when you get to--when you--

MJ: Well, I mean, it--it does. I mean, I can order a hearing. I can order production of witnesses. I mean, I can--I can--I mean, that's what that's for. It allows me to--you know, again, as a military judge in a court-martial, I have certain authority. As a military judge during the 30a, I only have the authority the President gives me.

DC: Yes, Your Honor.

MJ: And so--so I can order people to appear as witnesses at this proceeding, which I wouldn't be able to do unless I had that language.

DC: Yes, Your Honor. But I--I also think that it allows you to order remedies.

And--and further, it says a military judge may order the release from pretrial confinement. It doesn't say that the military judge may only order the release, because it allows you to review the propriety of the pretrial confinement. And the word "propriety," like I said in here, means the state or quality of.

So, it--it defies logic that you could order release, but you couldn't order something less severe than release, which here is just--

MJ: Well, I--I think--well, unless you're reading propriety too large. Because the argument--the argument would be the opposite of that; is that the President says I can review whether or not Seaman Copeland should remain in pretrial confinement.

But once he's in pretrial confinement, my authority to review the conditions of that confinement at this prereferral proceeding just aren't there.

And--and if you look at--if you look at (b)(6), when--when may I review the propriety of pretrial confinement?

DC: After the IRO.

MJ: So--so why would the President allow me to look at the propriety of pretrial confinement and include the conditions of confinement only after the IRO has done it? I mean, the IRO doesn't have to happen until seven days. There could be all manner of things going on in those seven days.

And, oh, by the way, the IRO is specifically explicitly excluded from looking at the conditions of confinement. The IRO looks at the things in 3-0--305(j), and that has nothing--nothing to do with confinement.

So why would--why would the President include propriety to mean the conditions of confinement?

DC: So, a couple things there, Your Honor. So, the reason that it's not till after the IRO is clearly that you don't--wouldn't even know if pretrial confinement was necessary unless the IRO had already happened.

And two, I guess we also disagree on what the IRO can review, because the IRO officer is to review the--the type of confinement, the severity of confinement; otherwise, he can't review if less severe forms of restraint would be adequate.

MJ: Okay. I understand your argument.

Government, I'm gonna let you be heard just on this point; just on whether or not I have authority to consider equitable remedies like ordering the brig to do something.

TC: Yes, Your Honor. And I concur with--with your analysis earlier.

Just to add that 309(a)(2) says that the matters that may be considered and ruled upon by a military judge under this rule are limited to those matters specified in R.C.M. 309(b).

So, while there is that general provision in (a)(1, (a)(2) let's it be heard--known that it's limited to those specific bases in (b). And I concur with your analysis, sir, that that is specific to the--the decision made by the initial review officer as terms of whether to keep them in confinement or not, not the conditions of those confinement.

MJ: Okay. Thank you.

I'll give you the last word on this point.

DC: But just on that note, specified in--in (b)--and one of the things specified is the pretrial confinement of an accused. And so that's what we're asking the court to review is the pretrial confinement of the accused.

MJ: I--I--the court agrees there. But what I'll say is I--so I--I don't believe this court, at the prereferral proceeding, the authority to issue the equitable relief you're seeking.

So, to the extent your motion asks for me to order the government to do anything, that part--that portion of your motion is denied.

I do believe I have the review--the ability to review his pretrial confinement and--but I--but even there, I am limited to authorizing release pursuant to R.C.M. 305(k)(1). Nothing in your motion--there are three--three different criteria or three different scenarios in which I could release--I could order release under 305(k)(1) and your motion doesn't--doesn't indicate or doesn't argue for any of those three conditions.

Do you want to be heard on that?

DC: No, Your Honor, not at this time.

MJ: Okay. So you are not seeking relief based on R.C.M. 305(k)?

DC: That's correct.

MJ: Very well.

Government, anything else to take up?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Is there a crime victim who wishes to be heard?

TC: No, Your Honor.

MJ: Very well.

Defense motion is denied--or confinings to motion--motion is denied.

Anything else to take up before we adjourn?

TC: Only, Your Honor, that I failed to put Ms. Cheek on the record as the detailed court reporter. Everything else--

MJ: Ms. Cheek is the detailed court reporter and she's been previously sworn. Thank you very much.

TC: Yes, sir. Nothing else from the government.

MJ: This Article 30a session is adjourned.

[The Article 30a session adjourned at 1318, 15 September 25.]

14. Redaction. The following information shall be redacted in accordance with JAGMAN 1059 from the record of trial prior to releasing it to any accused or victim (including any transcript made pursuant to R.C.M. 1114 and attached to the record of trial) unless the information establishes an element of an offense, or is otherwise required:

a. Any recordings of closed sessions, any transcripts of closed sessions, and any sealed exhibits.

b. Names of minor victims, and names of minor witnesses. If an identifier is used, use only the initials.

c. Social Security Numbers.

d. Financial account information.

e. Home addresses.

f. Telephone numbers.

g. Personal e-mail addresses.

h. Dates of birth.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ASSEMBLING THE CERTIFIED RECORD OF TRIAL

i. Any other information that could be used to identify a specific person other than the accused.

*If the report of preliminary hearing or record of trial contains exhibits, proceedings, or other materials ordered sealed by the preliminary hearing officer or military judge, counsel for the Government, the court reporter, or trial counsel shall cause such materials to be sealed to prevent unauthorized examination or disclosure, pursuant to R.C.M. 1113. Sealed material shall be properly marked, individually placed in separate envelopes with a copy of the preliminary hearing officer or military judge sealing order affixed to it, and inserted at the appropriate place in the record of trial. Do not duplicate sealed material to include it in any copy of the record of trial. Instead, insert a copy of the sealing order in lieu of any sealed material, in any copies of the record of trial.

DIVIDERS ARE NOT NECESSARY TO SEPARATE EACH SECTION. IF USED, THEY CAN BE PAPER RATHER THAN CARD STOCK. IF A PARTICULAR COMPONENT IS NOT APPLICABLE IN THE RECORD OF TRIAL, SUCH AS AN ARTICLE 32 HEARING, EXHIBITS NOT ADMITTED, POST-TRIAL PROCEEDINGS AND VACATION HEARINGS, DO NOT INSERT A DIVIDER OR PLACEHOLDER.

FRONT AND BACK COVER MUST BE ON BLUE CARDS STOCK AND LABELED WITH GUM LABELS.

Binding. Each volume of a record of trial should be no more than 1.5 inches thick and bound at the top with metal or plastic fasteners. DO NOT interlace or "piggy-back" prong fasteners to create an oversized volume. DO NOT place hole punches where it covers up the evidence or language in the transcript. When it becomes necessary to assemble the record of trial in more than one volume, the volumes will be numbered consecutively, on the front cover, as illustrated below:

Volume 1 of 4 (Pages 1-250)
Volume 2 of 4 (Pages 251-400)
Volume 3 of 4 (Pages 401-652)
Volume 4 of 4 (Pages 653-901 and Exhibits)

Make the first volume of a multi-volume record an inch thick or smaller to allow for inclusion of post-trial documents. Limit subsequent volumes to 1.5 inches, unless dividing them requires assembling an additional volume smaller than a half inch.

Label the upper right-hand corner or the Preparation and Certification of Record of Trial Form (enclosure (8)) to reflect which copy it is, i.e., "ORIGINAL," "ACCUSED," "REVIEW" etc.

    b. Ruled: 7 June 2025 – LCDR Paul LaPlante, JAGC, USN

23. Investigative Subpoena – Navy Federal Credit Union – GRANTED
    a. Requested 8 June 2025
    b. Ruled: 8 June 2025 – LCDR Paul LaPlante, JAGC, USN

24. Order for Stored Communications – T-Mobile – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 8 June 2025
    b. Ruled: 8 June 2025 – LCDR Paul LaPlante, JAGC, USN

25. Investigative Subpoena – Cash App (Block, Inc.) – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 9 June 2025
    b. Ruled: 10 June 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED following clarification of recipient of Investigative Subpoena (see supplemental ruling document ; included for the record).

26. Investigative Subpoena – Langley Federal Credit Union – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 12 June 2025
    b. Ruled: 12 June 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN

27. Investigative Subpoena – Cash App (Block, Inc.) – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 16 June 2025
    b. Ruled: 16 June 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN

28. Warrant – Google – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 20 June 2025
    b. Ruled: 20 June 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: GRANTED with Attachments A and B AS ISSUED and uploaded to supplemental ruling documents. The Court finds the facts do not provide probable cause for "video calling" records as requested in Attachment B, Section 1, paragraph c.

29. Warrant – Snapchat - DENIED
    a. Requested: 20 June 2025
    b. Ruled: 20 June 2025
    c. Decision Details: Request DENIED. Without more, the facts written in the Affidavit do not support probable cause to believe that evidence of a crime will be found at Snapchat.

30. Investigative Subpoena – Reddit – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 10 July 2025
    b. Ruled: 17 July 2025 - LCDR Paul LaPlante, JAGC, USN
    c. Note: PSL: MJ emailed TC on 11 July 2025 requesting that DD453 be drafted and an attachment be included. No response from TC has been received. Closing as "Not Issued." But TC can make a new request with the necessary information.

31. Order for Stored Communications – T-Mobile – DENIED
    a. Requested: 14 July 2025
    b. Ruled: 14 July 2025 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request DENIED. The jurat block on the application for the order is dated 14 June 2025, one month before the NCIS Special Agent signed the application, 14 July 2025. Because of that discrepancy, the application is not properly sworn and fails to comply with the requirements of JAGMAN 0132Cc: "c. Submission of applications for warrants and orders. All applications for . . . orders will be presented by a trial counsel in the applicable circuit to the circuit military judge or circuit military judge's designee in the circuit where the warrant or order is sought . . . . The application must be sworn to and signed by the applicant."

32. Order for Stored Communications – T-Mobile - DENIED
    a. Requested: 14 July 2025
    b. Ruled: 14 July 2025 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request DENIED. The jurat block on the application for the order is dated 14 June 2025, one month before the NCIS Special Agent signed the application, 14 July 2025. Because of that discrepancy, the application is not properly sworn and fails to comply with the requirements of JAGMAN 0132Cc: "c. Submission of applications for warrants and orders. 34. Investigative Subpoena – Reddit – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 17 July 2025
    b. Ruled: 18 July 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN

35. Order for Stored Communications – T-Mobile – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 18 July 2025
    b. Ruled: 21 July 2025 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED, except for Attachment A, para. A.4: The Court finds that these data require different process than an order under title 18,

United States Code, Section 2703. United States v. Carpenter, 585 U.S. 596 (2018). Corrected Order (correcting typo) Uploaded: 21 July 2025 at 1404.

36. Order for Stored Communications – T-Mobile – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 18 July 2025
    b. Ruled: 21 July 2025 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED, except for Attachment A, para. A.4: The Court finds that these data require different process than an order under title 18, United States Code, Section 2703. United States v. Carpenter, 585 U.S. 596 (2018). Corrected Document Uploaded (correcting typo): 21 July 2025 at 1408.

37. Order for Stored Communications – T-Mobile – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 18 July 2025
    b. Ruled: 21 July 2025 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED, except for Attachment A, para. A.4: The Court finds that these data require different process than an order under title 18, United States Code, Section 2703. United States v. Carpenter, 585 U.S. 596 (2018). Corrected Order (correcting typo) Uploaded: 21 July 2025 at 1415.

38. Warrant – Apple/iCloud – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 6 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 12 August 2025 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED with Attachments A and B AS ISSUED as uploaded to supplemental ruling documents. The Court finds that there is insufficient facts to provide probable cause to search the iCloud account for 4-6 November.

39. Investigative Subpoena – Oak Harbor High School – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 7 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 11 August 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED. Please remember to put your name and contact information in the request for relief section vice the clerk of court.

40. Investigative Subpoena – Reddit – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 7 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 11 August 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED. Please remember to include your own name and contact information in the request for relief section vice the clerk of court.

41. Warrant – AT&T – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 11 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 13 August 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED with Attachments A and B AS ISSUED in supplemental ruling documents. Based on the facts in the affidavit, the Court finds for Attachment B: (1) the following items are not supported by probable cause: - i.3. for "email", "video calling", "application visited or accessed", "bookmarks", "applications accessed", "applications and/or third party applications", and "application and/or third party applications". (2) the following items are not sufficiently particular under the Fourth Amendment: - i.3. for "domain accessed"; and - ii.vi. in its entirety: Without more particularity the Court cannot determine if this is supported by probable cause. The Court Decision Details that the DD Form 3057 referenced an "attached Affidavit (Attachment C)"; however, the Court found no such document. The Court considered the document designated as the affidavit without being called "Attachment C" as the mentioned affidavit. The Court considers this a scrivener's error on the DD Form 3057.

42. Warrant – Meta - DENIED
    a. Requested: 11 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 13 August 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request DENIED. The affidavit was not sworn to as required by the Fourth Amendment and JAGMAN 0132Cc.

43. Warrant – Sony - DENIED
    a. Requested: 13 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 18 August 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request DENIED. The Court finds, based on the facts pertinent to Sony Interactive Entertainment and the PlayStation in the common room, that are contained in paragraphs 28-30, and 60-61 of the affidavit: the timeframe in Attachment B is overbroad, to the extent it reaches beyond the day before and the day after 3 June 2025; and the items requested in Attachment B, Section I, paragraph f and Section II, paragraphs c, d, and g are overbroad.

44. Warrant – Meta – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 14 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 18 August 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED with Attachments A and B AS ISSUED in supplemental ruling documents. The Court finds no probable cause to search Facebook because no facts in the probable cause section of the affidavit, paragraphs 53-60, mention Facebook; and Attachment A has been reformed accordingly. Further, the Court finds the request in Attachment B, Section I, paragraph f, no probable cause to support "information geotags[.]" Further, the Court finds the request that the Court authorize the Government to seize "[a]ll relevant content to the crimes under investigation" overbroad and lacks the particularity required by the Fourth Amendment.

45. Investigative Subpoena – Equifax – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 18 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 18 August 2025 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN

46. Investigative Subpoena – Life360 – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 26 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 26 August 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN

47. Warrant – T-Mobile – DENIED
    a. Requested: 26 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 1 September 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request DENIED as overbroad and lacks probable cause for much of the information requested in Attachment B.

48. Warrant – T-Mobile – DENIED
    a. Requested: 26 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 2 September 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request DENIED as overbroad and lacks probable cause.

49. Warrant – T-Mobile – DENIED
    a. Requested: 26 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 2 September 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request DENIED as overbroad and lacks probable cause.

50. Motion – Pretrial Confinement of the Accused – DENIED
    a. Requested: 26 August 2025
    b. Ruled: 15 September 2025 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: The court is without authority to grant the relief requested. Specifically, the Confinee requested that the MJ order the government to permit greater access to counsel while he is in pretrial confinement, asserting that overly restrictive conditions at the Brig interfere with his 6th Amendment rights. Article 30a provides limited authority for MJs pre-referral. Specifically, Article 30a(a)(1)(E)(i) directs the President to prescribe regulations for matters related to pre-referral proceedings related to "pre-trial confinement of an accused." Article 30a(a)(2)(D) directs the President to provide such limitations on the relief that may be ordered. The President issued RCM 309(b)(6) authorizing a MJ to review the propriety of PTC and authorizes a MJ to order release from PTC under the provisions of RCM 305(k)(1). The President has not authorized MJs to grant the equitable relief sought by the confinee and the confinee has not argued for release pursuant to RCM 305(k)(1).

51. Warrant – Sony – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 2 September 2025
    b. Ruled: 2 September 2025 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED with Attachments A and B AS ISSUED in supplemental ruling documents. Regarding Attachment B, Section II, paragraph d., the Court only finds the requests for Online search history and system usage information supported by probable cause, and conformed Attachment B to the probable cause. Corrected email address in Attachment A to conform to paragraph 58 in Affidavit.

52. Investigative Subpoena – Life 360 – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 4 September 2025
    b. Ruled: 4 September 2025 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN

53. Investigative Subpoena – Coupeville High School – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 4 September 25
    b. Ruled: 4 September 25 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN

54. Investigative Subpoena – Google – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 9 September 25
    b. Ruled: 9 September 25 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN

55. Warrant – T-Mobile – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 9 September 25
    b. Ruled: 10 September 25 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED with attachments A and B AS ISSUED in supplemental ruling documents. The Court reformed Attachment B, Section ii to the information T-Mobile was directed to provide in Attachment B, Section i.

56. Warrant – T-Mobile – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 9 September 25
    b. Ruled: 11 September 25 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN

c. Decision Details: Request GRANTED with attachments A and B AS ISSUED in supplemental ruling documents. The Court reformed Attachment B, Section ii to the information T-Mobile was directed to provide in Attachment B, Section i.

57. Warrant – T-Mobile – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 9 September 25
    b. Ruled: 11 September 25 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: The Court Decision Details that the DD Form 3057 was not dated by the officer administering the oath to the Agent. However, the officer's CAC signature indicated a signature on 9 September 2025 at 13:32:29 which is after the Agent's CAC signature on 9 September 2025 at 13:20:40. The court relied on the date of the officer's CAC signature in finding this was a properly sworn application as required by JAGMAN 0132Cc.

58. Investigative Subpoena – Epiarx – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 16 September 2025
    b. Ruled: 16 September 2025 – CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN

59. Warrant – T-Mobile - DENIED
    a. Requested: 16 September 25
    b. Ruled: 17 September 25 - CDR Jason Pfeil, JAGC, USN
    c. Decision Details: Request DENIED. The Court finds the application is not supported by probable cause. The application requests a warrant investigating allegations of Desertion (Article 85) and Unauthorized Absence (Article 86) (UA). However, the attached Affidavit only discusses alleged violations of False Official Statement (Article 107), Murder (Article 118), and Obstruction of Justice (Article 131b) by CSSN Copeland; it does not provide probable cause to believe that evidence of Desertion and UA will be found in CSSN Resendiz's T-Mobile account.

60. Warrant – T-Mobile – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 29 September 25
    b. Ruled: 30 September 25 – CDR Mishonda Mosley, JAGC, USN

61. Warrant – T-Mobile – GRANTED
    a. Requested: 29 September 2025
    b. Ruled: 30 September 2025 - CDR Mishonda Mosley, JAGC, USN

62. Application for victim designation – DENIED
    a. Requested: 8 October 2025

b. Ruled: 8 October 2025 – CAPT Frank Hutchison, JAGC, USN
c. Decision Details: The matter is no longer appropriate for submission under RCM 309 since charges have been referred. Resubmit the application, citing RCM 801(a)(6) vice RCM 309(b)(5), and serve on defense counsel.

| In re Navy Federal Credit Union Records of CSSN Angelina Resendiz, USN | APPLICATION FOR ORDER OF DELAYED NOTICE PURSUANT TO 12 U.S.C. § 3409 OF THE RIGHT TO FINANCIAL PRIVACY ACT OF 19782 June 2025 |

MOTION

1. Pursuant to 12 U.S.C. § 3409(b)(1), if the Court signs the requested investigative subpoena (Exhibit B) the Government applies for this Court to enter an Order delaying the customer notice that may be required to CSSN Angelina Resendiz, USN, under the Right to Financial Privacy Act of 1978 for a period of ninety days.

FACTS

2. a. On 30 May, 2025, Naval Criminal Investigative Service ("NCIS") Investigators commenced an investigation into accusations of Article 86, UCMJ committed by CSSN Angelina Resendiz (the "Investigation.") See the Affidavit of Special Agent Matthew Miller of June 2, 2025 attached as Exhibit A in support of this Application.

b. The Investigation is being conducted within the lawful jurisdiction of the federal government of the United States.

c. Due to the nature of the allegations, as a necessary investigative step relevant to this legitimate law enforcement inquiry, the Government has submitted a request to this Court for an investigative subpoena duces tecum (Exhibit B), pursuant to R.C.M 703, to Navy Federal Credit Union seeking the following categories of documents:

i. Financial records;

ii. Basic subscriber information; and

iii. Transaction information.

The draft subpoena duces tecum is attached as Exhibit B in support of this Application.

d. The documents listed in paragraph 2(c) of this Application are relevant to a legitimate law enforcement inquiry. Exhibit A.

e. There is reason to believe that if the Accused is provided the customer notice that may be required under the Right to Financial Privacy Act of 1978 that there is substantial risk of destruction of endangering life or physical safety, flight from prosecution, or seriously jeopardizing an investigation or official proceeding or unduly delaying the same. Exhibit A.

LAW AND ARGUMENT

3. In the event the Court makes a finding required in 12 U.S.C. §§ 3409(1) - (3), the Court has the authority to enter an Order delaying the period of providing required customer notice for a period not to exceed ninety days. 12 U.S.C. § 3409(b)(1). The Government has the power to file additional applications for subsequent periods of delay after the expiration of the initial ninety-day period. 12 U.S.C. § 3409(b)(2).

RELIEF REQUESTED

4. Evidence Offered in Support of Motion.

a. Affidavit of NCIS Special Agent Matthew Miller of June 2, 2025 attached hereto as Exhibit A.

b. The draft subpoena duces tecum of June 2, 2025, attached hereto as Exhibit B.

5. Relief Requested.

a. The Government respectfully requests this Court:

i. make a finding that the evidence offered in support of this Application meets the requirements of 12 U.S.C. §§ 3409(1) - (3); and

ii. enter an Order delaying the customer notice that may be required under the Right to Financial Privacy Act of 1978 for a period of ninety days.

1. I, Special Agent Mathew Miller, am currently employed as a special agent with the Naval Criminal Investigative Service ("NCIS"). I have worked for NCIS for over 10 years. I am currently a Supervisory Special Agent with the Norfolk Field Office.

2. On June 1, 2025, NCIS commenced an investigation into accusations of a violation of Article 86, UCMJ committed by CSSN Angelina Resendiz, USN ("Accused"). I am the Lead Special Agent assigned to this investigation. The NCIS case number for the investigation is 01JUN25NFNF-00237-7MNA.

3. Due to the nature of the allegations, I determined it was a necessary investigative step to pursue and review the following categories of the Accused's financial records from Navy Federal Credit Union: Basic subscriber information and transactions pertaining to account number: [redacted]

4. These financial records are relevant and necessary to the investigation of the allegations against the Accused because the requested records will assist in identifying the location of the Accused and any means of transportation she may have utilized.

5. I have reason to believe that if the Accused is provided the customer notice that may be required under the Right to Financial Privacy Act of 1978 that there is a substantial risk of destruction of endangering life or physical safety, flight from prosecution, or seriously jeopardizing an investigation or official proceeding or unduly delaying the same. I base my opinion on the following evidence and facts that I have observed and/or reviewed:

a. The suicidal ideation previously expressed by the Accused and her distressed state immediately prior to her entering a UA status; and

b. The nature of the offense as being in an unauthorized absence status will mean she will likely change her patterns to avoid being caught if she knows we are tracking her location.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

ORDER PURSUANT TO 12 U.S.C. § 3409(B)(1)

The United States has submitted an application pursuant to the Right to Financial Privacy Act, 12 U.S.C. § 3409(b)(1), requesting that the Court enter an Order delaying the period of providing required customer notice for a period not to exceed ninety (90) days.

The Court finds that the investigation is being conducted within the lawful jurisdiction of the federal government of the United States and the United States has offered specific and articulable facts showing that the requested documents are relevant to a legitimate law enforcement inquiry.

The Court further determines that there is reason to believe that customer notice required under the Right to Financial Privacy Act of 1978 will result in substantial risk of destruction of endangering life or physical safety, flight from prosecution, or seriously jeopardizing an investigation or official proceeding or unduly delaying the same.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED, that any required customer notice regarding the application of the United States, or the existence of this Order of the Court, shall not be disclosed to the customer of the account(s) listed in Attachment A, or to any other person, for ninety (90) days following the date of this Order, except that Navy Federal Credit Union may disclose this Order to an attorney for Navy Federal Credit Union for the purpose of receiving legal advice. This Order is subject to renewal upon a proper showing under 12 U.S.C. § 3409(b)(2).

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the application and this Order are sealed until further order of the Court.

FACTS

1. On 1 June 2025, NCIS Norfolk Field Office was made aware that CSSN Angelina Resendiz, USN, JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) had recently gone into an unauthorized absence (UA) status.

2. CSSN Resendiz and CSSN Jermiah Copeland, USN, DDG 95, went UA on Thursday, May 29, 2025 (morning approximately 0900) . No one could get a hold of either Sailor for several days until CSSN Copeland turned up in his barracks room on the morning of 1 June. CSSN Resendiz reportedly spent the night with CSSN Copeland Wednesday, May 28 into the morning of Thursday, May 29.

3. NCIS spoke to CSSN Copeland on 1 June and he said they spent Wednesday evening making tacos (which was confirmed through a review of messages on his phone). CSSN Copeland also said the two consumed alcohol and spoke about CSSN Resendiz's past and somewhat current relationships. CSSN Copeland said CSSN Resendiz was visibly distraught while discussing her relationships.

4. CSSN Resendiz was reportedly dropped back off at her barracks aboard NOB around 1000 on Thursday,. May 29, which was the last time anyone has spoken to her. NCIS went to her barracks room on 1 June and it was very neat and tidy with no signs that anything malicious occurred. NCIS spoke to an ex-boyfriend from her ship and he said she always carries a hello kitty backpack, which NCIS did not located in her barracks room. Her phone, identification, banking cards, and other personal items were also not in her room.

5. Additionally, NCIS spoke with her mother in Texas and she conveyed CSSN Resendiz has attempted suicide in the past and suffers from depression, for which she is prescribed medication. NMCP Emergency Room and psychology department were negative for her presence when called.

6. On 2 June 25, NCIS spoke to FCC Brad Parker, USN, JAMES E WILLIAMS, to verify CSSN Resendiz's work schedule. FCC Parker stated CSSN Resendiz was scheduled to work day shift Friday, May 30, 2025 – Sunday, June 1, 2025 with a report time of 0500-0530 hours. FCC Parker stated CSSN Resendiz failed to report all three (3) days.

6. CSSN Resendiz has a bank account with Navy Federal Credit Union. The account number is [redacted] The routing number is 256074974.

INFORMATION AND RECORDS REQUESTED

7. Trial Counsel and law enforcement requests one subpoena relating to this case to better determine evidence that is relevant and necessary for the investigation. Specifically, Trial Counsel and law enforcement request:

a. A subpoena to Navy Federal Credit Union for the records of CSSN Angelina Resendiz's checking account number [redacted] from 2 May 2025 until present. This includes records regarding withdrawals, deposits ,and transfers to determine where CSSN Resendiz may be located.

REASON FOR REQUEST

10. Trial Counsel and law enforcement request such information because these records might further the investigation by providing corroboration and further detail to the alleged misconduct of CSSN Resendiz. Specifically, these records will identify CSSN Resendiz's location and the scope of potential involvement by other parties.

11. For these reasons, we respectfully request a subpoena for Navy Federal Credit Union to produce the account information associated with CSSN Angelina Resendiz.

ORDER

The United States has submitted an application pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d), requesting that the Court issue an Order requiring AT&T Wireless, an electronic communications service provider and/or a remote computing service located in the United States, to disclose the records and other information described in Attachment A to this Order.

The Court finds that the United States has offered specific and articulable facts showing that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the records or other information sought are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation.

The Court determines that there is reason to believe that notification of the existence of this Order will seriously jeopardize the ongoing investigation, including by giving targets an opportunity to flee or continue flight from prosecution, destroy or tamper with evidence, change patterns of behavior, or notify confederates. See 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b)(2), (3), (5).

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d), that AT&T Wireless shall, within ten days of the date of this Order, disclose to the United States the records and other information described in Attachment A to this Order.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that AT&T Wireless shall not disclose the existence of the application of the United States, or the existence of this Order of the Court, to the subscribers of the account(s) listed in Attachment A, or to any other person, for 180 days from the date of this Order, except that AT&T Wireless may disclose this Order to an attorney for AT&T Wireless for the purpose of receiving legal advice.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the application and this Order are sealed until otherwise ordered by the Court.

APPLICATION OF THE UNITED STATES

FOR AN ORDER PURSUANT TO 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d)

The United States of America, moving by and through its undersigned counsel, respectfully submits under seal this ex parte application for an Order pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). The proposed Order would require AT&T Wireless, an Internet Service Provider located in the United States, to disclose certain records and other information pertaining to Telephone Number [redacted] annotated in Attachment A. The records and other information to be disclosed are described in Attachment A to the proposed Order. In support of this application, the United States asserts:

LEGAL BACKGROUND

1. AT&T Wireless is a provider of an electronic communications service, as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2510(15), and/or a remote computing service, as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711(2). Accordingly, the United States may use a court order issued under § 2703(d) to require AT&T Wireless, to disclose the items described in Part II of Attachment A. See 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(2) and 10 U.S.C. 846(c)(3) (Part II.A of Attachment A); 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(1) (Part II.B of Attachment A).

2. This Court has jurisdiction to issue the proposed Order because it is "a court of competent jurisdiction," as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711. See 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). Specifically, the Court is a court-martial or other proceeding under chapter 47 of title 10 (the Uniform Code of Military Justice), to which a military judge has been detailed. See 18 U.S.C. § 2711(3)(C).

3. A court order under § 2703(d) "shall issue only if the governmental entity offers specific and articulable facts showing that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the contents of a wire or electronic communication, or the records or other information sought, are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation." 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). Accordingly, the next section of this application sets forth specific and articulable facts showing that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the records and other information described in Part II of Attachment A are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation.

THE RELEVANT FACTS

1. On May 28, 2025, CSSN Angelina RESENDIZ was known to be in the barracks room located at X-2 room 335B Rack A located onboard Naval Station Norfolk, which is occupied by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND.

2. According to COPELAND, RESENDIZ came to his barracks room to have dinner and have a couple drinks.

3. COPELAND stated RESENDIZ called a "ex-boyfriend from Texas" and was confronting the person about returning personal items. COPELAND stated, RESENDIZ became emotional and began to cry.

4. During an interview with PSSN Irbin GORDILLOCRUZ, who is a roommate of COPELAND, at approximately 0645 on 29 May 2025, GORDILLOCRUZ stated he was leaving for work and saw his roommate, later clarified to be COPELAND and an unknown female on the floor naked.

5. GORDILLOCRUZ stated the female looked to have darker skin, and black curly hair. He could see RESENDIZ's breasts and could see COPELAND's head resting on RESENDIZ's stomach area. GORDILLOCRUZ stated he could not see if RESENDIZ was wearing anything below COPELAND's head. GORDILLOCRUZ stated COPELAND was also naked but his back was facing upwards.

6. GORDILLOCRUZ stated he could tell RESENDIZ was breathing by her chest moving up and down. GORDILLOCRUZ stated, he had never seen the female before and has not seen her since.

7. When interviewed by NCIS COPELAND stated, he was late for work on the morning of 29 May 2025 and FCC Brad PARKER knocked on his door to say COPELAND was going to be labeled as Unauthorized Absence (UA). FCC PARKER stated COPELAND and RESENDIZ were in a state of undress and RESENDIZ waved and rolled over into a blanket. FCC PARKER told COPELAND to report to work and left the barracks room.

8. COPELAND continued explaining, the two of them got dressed and a roommate took him and RESENDIZ to RESENDIZ's residence located at Miller Hall onboard Naval Station Norfolk at approximately 1000.

9. COPELAND's movements after dropping RESENDIZ off at Miller Hall. However, we know after speaking with Command, COPELAND was marked UA for the days of 29 May 2025, 30 May 2025, 31 May 2025 and on 01 June 2025, COPELAND was found by Base Police entering Naval Station Norfolk.

10. NCIS interview all remaining roommates of COPELAND who stated they did not give a ride to COPELAND and RESENDIZ on the morning of 29 May 2025.

11. RESENDIZ's residence is located at Miller Hall, Unit 1083B. RESENDIZ last entered her room, according to the door swipes, on 28 May 2025 at 1227 and at 2004 on 28 May 2025, into the common area only.

12. NCIS subpoenaed RESENDIZ's Navy Federal Credit Union banking records which show no activity since 28 May 2025.

13. RESENDIZ's cellphone has been pinged for last known location. The last known was approximately Latitude 36.896558 Longitude -76.435536, which appears to be located in Suffolk, VA

14. NCIS has been in contact with friends and family and as of today, there is no communication from RESENDIZ.

15. On June 3, 2025, NCIS interviewed COPELAND and he relayed his telephone number is [redacted] Additionally, COPELAND's command advised COPELAND communicated with his command via telephone number [redacted]

16. Telephone number [redacted] is associated with New Cingular Wireless owned by AT&T Wireless.

REQUEST FOR ORDER

4. The facts set forth in the previous section show that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the records and other information described in Part II of Attachment A are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation. Specifically, these items will help the United States to identify and locate the individual(s) who are responsible for the events described above, and to determine the nature and scope of their activities. Accordingly, the United States requests that AT&T Wireless be directed to produce all items described in Part II of Attachment A to the proposed Order.

5. The United States further requests that the Order require AT&T Wireless not to notify any person, including the subscribers or customers of the account(s) listed in Part I of Attachment A, of the existence of the Order for 180 days from the date of the Order. See 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b). This Court has authority under 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b) to issue "an order commanding a provider of electronic communications service or remote computing service to whom a warrant, subpoena, or court order is directed, for such period as the court deems appropriate, not to notify any other person of the existence of the warrant, subpoena, or court order." Id. In this case, such an order would be appropriate because the requested Order relates to an ongoing criminal investigation that is neither public nor known to all of the targets of the investigation, and its disclosure may alert the targets to the ongoing investigation. Accordingly, there is reason to believe that notification of the existence of the requested Order will seriously jeopardize the investigation, including by giving targets an opportunity to flee or continue flight from prosecution, destroy or tamper with evidence, change patterns of behavior, intimidate potential witnesses, or endanger the life or physical safety of an individual. See 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b)(2), (3), (5). Some of the evidence in this investigation is stored electronically. If alerted to the investigation, the subjects under investigation could destroy that evidence, including information saved to their personal computers.

6. The United States further requests that the Court order that this application and any resulting order be sealed until further order of the Court. As explained above, these documents discuss an ongoing criminal investigation that is neither public nor known to all of the targets of the investigation. Accordingly, there is good cause to seal these documents because their premature disclosure may seriously jeopardize that investigation.

| IN RE APPLICATION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA FOR AN ORDER PURSUANT TO 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d) | ) Case Identifier: 02JUN25-NFNF-00237-7MNA) Filed Under Seal |

APPLICATION OF THE UNITED STATES

FOR AN ORDER PURSUANT TO 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d)

The United States of America, moving by and through its undersigned counsel, respectfully submits under seal this ex parte application for an Order pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). The proposed Order would require AT&T Wireless, an Internet Service Provider located in the United States, to disclose certain records and other information pertaining to Telephone Number [redacted] annotated in Attachment A. The records and other information to be disclosed are described in Attachment A to the proposed Order. In support of this application, the United States asserts:

LEGAL BACKGROUND

1. AT&T Wireless is a provider of an electronic communications service, as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2510(15), and/or a remote computing service, as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711(2). Accordingly, the United States may use a court order issued under § 2703(d) to require AT&T Wireless, to disclose the items described in Part II of Attachment A. See 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(2) and 10 U.S.C. 846(c)(3) (Part II.A of Attachment A); 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(1) (Part II.B of Attachment A).

2. This Court has jurisdiction to issue the proposed Order because it is "a court of competent jurisdiction," as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711. See 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). Specifically, the Court is a court-martial or other proceeding under chapter 47 of title 10 (the Uniform Code of Military Justice), to which a military judge has been detailed. See 18 U.S.C. § 2711(3)(C).

3. A court order under § 2703(d) "shall issue only if the governmental entity offers specific and articulable facts showing that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the contents of a wire or electronic communication, or the records or other information sought, are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation." 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). Accordingly, the next section of this application sets forth specific and articulable facts showing that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the records and other information described in Part II of Attachment A are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation.

THE RELEVANT FACTS

1. On May 28, 2025, CSSN Angelina RESENDIZ was known to be in the barracks room located at X-2 room 335B Rack A located onboard Naval Station Norfolk, which is occupied by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND.

2. According to COPELAND, RESENDIZ came to his barracks room to have dinner and have a couple drinks.

3. COPELAND stated RESENDIZ called a "ex-boyfriend from Texas" and was confronting the person about returning personal items. COPELAND stated, RESENDIZ became emotional and began to cry.

4. During an interview with PSSN Irbin GORDILLOCRUZ, who is a roommate of COPELAND, at approximately 0645 on 29 May 2025, GORDILLOCRUZ stated he was leaving for work and saw his roommate, later clarified to be COPELAND and an unknown female on the floor naked.

5. GORDILLOCRUZ stated the female looked to have darker skin, and black curly hair. He could see RESENDIZ's breasts and could see COPELAND's head resting on RESENDIZ's stomach area. GORDILLOCRUZ stated he could not see if RESENDIZ was wearing anything below COPELAND's head. GORDILLOCRUZ stated COPELAND was also naked but his back was facing upwards.

6. GORDILLOCRUZ stated he could tell RESENDIZ was breathing by her chest moving up and down. GORDILLOCRUZ stated, he had never seen the female before and has not seen her since.

7. When interviewed by NCIS COPELAND stated, he was late for work on the morning of 29 May 2025 and FCC Brad PARKER knocked on his door to say COPELAND was going to be labeled as Unauthorized Absence (UA). FCC PARKER stated COPELAND and RESENDIZ were in a state of undress and RESENDIZ waved and rolled over into a blanket. FCC PARKER told COPELAND to report to work and left the barracks room.

8. COPELAND continued explaining, the two of them got dressed and a roommate took him and RESENDIZ to RESENDIZ's residence located at Miller Hall onboard Naval Station Norfolk at approximately 1000.

9. COPELAND's movements after dropping RESENDIZ off at Miller Hall. However, we know after speaking with Command, COPELAND was marked UA for the days of 29 May 2025, 30 May 2025, 31 May 2025 and on 01 June 2025, COPELAND was found by Base Police entering Naval Station Norfolk.

10. NCIS interview all remaining roommates of COPELAND who stated they did not give a ride to COPELAND and RESENDIZ on the morning of 29 May 2025.

11. RESENDIZ's residence is located at Miller Hall, Unit 1083B. RESENDIZ last entered her room, according to the door swipes, on 28 May 2025 at 1227 and at 2004 on 28 May 2025, into the common area only.

12. NCIS subpoenaed RESENDIZ's Navy Federal Credit Union banking records which show no activity since 28 May 2025.

13. RESENDIZ's cellphone has been pinged for last known location. The last known was approximately Latitude 36.896558 Longitude -76.435536, which appears to be located in Suffolk, VA

14. NCIS has been in contact with friends and family and as of today, there is no communication from RESENDIZ.

15. On June 3, 2025, NCIS interviewed COPELAND and he relayed his telephone number is [redacted] Additionally, COPELAND's command advised COPELAND communicated with his command via telephone number [redacted]

16. Telephone number [redacted] is associated with New Cingular Wireless owned by AT&T Wireless.

REQUEST FOR ORDER

4. The facts set forth in the previous section show that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the records and other information described in Part II of Attachment A are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation. Specifically, these items will help the United States to identify and locate the individual(s) who are responsible for the events described above, and to determine the nature and scope of their activities. Accordingly, the United States requests that AT&T Wireless be directed to produce all items described in Part II of Attachment A to the proposed Order.

5. The United States further requests that the Order require AT&T Wireless not to notify any person, including the subscribers or customers of the account(s) listed in Part I of Attachment A, of the existence of the Order for 180 days from the date of the Order. See 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b). This Court has authority under 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b) to issue "an order commanding a provider of electronic communications service or remote computing service to whom a warrant, subpoena, or court order is directed, for such period as the court deems appropriate, not to notify any other person of the existence of the warrant, subpoena, or court order." Id. In this case, such an order would be appropriate because the requested Order relates to an ongoing criminal investigation that is neither public nor known to all of the targets of the investigation, and its disclosure may alert the targets to the ongoing investigation. Accordingly, there is reason to believe that notification of the existence of the requested Order will seriously jeopardize the investigation, including by giving targets an opportunity to flee or continue flight from prosecution, destroy or tamper with evidence, change patterns of behavior, intimidate potential witnesses, or endanger the life or physical safety of an individual. See 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b)(2), (3), (5). Some of the evidence in this investigation is stored electronically. If alerted to the investigation, the subjects under investigation could destroy that evidence, including information saved to their personal computers.

6. The United States further requests that the Court order that this application and any resulting order be sealed until further order of the Court. As explained above, these documents discuss an ongoing criminal investigation that is neither public nor known to all of the targets of the investigation. Accordingly, there is good cause to seal these documents because their premature disclosure may seriously jeopardize that investigation.

APPLICATION OF THE UNITED STATES

FOR AN ORDER PURSUANT TO 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d)

The United States of America, moving by and through its undersigned counsel, respectfully submits under seal this ex parte application for an Order pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). The proposed Order would require AT&T Wireless, an Internet Service Provider located in the United States, to disclose certain records and other information pertaining to Telephone Number [redacted] annotated in Attachment A. The records and other information to be disclosed are described in Attachment A to the proposed Order. In support of this application, the United States asserts:

LEGAL BACKGROUND

1. AT&T Wireless is a provider of an electronic communications service, as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2510(15), and/or a remote computing service, as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711(2). Accordingly, the United States may use a court order issued under § 2703(d) to require AT&T Wireless, to disclose the items described in Part II of Attachment A. See 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(2) and 10 U.S.C. 846(c)(3) (Part II.A of Attachment A); 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(1) (Part II.B of Attachment A).

2. This Court has jurisdiction to issue the proposed Order because it is "a court of competent jurisdiction," as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711. See 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). Specifically, the Court is a court-martial or other proceeding under chapter 47 of title 10 (the Uniform Code of Military Justice), to which a military judge has been detailed. See 18 U.S.C. § 2711(3)(C).

3. A court order under § 2703(d) "shall issue only if the governmental entity offers specific and articulable facts showing that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the contents of a wire or electronic communication, or the records or other information sought, are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation." 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). Accordingly, the next section of this application sets forth specific and articulable facts showing that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the records and other information described in Part II of Attachment A are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation.

THE RELEVANT FACTS

1. On May 28, 2025, CSSN Angelina RESENDIZ was known to be in the barracks room located at X-2 room 335B Rack A located onboard Naval Station Norfolk, which is occupied by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND.

2. According to COPELAND, RESENDIZ came to his barracks room to have dinner and have a couple drinks.

14. NCIS has been in contact with friends and family and as of today, there is no communication from RESENDIZ.

15. On June 3, 2025, NCIS interviewed COPELAND and he relayed his telephone number is [redacted] Additionally, COPELAND's command advised COPELAND communicated with his command via telephone number [redacted]

16. Telephone number [redacted] is associated with New Cingular Wireless owned by AT&T Wireless.

REQUEST FOR ORDER

4. The facts set forth in the previous section show that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the records and other information described in Part II of Attachment A are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation. Specifically, these items will help the United States to identify and locate the individual(s) who are responsible for the events described above, and to determine the nature and scope of their activities. Accordingly, the United States requests that AT&T Wireless be directed to produce all items described in Part II of Attachment A to the proposed Order.

5. The United States further requests that the Order require AT&T Wireless not to notify any person, including the subscribers or customers of the account(s) listed in Part I of Attachment A, of the existence of the Order for 180 days from the date of the Order. See 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b). This Court has authority under 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b) to issue "an order commanding a provider of electronic communications service or remote computing service to whom a warrant, subpoena, or court order is directed, for such period as the court deems appropriate, not to notify any other person of the existence of the warrant, subpoena, or court order." Id. In this case, such an order would be appropriate because the requested Order relates to an ongoing criminal investigation that is neither public nor known to all of the targets of the investigation, and its disclosure may alert the targets to the ongoing investigation. Accordingly, there is reason to believe that notification of the existence of the requested Order will seriously jeopardize the investigation, including by giving targets an opportunity to flee or continue flight from prosecution, destroy or tamper with evidence, change patterns of behavior, intimidate potential witnesses, or endanger the life or physical safety of an individual. See 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b)(2), (3), (5). Some of the evidence in this investigation is stored electronically. If alerted to the investigation, the subjects under investigation could destroy that evidence, including information saved to their personal computers.

6. The United States further requests that the Court order that this application and any resulting order be sealed until further order of the Court. As explained above, these documents discuss an ongoing criminal investigation that is neither public nor known to all of the targets of the investigation. Accordingly, there is good cause to seal these documents because their premature disclosure may seriously jeopardize that investigation.

Good afternoon CDR Mayo,

I have reviewed the request for an order from AT&T ICO Copeland. Based on the application, I believe it will meet all the requirements so that I can grant the order. However, your application needs to be sworn to before I can sign the order. Additionally, the application should state at least one potential crime that is being investigated under the UCMJ to ensure I have jurisdiction to sign the order.

I do not want to cause any further delay, so feel free to email the information directly if you want and then it can be uploaded into NCORS later. Also, please see below for the explanation regarding the need for a sworn statement. Let me know if you have any questions.

Per JAGMAN Section 0132C.c., orders require the applicant to provide a sworn statement. The statement should be sworn before a person authorized to administer oaths under 10 U.S.C. 936 (just like with warrants).

Section 0132C
c. Submission of applications for warrants and orders. All applications for warrants or orders will be presented by a trial counsel in the applicable circuit to the circuit military judge or circuit military judge's designee in the circuit where the warrant or order is sought. Only a trial counsel in the applicable circuit may present the application. The application must be sworn to and signed by the applicant.

ORDER

The United States has submitted an application pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d), requesting that the Court issue an Order requiring T-Mobile, an electronic communications service provider and/or a remote computing service located in the United States, to disclose the records and other information described in Attachment A to this Order.

The Court finds that the United States has offered specific and articulable facts showing that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the records or other information sought are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation.

The Court determines that there is reason to believe that notification of the existence of this Order will seriously jeopardize the ongoing investigation, including by giving targets an opportunity to flee or continue flight from prosecution, destroy or tamper with evidence, change patterns of behavior, or notify confederates. See 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b)(2), (3), (5).

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d), that T-Mobile shall, within ten days of the date of this Order, disclose to the United States the records and other information described in Attachment A to this Order.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that T-Mobile shall not disclose the existence of the application of the United States, or the existence of this Order of the Court, to the subscribers of the account(s) listed in Attachment A, or to any other person, for 180 days from the date of this Order, except that T-Mobile may disclose this Order to an attorney for T-Mobile for the purpose of receiving legal advice.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the application and this Order are sealed until otherwise ordered by the Court.

7. Other subscriber numbers or identities (including temporarily assigned network addresses and registration Internet Protocol ("IP") addresses (including carrier grade natting addresses or ports)); and

B. All records and other information (not including the contents of communications) relating to the Account, including:

1. Records of user activity for each connection made to or from the Account, including log files; messaging logs; the date, time, length, and method of connections; data transfer volume; user names; and source and destination Internet Protocol addresses;

2. Information about each communication sent or received by the Account, including the date and time of the communication, the method of communication, and the source and destination of the communication (such as source and destination email addresses, IP addresses, and telephone numbers).

| IN RE APPLICATION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA FOR AN ORDER PURSUANT TO 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d) | ) Case Identifier: 02JUN25-NFNF-00237-7MNA) Filed Under Seal |

APPLICATION OF THE UNITED STATES

FOR AN ORDER PURSUANT TO 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d)

The United States of America, moving by and through its undersigned counsel, respectfully submits under seal this ex parte application for an Order pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). The proposed Order would require T-Mobile, an Internet Service Provider located in the United States, to disclose certain records and other information pertaining to Telephone Number, 254-203-0672, annotated in Attachment A. The records and other information to be disclosed are described in Attachment A to the proposed Order. In support of this application, the United States asserts:

LEGAL BACKGROUND

1. T-Mobile is a provider of an electronic communications service, as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2510(15), and/or a remote computing service, as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711(2). Accordingly, the United States may use a court order issued under § 2703(d) to require T-Mobile, to disclose the items described in Part II of Attachment A. See 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(2) and 10 U.S.C. 846(c)(3) (Part II.A of Attachment A); 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(1) (Part II.B of Attachment A).

2. This Court has jurisdiction to issue the proposed Order because it is "a court of competent jurisdiction," as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711. See 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). Specifically, the Court is a court-martial or other proceeding under chapter 47 of title 10 (the Uniform Code of Military Justice), to which a military judge has been detailed. See 18 U.S.C. § 2711(3)(C).

3. A court order under § 2703(d) "shall issue only if the governmental entity offers specific and articulable facts showing that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the contents of a wire or electronic communication, or the records or other information sought, are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation." 18 U.S.C. § 2703(d). Accordingly, the next section of this application sets forth specific and articulable facts showing that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the records and other information described in Part II of Attachment A are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation.

THE RELEVANT FACTS

1. On May 28, 2025, CSSN Angelina RESENDIZ was known to be in the barracks room located at X-2 room 335B Rack A located onboard Naval Station Norfolk, which is occupied by CSSN Jermiah COPELAND.

2. According to COPELAND, RESENDIZ came to his barracks room to have dinner and have a couple drinks.

3. COPELAND stated RESENDIZ called a "ex-boyfriend from Texas" and was confronting the person about returning personal items. COPELAND stated, RESENDIZ became emotional and began to cry.

4. During an interview with PSSN Irbin GORDILLOCRUZ, who is a roommate of COPELAND, at approximately 0645 on 29 May 2025, GORDILLOCRUZ stated he was leaving for work and saw his roommate, later clarified to be COPELAND and an unknown female on the floor naked.

5. GORDILLOCRUZ stated the female looked to have darker skin, and black curly hair. He could see RESENDIZ's breasts and could see COPELAND's head resting on RESENDIZ's stomach area. GORDILLOCRUZ stated he could not see if RESENDIZ was wearing anything below COPELAND's head. GORDILLOCRUZ stated COPELAND was also naked but his back was facing upwards.

6. GORDILLOCRUZ stated he could tell RESENDIZ was breathing by her chest moving up and down. GORDILLOCRUZ stated, he had never seen the female before and has not seen her since.

7. When interviewed by NCIS COPELAND stated, he was late for work on the morning of 29 May 2025 and FCC Brad PARKER knocked on his door to say COPELAND was going to be labeled as Unauthorized Absence (UA). FCC PARKER stated COPELAND and RESENDIZ were in a state of undress and RESENDIZ waved and rolled over into a blanket. FCC PARKER told COPELAND to report to work and left the barracks room.

8. COPELAND continued explaining, the two of them got dressed and a roommate took him and RESENDIZ to RESENDIZ's residence located at Miller Hall onboard Naval Station Norfolk at approximately 1000.

9. COPELAND's movements after dropping RESENDIZ off at Miller Hall. However, we know after speaking with Command, COPELAND was marked UA for the days of 29 May 2025, 30 May 2025, 31 May 2025 and on 01 June 2025.

10. NCIS interview all remaining roommates of COPELAND who stated they did not give a ride to COPELAND and RESENDIZ on the morning of 29 May 2025.

11. RESENDIZ's residence is located at Miller Hall, Unit 1083B. RESENDIZ last entered her room, according to the door swipes, on 28 May 2025 at 1227 and at 2004 on 28 May 2025, into the common area only.

12. NCIS subpoenaed RESENDIZ's Navy Federal Credit Union banking records which show no activity since 28 May 2025.

13. RESENDIZ's cellphone has been pinged for last known location. The last known was approximately Latitude 36.896558 Longitude -76.435536, which appears to be located in Suffolk, VA

14. NCIS has been in contact with friends and family and as of today, there is no communication from RESENDIZ.

15. The Government discovered and confirmed via the USS JAMES E WILLIAMS recall roster that RESENDIZ's telephone phone number 254-203-0672.

16. RESNDIZ's telephone number, 254-203-0672, is associated with T-Mobile.

REQUEST FOR ORDER

4. The facts set forth in the previous section show that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the records and other information described in Part II of Attachment A are relevant and material to an ongoing criminal investigation. Specifically, these items will help the United States to identify and locate the individual(s) who are responsible for the events described above, and to determine the nature and scope of their activities. Accordingly, the United States requests that T-Mobile be directed to produce all items described in Part II of Attachment A to the proposed Order.

5. The United States further requests that the Order require T-Mobile not to notify any person, including the subscribers or customers of the account(s) listed in Part I of Attachment A, of the existence of the Order for 180 days from the date of the Order. See 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b). This Court has authority under 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b) to issue "an order commanding a provider of electronic communications service or remote computing service to whom a warrant, subpoena, or court order is directed, for such period as the court deems appropriate, not to notify any other person of the existence of the warrant, subpoena, or court order." Id. In this case, such an order would be appropriate because the requested Order relates to an ongoing criminal investigation that is neither public nor known to all of the targets of the investigation, and its disclosure may alert the targets to the ongoing investigation. Accordingly, there is reason to believe that notification of the existence of the requested Order will seriously jeopardize the investigation, including by giving targets an opportunity to flee or continue flight from prosecution, destroy or tamper with evidence, change patterns of behavior, intimidate potential witnesses, or endanger the life or physical safety of an individual. See 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b)(2), (3), (5). Some of the evidence in this investigation is stored electronically. If alerted to the investigation, the subjects under investigation could destroy that evidence, including information saved to their personal computers.

6. The United States further requests that the Court order that this application and any resulting order be sealed until further order of the Court. As explained above, these documents discuss an ongoing criminal investigation that is neither public nor known to all of the targets of the investigation. Accordingly, there is good cause to seal these documents because their premature disclosure may seriously jeopardize that investigation.

Very Respectfully submitted,

AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT OF AN APPLICATION FOR A SEARCH WARRANT

I, Special Agent Matthew Miller, being first duly sworn, hereby depose and state as follows:

INTRODUCTION AND AGENT BACKGROUND

1. I, Matthew Miller, am a Special Agent with the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS), having been duly appointed to affect Searches and Seizures in the United States and it's territories, make the following statement in support of a request for a search warrant.

2. I am a Special Agent of the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS), and have been so employed since September 2014. I am currently assigned to the NCIS Norfolk Field Office, specifically, NCIS Resident Agency Portsmouth, VA. I received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science from Clemson University in 2000. Prior to my employment with NCIS, I was a Federal Air Marshal with the United Stated Federal Air Marshal Services and a Washington DC Metropolitan Police Officer (MPD). I am a graduate of the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center 's (FLETC) Criminal Investigation Training Program (CITP) (Glynco, GA) and Federal Air Marshal's Investigation Training Program (Artesia, NM). I am also a graduate of NCIS' Special Agent Basic Training Program (SABTP) and MPD's Law Enforcement Training Academy. During my tenure with NCIS, I have conducted numerous criminal investigations as both a lead and participating agent, including but not limited to investigations involving sexual assault, physical assault, child pornography, larceny, missing persons and death. As part of these investigations, I have conducted numerous interviews, collected items of evidentiary value. I have sworn numerous search and arrest warrants throughout my career in law enforcement and executed and participated in numerous search warrants on behalf of the United States Government.

3. In addition to the above, I have conducted numerous different types of investigations wherein I have requested, retrieved, and analyzed cell phone records as they pertain to Call Detail Records and Cellular Site Analysis.

4. The following facts and information are known to your Affiant based upon information gained from the conduct of this investigation, witness observations, training and experience, and/or through information relayed through other law enforcement officers.

5. This affidavit is made in support of an application for a Search Warrant to seize and analyze data from T-MOBILE as is relates to cell phone number [redacted] (SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER), as this number has been identified as belonging to CSSN JEREMIAH COPELAND, USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95).

JURISDICTION

6. As defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711(3)(C), this is a court of competent jurisdiction under 18 U.S.C. 2703(a), (b)(1)(A), (c)(1)(A) and 10 U.S.C. 846(d)(3), as it is "a court-martial or other proceeding under chapter 47 of title 10 (Uniform Code of Military Justice) to which a military judge has been detailed." LEGAL AUTHORITY 5. The legal authority for this search warrant application regarding the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER is derived from R.C.M. 703A and 18 U.S.C. §§ 2701-2713.

7. Since this affidavit is being submitted for the limited purpose of securing a Search Warrant, your Affiant has not included every fact known concerning this investigation. Your Affiant has set forth the facts believed necessary to establish probable cause to believe that evidence of violations of Article 86 (Unauthorized Absence) and Article 107 (False Official Statement) could be located within the Call/Text/Data Detail Records, Specialized Locations Records, Electronically Stored Records, and Subscriber/Account Owner Information.

LEGAL AUTHORITY

8. The legal authority for this search warrant application regarding the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER is derived from R.C.M. 703A and 18 U.S.C. §§ 2701-2713. Section 2703(a) provides in relevant part as follows:

(1) A governmental entity may require the disclosure by a provider of electronic communication service of the contents of an electronic communication that is in electronic storage in an electronic communications system for one hundred and eighty days or less, only pursuant to a warrant issued under the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure or equivalent State warrant.

(2) A governmental entity may require the disclosure by a provider of electronic communications services of the contents of an electronic communication that has been in electronic storage in an electronic communications system for more than one hundred and eighty days by the means available under subsection (b) of this section.

9. R.C.M 703A(d) and 18 U.S.C. § 2703(b) provides, in relevant part, as follows:

(1) A governmental entity may require a provider of remote computing service to disclose the contents of any electronic communication to which this paragraph is made applicable by paragraph (2) of this subsection –

(A) Without required notice to the subscriber or customer, if the governmental entity obtains a warrant issued under the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure or equivalent State warrant.

(2) Paragraph (1) is applicable with respect to any electronic communication that is held or maintained on that service –

(A) On behalf of, and received by means of electronic transmission from (or created by means of computer processing of communications received by means of electronic transmission from), a subscriber or customer of such remote computing service; and

(B) Solely for the purpose of providing storage or computer processing services to such subscriber or customer, if the provider is not authorized to access the contents of any such communications for purposes of providing any services other than storage or computer processing.

10. 18 U.S.C. §§ 2703(b)(1)(A) and 2703(c)(1)(A) allow for nationwide service of process of search warrants for the contents of electronic communications and records concerning electronic communication service or remote computing service if such warrant is issued by a court with jurisdiction over the offense under investigation.

PERTINENT CRIMINAL STATUTES

11. Article 86 (Unauthorized Absence) of the UCMJ defines Unauthorized Absence as any person subject to this chapter who, without authority, fails to go to his appointed place of duty at the time prescribed; goes from that place; or absents himself or remains absent from his unit, organization, or place of duty at which he is required to be at the time prescribed, is guilty of Unauthorized Absence and shall be punished as a court-martial may direct.

12. Article 107 (False Official Statement)

USE OF CELL PHONES WITH CRIMINAL ACTIVTY

13. I have a general understanding of how the cellular telephone network operates. I am aware that cell sites (towers) are strategically placed by cellular service providers, to provide seamless operation so people can travel virtually anywhere and make or receive an uninterrupted call, send or receive text messages, or initiate a data session via their cell phone.

14. Usually, cell sites will be mounted high on a large pole, building, or other structure which provides line of sight with the population below. Cell sites are typically divided into sectors, which are made up of antennas connected to cellular radio transceivers. Each sector is mounted on the cell site and faces a specific direction to provide maximum cellular coverage for the people in the area. The range of the cell site and sectors depends on environmental and geographic factors and whether it is located in a highly populated urban area or a desolate rural area. Cell Site Location Information, (CSLI), does not provide an exact location of a cell phone; the basic call detail record data only provides the physical location of the cell site (latitude & longitude) and a direction (azimuth) from the cell site, which can cover an area ranging from approximately 0-20 miles.

15. I am aware when a person initiates or received a voice call, text message, or a data session (usage event) from their cellular device, the device broadcasts signals to the cell site that routes its communications. These signals include a cellular device's unique identifiers as well as details about the usage event. I am also aware cellular service providers collect and store these usage event details (transaction records) associated with the cellular phone numbers during their normal course of business. The usage event records, commonly referred to as call detail records, stored by their respective cell phone company contain the following information: date, time, type of event, duration, phone number initiating the usage event (called, calling), even if caller identification is blocked by the calling party, text message transaction data, the international mobile equipment identifier (IMEI), the international mobile subscriber identifier (IMSI), IP packet data session logs, and cell site location and sector information at the beginning and ending of each usage event.

16. I believe such information is relevant and material to the ongoing criminal investigation as it may provide investigators with information as assist with determining other unidentified co-conspirators, and/or show the general geographic location of the target device before, during, or after the commission of the crime. This basic is basic information and does not provide an exact location of the persons cell phone nor does it identify the other parties. I am aware that obtaining and preserving historical cell phone call detail and specialized location records could also prove to be fruitful, as such records could assist investigators not only with identifying those who may have been in contact with the victim(s) or potential co-conspirators, but may also allow investigators many other opportunities including, but not limited to, confirmation or disproving of alibis, statements, and other observations.

17. I know that these records such as those associate with the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER, are not kept or preserved indefinitely by the cellular service providers and are purged at different intervals. Obtaining and preserving these records at this point in the investigation will assure the investigators assigned to the case will have them available, and if the case were to go "cold", future investigators will have access to the records which would otherwise likely not be obtainable. Not only could the preserved records assist in proving one's guilt, they could also assist in proving one's innocence.

18. I am aware cellular service providers maintain specialized location records consisting of engineering data. These data sets are used by providers to troubleshoot coverage areas and report back on potential dead spots, all with the intent to oversee and optimize the cellular network. Specialized location records typically contain data for every usage event, to include technology details (e.g. voice, text, data), resource usage, and call failure information. They can also include data for incomplete calls (e.g. denied calls and set-up failures). These records not only include the basic call detail records, but also an estimation of the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER's location (latitude & longitude) with a possible accuracy radius, and/or the distance from the cell site at the time of the usage event. Utilizing specialized location records can provide investigators with a much smaller footprint of the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER's location and could place the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER within close proximity of a crime scene before, during, or after a crime. Each carrier uses their own nomenclature to describe the technology used to obtain this data including PCMD, formerly, NELOS (Network Event Location System)- AT&T, RTT (Round Trip Time/Return Trip Time/Real Time Tool)- Verizon, PCMD (Per Call Measurement Data)- Sprint & U.S. Cellular, and TruCall or TDOA (Time Distance of Arrival)- T-Mobile & metro by T-Mobile. I believe this information is relevant and material to the investigation as it provides supplemental geo-location information which, while not precise enough to identify a specific house is accurate enough to provide block-level accuracy, in some cases. Investigators can use this information to correlate existing fact patterns and timelines to confirm or refute prior statements and/or evidence regarding the location of the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER.

19. I am seeking evidence of communication between identified subjects and previously unidentified individuals and entities. In my training an experience, associates communicate together via phone calls, text messages, and social network posts via data sessions and this communication most commonly occur on or through cellular devices. I am also seeking evidence of association. I know that establishing the association of co-conspirators is important in proving a concert of action between multiple persons. In my training and experience, one of the most effective methods of linking co-conspirators together is by reviewing the call detail records maintained by the cellular service providers. In my training and experience, associates communicate together via voice calls, text messages and third party applications by means of a data usage event, therefore I am seeking the call detail record evidence to demonstrate the associations of the individuals in this case. Because this evidence is intended to be used to show associations of the user/owner of the device and co-participants, I am seeking the above items regardless of the dates the information was created.

20. I am aware cellular service providers maintain a master cell site list of all cell sites within their network. These cel site lists will include the specific switch, cell site number, name, physical address, latitude and longitude of the cell cite, all sectors associate with each cell site, azimuth, and beam-width of each related sector. When reviewing call detail and specialized location records from the carriers, the records may only reference a specific switch, cell and sector, or LAC (Location Area Code) and CID (Cell identification, related to each usage event; they usually will not include the location (latitude & longitude) of the actual cell site and to identify the azimuth of the sector used associated with specific usage events.

21. Also, in the course of the investigation and review of call detail and specialized location records, it may become necessary to visualize all cell sites within a geographic region of interest, not just the cell sites used by the target phone. It is just as important to show cell sites not used by the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER as it is to show the cell sites used. By obtaining the master cell lists from the cellular service providers, investigators are able to plot all of the cell sites in a given region, helping investigators with disproving of alibis, statement, and other observations evidence by the records.

PROBABLE CAUSE

22. CSSN Jermiah Copeland, USN, DDG 95, was marked in an unauthorized absence (UA) status beginning on 29 May 2025. On 29 May 2025, at approximately 0900 hrs, FCC Brad Parker, USN, arrived at the barracks room of CSSN Copeland to determine why he was not at work and notified him that he was going to be labeled as UA. FCC Parker observed CSSN Copeland and CSSN Angelina Resendiz, USN, together in a state of undress in CSSN's Copeland's barrack's room. One of CSSN Copeland's roommates, PSSN Irbin Gordillocruz, USN, confirmed that he saw CSSN Copeland and CSSN Resendiz on the floor naked of the common room at approximately 0645 on 29 May 2025 when he was leaving for work. CSSN Copeland never reported to work.

23. On 01 June 2025, CSSN Copeland, during an initial interview, he provided that he and CSSN Resendiz got dressed, he borrowed a roommate's vehicle, and took CSSN Resendiz to her residence located at Miller Hall onboard Naval Station Norfolk at approximately 1000 on 29 May 2025 and that was the last time he saw her.

24. CSSN Copeland was not located until 1 June when base police found him in his barracks room.

25. Additionally, on 1 June 2025, during CSSN Copeland's initial interview, he provided that CSSN Resendiz came to his barracks room to have dinner and have a couple drinks on the afternoon/evening of 28 May 2025. This was confirmed after a review of messages on his phone. He provided that she called an ex-boyfriend from Texas and also a former boyfriend assigned to DDG 95. CSSN Copeland said CSSN Resendiz argued with her former DDG 95 boyfriend about returning personal items. CSSN Copeland stated CSSN Resendiz became emotional and cried about past and current romantic relationship. CSSN Copeland stated the relationship with CSSN Resendiz was platonic and he is a friend from work and no sexual acts have happened between them.

26. NCIS interviewed CSSN Copeland's roommates who all provided they did not give a ride to CSSN Copeland or CSSN Resendiz on the morning of 29 May 2025. They also did not lend their vehicles to CSSN Copeland the morning of 29 May 2025.

27. Resendiz last entered her room, according to the door swipes, on 28 May 2025 at 1227 and at 2004 on 28 May 2025, into the common area only.

28. NCIS obtained a subpoena for CSSN Resendiz's Navy Federal Credit Union banking records which show no subscription-based activity post 28 May 2025.

29. CSSN Resendiz's cellphone was been pinged for last known location. The last known was approximately Latitude 36.896558 Longitude -76.435536, which appears to be located in Suffolk, VA.

30. NCIS has been in contact with friends and family and as of today, there is no communication from CSSN Resendiz.

31. On 3 June 2025, CSSN Copeland was re-interviewed and confirmed that he was absent from work on 29 May. He stated that he spent time in various lounges in his barracks and visited with friends during the time between 29 May and 1 June. He provided he did not engage in sexual activity with CSSN Resendiz and that she was not naked at any time during her stay at his barracks room. He also provided he did not drive her to her barracks on 29 May, but rather that she left alone.

32. During his 03 June 2025 NCIS interview, CSSN Copeland relayed his telephone number is [redacted] Additionally, CSSN Copeland's command advised Copeland communicated with his command via telephone number [redacted]

33. Telephone number [redacted] is associated with New Cingular Wireless owned by AT&T Wireless.

INFORMATION TO BE SEARCHED AND THINGS TO BE SEIZED

34. I am seeking evidence of ownership, use, and identification of subscriber, customer or owner of the electronic communication information contained in the records retained by the cellular service provider. I am aware, depending in whether the account is post-paid or pre-paid, a consumer must provide information to the cellular service provider. Post-paid accounts are credit based whereby a customer is provided service and then billed after the provision of services. These types of accounts require sufficient identifying information to enable the cellular service providers to make a determination regarding the credit worthiness and recourse in the event the consumer defaults on their contractual agreement. The information required by most cellular service providers include the customer's personal identifying information, verified using government issued identification or other means, residential address, alternate contact phone number(s), and electronic main (email) address (es). Additional information can include the type of service plan, additional features subscribed to, such as cloud storage and additional phones on the same account, device type and unique identifiers including IMEI and IMSI, method and source of payment information including financial institution and direct billing checking account numbers, credit or debit card numbers, and/or third-party payment processors, and customer service representative account comments and notes. I believe this information is relevant and material to the matter at hand as it serves multiple purposes including identifying the subscriber to the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER, providing investigators with additional information and leads including subscriber address, additional phone numbers, and/or email addresses, device identifiers used to correlate any seized phones with the account, previously unidentified phones subscribed to on the same account and financial information. I know that ownership and control of a digital device can be placed at issue through a simple denial, "that is not my phone." In my training and experience, some of the best ways to establish ownership and control are by reviewing account information and subscriber records from cellular service providers.

35. The items to be searched for and seized are listed in detail on the attached "Attachment B" on the application for this search warrant. Based upon my training and experience, I know that all of the items listed on "Attachment A" are commonly found within the cellular phone activity of criminal actors.

36. The criminal investigation in this case is ongoing, and it is likely that information and evidence obtained in the course of the service of this search warrant will result in further information concerning the identity and involvement of suspects in this case. As such, disclosure would give that person an opportunity to destroy evidence, change patterns of behavior, notify co-conspirators, and flee from apprehension and prosecution. Altering the subscriber, customer or owner of the electronic communication information to which the material relate, to the existence and service of this search warrant may have an adverse result, to include endangering the life or physical safety of an individual, flight from prosecution, destruction of, or tampering with evidence, intimidation of potential witnesses, or otherwise seriously jeopardize the investigation or unduly delay a trial.

37. I swear or affirm under penalty of perjury that the above stated information is true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

CONCLUSION

38. Based on the foregoing, I request that the Court issue the proposed search warrant. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. Section 2703(g), the presence of a law enforcement officer is not required for the service or execution of this warrant.

Respectfully submitted,

ATTACHMENT A

PROPERTY TO BE SEARCHED

1. This warrant applies to information associated with T-Mobile cellular phone number [redacted] (SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER) which is stored at premises owned, maintained, controlled, or operated by AT&T, located at 208 S. Akard Street, Dallas, TX 75202.

ATTACHEMENT B

Items to be Seized

i. Information to be disclosed by AT&T

1. Call/Text/Data Detail records: All records associated with the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER, also to include all numbers that communicate with this listed number relating to all delivered and undelivered inbound and outbound calls, text messages, and text message content to any of the above listed numbers, all voice mail, and all data connections 12AM (Eastern Standard Time) on 28 May, 2025 through 12AM (Eastern Standard Time) 2 June, 2025, and to include Cell-site and sector, date, time, direction, duration, number called or text to and/or received from, and bytes up/down, information related to each call, text or data connection, all text message content, and voicemails, as well as Call to Destination/Dialed Digits search for all numbers listed above. ## AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT OF AN APPLICATION FOR A SEARCH WARRANT

I, Special Agent Matthew Miller, being first duly sworn, hereby depose and state as follows:

INTRODUCTION AND AGENT BACKGROUND

1. I, Matthew Miller, am a Special Agent with the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS), having been duly appointed to affect Searches and Seizures in the United States and it's territories, make the following statement in support of a request for a search warrant.

2. I am a Special Agent of the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS), and have been so employed since September 2014. I am currently assigned to the NCIS Norfolk Field Office, specifically, NCIS Resident Agency Portsmouth, VA. I received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Clemson University in 2000. Prior to my employment with NCIS, I was a Federal Air Marshal with the United Stated Federal Air Marshal Services and a Washington DC Metropolitan Police Officer (MPD). I am a graduate of the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center 's (FLETC) Criminal Investigation Training Program (CITP) (Glynco, GA) and Federal Air Marshal's Investigation Training Program (Artesia, NM). I am also a graduate of NCIS' Special Agent Basic Training Program (SABTP) and MPD's Law Enforcement Training Academy. During my tenure with NCIS, I have conducted numerous criminal investigations as both a lead and participating agent, including but not limited to investigations involving sexual assault, physical assault, child pornography, larceny, missing persons and death. As part of these investigations, I have conducted numerous interviews, collected items of evidentiary value. I have sworn numerous search and arrest warrants throughout my career in law enforcement and executed and participated in numerous search warrants on behalf of the United States Government.

3. In addition to the above, I have conducted numerous different types of investigations wherein I have requested, retrieved, and analyzed cell phone records as they pertain to Call Detail Records and Cellular Site Analysis.

4. The following facts and information are known to your Affiant based upon information gained from the conduct of this investigation, witness observations, training and experience, and/or through information relayed through other law enforcement officers.

5. This affidavit is made in support of an application for a Search Warrant to seize and analyze data from T-MOBILE as is relates to cell phone number 254-203-0672 (SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER), as this number has been identified as belonging to CSSN ANGELINA RESENDIZ, USN, USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95).

JURISDICTION

6. As defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711(3)(C), this is a court of competent jurisdiction under 18 U.S.C. 2703(a), (b)(1)(A), (c)(1)(A) and 10 U.S.C. 846(d)(3), as it is "a court-martial or other proceeding under chapter 47 of title 10 (Uniform Code of Military Justice) to which a military judge has been detailed." LEGAL AUTHORITY 5. The legal authority for this search warrant application regarding the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER is derived from R.C.M. 703A and 18 U.S.C. §§ 2701-2713.

7. Since this affidavit is being submitted for the limited purpose of securing a Search Warrant, your Affiant has not included every fact known concerning this investigation. Your Affiant has set forth the facts believed necessary to establish probable cause to believe that evidence of violations of Article 85 (Desertion) and Article 86 (Unauthorized Absence) could be located within the Call/Text/Data Detail Records, Specialized Locations Records, Electronically Stored Records, and Subscriber/Account Owner Information.

LEGAL AUTHORITY

8. The legal authority for this search warrant application regarding the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER is derived from R.C.M. 703A and 18 U.S.C. §§ 2701-2713. Section 2703(a) provides in relevant part as follows:

(1) A governmental entity may require the disclosure by a provider of electronic communication service of the contents of an electronic communication that is in electronic storage in an electronic communications system for one hundred and eighty days or less, only pursuant to a warrant issued under the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure or equivalent State warrant.

(2) A governmental entity may require the disclosure by a provider of electronic communications services of the contents of an electronic communication that has been in electronic storage in an electronic communications system for more than one hundred and eighty days by the means available under subsection (b) of this section.

9. R.C.M 703A(d) and 18 U.S.C. § 2703(b) provides, in relevant part, as follows:

(1) A governmental entity may require a provider of remote computing service to disclose the contents of any electronic communication to which this paragraph is made applicable by paragraph (2) of this subsection –

(A) Without required notice to the subscriber or customer, if the governmental entity obtains a warrant issued under the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure or equivalent State warrant.

(2) Paragraph (1) is applicable with respect to any electronic communication that is held or maintained on that service –

(A) On behalf of, and received by means of electronic transmission from (or created by means of computer processing of communications received by means of electronic transmission from), a subscriber or customer of such remote computing service; and

(B) Solely for the purpose of providing storage or computer processing services to such subscriber or customer, if the provider is not authorized to access the contents of any such communications for purposes of providing any services other than storage or computer processing.

10. 18 U.S.C. §§ 2703(b)(1)(A) and 2703(c)(1)(A) allow for nationwide service of process of search warrants for the contents of electronic communications and records concerning electronic communication service or remote computing service if such warrant is issued by a court with jurisdiction over the offense under investigation.

PERTINENT CRIMINAL STATUTES

11. Article 85 (Desertion) of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) defines Desertion as any person subject tot his chapter who without authority foes or remains absent from his unit, organization, or place of duty with intent to remain away therefrom permanently is guilty of desertion.

12. Article 86 (Unauthorized Absence) of the UCMJ defines Unauthorized Absence as any person subject to this chapter who, without authority, fails to go to his appointed place of duty at the time prescribed; goes from that place; or absents himself or remains absent from his unit, organization, or place of duty at which he is required to be at the time prescribed, is guilty of Unauthorized Absence and shall be punished as a court-martial may direct.

USE OF CELL PHONES WITH CRIMINAL ACTIVTY

13. I have a general understanding of how the cellular telephone network operates. I am aware that cell sites (towers) are strategically placed by cellular service providers, to provide seamless operation so people can travel virtually anywhere and make or receive an uninterrupted call, send or receive text messages, or initiate a data session via their cell phone.

14. Usually, cell sites will be mounted high on a large pole, building, or other structure which provides line of sight with the population below. Cell sites are typically divided into sectors, which are made up of antennas connected to cellular radio transceivers. Each sector is mounted on the cell site and faces a specific direction to provide maximum cellular coverage for the people in the area. The range of the cell site and sectors depends on environmental and geographic factors and whether it is located in a highly populated urban area or a desolate rural area. Cell Site Location Information, (CSLI), does not provide an exact location of a cell phone; the basic call detail record data only provides the physical location of the cell site (latitude & longitude) and a direction (azimuth) from the cell site, which can cover an area ranging from approximately 0-20 miles.

15. I am aware when a person initiates or received a voice call, text message, or a data session (usage event) from their cellular device, the device broadcasts signals to the cell site that routes its communications. These signals include a cellular device's unique identifiers as well as details about the usage event. I am also aware cellular service providers collect and store these usage event details (transaction records) associated with the cellular phone numbers during their normal course of business. The usage event records, commonly referred to as call detail records, stored by their respective cell phone company contain the following information: date, time, type of event, duration, phone number initiating the usage event (called, calling), even if caller identification is blocked by the calling party, text message transaction data, the international mobile equipment identifier (IMEI), the international mobile subscriber identifier (IMSI), IP packet data session logs, and cell site location and sector information at the beginning and ending of each usage event.

16. I believe such information is relevant and material to the ongoing criminal investigation as it may provide investigators with information as assist with determining other unidentified co-conspirators, and/or show the general geographic location of the target device before, during, or after the commission of the crime. This basic is basic information and does not provide an exact location of the persons cell phone nor does it identify the other parties. I am aware that obtaining and preserving historical cell phone call detail and specialized location records could also prove to be fruitful, as such records could assist investigators not only with identifying those who may have been in contact with the victim(s) or potential co-conspirators, but may also allow investigators many other opportunities including, but not limited to, confirmation or disproving of alibis, statements, and other observations.

17. I know that these records such as those associate with the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER, are not kept or preserved indefinitely by the cellular service providers and are purged at different intervals. Obtaining and preserving these records at this point in the investigation will assure the investigators assigned to the case will have them available, and if the case were to go "cold", future investigators will have access to the records which would otherwise likely not be obtainable. Not only could the preserved records assist in proving one's guilt, they could also assist in proving one's innocence.

18. I am aware cellular service providers maintain specialized location records consisting of engineering data. These data sets are used by providers to troubleshoot coverage areas and report back on potential dead spots, all with the intent to oversee and optimize the cellular network. Specialized location records typically contain data for every usage event, to include technology details (e.g. voice, text, data), resource usage, and call failure information. They can also include data for incomplete calls (e.g. denied calls and set-up failures). These records not only include the basic call detail records, but also an estimation of the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER's location (latitude & longitude) with a possible accuracy radius, and/or the distance from the cell site at the time of the usage event. Utilizing specialized location records can provide investigators with a much smaller footprint of the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER's location and could place the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER within close proximity of a crime scene before, during, or after a crime. Each carrier uses their own nomenclature to describe the technology used to obtain this data including PCMD, formerly, NELOS (Network Event Location System)- AT&T, RTT (Round Trip Time/Return Trip Time/Real Time Tool)- Verizon, PCMD (Per Call Measurement Data)- Sprint & U.S. Cellular, and TruCall or TDOA (Time Distance of Arrival)- T-Mobile & metro by T-Mobile. I believe this information is relevant and material to the investigation as it provides supplemental geo-location information which, while not precise enough to identify a specific house is accurate enough to provide block-level accuracy, in some cases. Investigators can use this information to correlate existing fact patterns and timelines to confirm or refute prior statements and/or evidence regarding the location of the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER.

19. I am seeking evidence of communication between identified subjects and previously unidentified individuals and entities. In my training an experience, associates communicate together via phone calls, text messages, and social network posts via data sessions and this communication most commonly occur on or through cellular devices. I am also seeking evidence of association. I know that establishing the association of co-conspirators is important in proving a concert of action between multiple persons. In my training and experience, one of the most effective methods of linking co-conspirators together is by reviewing the call detail records maintained by the cellular service providers. In my training and experience, associates communicate together via voice calls, text messages and third party applications by means of a data usage event, therefore I am seeking the call detail record evidence to demonstrate the associations of the individuals in this case. Because this evidence is intended to be used to show associations of the user/owner of the device and co-participants, I am seeking the above items regardless of the dates the information was created.

20. I am aware cellular service providers maintain a master cell site list of all cell sites within their network. These cel site lists will include the specific switch, cell site number, name, physical address, latitude and longitude of the cell cite, all sectors associate with each cell site, azimuth, and beam-width of each related sector. When reviewing call detail and specialized location records from the carriers, the records may only reference a specific switch, cell and sector, or LAC (Location Area Code) and CID (Cell identification, related to each usage event; they usually will not include the location (latitude & longitude) of the actual cell site and to identify the azimuth of the sector used associated with specific usage events.

21. Also, in the course of the investigation and review of call detail and specialized location records, it may become necessary to visualize all cell sites within a geographic region of interest, not just the cell sites used by the target phone. It is just as important to show cell sites not used by the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER as it is to show the cell sites used. By obtaining the master cell lists from the cellular service providers, investigators are able to plot all of the cell sites in a given region, helping investigators with disproving of alibis, statement, and other observations evidence by the records.

PROBABLE CAUSE

22. On 1 June 2025, NCIS Norfolk Field Office was made aware that CSSN Angelina Resendiz, USN, JAMES E. WILLIAMS (DDG 95) had recently gone into an unauthorized absence (UA) status after not arriving for work from 30 May-1 June 2025

23. CSSN Jermiah Copeland, USN, DDG 95, was also UA beginning on 29 May 2025. On 29 May 2025, at approximately 0900 hrs, FCC Brad Parker, USN, arrived at the barracks room of CSSN Copeland to determine why he was not at work and notified him that he was going to be labeled as UA. FCC Parker observed CSSN Copeland and CSSN Angelina Resendiz, USN, together in a state of undress and asleep. CSSN Copeland never reported to work.

24. CSSN Copeland was not located until 1 June when he base police found him in his barracks room.

25. Additionally, on 1 June 2025, during CSSN Copeland's initial interview, he provided that CSSN Resendiz came to his barracks room to have dinner and have a couple drinks on the afternoon/evening of 28 May 2025. This was confirmed after a review of messages on his phone. He provided that she called an ex-boyfriend from Texas and also a former boyfriend assigned to DDG 95. CSSN Copeland said CSSN Resendiz argued with her former DDG 95 boyfriend about returning personal items. CSSN Copeland stated CSSN Resendiz became emotional and cried about past and current romantic relationship. CSSN Copeland stated the relationship with CSSN Resendiz was platonic and he is a friend from work and no sexual acts have happened between them.

26. CSSN Copeland provided that the two of them got dressed and a roommate took him and CSSN Resendiz to Resendiz's residence located at Miller Hall onboard Naval Station Norfolk at approximately 1000 29 May 2025 and that was the last time he saw her.

27. This was the last time anyone has spoken to her. NCIS went to her barracks room on 1 June 2025 and it was very neat and tidy with no signs of foul play. NCIS spoke to an ex-boyfriend from her ship and he said she always carries a hello kitty backpack, which NCIS did not located in her barracks room. Her phone, identification, banking cards, and other personal items were also not in her room.

28. Additionally, NCIS spoke with her mother in Texas and she conveyed CSSN Resendiz has attempted suicide in the past and suffers from depression, for which she is prescribed medication. NMCP Emergency Room and psychology department were negative for her presence when called.

29. On 2 June 2025, NCIS spoke to FCC Brad Parker, USN, JAMES E WILLIAMS, to verify CSSN Resendiz's work schedule. FCC Parker stated CSSN Resendiz was scheduled to work day shift Friday, May 30, 2025 – Sunday, June 1, 2025 with a report time of 0500-0530 hours. FCC Parker stated CSSN Resendiz failed to report all three (3) days.

30. The whereabouts of CSSN Resendiz are still unknown. Her cellphone has been pinged for last known location. The last known was approximately Latitude 36.896558 Longitude -76.435536, which appears to be located in Suffolk, VA.

31. On 3 June 2025, CSSN Copeland was re-interviewed and provided that he did not take CSSN Resendiz to her barracks, but rather she left his barracks room alone. He also provided that she had her backpack with her when she arrived at his barracks on 28 May 2025.

32. On 4 June, the USS JAMES E. WILLIAMS provided that the phone number listed for CSSN Resendiz's recall is [redacted]. A check revealed that this phone number is associated with T-Mobile.

INFORMATION TO BE SEARCHED AND THINGS TO BE SEIZED

33. I am seeking evidence of ownership, use, and identification of subscriber, customer or owner of the electronic communication information contained in the records retained by the cellular service provider. I am aware, depending in whether the account is post-paid or pre-paid, a consumer must provide information to the cellular service provider. Post-paid accounts are credit based whereby a customer is provided service and then billed after the provision of services. These types of accounts require sufficient identifying information to enable the cellular service providers to make a determination regarding the credit worthiness and recourse in the event the consumer defaults on their contractual agreement. The information required by most cellular service providers include the customer's personal identifying information, verified using government issued identification or other means, residential address, alternate contact phone number(s), and electronic main (email) address (es). Additional information can include the type of service plan, additional features subscribed to, such as cloud storage and additional phones on the same account, device type and unique identifiers including IMEI and IMSI, method and source of payment information including financial institution and direct billing checking account numbers, credit or debit card numbers, and/or third-party payment processors, and customer service representative account comments and notes. I believe this information is relevant and material to the matter at hand as it serves multiple purposes including identifying the subscriber to the SUBJECT PHONE NUMBER, providing investigators with additional information and leads including subscriber address, additional phone numbers, and/or email addresses, device identifiers used to correlate any seized phones with the account, previously unidentified phones subscribed to on the same account and financial information. I know that ownership and control of a digital device can be placed at issue through a simple denial, "that is not my phone." In my training and experience, some of the best ways to establish ownership and control are by reviewing account information and subscriber records from cellular service providers.

34. The items to be searched for and seized are listed in detail on the attached "Attachment B" on the application for this search warrant. Based upon my training and experience, I know that all of the items listed on "Attachment A" are commonly found within the cellular phone activity of criminal actors.

35. I swear or affirm under penalty of perjury that the above stated information is true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

CONCLUSION

36. Based on the foregoing, I request that the Court issue the proposed search warrant. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. Section 2703(g), the presence of a law enforcement officer is not required for the service or execution of this warrant.

Respectfully submitted,

AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT OF SEARCH WARRANT

1. I make this affidavit in support of an application for a search warrant under 18 U.S.C. §§ 2703(a), 2703(b)(1)(A), and 2703(c)(1)(A) to require Google, LLC (hereafter "Google") to disclose to the Government records and other information, including location data, associated with the above-listed name, phone number, email, or Google ID that is stored at premises owned, maintained, controlled, or operated by Google, a company headquartered at 1600 Amphitheatre Parkway, Mountain View, CA 94043. The information to be disclosed by Google and searched by the Government is described in the following paragraphs and in Attachments A and B.

2. I am a Special Agent of the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS), and have been so employed since September 2014. I am currently assigned to the NCIS Norfolk Field Office, specifically, NCIS Resident Agency Portsmouth, VA. I received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Clemson University in 2000. Prior to my employment with NCIS, I was a Federal Air Marshal with the United Stated Federal Air Marshal Services and a Washington DC Metropolitan Police Officer (MPD). I am a graduate of the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center 's (FLETC) Criminal Investigation Training Program (CITP) (Glynco, GA) and Federal Air Marshal's Investigation Training Program (Artesia, NM). I am also a graduate of NCIS' Special Agent Basic Training Program (SABTP) and MPD's Law Enforcement Training Academy. During my tenure with NCIS, I have conducted numerous criminal investigations as both a lead and participating agent, including but not limited to investigations involving sexual assault, physical assault, child pornography, larceny, missing persons and death. As part of these investigations, I have conducted numerous interviews, collected items of evidentiary value. I have sworn numerous search and arrest warrants throughout my career in law enforcement and executed and participated in numerous search warrants on behalf of the United States Government.

3. The facts in this affidavit come from my personal observations, my training and experience, and information obtained from other agents and witnesses. This affidavit is intended to show simply that there is sufficient probable cause for the requested warrant and does not set forth all of my knowledge about this matter.

4. Based on the facts as set forth in this affidavit, there is probable cause to believe that the information described in Attachment A contains evidence, instrumentalities, and fruits of violation of Uniform Code of Military Justice (U.C.M.J.) Article 86, Unauthorized Absence.

JURISDICTION

5. As defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2711(3)(C), this is a court of competent jurisdiction under 18 U.S.C. 2703(a), (b)(1)(A), (c)(1)(A) and 10 U.S.C. 846(d)(3), as it is "a court-martial or other proceeding under chapter 47 of title 10 (UCMJ) to which a military judge has been detailed."

LEGAL AUTHORITY

6. The legal authority for this search warrant application regarding the subject account is derived from R.C.M. 703A and 18 U.S.C. §§ 2701-2711, entitled "Stored Wire and Electronic Communications and Transactional Records Access." Section 2703(a) provides in relevant part as follows:

(1) A governmental entity may require the disclosure by a provider of electronic communication service of the contents of an electronic communication that is in electronic storage in an electronic communications system for one hundred and eighty days or less, only pursuant to a warrant issued under the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure or equivalent State warrant.

(2) A governmental entity may require the disclosure by a provider of electronic communications services of the contents of an electronic communication that has been in electronic storage in an electronic communications system for more than one hundred and eighty days by the means available under subsection (b) of this section.

7. R.C.M 703A(d) and 18 U.S.C. § 2703(b) provides, in relevant part, as follows:

(1) A governmental entity may require a provider of remote computing service to disclose the contents of any electronic communication to which this paragraph is made applicable by paragraph (2) of this subsection –

> (A) Without required notice to the subscriber or customer, if the governmental entity obtains a warrant issued under the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure or equivalent State warrant.

(2) Paragraph (1) is applicable with respect to any electronic communication that is held or maintained on that service –

> (A) On behalf of, and received by means of electronic transmission from (or created by means of computer processing of communications received by means of electronic transmission from), a subscriber or customer of such remote computing service; and

(B) Solely for the purpose of providing storage or computer processing services to such subscriber or customer, if the provider is not authorized to access the contents of any such communications for purposes of providing any services other than storage or computer processing.

8. The Government may also obtain records relating to e-mail communications, such as subscriber identifying information, by way of a search warrant. 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(1)(A).

9. 18 U.S.C. §§ 2703(b)(1)(A) and 2703(c)(1)(A) allow for nationwide service of process of search warrants for the contents of electronic communications and records concerning electronic communication service or remote computing service if such warrant is issued by a court with jurisdiction over the offense under investigation.

CHANGE OF STATUS

18. On June 1, 2025, your affiant ran a check through the Department of Defense Person Search, for information on CSSN RESENDIZ. The check revealed that the following email address is associated with Angelina Resendiz: [redacted] (SUBJECT ACCOUNT).

19. In your affiant's training and experience, I know that cellular devices that are only connected to Wi-Fi and not the cellular network, will still allow a person to log into their email accounts without registering location pings via the cellular networks. As established herein, your affiant believes there is probable cause to search the location data from Google, as it would reveal CSSN RESENDIZ's location if she were logged in via Wi-Fi alone. Additionally, your affiant believes there is probable cause to search CSSN RESENDIZ's Gmail emails during the timeframe of her UA, for evidence pertaining to that Unauthorized Absence.

DEFINITIONS

18. "Electronic communication service provider" (ECSP) means (a) a telecommunications carrier, as that term is defined in section 3 of the Communications Act of 1934; (b) a provider of electronic communication service, (c) a provider of a remote computing service, (d) any other communication service provider who has access to wire or electronic communications either as such communications are transmitted or as such communications are stored; or (e) an officer, employee, or agent of an entity described in subparagraph (a), (b), (c), or (d).

19. "Electronic Communications System" means any wire, radio, electromagnetic, photo optical, or photo electronic facilities for the transmission of wire or electronic communications, and any computer facilities or related electronic equipment for the electronic storage of such communications. 18 U.S.C. § 2510(14).

20. "Electronic storage" means (a) any temporary, intermediate storage of a wire or electronic communication incidental to the electronic transmission thereof; and (b) any storage of such communication by an electronic communication service for purposes of backup protection of such communication. 18 U.S.C. § 2510(17).

21. "Website" consists of textual pages of information and associated graphic images. The textual information is stored in a specific format known as Hyper-Text Mark-up Language (HTML) and is transmitted from web servers to various web clients via Hyper-Text Transport Protocol (HTTP).

22. "Computer," as used herein, refers to "an electronic, magnetic, optical, electrochemical, or other high speed data processing device performing logical or storage functions, and includes any data storage facility or communications facility directly related to or operating in conjunction with such device" and includes smartphones, and mobile phones and devices. 18 U.S.C. § 1030(e)(1).

23. "Computer passwords and data security devices," as used herein, consist of information or items designed to restrict access to or hide computer software, documentation, or data. Data security devices may consist of hardware, software, or other programming code. A password (a string of alpha-numeric characters) usually operates what might be termed a digital key to "unlock" particular data security devices. Data security hardware may include encryption devices, chips, and circuit boards. Data security software of digital code may include programming code that
